Community Trust gives property to Brodhead

Rockcastle County's Community Trust Bank has made a land donation to the City of Brodhead.

The city recently received a deed from Community Trust for a four to five acre parcel of property located on Hwy. 150 (Main Street), which the bank had gotten back because of a bad loan.

The land is the former Simpson Feed Mill, which had been sold to someone else, some years ago.

"The city of Brodhead had inquired about the property for the purpose of putting in a city park because they had acquired some other property adjacent to it and we were more than willing to help them out," said Mike Blount Area Market President for Community Trust.

"Community Trust is proud to be a part of this future city park and happy to donate the land for them to use," he added.

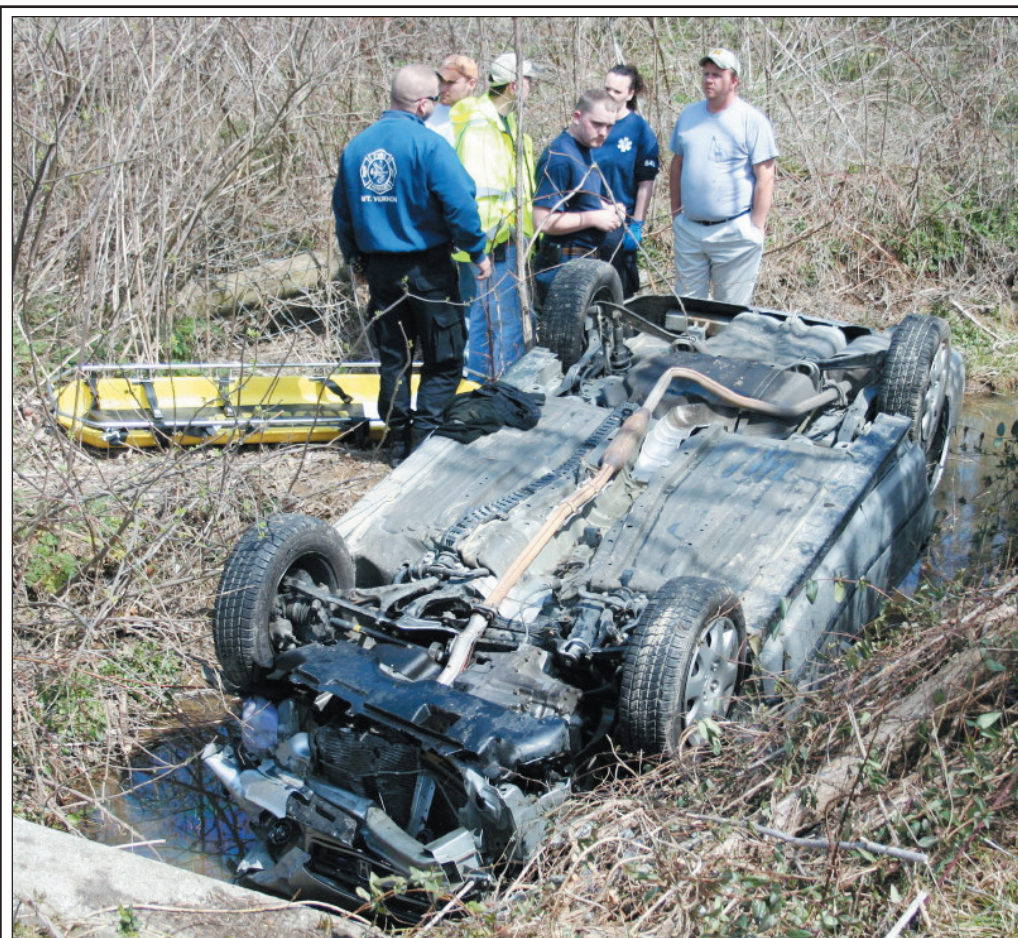

Brodhead Mayor Walter Cash said the other property in the area, which is across Dix River, next to the property donated by Community Trust, was purchased from the Russell Bullock heirs for $18,200.

Cash said Jeff King owner of Eastern Kentucky Recycling, and a Brodhead resident, will dismantle the feed mill for the sheet metal and that the city will advertise for bids to clean up both pieces of property. Cash said there are some abandoned buildings on the other piece of property, which also is about four acres.

The Mayor said the city would work to obtain state and/or federal grants to fund construction of the new city park.

Cash said the short term goal of the Brodhead council was to have the property ready for the annual Memorial Day weekend homecoming. "We've got the same carnival coming that was at the Little World's Fair last year and we want to put them

Local woman dies in single car accident on Saturday

Funeral services were held Wednesday for a Rockcastle County woman who died in a single car accident on North Wilderness Road, sometime Saturday afternoon.

Kentucky State Trooper Staci Walker, said Regina Gaye Morgan, 37, of Old Sigmon Loop, was found dead in the wreckage of her 1998 Honda Civic around 1:30 p.m., after a passing motorist saw the car upside down in a branch that leads to Roundstone Creek.

Walker said Morgan was traveling south when she left the road, crossed the north-bound lane and traveled 354 feet before hitting a small bridge embankment on the side of the road.

"The impact from the crash caused her car to flip and she was partially ejected from the vehicle through the back window," Walker said. The state trooper said there were no witnesses to the actual crash and that there was no skid marks on the highway or any indication of brakes being applied before the impact.

Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell pronounced Morgan dead at the scene around 2 p.m. Dowell said Morgan had apparently been dead for only a short period of time.

Gasoline vapors in dental office cause several days off

By: Richard Anderkin

You may have noticed in the past year that the dentist office of Dr. John Parsons on Main Street in Mt. Vernon has been closed a lot more than in past years. A whole lot more than the normal days off, since the office was opened in 1979.

Gasoline vapors inside the building are to blame for the 21 days Dr. Parsons has had to close his office since June 4th of last year. But gas vapor problems in Dr. Parsons' office date all the back to 1994.

"In 1994 we noticed a heavy gasoline odor in the office and, even though there had been gasoline odors in the building before, this time it was unbearable," Parsons recalls. The dentist said he also had sewer problems at the same time.

Dr. Parsons said that when he had a plumber come to repair the sewer line, the plumber

Local dentist Dr. John Parsons, right, talked with Bill Belcher, Environmental Control Supervisor for the state's Department of Environmental Protection. Belcher visited several sites on Main Street in Mt. Vernon last week, while conducting an on-sight investigation for gas vapors which have plagued the area for several years.

Community Trust Bank recently donated over four acres of land in Brodhead to the Brodhead City Council. On hand last Wednesday for the presentation of the deed were from left: Brodhead councilmembers, Larry Taylor, Rick Branham, Ronnie Cash and Mayor Walter Cash, accepting the deed from Community Trust Area President Mike Blount and loan officer Roy D. Adams. The deed is for the property shown below, which is located in the city limits on Main Street. The property, a former feed mill, was repossessed by the bank— after the loan on the property was defaulted on. City officials plan to use the property for a new city park. Community Economic Development: Planned Land Use for county

By Jim Holton, Consultant, Rockcastle County Industrial Development Authority

In my adult life, I have had the chance to travel over a large part of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and I can honestly say the diversity and beauty found within the county lines of Rockcastle County is second to none. From the beautiful winding drive down to Livingston to horse trails and canoeing trips.

You can see community pride as you travel to Brodhead in the town and the community park. Mt. Vernon's commitment to downtown revitalization shows that the community values its past heritage and there is nothing more beautiful than driving through some of the farm land in the county when it is yielding a bountiful crop. But, if you think about it, we are lucky because at this point, what have we done to ensure the long-term integrity of our land and how it is developed in Rockcastle?

