Hearing held for Flat Gap man charged with helping juveniles huff paint, burglary

A preliminary hearing was held Wednesday in Rockcastle District Court for a Flat Gap a bread bag and paint can, man accused of helping two which were being used, from juveniles (his own children) huff paint and for also breaking into a residence.

Rockcastle Deputy Sheriff Joe Rush said this week that he had received a complaint on July 14th that Matthew Scott Gadd, 40, of Bent Oak Court, at Flat Gap, was assisting two juveniles in huffing paint.

Rush said when he arrived at Gadd's residence he observed one of the juveniles with paint on his face, but that Gadd had left the scene.

Rush said one of the juveniles told him that Gadd had assisted them in huffing the paint and that he had been huffing it with them. Rush took the scene. Before Rush could go back to arrest Gadd at a later date. more criminal charges were filed against Gadd. According to Rush, a neighbor, Stephanie Smith, got a warrant for Gadd for a July 9th incident, in which her home was broken into.

According to court records, Smith is accusing Gadd of cutting a wire to the alarm system so he could break out a bedroom window to gain entry into her home.

School lunch prices scheduled to increase

It is still no doubt the cheapest lunch that you won't eat at home but, when school starts next Thursday, lunch and breakfast prices in the Rockcastle school system will be higher.

The slight increase was approved by the Rockcastle County Board of Education earlier this year and will add an additional .25 cents to the price of each breakfast and lunch.

School system Food Services Director Jeanine Parsons said the rising cost of food, required the slight increase, the first increase in several years by the school system.

New prices for students are: $1.00 for breakfast at each school, $1.25 for lunch at the middle school and 1.50 for lunch at RCHS. Adult breakfast will be $1.75 and $2.50 for Hearings before the Kentucky Public Service Commission began on Tuesday, in which, Louisville Gas and Electric, the company that owns Kentucky Utilities, is asking for a rate increase.

Phillips said if the new rate is approved by the PSC, the average residential electric bill will increase by about $4.50 per

William McClure, 86, dies at home

--Submitted by a friend--Rockcastle County has lost one of its best known citizens. William McClure, 86, died last Friday, July 25th, at his home in Blue Springs.

The world received a tremendous present when William was born on Christmas Day, 1921 to the late Joe and Syble Vance McClure. Although William lived his life in the Blue Springs area of Rockcastle County, his woodcarving talents led to national recognition represented by inclusion of his works in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C.

Family members recall that one of the first pieces he whittled was a pointer with marbles in the handle. The pointer was made for a Vista (Volunteers in Service to America) Volunteer teaching in the McClure family's old log house that had been converted to a schoolroom for the project. The teacher was delighted with

Open House at new Technology Center is Sunday

An Open House will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the new Rockcastle Area Technology Center (RATC) which has been built next to the Rockcastle County High School on the Hwy. 461 by-pass.

The new $9.5 million facility was constructed completely with funds provided by the state department of education and involves no local dollars.

"We can't say enough about the efforts of our two representatives in the state legislature, State Senator Ed Worley and State Representative Danny Ford. Without their efforts this construction project would not have been possible," said Rockcastle County School Superintendent Larry Hammond. 'This new facility will benefit the county and region as a whole and we are certainly appreciative of the fact that it is located in Rockcastle - it will only make an already very good technology center even better," Hammond said.

Mt. Vernon will enforce ordinance which makes it illegal to place ads on city right-of-ways

Mt. Vernon Mayor Clarice Kirby is notifying the public that the city will enforce an ordinance that prohibits advertising within the right of ways of public roads inside city limits.

The Mayor said that too many people and businesses were using utility poles, trees and other structures as places to hang signs, that eventually became worn and torn and create an eyesore within the city.

We are simply trying to make the city look as good as possible and all these signs certainly don't make it look good," the Mayor said.

Bear and children will get free

The Mayor said she had instructed city maintenance employees to take the signs down and, if anyone is caught putting one up, they will be issued a warning the first time.

"We are going to give everybody a one time chance, in case they didn't know that it was illegal," the Mayor said.

"If they don't heed the warning they will be issued a citation, "the Mayor said.