While there is a great deal

31-year-old pronounced dead Monday

Rockcastle Deputy Sheriff Joe Rush said Tuesday that police were called to a residence in Hunter Ridge Subdivision at 10:46 Monday night to investigate a death.

Rush said when police arrived they found Denise Barnes, 31, of Mt. Vernon, deceased, at the residence at 14 Eddie Drive.

Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell who pronounced Barnes dead at the scene, just after 11 p.m., ordered an autopsy in the case, which was performed Tuesday in Frankfort.

Dowell said he had not received any preliminary results as to the cause of death.

Kentucky State Police Det. Gary Lane is the lead investigator in the case, which continues.

Funeral services for Barnes will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home.

Editor's Notes

By Richard Anderkin

In the very near future some of Rockcastle County's elected officials, mainly members of the fiscal court, will have some tough decisions to make -- or not make.

For whatever my opinion is worth, I think planning and zoning in the county is needed in some form. I think it can be done without some of the outrageous and ridiculous regulations other cities and counties in Kentucky have adopted and, if it is kept simple and above board, it will no doubt benefit the county as a whole.

It will only increase land value and it should help Rockcastle become more attractive to prospective employers and other businesses that have always looked elsewhere when wanting to expand their businesses or make a new investment.

It would only make sense for the county to adopt a Land Use Master Plan and implement planning and zoning as a whole, which would bring in all three cities.

There would be less confusion, less work and probably less cost in the long run.

As for an occupational tax, I think most reasonable people know it is needed, whether or not we want it.

Certainly no one wants to pay more tax if they don't have too. I know I don't.

But, just as the old saying goes, you get what you pay for, which is evident by the lack of growth and progress in the county. Rockcastle has no doubt been short changed, but when you pay in pennies you can't expect to get dollars in return.

A lack of leadership over the years is partly to blame but we, the general public, are to blame as well.

We haven't really pushed for change or hardly any improvements because they might cost us something in the end. We have been passive and content to remain on the same course.

Jason Proctor identified that course very well in his letter to the editor last week. A course that has left Rockcastle probably the least developed and furthest behind economically among the counties along Kentucky's I-75 corridor.

Proctor was being nice and although I don't know about all the counties north of Scott County on I-75, every county from Scott County to Whitley County is definitely much more developed than Rockcastle. They have much more to offer their residents and overall they have a better quality of life.

Some would and will argue that the quality of life in our county is fine and in many ways it is. Certainly the quality of people living here, make it much better than in many areas, but just because you live in a friendly county, doesn't mean that things couldn't be better.

Just ask your neighbor who gets up every morning at 4 a.m., buys a half tank of gas for $35 and drives an hour or longer to work.

Ask the same man, who returns home 12 to 13 hours later, if he is lucky, and loads up his family for a night out at the skating rink, bowling alley, movie theatre and/or restaurant in another town, after he has put another $35 worth of gas in his vehicle.

The price of gas alone is making it tough on just about everyone, especially that hard working man or woman who has to make their living elsewhere but who wants to raise their family in this county.

I hope that these issues do not become a political problem for any of our elected officials, but no doubt it probably will. We all know it is impossible to make everyone happy and, in some cases, elected officials may suffer from decisions they make or again don't make. It shouldn't be that way.

Everyone has a right to their opinion, but I hope most of us keep an open mind and look to the future - again that is just my opinion.

I compare what I think should probably happen to going to the doctor for a shot.

I don't want that shot, never have and never will, but I know in the long run it will make me feel better.

Don't hold it against our public servants if they are only trying to help improve our quality of life - however, you might consider holding it against them if they don't try and do something to help matters in the county.

Picture-Perfect Hobby For Country Music Fan

Can you picture yourself standing next to more than 200 of the biggest stars of country music? A 54-year-old man in Somerset can, and he has the photos to prove his claim to fame.

It all began when Wayne County native Allen Branscum wrote to the late Grandpa Jones, requesting permission to meet him at the Grand Ole Opry.

"He wrote me back, and I went down to see him in March of 1992. Then I went back for six straight months after that," said Allen.

They had their picture taken together backstage, the first of what now numbers 254.

Among others smiling into the camera alongside the retired elementary school teacher are Johnny and June Carter Cash, Garth Brooks, Porter Wagoner, and Loretta Lynn.

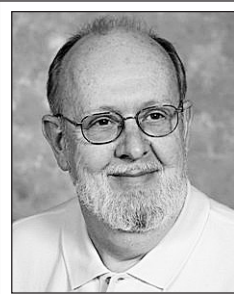

The vast majority of the photos have been taken at the Opry where Allen has gained access over the years by writing to public relations and record companies and directly contacting the stars themselves, as he did with Grandpa Jones.

He has the home phone numbers of some stars and security personnel who are instrumental in helping him visit areas off limits to most fans.

"Jeannie Pruitt and Jean Shepherd got me in the Opry a lot. Jan Howard and Little Jimmy Dickens get me in now," he said.

Rules for backstage access have changed over the years. "Now you have to be cleared by at least one of the stars actually performing in the show," he said.

A life-long fan of country music, Branscum grew up watching people like Porter Wagoner perform on TV, never

Rockcastle Memories The Northern Lights By David J. Griffin

Have you ever seen the Aurora Borealis, commonly called the Northern Lights? It has been my good fortune to see the phenomenon twice in my 60 plus years. Once you witness this dazzling, dancing, curtain of light you will never forget the experience.

The amazing display of green, yellow, orange, or red flickering ribbon of light fills the sky and then fades away after a short time. My first experience of such a sight was in the early 50's while living on our small farm in Rockcastle County.

My mother (Bee) and I were casually walking from our house toward my grandparents' home late one night when the sky lit up like a neon sign. We were spellbound. It was an unforgettable light show in the sky. We hurried to tell Pop and Mommy Katie so that they could come outside and witness the event. The four of us

The rarest aurora is red, but that was exactly what Bee and I witnessed. The northern sky was slowly waving back and forth and appeared to expand in all directions. Finally, it simply faded away. I had not witnessed anything like this in my young eight years and was surprised to find that neither had my mother or my grandparents.

The aurora is most usually seen in the late night or early morning northern sky. Also it is most often viewed when the sky is clear and the air is chilly. Most sightings are witnessed in February, March, and October. One source stated that the lights often occur when the moon is new because the sky is dark during this phase.

The spectacle of the Northern Lights occurs because high-energy particles (ions) radiate from the surface of the sun at tremendous rates of speed. The stream of plasma is known as solar wind. When these particles collide with the gasses in the earth's ionosphere, they begin to glow - the exhibition that we know as the Aurora Borealis. This display can cause interference with television broadcasts and satellite communications.

My second sighting of the Northern Lights occurred in February of 1992. My wife and I were watching a basketball game in our home with our friend Larry Jefferson. Following the game, he left our house on Furnace Mountain to return to his own home. We calmly straightened up the living room and started upstairs to bed when, all of a sudden, there was a hard pounding at our door. It seemed so frantic that it startled us.

I cautiously opened the door to find Larry back on our doorstep. He nearly pushed his way inside, racing toward the back door saying, "You have to come out on your deck and see the sky!" We quickly followed him to the back deck and proceeded to witness a most spectacular appearance of the Northern Lights. They were flickering all over the northern sky with an eerie glow of red and green. It didn't last very long - or at least it doesn't seem to do in my memory. We watched until it slowly began to dissipate.

It is extremely rare for the dreaming he would one day be rubbing elbows with the colorful performer.

He also has never missed watching an Annual CMA Awards show on TV in the 43-year history of that spectacular.

"When I finally did start going backstage at the Opry, I felt like I knew these people already," he said.

He has discovered most performers are friendly and easy to talk with, but found himself star struck when he met Johnny Cash. "I've had my picture taken with 33 people who have been inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame, but shaking hands with Johnny Cash has been a highlight. He's just bigger than life."

Being around the stars, sometimes for extended periods of time, has given him a unique perspective into their

by: Tonya J. Cook

Dear Journal:

They have been saying for a long time "How time flies when you're having fun." I guess that has been the case for Stanley and me. We've just celebrated a small milestone, our fifth wedding anniversary. In one sense, it seems like a long time; but in another, it seems like just yesterday.

I can remember our wedding day like it has just happened. As with all weddings, a lot of planning had gone into it; the selecting of the invitations, the caterer and the food to be served, the flowers, the music, the tuxes, the dresses, and many other small details. It was fortunate for us that we were a step ahead as my mother died from a long illness only twelve days prior to the wedding. Now I had a wedding to finish planning, and a funeral on hand to plan. I had about decided to postpone the wedding, but was convinced by family and friends that Mom would have wanted it to go on as scheduled.

The wedding went off pretty well. Of course, I had forgotten a few details, but under the circumstances it was to be expected.

There were a few special dishes that I love and had the recipes for that I personally wanted to make to serve at the reception. As it turned out, Stanley and I stayed up most all night prior to the wedding preparing them. They fit in nicely with the catered food, but we were totally exhausted the next day, and very, very sleepy.

The time for the service had arrived. We were running late. The tux place had spent some pants that were too big for Stanley in the waist. He spent most of the service and the reception either holding them up, or hoping they wouldn't fall off. We had been so overwhelmed by the funeral that we were really unprepared for the wedding, or he would have tried them on.

It was time for me to come down the aisle. I'd been so busy the night before with cooking, and was too tired with only three hours of sleep the next morning to shave my legs. I had complained to Stanley about how awful this was, but at least, I supposed, nobody would know about it under my long dress. You know how people always cry at weddings. I expected it would be me when it came time for the mother of the bride to stand or when I passed the pew where she would have been sitting. Later, after the service, Stanley related to me that he was about ready to cry when he saw me coming down the aisle, but the only thing that

Points East

By Ike Adams

I've spent almost all my professional life working as a community developer. Oh, I've had over a dozen different titles over the last 40 years at four different, well-meaning, idealistic organizations but when the pot is all boiled down and the syrup has gotten thick enough to harden, I find that the real sugar in the bottom of the cooker is that I've helped make some locales just a little bit better places to live than they might have been, had I not passed through.

All of us should be able to make that claim. I've been paid, on some occasions, to be an instigator and a rabble rouser, but mostly I've just followed my nose and tried to tune into the difference between right and wrong---to do good and avoid evil---and that's not usually an easy call to make. It's never black and white on any political issue. It's always trying to figure out the proper shade of gray.

Last summer, just when I'd decided to lay down my hatchet and settle into a life of writing poetry and perhaps the next great American novel, I had a call from a much younger friend who convinced me that I should give some thought to working for Habitat for Humanity of Madison and Clark Counties before I made like an old cowboy and hung my reins.

"You are only 59 years old," she yelled. "You can't quit now!"

Actually quitting was not even on my mind. I imagined myself actually starting to live the life that I'd always dreamed of. You know, Jesse Stuart, Harry Caudill, John Fox, Jr., Janice Holt Giles, Bobbie Ann Mason, James Still and that crowd of acclaimed writers. I was thinking to myself that it was high time I did a decent piece of writing and join the halls of the acclaimed.

And then I was reminded that most of that crowd started when they were closer to 19 than 59. And that they had actually done some decent before they reached puberty. Unfortunately the stuff I wrote on the walls of the boy's restroom stalls at Letcher High is yet unpublished.

"Only 59" is not relevant in some circles. Suffice to say that it's not an ideal beginning point to launch a career wherein one intends to become a best-selling writer. And so, forswearing fame and fortune as a writer, I signed on to Habitat for Humanity of Madison and Clark Counties as the fellow in charge of convincing my neighbors that our cause is more than worthwhile.

Here's what I know to be factual. Not many low income families can afford to own their own homes. Those who want to and are willing to work for it ought to be able to do just that. Kids who live in safe, decent, affordable housing that they can call their own do far, far better in school than those who don't. Parents who own their own homes fare far better in the workplace than those who don't. Habitat for Humanity helps solve those problems for families willing to work for a better way of life.

Starting on April 4th and ending on April 11th the 84 Lumber Co Store in Richmond will donate a framing board to our Habitat for Humanity affiliate for every caller who makes a donation to WEKU, the public radio station out of Eastern Kentucky University. It takes, on average, 360 planks including 2x4, 2X6 and 2X8 along with 40 sheets of plywood to frame a habitat house. We aim to raise enough support through WEKU to frame two houses over the next two weeks.

I can't take much credit for this, but it is community development at it's best and I'm oh so glad to be a part of it. All I can tell you is that I have WEKU playing classical music in the background as I write this piece and you can to anytime you simply google up the station and click on play live. If you live in Richmond, just tune in to 88.9---you London-Corbin readers can listen into 88.5; that'll be 96.1 in Barbourville, 95.1 in Pikeville/Whitesburg; 90.9 Hazard/Whitesburg---all the same station but coming off different towers.

My next move is to try to get WMMT in Whitesburg to ask its listeners to tune into WEKU if they want some classical music and get WEKU to return the favor if they want some genuine mountain funk and pretty soon we'll have the two stations dominating the region, as they should. And in the meantime, we'll get some homes built for some kids who will be way better off than they would without us. And if you don't shop at 84 Lumber when you need a 2X4, don't be coming to me and complaining that you got ripped off at you know where.

And that's about all I know about community development this week. I really need to be collecting my memoirs just now.

saved him was knowing that my legs were unshaven, and would probably be making "cricket sounds" as I walked.

I know it will be a day I'll never forget. I think that is pretty much the same for all couples no matter what kind of wedding they have.

Our anniversary this year fell as it did the day we married five years ago. That made it that much more special. I know the past five years have been a very special time for me, and I have had a lifetime of happiness in those short few years. I told Stanley a few months ago that it seemed like I had been married to him most of my life. In that case, I guess it's good that the time has been happy.

"I've probably seen Loretta Lynn more than anyone else," he said. "That lady will talk to you all day long, and you have her total attention. If the President came by while she was talking to you, he'd just have to wait until she was finished.

He said he felt sorry for Lynn the night she was named CMA Entertainer of the Year, and her husband couldn't be there because he was on a hunting trip. He also regrets the fact she often 'freezes up' during TV interviews, but he remains a devoted fan.

"I think her voice is as strong now as it ever was," he said.

Branscum has Vince Gill and Garth Brooks on his "good guys" list.

"Vince is so common, just a nice person. Everybody likes him. And Garth Brooks is one of the nicest and most personable guys I've ever met."

He says the late Minnie Pearl was nothing like the character she portrayed, but was "the most eloquent person from a wealthy family. She was admired even more than Roy Acuff."

Listening to performers share stories between shows has been an added benefit of being backstage. "It's great being around Brenda Lee and Mel Tillis when they are telling funny stories," he said.

One of his favorite Opry employees, Russellville native Jo Walker, has told him of the time Caroline Kennedy sought and received permission to come backstage. "All she wanted was Tex Ritter's autograph. Then she was ready to leave," he said.

Now that he's a substitute teacher and part-time supervisor of student teachers for Eastern Kentucky University, Branscum says he has more time to devote to meeting the stars.

Among the big names that have eluded him so far are Dolly Parton, Faith Hill and Tim McGraw.

He thinks he'll get them eventually, but if he doesn't, you won't find him singing the blues.

"It's just a hobby, but it's a fun hobby," he says.