According to Mt. Vernon's ordinance 337, which is being republished in this week's Signal the placing of each advertisement or poster shal constitute a separate offense and carries a fine not to exceed $25.00.

The ordinance was passed by the city council on June 8th of 1981, when Roland Mullins was Mayor.

Approximately 800 people, including 400 students, attended the second annual Redi-Fest held at MVES on Monday afternoon. Among items received by students were free school supplies, books, some physicals and haircuts and loads of information. Among those in attendance at the event was 4-year-old Kayman Baldwin, who will be in kindergarten at Brodhead this year. He was accompanied by his mother Bobbi Chesnut. The two are shown at the Rockcastle Chamber of Commerce table, being assisted by Scott Adams. The chamber gave out scissors and suckers to the youngsters. Behind Adams is Libby Hammons, who was working the Rockcastle Kiwanis table.

Each of the three elementary schools in the county setup registration tables for parents and students who attended Monday's Redi-Fest at Mt. Vernon Elementary. Those tables were manned by staff members from each school's family resource center. Above, Satica Morgan, seated left, and Hannah Atkinson, helped Donna Northern sign in her daughter, Angela. And at right, Martha Heath, registered her children, William and Willie. Morgan and Atkinson were working at the Brodhead Elementary School table. 25 agencies and vendors worked the three hour event, which had a much larger turnout than a year ago. Redi-Fest was designed to help parents and K-5 students get ready for a new school year. (Front page photos by: Richard Anderkin).

Keeping you informed about your county government

By Buzz Carloftis, County Judge-Executive

This is the third in a series of articles designed to help you, as a taxpayer and citizen, become much better informed about the state's requirements upon and the local expectations of your local government (the fiscal court).

In the two previous articles, I pointed out the requirements of the Road Fund and the Local Government Economic Assistance Fund (both of which are separate bank accounts) within the County government and as administered by the fiscal court. Today we look at the third largest of the nine separate bank accounts and funds: the Jail Fund, and how it can either negatively or positively affect the balance of the County's General Fund (the fund into which most taxes are

First, let's get one thing absolutely understood without any hesitation: Members of the fiscal court (the county judgeexecutive and magistrates) are bound by state law and their oath of office to assure that all prisoners entering into incarceration through a court of Rockcastle County be properly housed – according to the dictates of the state's Corrections Cabinet – by the fiscal court. What the state leaves up to the fiscal courts across the Commonwealth is where they are housed. It is at this point that fiscal courts must look closely at which will be most advantageous to the local taxpayers (after all, they are the ones paying the bills). For example, fiscal courts can elect to keep them within their own county (this requires the construction of a jail meeting state requirements, along with personnel, food, insurance, etc.), or the fiscal courts can elect to house all its inmates in other counties (this means no jail construction costs, no personnel – other than the jailer and transportation officers – no food costs, very limited personnel expenses, etc.). After having read this previous statement, most of the uninformed will immediately say something like, "Don't add on, improve, or build a jail. That is the way to keep costs do Let's look further.

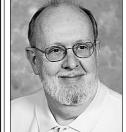

Counties receive zero dollars from anyone for keeping their own 'home-grown' inmates, with the exception of a 'bed allotment' expense from the state based upon the number of beds counties had during 1973 (Rockcastle then had 12 beds; we now have 82). This 'bed allotment' allocation from the state provides $70,945 to Rockcastle County, which is not even enough to meet the payroll of the state-mandated jailer's salary (even without a jail, all counties must have a jailer and pay the mandated salary). At that point, should a fiscal court decide to house only its inmates and no others, the taxpayers begin paying the bills from local taxes for any expenses incurred by the local jail exceeding the 'bed allotment' income. During the 1970s, very few inmates were housed here in the 12-bed jail. Although our county's population has not grown that much since the '70s, the number of 'local' inmates is now usually around 45 per day. If we had no jail, other counties would charge us around $30 / day for housing each of our prisoners, resulting in a cost of close to $493,000 / per year to local taxpayers. Subtract the 'bed allotment' income of $70,945, and the citizens would have to meet the $422,055 per year shortfall (this is more than double the property tax revenue each year the County collects), which at that amount still does not include medical expenses, etc., that will be incurred by the 'host' county housing our in-

This is why this county's fiscal court, under my direction and concurrence of the magistrates at the time, elected to add on to our jail, bringing the number of beds to 82. By having done this, we have been able to house other counties' inmates and receive $724,000 / year in revenue from those 'state' inmates. This made much more economic sense for all of us as local taxpayers.