Aurora Borealis to be visible this far south of the Arctic Circle. According to one source, people who live in the southern United States will only see the lights a few times in a given century. The best place in the states to witness the light show is near Fairbanks, Alaska. Two specific places are listed as the best viewing in that area. The first is near Cripple Creek off the Parks Highway just outside of Fairbanks. The other is at Chena Hot Springs Resort also near Fairbanks.

In 1994, my wife and I drove to Alaska and visited both of these areas. Unfortunately, we were not there at the time of the year when one would see the aurora. I will have to say, though, that traveling to Alaska would be worth the effort just to see such awesome displays as they witness there.

The University of Alaska Fairbanks has a website (www.gedds.alaska.edu) that publishes a daily forecast of the probability of the Aurora's viewing. It not only lists the time of the day, but also gives a region where the event will most likely be visible. We also visited that university while in Fairbanks and saw some video of the most spectacular sightings during that particular time.

Late winter or early spring seems to be a great time to witness the Aurora. So for the next several weeks, I will be carefully watching the northern night sky from my deck on Furnace Mountain. Images of the northern lights are significantly more common today due to the use of digital photography. If you are fortunate enough to witness the show, a wide-angle lens and a sturdy tripod will be needed. The shutter should be left open for approximately 20 seconds.

If you should happen to see a view of the northern lights around here, I beg of you to let me know. (We had one a few years ago and I missed it!) Then let me know if you got some good photographs.

Appreciate Proctor's letter...

Dear Editor,

I so appreciate Jason Proctor's thoughts on Rockcastle's future in last week's letters. I can't boast as healthy an accent as Jason's but I was excited to read his letter out loud to my wife and told my five children all about it.

A good young man came to my home last week, asking if we knew anywhere he could find work. He, his wife and children, had moved to Rockcastle three months ago and he just wanted to take care of his family. It looks like he will have to leave Rockcastle and join the armed forces. It is again our loss.

Jason said that if all of us give just a little bit now, we can all reap a great reward. The Bible tells us not to not just look out for ourselves (Philippians 2:4) but also for all our neighbors (Mark 12:31). It tells us that we reap what we sow (II Corinthians 9:6).

Our county can't just print money the way the Treasury Department can, we have to paddle our own canoe. If we will all just pull our oars for the shore a little harder, we can help our children and grandchildren live a good life right here.

Sincerely,
Bob Coffey

Judge Burdette presides with proficiency...

Dear Mt. Vernon Signal Editor:

I write regarding Circuit Court Judge Jeff Burdette who serves Rockcastle, Lincoln and Pulaski counties.

As a citizen interested in the function of my government I recently had the opportunity to observe Judge Burdette in the courtroom. Since citizens of Kentucky collectively choose judges in elections, and since many busy citizens do not have the opportunity to observe all public servants, I wish to share my observations.

As a whole I felt that Judge Burdette truly exemplified himself with outstanding proficiency, mediation skills and concern.

First, Judge Burdette proficiently moved along the numerous motions and cases he had on his docket that day. One reality of the court system is that judges often hear dozens of motions on varying subjects in a single day. An additional reality is that court cases often languish for years, sometimes because parties ignore legal deadlines for extended periods.

Judge Burdette was most proficient in enforcing the legal time limits for various issues. For example, if a party had exceeded the thirty day limit for answering written questions from an opposing party, Judge Burdette had a prepared order on his desk giving the party 10 or so additional days and he signed the order in the courtroom. By doing this - as opposed to requiring the complaining party prepare an order, mail it and then wait for it to be signed - he moved the case forward.

Second, I feel that Judge Burdette showed excellent mediation skills in a divorce case involving a disputed house. Judge Burdette attempted to explain to both parties what the probable results would be if a full hearing had to be heard, and how they could save both themselves and the legal system an extended dispute. Although the final decision was left to the parties involved, Judge Burdette both moved the case along and did a good job of positioning himself as a neutral arbiter.

Third, and perhaps most significantly, I was truly impressed that Judge Burdette went the extra mile for a case involving child welfare. Judge Burdette took extra time out of his schedule to call the employer of a mother who was possibly leaving her child home unattended when she went to work. He also put the mother of the child under oath and inquired about the status of the child. His dedication and concern in this case stood out, especially in contrast to his efficient style in other motions.

There are many other important functions a Judge performs. I did not, for example, have the opportunity to observe the quality of Judge Burdette's technical rulings, his willingness to be bound by laws that he may disagree with, or his understanding of proper evidence. (Nor will I comment on that goatee!) However, of the actions I saw, I was truly impressed.

Look out for future of county...

Dear Editor,

I hope that you will allow me to express some thoughts regarding our county's development efforts.

First, every thought, every proposal needs to be discussed and examined. Each county citizen needs to understand what is being considered and then decide if that is what you want for your county. Once you have a good understanding of what is being proposed, then you won't have to depend upon the few people that make up the Industrial Authority or that few that offer hasty criticisms and conclusions.

I think that before we take a negative position, let us consider the somewhat controversial development efforts from our recent history.

Second, just a few years ago, our county had no water except for those small reservoirs that barely supplied our three towns. Then, the idea of building a large lake was offered. This was controversial, many were opposed and good people had to make sacrifices. I leave it to you to answer the question. Was it good for the county or not?

Third, our springs and wells were failing and we needed water outside the city limits of our town. The idea of water districts surfaced and was immediately controversial because of costs and right of ways. The Western Water Association was the first, with Ro Brown and Wallace Proctor being the first officers. The Eastern Rockcastle Association was next, headed up by Byron and Glenna Baker and Jack Parsons.

To save space, I will merely leave these examples of development projects that have required work, thought and sacrifice on the part of many. Were the efforts worth the while?

One more thing, our county library, that we have enjoyed all these years, is the result of a strong determination by one official in particular. In the 1960's County Judge Charles C. Carter realized the need for a public library. It was put on the ballot for a supporting vote but failed. Within two years, Judge Carter found ways to build the library anyway. Was it a good thing?

From an older senior citizen to you the younger, look after the future of you county's needs. It is in your hands. Respectfully and your friend, noticed that there was raw gasoline in the commode in the staff restroom.

His building was evacuated for a week and the sewer line was dug up. The line collapsed and gasoline was in both the ditch the line ran in, as well as the sewer line. "Since the sewer line from B&F Gulf connected to the line to my office, I could only assume that the gasoline came from there," Parsons said.

Parsons said he reported the problem to the state and got little or no help and that gasoline fumes were still prevalent in the office.

The local dentist said he continued to call Frankfort and, at some point, someone from the state finally showed up at his office.

Parsons said the official from the state confirmed that there were gasoline smells in his office and as far away as the sewer treatment plant by the hospital, but that there was still not much done.

In 1996 the underground storage tanks at the former B&F Gulf, which was located above Parsons' office, were taken up, by order of the state and one of the tanks had a hole in it that had been leaking for a long time, Parsons said.

Monitoring wells were placed around the site and high levels of benzene, and other cancer-causing chemicals that are part of the chemical make-up of gasoline, were found in the groundwater.

"We thought this would get rid of the vapors inside my office, but it didn't. In fact, they increased, but this time there was good response from the Underground Storage Tank Branch Emergency Response Team out of London (USTB)," Parsons said.

Parsons said he thought part of the reason for the good response was the fact that the monitoring wells were still showing high levels of benzene, toluene, ethyl-benzene and xylene (commonly referred to as BTEX) in the ground water. "All of these, particularly benzene are highly carcinogenic," he said.

Parsons said the problems persisted and the USTB came to investigate every time he called them. "My employees were complaining with headaches, nausea, rapid heart rates and dizziness and it just kept getting worse," Parsons said.

On June 4th of last year, Parsons and his staff went to work but were unable to stay in the office because of the gasoline odor. Parsons called the USTB and sent his employees home. The USTB responded quickly and arranged to do air samples inside his office the next day.

"The samples revealed benzene levels in the ambient air in my office at more than 24 times the accepted level for chronic exposure and I had to close my office for that whole week," he said.

Later on in June, a contractor hired by the state was at Parsons' building and dug up the parking lot behind his office. "It had been determined that so much gasoline had leaked from B&F Gulf that a great deal remained in the ground. They did not find the flow pattern, but they did find that the dirt and gravel they excavated was heavy with gasoline odor," Parsons said.

Since that time, Parsons has had to close his office on 21 separate occasions, with the most recent coming just two weeks ago. "Changes in temperature, barometric pressure changes and rain affect the odors and vapors in the office," Parsons went on to say.

Other businesses and buildings on Main Street, including the Signal building, are now being affected too.

The USTB has been in Mt. Vernon more than 25 times this year and, as of last week, the clean-up is being handled by the State of Kentucky's EPA Emergency Response Team.

"They are now assessing the site and plan to move a contractor onto the property this week," Parsons said.

"All of the people who work with me, including myself, who have to work in this environment are very afraid. Benzene is what scares us the most because it is a very virulent carcinogen and we have been exposed to it for fifteen to twenty years at high levels. I have had two employees quit work because they are concerned for their health and the two employees that remain, and I, are also concerned," Parsons said.

Parsons said he estimates that he has had to close his office more than 50 times since 1994 because of the gasoline odors and that ambient air samples inside his office still show very high levels of benzene.

"We never know what we are coming into when we enter the office to work and, of those 21 days missed since June of last year, 14 of them have been since January 1st," he added.

In doing their assessment this week, the state will be attempting to confirm the source of the spill and Parsons says they will be doing whatever is necessary to clean up the site.

"I certainly welcome that, but myself and all of those who have worked here are concerned for our future health. Benzene causes many types of cancers, particularly those affecting the blood. We all feel like we are living "under the gun" for the rest of our lives. Cancer is a scary word," Parsons said.

"Economic"

of beauty in our county, there are also signs of the fact that we HAVE NOT done anything to plan for how land will be used in our county.

Currently, with no countywide land use master plan, basically any company or any business could locate anywhere without having to be accountable to any governing body. And while, on the surface, you might think that is great, ask the people in our neighboring Laurel County how they felt when an asphalt plant was located in the middle of a residential subdivision because there was no planning and zoning. The fact is we could have any number of undesirable or inappropriate businesses locate in our downtowns, in our neighborhoods or on some of our most prime agricultural land if we do not develop a plan for how Rockcastle County's land should be used to best meet the needs of our residents and land owners.

One of the other great benefits of planned land use and planning and zoning is increased property values. With increased land values, landowners gain greater resale value for their properties. And, while there might be minor changes in taxes due, it also creates a stronger climate for community economic development because people outside of the county, looking for opportunities to invest in a new business, will know their investment will be protected because there are regulations on how land will be used adjacent or contiguous to their property. So, if I am a new business or industry, I know that if I invest millions of dollars in the development of a piece of property, I know that investment will be protected because of planned land use.

Another great benefit of planned land use and planning and zoning is the "map" it creates for the development of the infrastructure in Rockcastle County. Currently, because we have no plan for land use, we might not always make the best long-term decisions regarding the development of water lines, sewer lines, electric service and road improvements and development. With planned land use in place, it is much easier to determine how utilities will be developed in the county and the three cities to meet the long-term needs of county businesses and residents.

When Rockcastle County is making application for grant funds, to both state and federal funding agencies for infrastructure and economic development projects assistance, the availability of planned land use and planning and zoning helps us be ranked as a stronger investment in the economy of Kentucky.

Finally, planned land use and planning and zoning will be developed and overseen with input from the entire county as the plans are created. As we continue to move forward with the plan, all residents of Rockcastle County will be given the opportunity to voice their opinion on what is appropriate to ensure that our plan will best serve the people of the county while at the same time creating an environment for progressive development to occur.

We have a beautiful county in Rockcastle, but we want to keep it that way. And, we want to make sure we create the environment for community economic development to occur now and for many years to come.

Fire Depts. Open Houses

Citizens of Rockcastle County can look over two new fire department buildings in the county next week end-- the new Mt. Vernon Fire Department and the new Pongo Fire Department.

Open House will be held at the Mt. Vernon Fire Department on Friday, April 11th from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and there will be free hamburgers, hot dogs, chips and drinks provided compliments of the City of Mt. Vernon. The new building is located at 270 Old U.S. Hwy. 25 South.

And, on Saturday, April 12th, Pongo Fire Department will hold an Open House for their new building from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Everyone is welcome and encouraged to attend these two events.

DramaCentre presents "Little Shop of Horrors"

DramaCentre brings to the College's Norton Center for the Arts the raucous "Little Shop of Horrors," with four big shows April 2-5 at 8 p.m. each night. This stage production of the 1960s movie classic is packed with memorable characters and a score that audiences love.

"Little Shop" is the story of Seymour (played by Drew Davidson '11) as the clumsy employee of Mushnik's Flower Shop on skid row, where he daydreams of Audrey (played by Lauren Marx '08), his co-worker.

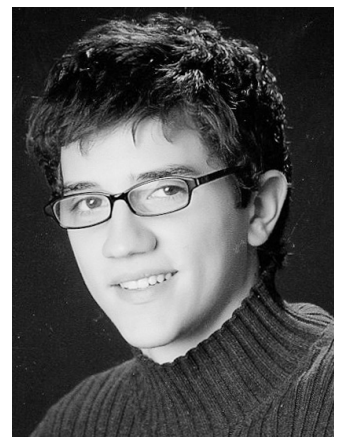

After no business, Mr. Mushnik (associate professor of history Steven Beaudoin) decides to close the shop. Seymour and Audrey tell him that they think displaying something interesting, strange and new in the window will attract business. Seymour brings up the perfect plan for the job: a flytrap-esque plant he calls Audrey II (voiced by Will Johnston '03). The plant immediately attracts business.

Soon "Audrey II" grows into an ill-tempered, foul-mouthed, R&B singing carnivore that offers Seymour fame and fortune in exchange for feeding its growing appetite, finally revealing itself to be an alien creature poised for global domination.

Directed by Patrick Kagan-Moore, Charles T. Hazelrigg Professor of Dramatic Arts, this affectionate spoof of 1950s sci-fi movies and one of the longest-running Off-Broadway shows of all time has become a fixture of American culture.

Drew, a 2007 graduate of RCHS, is the son of Leon and Janice Davidson of Mount Vernon.

Faith Chapel Pentecostal Church was est. in 1994

Story and photos by:
Richard Anderkin

On September 28, 1994, 30 Christians established the Faith Pentecostal Church at Burr, making it one of the youngest churches in the county.

Church members, mostly from the Fairground Hill Holiness Church in Mt. Vernon, purchased the building they now call home from the Bible Baptist Church, after Bible Baptist outgrew the building and had to build a new one in Mt. Vernon. Bible Baptist built the church building in 1966 and 1967, according to Bible Baptist member Oscar Fain.

Pastor Virgil Bustle said founding members paid $70,000 for the building and Mrs. Bessie Bustle, Virgil's wife, said the church was named Faith Chapel for a reason.

"We didn't have any money so we had to purchase the church on credit with the Faith that we could pay the debt off," Mrs. Bustle said.

And their faith certainly paid off as members of the church were able to retire the debt in just four years.