Nevertheless, even this amount of all revenues into the jail ($878,630) do not match the expenses expected this year ($1,220,930), a shortfall that must come from the County's General Fund (the tax collecting fund). This is due, in part, to the fluctuation of the number of 'state' inmates we can house, which is due directly to the rising number of 'local' inmates who are incarcerated. And we, in Rockcastle County, have been fortunate that the jailer has personally kept me, as county judge-executive, and the fiscal court informed of these fluctuations on an almost daily basis. To put it into perspective for you, most counties our size have been required to have their fiscal courts increase taxes to meet million-dollar shortfalls just for the operation of the jail from their General Fund account. To help better control these expenses, some counties have formed 'regional' jails in order to share the burden associated with housing their growing inmate popula-

Now you should see why the fiscal court takes very seriously the issue of housing local inmates and the burden they place upon the taxpayers. It's really a matter of simple arithmetic.

By David J. Griffin

Pop's first car

Back in March I ordered a new Tahoe, and it finally arrived the last week of June. It was a long wait for a guy who was anticipating a vehicle he would dearly love. (My wife claims that not a single day passed that I didn't talk about it.) But I do love this vehicle as much as any that I have had in many years.

My new SUV made me remember my grandfather's (Pop) first Model A Ford that he purchased new in 1929. He must have loved that car, too, because he told me countless stories about it and how it affected him and his family.

I suppose it was a hardship for Pop to buy that first automobile - it cost the sum of $600. He described it in great detail. The engine was a 4-cylinder, 201 cubic inch displacement that yielded 40 horsepower. It was actually capable of going 60 miles per hour. However, I am quite certain that Pop never achieved that speed. He did not like fast driving in any automobile.

Pop and I were alike in another respect – he did not like to ride with anyone, except me. That has been a peculiarity of mine since my high school days. I am the driver. Just like

Pop – he was always the driver. I remember being with him in my '58 Chevy one chilly winter evening when he explained how his '29 Model A kept him warm on cold nights. He had to purchase a cast-iron unit to place over the engine's manifold to bring heated air into the cab. A small door could be opened or closed to adjust the amount of hot air entering the passenger compartment.

For warm weather, the bottom of the front windshield could be pushed out a few inches to allow the cool outside air to rush into the front seat. He told me, "It was the best air conditioner you could buy."

Until Pop purchased the '29 Model A, he always used horses for his mode of transportation. He used to laugh when he told of driving his brand new car to town. He actually forgot that he had a new car and, therefore, caught a ride home with a man on his mule-driven wagon.

When he arrived at the house, Mommie Katie calmly asked, "Gene, where is your car?" He was so embarrassed that he walked the two miles back to Mt. Vernon to retrieve his new Model A.

His new Ford was kept spotless. One Saturday afternoon when he had cleaned his car and was driving to town, he stopped to pick up his neighbor Harmon Helton to give him a ride into Mt. Vernon. Mr. Harmon was a consumer of chewing tobacco. (Do you see where this is going?)

As they drove along with the clean windows completely rolled up, Mr. Harmon spat a mouthful of tobacco juice "out the window," thinking it was rolled down. Pop said that spittle ran down the glass and made a nasty mess in his new car. He was furious. After that, Mr. Harman never rode with Pop again.

Mommie Katie never did learn to drive, and Pop said it was because the Model A was so difficult to shift and steer. It was never really a problem for her though – she just made Pop take her everywhere she needed

When I got my drivers' license in 1960, Pop made me the official driver for the family. He always positioned himself in the front passenger seat so that he could make sure I was driving as he taught me.

I can remember him on multiple occasions exclaiming, "David Joe, slow down before you wreck and kill us all!" I suppose he felt he could tell me how to drive since we were in his car, and he had taught me everything I knew about driv-

When gasoline reached 29 cents per gallon, he told of how he could remember when it was only 19 cents. I suppose he would have a stroke if he could see the $4 per gallon price that pumps today.