Church secretary Peggy Falin said church members have also made many improvements to the structure since it was purchased, including all new pews, a kitchen in the basement, which also got new tile, a new bathroom upstairs, enlarged pulpit area and a spiral staircase for the downstairs, which made for a second exit in and out of the basement, eliminating a fire hazard.

Besides the weekly offering, a lot of the improvements were paid for with church fundraisers and most of the work was done by members of the church.

Falin estimated the cost of the improvements at approximately $30,000. The pews alone cost around $20,000.

Faith Chapel Pentecostal, has approximately 70 members with an average attendance of 35, is located on South Wilder-

Faith Chapel Pentecostal Church is located on South Wilderness Road at Burr.

Card of Thanks

There were friends and family members who were able to be there, with a warm hug to give, a strong hand to hold, an open ear to listen and a happy memory to share. Others not present did so much to show they care with a beautiful note, a generous donation, a delicious meal or lovely flowers. Please know your kindness made this sad time easier to bear. Your support is greatly appreciated.

Thank You
From the family of
Marvin Cunagin

Local women battle cancer with a makeup brush

The latest weapon in the fight against cancer? For women participating in the American Cancer Society's Look Good Feel Better program, the weapon of choice is a makeup brush.

Look Good...Feel Better helps women cope with the appearance-related side effects of cancer treatment by teaching them beauty tips that can help them enhance their looks and boost their self-image. The program is facilitated by licensed cosmetologists who volunteer their time.

Registration is currently underway for the next Look Good...Feel Better session in Rockcastle County, which will take place April 14th, 2008 at 4:00pm to 5:30pm. The session will be held at Rockcastle County Hospital in the Outpatient Services Center. There is no cost to attend.

In addition to changes in a patient's physical condition, chemotherapy and radiation can cause an increased susceptibility to infection. Look Good...Feel Better volunteers are trained to help patients deal with the physical side effects of cancer treatment and promote good hygiene.

Look Good...Feel Better is a non-medical program offered free of charge by the American Cancer Society, the Cosmetic, Toiletry, and Fragrance Association Foundation and the National Cosmetology Association. No product endorsements are given, and participants are never asked to buy anything from volunteers or participating organizations. For more information about Look Good...Feel Better or cancer, contact the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

Choose your foods with a grain of salt

Family and Consumer Sciences

Do you always reach for the salt shaker before tasting your food? If you do, try doing a taste test first. About 80 percent of the sodium, the part of salt that we should avoid, comes from processed and pre-prepared foods. So that food on your plate may already have plenty of salt.

Research shows that eating less than 2,300 milligrams of sodium (about 1 teaspoon of salt) per day may reduce the risk of high blood pressure. Americans eat at about 30 percent to 50 percent more sodium than the recommended teaspoon each day.

By looking at food labels, you can see how easy it is to eat too much sodium. Some of the highest sources of sodium in the US diet are listed below with the amount of sodium in one serving:
Fried Chicken dinner, frozen, 1600 (milligrams sodium);
Sub sandwich, 6" cold cuts 1600;
Fried Shrimp, 6-8, 1400;
Chili con carne, canned, 1100;
Ham, cured, 1000
Chicken pot pie, frozen, 1000
Bacon Cheeseburger, 1000
Soup, canned, 900

Fast food meals, salad dressings and even ready-to-eat cereals can contain more sodium than you might think, based on how the food tastes. In order to choose foods with little salt or sodium, you have to ask for nutrition information and read the nutrition facts label on processed foods.

Since most of the sodium we eat comes from processed foods, one way to eat a diet lower in salt is to eat more fresh, less processed foods. Choose fresh fruits, vegetables and meats. Try some seasonings that you know your family likes to create some taste sensations at the table. Here are some ideas to get you started.

For beef try garlic, basil, bay leaf, oregano, parsley or chives. On pork use sage, cumin or rosemary while thyme, oregano, marjoram and tarragon work well with poultry. Fish can be seasoned using dill, fennel, parsley or cilantro.

Using herbs and spices can help you dress up and color to eggs and cottage cheese. You can also use fruits and vegetables to add flavor like onion, celery, lemon, lime and peppers. Look for foods high in potassium, like bananas, orange juice, beans, tomatoes and sweet potatoes. Potassium counteracts some of sodium's effects on blood pressure.

Relationships Can Be Addictive

In his book, How to Break Your Addiction to a Person, Howard Halpern lists several qualities that apply to all addictions:

1. Addiction is a compulsive drive toward a substance or person. It is one thing to choose to be with another person but quite another to feel a compulsion that drives one toward that person.
2. Addiction produces panic when the object of the addiction becomes unavailable. This is true whether the addiction is to cocaine, alcohol or another person.

3. Addiction causes withdrawal symptoms when the object of the addiction is gone. Someone who leaves an abusive relationship may go through actual physical withdrawal while she recovers from her addiction.

4. After the mourning period is over there is often a feeling of liberation or achievement because the addict has beaten the addiction.

Victims of domestic violence do not enjoy being abused but may stay in an abusive relationship for many reasons, including fear, financial dependency and lack of support to escape. They may also stay because they are addicted to the abuser. Leaving him is just as difficult as the alcoholic quitting drinking or the pain pill addict going without his "medication."

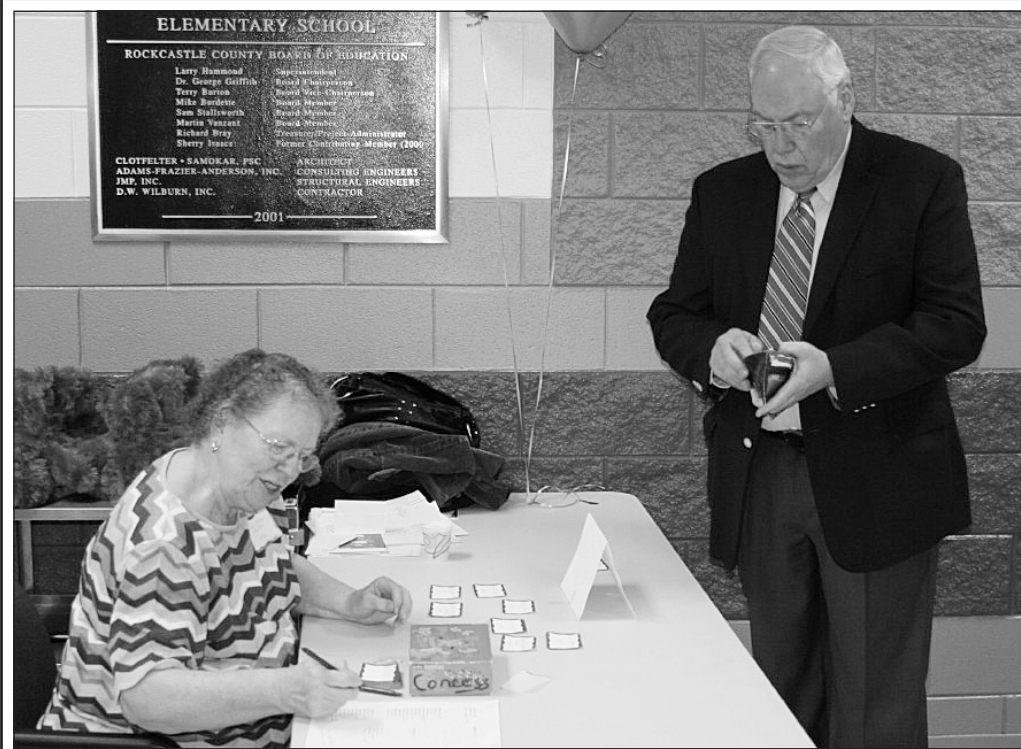

In his book on addiction to a person, Halpern lists some signs of addiction that an individual can look for in himself or herself:

1. Though your objective mind tells you that the relationship is bad for you, you still are unable to leave and stay away.
2. The reasons you give for staying in the relationship do not make sense when examined logically.
3. When you think about leaving, you feel a terror and emptiness inside that makes you cling even harder to the other person.
4. When you try to end it, you suffer withdrawal symptoms, such as insomnia, headaches, stomach pain and other physical symptoms.
5. When you think the relationship is over, you feel lost, alone and empty, possibly accompanied by a sense of freedom.