Pop's Model A was equipped with 4-wheel mechanical drum brakes. He often commented that stopping it was more difficult than most people realized. That small engine was more efficient than most cars of today. Pop's 4-cylinder Ford could get between 25 and 30 miles per gallon. The one-bar-

"Youngest old-time fiddle player on Grand Old Opry remembers singing siblings and "The Tennessee Waltz"

Bill Stewart doesn't mind talking about his brother.

Who wouldn't be proud of having a sibling who coauthored the most famous song in country music history?

But the man once billed as "the youngest old-time fiddle player on the Grand Ole Opry" has lots of stories of his own to

The next-to-the-youngest in a family of seven, the 74-yearold Bullitt County resident was born and reared in Louisville.

"Both my parents are from Ashland City, Tennessee, but daddy came to Louisville looking for work," he said.

Not only did Samuel Lawrence Stewart find employment in Louisville, he and wife Lucille did a remarkable job of helping all their offspring hone their musical tal-

"Dad was a craftsman at making and repairing musical instruments. He was also an excellent cook, barber, and cobbler," recalled Bill.

Every family member played an instrument, with Lucille serving as the head musician. "She taught Dad how to play, and we would play and sing the old standards around the house.

'When company would come, my brothers would run off to bed, but Dad would say 'Boys, get the instruments out;', then, 'Get out of bed, it's not bedtime."

The first Stewarts to gain more public notoriety for their talents were Al and his younger brother Eury, also known as Slim.

They would strum their instruments while selling Courier-Journals on street corners around Louisville. They were featured on WHAS radio after a story in the Courier headlined "Al and Slim, the Courier Journal Singing Newsboys" put them in the spotlight.

Al would move on to play guitar for "Cliff Gross and the Texas Playboys." In the 1930s, his daily routine included performances at Rodes Burford Furniture Store in Louisville.

Guitar and fiddle playing abilities landed Eury a spot touring with a band known as Cousin Emmy. He later married the lead singer.

Sister Juanita was a featured performer when her husband formed a band called the Modern Hillbillies. In later years, the youngest Stewart, Mary, teamed with Juanita and Bill's wife, Helen, in a trio called the Golden Girls.

The fourth born, Redd, set the standard for excellence, not only among his family, but for country music as a whole when he and fellow Louisville native Pee Wee King wrote The Tennessee Waltz in 1947.

Adopted as the state song of Tennessee in 1965, it is second only to Bing Crosby's White Christmas as the biggest selling song of all-time.

With so much talent under one roof constantly being raised by their energetic singing and playing, why didn't the Stewarts form a family band?

"My brothers and sisters did not get along at all when it came to music. If one of them played a song, they'd stop and say, 'You're not playing it right," said Bill.

The criticism apparently

About this time of year in 1993, Pepper, our aging, female Dalmation, who had never been pregnant, took a strong liking to Bubba, our neighbors big black Lab. Pepper was ten or eleven years old at the time and we'd tried to hook her up with several males of her breed over the years but nothing had ever come of it. Apparently she simply did not like men of her own race. Or Bubba was extraordinarily seductive. In any event, early that fall she delivered nine of the strangest looking puppies I've ever seen. The MVHS planning committee has been very busy planning the homecoming reunion. Invitations should go out around August 1st so be watching. The banquet will be held Sept. 13th at the Rockcastle County Middle School.

Don't put your letter up and think you will send it in later that means it is only going to cost you more at the door. We have tried to scale back the costs and keep the meals within reason but we have cut corners in other places and Sonny's Real Pit Barbeque will cater the meal this year and I think you will be pleased with the food. By doing this the price of your meal will remain at $15.00, the same as last year.

There will be a photographer on site to take pictures. The class of 1967 has had a picture made every year and every one has been very good. There will be other memorabilia to interest you and a lot of friends to enjoy a few hours with. Keep watching the Sig*nal* for updates.

Dear Journal:

This week, on the thirty-first if not before, the newest member of our family will arrive. He is Leland Scott, our first greatgreat-nephew. He will be born in Lexington. Due to medical problems, he will be delivered by cesarean section on the thirty-first, or sooner if labor begins. I'm sure that Angie, his mother will be glad, as he is already a little over eight pounds. She works for the US Postal Service, and she has been carrying him and a big bag of mail door to door up until the last few days, until they finally gave her an easier job inside.