An addict does not feel complete by herself but needs someone or something else in order to feel whole. This other person or substance becomes the center of the addict's life, because it seems to fill the hole that she has inside. There is a massive downside to her addiction, however, because the addiction itself may destroy her. The unending search for another high requires her to keep seeking her drug and makes her use whatever means necessary to find it, including actions harmful to herself and/or others.

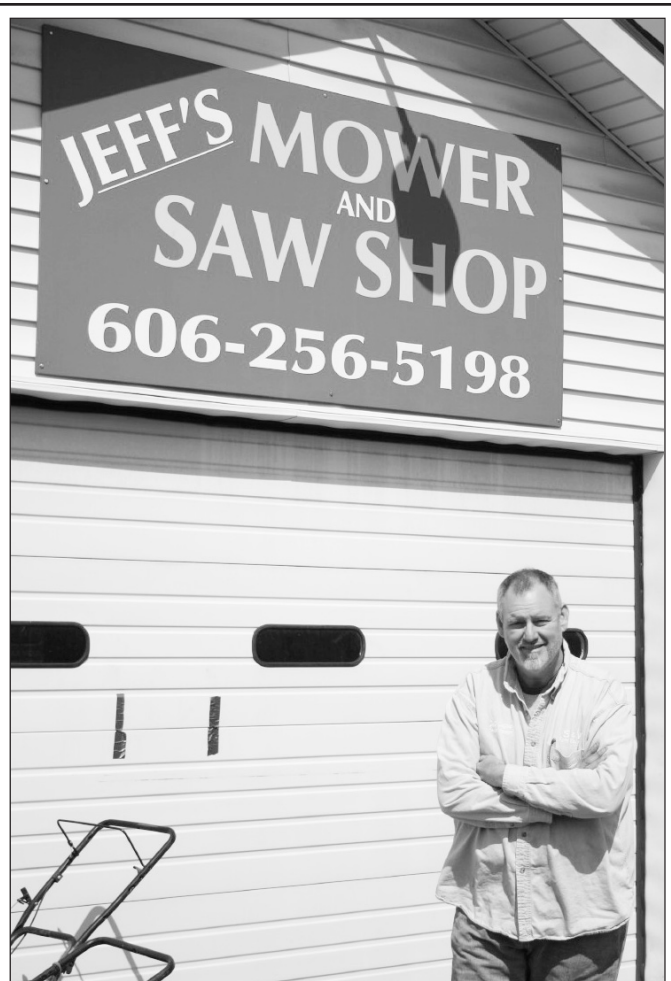

In a relationship she may put up with horrible abuse in order to get the occasional high from feeling that he "completes" her. The highs become fewer and farther between, and the pain comes more often. Finally her self-esteem is ruined and her energy is spent. She finds herself trapped in an abusive relationship that she does not understand and does not know how to end.

If you or someone you know is in an abusive relationship, call Family Life Abuse Center at 800-755-5348 for help.

In last week's newspaper we ran several pictures from the Brodhead High School Alumni Banquet. In the picture above we reported that Mrs. Shirley Martin, retired as full-time secretary, from the school in 1989. Mrs. Martin was never secretary and was a first grade teacher for 35 years. In the photo at right we identified Mrs. Virginia Nunn, far right, as Virginia Dunn. We apologize for the mistakes. (RFA).

"What Is Written"

The past few weeks we have been talking about the importance of taking things in context, let's look at another example today.

In John 15:1-2 we read, "I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit." Now here is how this passage is misapplied by some, in trying to uphold and endorse human denominationalism. Jesus is the vine, and the branches are the various churches. Here is a branch, and it is the Methodist Church, here is another branch on the vine and it is the Presbyterian Church, here is another branch and it is the Baptist Church, etc. They are all going in a different direction, but still each is connected to the vine - Jesus. This may sound good, and give comfort to denominational thinking, but the context of John 15 will not allow this explanation of the text. If you will notice in verse 6, "If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned." The branch is not a church, but a man! Individuals are what Jesus said the branches were.

Legislative Update

By State Representative Danny Ford
Budget Bill Takes Center Stage As 2008 Session Winds Down

A great deal has happened since last week's legislative update, including extensive work to reach a compromise on the Executive Branch budget. Several other pieces of legislation also await action in the few days that remain in this year's Regular Session.

Earlier this week, the Senate passed their version of the budget bill which led to the appointment of a free conference committee to work out a compromise. The conference committee is comprised of legislators from both parties and both chambers, and has been meeting since Tuesday.

Legislative committee meetings came to a close this week due to the short period of time left before we adjourn on April 15. One committee that did meet was the House Committee on Seniors, Military Affairs, and Public Safety whose members passed Senate Bill 68. This legislation would allow Kentucky to enter into an agreement with other states to remove educational barriers that are imposed on children of military families due to frequent moves and deployments. The guidelines of this agreement, which have been adopted by other states, would also determine which academic requirements affect the children of active military personnel.

Employees of consolidated local governments would be restricted from taking part in activities that involve ballot proposals during work hours and from using public resources to do so through Senate Bill 16. Winning passage from the House Local Government Committee, another provision of this bill would also prohibit probationary officers and police officers who are merit employees from participating in these activities while on duty.

Senate Bill 120 would require children younger than 7 years old who are between 40 and 50 inches tall to be secured in a child booster seat when riding in a vehicle. This legislation, approved by the House Health and Welfare Committee, would direct police officers to issue warnings for a year, then a $20 fine in following years. The citations and fines could be dismissed if parents can prove they own a booster seat. The House version of this legislation, House Bill 55, would apply to children younger than 8 years of age who are between 40 and 57 inches tall and was approved by the House on February 14 by a vote of 68-28.

On the House Floor, legislation that would establish the framework for a comprehensive plan to improve our Commonwealth's waterways won unanimous approval. Through House Bill 717, local authorities would be created to select water restoration and cleanup projects that are in need of attention. Companies that disturb waterways or cause excessive runoff that pollutes streams and rivers would be fined mitigation fees which would be used to aid in cleanup efforts. Additionally, local authorities could seek the Corps of Engineers' permission to manage a clean-up or restoration project.

Winning 99-0 passage, Senate Bill 196 would allow our Commonwealth to enter into agreements with private property owners for the purpose of using their land for outdoor activities. This would provide an avenue of "adventure tourism" that could emphasize nature, spur economic development, and improve the physical well-being of Kentuckians.

Senate Bill 129 would aid the "No Child Left Offline" effort by allowing technology equipment that is no longer in use by a school system to be given to low income students throughout the school district. With 99-0 passage, this legislation would also create a partnership among the school district, local businesses, and the Kentucky Community and Technical school system to refurbish the computers prior to distribution.

Children entering the sixth grade would continue to be required to have a current immunization for Hepatitis B under Senate Bill 118. Without this legislation, which was approved 96-2, the requirement to receive this immunization was due to expire following the 2008-2009 school year.

By a vote of 97-1, the House moved to require health benefit plans to provide coverage for colorectal cancer screenings. Senate Bill 95, which would be effective as of January 1, 2009, aligns insurance coverage with guidelines set forth by the American Cancer Society.