I'm hoping to drop in on the little bundle of joy one day this week, possibly the day that he is delivered. Maybe I can get in a visit with some friends and a little shopping on the side, too.

Stanley and I may even incorporate this trip with another joyous occasion. We've been going out for six years on the first of August, so we may celebrate a little early. It's just a little ritual that we have gotten into. It's like a mini anniversary. We say every year that we need to stop going out and finally get married, but that could lead to the breakup of a very good friendship.

I usually try to make each of these great and great-great nieces and nephews a quilt. I have one in the works for Leland Scott, too, but I'm sorry to say it's not coming along as I #### had hoped. He may not get it until his high school graduation.

I've had arthritis for a long time, and it is so painful to do much with my hands sometimes. Hand-quilting and writing for long periods of time can be especially painful. Every time I make a quilt for the future generation, it gets a little smaller. The last generation's quilts started out something about the size of a twin bed, then they looked like lap blankets or throws by the end of that generation. The generation after Leland may only get an embroidered hanky.

I've always enjoyed sewing and quilting and such, but it takes so long. I just don't know how those women who work and keep a house going can possibly have time for things like that. Those who do are really something special.

About a year ago, I decided to join a local quilting club, the Nine-Patchers, who meet in the evenings through the county extension office. I hadn't done any sewing or quilting for about twenty or twenty-five years, so I thought I'd give it a try again. I'm having to re-learn almost from scratch. Besides, I thought it would help me get acquainted with some of the ladies in the area, as I'm kind of new here.

There are about a dozen ladies who get together and have a really good time, at least once a month. We talk a little business, make future plans, eat, have "show-and-tell", doorprizes, and if we're lucky, get in a little sewing.

Sometimes I attend very eager to sew, and other times, I'd rather just watch and learn. It's kind of like when I oil paint. I really have to be in the mood for it, or I might as well not even try. I'm also very fortunate to have been given an almost new Brother sewing machine by a friend of mine who had to move to an assisted living apartment. Stanley has gotten me a rolling tote for its transportation, too. Now you could say "I have sewing machine, will travel." Maybe I'll have to look in on some fabric stores on this trip to Lexington.

Not many of Pop's neighbors had automobiles, and many of them had not even experienced riding in one. His brother-in-law, Clayton Whitaker, was walking to Mt. Vernon one afternoon when Pop stopped to offer him a ride. Mr. Whitaker took a careful and long look into the car and then said, "I guess I'll ride with you." That did not set well with

The last Model A Ford was produced in March of 1932. There were over 4 million Model A's made in all styles. It was replaced with the Model B during the last of 1932, which had a V-8 engine.

The first car that Pop owned that I personally remember was a 1951 Chevrolet. After that time, he usually purchased a new automobile every three years. His idea was that "You should trade when the warranty expires."

Actually, that refrain about the warranty is so embedded in my head that I really haven't been able to get past it as a buyer of new cars. But now, I don't have to keep such close tabs on the warranty - my new SUV has one for 100,000

fit. He looked like a little navy blue ball of fur. As time went by he wound up being black and white and spotted way too hard to describe without a photo. One side of his face was white and the other jet black and almost every kid who came to know him over the years wanted a dog just like Blue.

"Cool Blue," they called him. He loved the affection and attention and returned it in kind. But mostly he loved Loretta and, later in life, Patty Tarquino, a Berea College student from Tennessee, more or less adopted by Loretta and me while she was in school here from '99 through 03. When Pattykins moved to Whitesburg after graduation, to take a job, the first thing she did was get a Lab puppy and name him Blue.

Over the years he has consistently been the official greeter at our house, right beside the car door barking joyously when we came in from school or work. He would perch on the rock wall out front at those times of the day when we were supposed to show up. And then, at least one or two minutes before Lo or Chris came into sight he'd jump with joy, bark loudly and run to the end of the driveway.

He could recognize the sound or our vehicles long before they were within hearing distance of humankind and he never barked at a strange car unless it had pulled into our

The only times I've ever seen him angry or threatening happened when kids got into serious arguments and threatened to fight. Then he'd growl and bare his teeth as if to say, "stop it right now because neither one of you want me to get involved!" He'd also get upset if an adult attempted to discipline a child with harsh words while in his presence.