Senate Bill 262 would establish the Kentucky Beekeeping Fund to protect and promote our Commonwealth's beekeeping industry and was approved 92-4. Currently, diseases and viruses are killing our bee population and if a solution is not found soon, our crop production will be greatly diminished due to lack of pollination.

A number of House and Senate Bills have successfully passed both chambers and now await the Governor's signature. Among those are House Bill 110 that establishes penalties for the falsification and misuse of military status, House Bill 139 which permits, with parental consent, 16-year-olds to donate blood, and House Bill 259 that allows individuals to use long-term care insurance policy funds towards their medical care.

Next week, we will have two days to finish up work on pending legislation before we adjourn for the 10 day veto period. When we do return, just two days will remain before we adjourn the 2008 General Assembly. Please feel free to contact me regarding legislative action. I can be reached at home or through the toll-free message line at 1-800-372-7181. If you have internet access, you can e-mail me at danny.ford@lrc.ky.gov or keep track of legislature at www.lrc.ky.gov.

AmeriCorps update

"I will get things done for America," are the opening words of the AmeriCorps pledge. AmeriCorps members serving in the county are Traci Collins at MVES and Rachel Falin at BES.

Each works with students implementing literacy programs to better their reading abilities. They also lead their schools UNITE clubs, working hard to make sure children are aware of drugs and the consequences that drug use can cause.

As AmeriCorps members, Traci and Rachel receive a living stipend, education award (for completion of 1700 hours of service), basic health insurance, forbearance on school loans, extensive training and work experience. The goals of AmeriCorps are: getting things done, strengthening communities and developing members.

This year there are many AmeriCorps members, most of them young like Peace Corps volunteers, serving in their communities in more than 1,000 organizations across the United States. In the last ten years, some 200,000 men and women have enlisted in AmeriCorps -- more than the total of Peace Corps volunteers in 40 years.

AmeriCorps, the domestic Peace Corps, is an extraordinary model of decentralized public-private partnership in which government is not the managing partner. In AmeriCorps, the sponsoring organizations do most of the recruiting and do all of the selection, assigning and supervising of their AmeriCorps members. Governor-appointed state commissions determine the allocation of members.

Citizen service -- that is what America and AmeriCorps is all about. Through AmeriCorps, Kentucky and America are going to find the ways and means to make citizen service the common expectation and experience of every American.

AmeriCorps in Kentucky is funded by the Kentucky Commission on Community Volunteers and Service and the Student Service Consortium Center at Eastern Kentucky University. For more information, email Nancy Thames at Nancy.Thames@eku.edu.

Wanda Jean Chattelle, 60, of New Brodhead Road, was slightly injured Tuesday afternoon around 3:30, after she pulled her 2000 Lincoln into the back wheels of an Averitt Express Truck on Hwy. 150 in front of IGA, after making a U-turn. Above, asst. Mt. Vernon Police Chief Eddie Delaney fills out the accident report as James Bowles and Jason Hansel clean up debris from the accident. Chattelle was taken to the Rockcastle Hospital, where she was treated and released. The roadway was blocked for about 30 minutes because of the wreck.

Mt. Vernon firefighters extinguished a car fire on South Wilderness Road, under the interstate bridge, last Wednesday night. The fire closed the northbound lane for about an hour while the burned vehicle cooled off enough so it could be moved. Allie Browning of Valley View Apartments said the Oldsmobile vehicle just quit in the middle of the road before catching fire around 7:30 p.m.

Rockcastle County Judge Executive said this week that the county would cleanup an eyesore in the middle of Brodhead, after someone dumped the trash, shown above, on property along the Dix River, in the past couple of weeks. The trash is on property owned by Charles and Inas Leger of Berea, who will be billed for the clean-up. Charles Leger told Solid Waste Coordinator James Renner that he was aware of only rock being dumped on the property. The county can cleanup illegal dumps on private property and bill the land owner because of the County's Solid Waste Management Ordinance, which is in compliance with state law.

Approximately 400 attend Redbud Health Walk

Although organizers had expected a somewhat smaller crowd, they were very pleased when approximately 400 people participated in the 2008 Redbud Health Walk Tuesday in Renfro Valley. After completing the two mile walk, participants were treated to a free lunch and free Redbud seedlings. The event was held at the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame and Museum and was sponsored by the Rockcastle Hospital, Rockcastle Tourism Commission and the Southern and Eastern Kentucky Tourism Development Association. Above, Robin Rumsey brought her children, Reagan and Blaine, to the Health Walk. In the top photo, Rockcastle Hospital Public Relations Director Arielle Reese and Donna Baker with Southern and Eastern Kentucky Tourism, sign in Beatrice Hensley and William Clark Siler, before they departed on the two mile walk. In the middle photo are: sitting, Mary Ella McNew, left, and Iris Parker. Behind them are Ed and Kaye Fielder. The group helped pass out 2,000 free Redbud seedlings at the Health Walk.

By: Warden Alexander, FSA CED
Committee meeting

The Rockcastle County Farm Service Committee (COC) will hold its monthly meeting Thursday, April 3, 2008 beginning at 8:00 a.m. The meeting will be held at the FSA office.

The COC members are vital to the day-to-day operations of FSA. The COC members help FSA at the local level by deciding the kind of program their county will have and how they will operate. FSA committees operate within official regulations designed to carry out Federal laws and applying their judgment and knowledge and knowledge to make decisions.

Accommodations

Persons with disabilities who require accommodations to attend or participate in FSA meetings/events or functions should contact Warden Alexander at 606-256-2525 or Federal Relay Service at 1-800-877-8339.

Livestock Programs

Are you a rancher or livestock producer of Rockcastle County?

Did you suffer feed losses due to a natural disaster such as drought in 2005 or 2007?

If so, you may be eligible to receive benefits through the Livestock Compensation Program (LCP) being offered by the U-S Department of Agriculture.

Have you already received the LCP payment for 2005 but think you had a greater feed loss in 2007? If so sign up again-you may be eligible for additional money.

Did you suffer livestock losses due to a natural disaster such as excessive heat in 2007? If so, you may be eligible to receive benefits through the Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP) being offered by the U-S Department of Agriculture.

At this time no deadline has been established for these programs.

Crop Disaster Program

The Crop Disaster Program (CDP) provides benefits to farmers who suffered quantity and quality losses from natural disasters and related conditions that happened in 2005, 2006 and for 2007 crops if the crop was planted or prevented from being planted before December 31, 2007.

Only producers who obtained crop insurance coverage or coverage under the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) for the year of loss will be eligible for CDP benefits. Producers must have suffered quantity losses in excess of 35 percent to be eligible for CDP.

At this time no deadline has been established for this program.

Dairy Program

Are you a dairy producer who suffered a loss in milk production during 2005 or 2007 due to a natural disaster?

If so, you may be eligible to receive benefits through the Dairy Disaster Assistance Payment Program (DDAP-III). DDAP-III applications will be accepted through May 5, 2008.

Dairy producers shall provide production evidence for 2003 through the year of disaster sign up and submit the average number of dairy cows in the herd during each applicable calendar year in which benefits are being requested.

Dairy operations are eligible to apply for and receive payments for all years that the county office has a disaster designation on file, therefore; dairy producers of Rockcastle County are eligible for both 2005 and 2007.

Visit your local USDA Farm Service Agency Service Center for details on this and other disaster programs or on the web at: www.fsa.usda.gov for details.

Bank account changes

If your bank account number changes or there is a change in your banks name notify FSA immediately to ensure payments reach your account timely.

This is very important to those receiving FSA payments as payments can be delayed if we are not aware of changes to your account or routing numbers.

Spousal authority

A husband and wife may sign FSA and CCC documents on behalf of each other UNLESS written notification is on file in the FSA office denying a spouse this authority.