But over the last few seasons he has been terribly bothered by arthritis and his hearing had all but left him. He still wanted to be petted at the car door and he was promptly at the feet of anyone who went outside to sit on the front porch. "Hey Blue, you good dog you," we'd sing to him, taking the line from an old Taj Mahal song.

Last Thursday morning he was just outside the back door, lying on the patio in the classic "leave me alone, I'm sleeping pose" in his regular spot to do just that and I noticed that he had dew on his coat when I started to go to work. Layne Hawley, a friend who parks at our house and rides to work with me, had already noticed that something was wrong because he had not met her at the car door.

I yelled his name and he didn't respond then went to pet him and it was obvious that he had been on the other side for several hours. He'd greeted me as usual when I came home from work the day before and he'd eaten when I fed him well before dark, but, as I said, he has been tired all Spring and Summer. Just a few weeks ago I'd spent over an hour getting his coat thinned down and combed out a grocery bag full of excess hair and talked to him and told him how I was filling in for Patty who brushed him nearly every day.

We've burred him in his favorite sunning spot, up on the hill behind the kitchen where he went to catch the sun rays in cold weather. He lay there so often that his spot was still visible because the ground was packed so hard. I've lined his grave top with some brick and planted a little flower bed on it this weekend.

We're all going to have to get readjusted to life without Blue barking hello when we come home from work. It's going to be a long while before sitting on the porch will again feel

But the good thing is that Blue died on his own terms, no vet involved, no sign of real sickness---He just laid down and died as though to prove that he'd never been any trouble and had no intention of being any when his time came.

Everybody should have such a good and faithful friend at least once in their lifetime. Blue lived up to and way, way beyond that billing. Blue would have been fifteen years old the last week of September.

"You may have to skateboard to reap the benefit"...

Dear Editor, Let me get this straight:

1. Last year a food tax for restaurants was added.(WE NEEDED THE MONEY)

2. This year county workers tax was increased, again. (WE NEEDED THE MONEY)

3. City workers tax was added. (WE NEEDED THE MONEY)

4. Thinking og raising property taxes?? (WE NEED THE MONEY)

Since the budget was balanced (as required by law) a one ACRE lot with some small buildings on it was bought for $185,000. The buildings (we already have) are to be used for city maint. dept. and the land for a "MUCH NEEDED" skateboard park. Makes you wonder if that property had been appraised at that value and appropriate taxes paid on it. OH well, I suppose alot of us will just have to learn to skateboard in order to reap the benefits of our tax dollars hard at work. It's scary to think about how much of our money the mayor could spend if she worked a 40 hour week. Sincerely, Rick Courtney had no effect on young Bill's confidence.

'By the time I was 15, I had been practicing on an old fiddle for years. I had learned lots of tunes and figured I was ready for the Grand Ole Opry.'

He went to Nashville, moving in with Redd at Ma UpChurch's Boarding House.

He was at the boarding house on a Saturday afternoon when he got a call that Alonzo & Oscar were in immediate need of a fiddle player. Their regular player's mother had died and he would be gone at least a week.

"Oscar was supposed to pick me up, and I waited on the porch for him for what seemed like hours. Finally, a big Pontiac with a trailer pulled up, and I was tickled to death.

"At age 15, I was about to play the Opry. I'll never forget walking in the Ryman and seeing Tubbs and Acuff. I could feel myself shrink. It was the highlight of my life." He did so well, Oscar promised him the job was his if the regular fiddler didn't re-

"I prayed for bigger and better things for that fiddle player," said Bill. Bill would spend the next two years appearing at the Opry and touring with Lonzo & Oscar. From 1949 to 1952 he was the featured fiddle player for "Little Jimmy Dickens And His Country Boys.

A lot of memories were made for the youngster from Kentucky and opinions formed about performers well on the road to becoming legendary.

"Ernest Tubb was one of the nicest guys ever. Once he met you, he never forgot you. Roy Acuff was one prince of a guy, but Bill Monroe was the hardest person to work for. He would book shows 500 miles apart. Musicians would come in off the road saying they hadn't taken their shoes off since they left." Bill came back from a week-long tour once to discover Ma UpChurch had rented his room to strangers.

"I went upstairs to go to bed, and there were two women there. When I went to see if I could sleep with a friend, there were two more women in his bed; so we ended up sleeping downstairs on couches."

Absolute

The next morning he would learn the women called themselves "The Carter Family", and they were in town hoping to gain sponsorship by Martha White Flour.

"Maybelle and June were in the kitchen cooking breakfast when I woke up," he said.

Later, after gaining fame, the Carter family would return to the boarding house with a girl Bill had never seen. June introduced her to him as one of her sisters.

"I thought, boy, I've got to marry this girl and get into money. Then I found out she wasn't a Carter and she had no money."

Even though they weren't rich or famous, Bill and Helen had the time to get to know each other and decide they were meant for each other.

They would go on to make beautiful music together for the next 55 years, but decided to pursue more stable careers outside the music industry.

She died two years ago after sharing the stage with Bill for more than 20 years at the Museum of Appalachia near Knoxville for the Tennessee Fall Homecoming. He'll make the trek to Tennessee again in October, but it won't be the same.

"They say time heals everything, but it doesn't. It's impossible to replace 55 years of beautiful music in two years.

"I think about Helen all the time, being up there in heaven with the Carter Family, Chet Atkins and all the musicians. They must be having one heck of a good time.'

Bill also laments the changes in the music he and his family grew up with.

"The Opry that I knew no longer exists. There's no truer statement than the line in the song, 'There's been a murder down on Music Row."" field athletes were recently named to the KTCCCA All-State team for their outstanding performances this past season. RCHS had three girls named 1st team all-state, while six others made second team, some in multiple events.

"All I have now are memories."

In order to make the all-state team, athletes must display consistency in their events during the regular season, as well as during regional and state competitions. Athletes placing in the top two at state most often make 1st team all-state, while those placing 3rd and 4th make 2nd team all-state. There are no honorable mention all-state selections in track and field.

Graduating senior Morgan Thacker punctuated her brilliant career at RCHS with a 1st team all-state selection in long jump, automatic after winning her second state title in the event this past season with a jump of 18'2.5". Morgan narrowly missed the Class 2A state record in winning the title, missing the mark by only 1.5 inches. Morgan was also named 2nd team all-state for her RCHS recordsetting performance in triple jump, placing 3rd overall with a mark of 35'3". Morgan also holds the RCHS record in long jump – 18'3.5"

Samantha Smith, an upcoming junior, was named 1st team all-state for her career best performance at state in the long jump competition. Samantha finished 2nd with a personal record leap of 17'6.5". Samantha was also named 2nd team all-state for her superb effort in the 1600- meter relay that finished 4th at state. She narrowly missed selection in triple jump, having finished 5th at state with a career best effort of Samantha and Morgan became the first two RCHS track athletes to be named 1st team all- state in the same event during the same season - an accomplishment rarely seen from two teammates.

Sarah McKinney, one of the few seniors this coming year for RCHS, earned 1st team all-state for her state championship win in the 100-meter hurdles this past season. Her time of 15.93 seconds was her fastest this season and made her an automatic 1st team all-state selection. She holds the all-time RCHS record in the event with a time of 15.73 seconds.

The RCHS girls' 3200-meter relay team of upcoming eighth grader Michaela Hunter, sophomore-to-be Sara Ham-mond, and upcoming juniors Deana Gabbard and Laura Dollins earned a 2nd team all-state selection for their many outstanding performances this season. This was an amazing accomplishment for the team considering it was denied a chance to compete at state due to a technicality that got them disqualified in regional competition where they easily finished 2nd. The girls would likely have finished no worse than 3rd at state since they had defeated West Jessamine at region and West placed 3rd at state. Their season best effort was 10:31.64 earlier this past season.

The RCHS girls' 1600-meter relay team of upcoming sophomore Jessica Albright, Samantha Smith, freshman-tobe Chelsea Payne, and Sara Hammond earned a 2nd team all-state selection for their exceptional 4th place finish at state. The team finished a brilliant year with a fast season's best time of 4:15.45.

Laura Dollins just missed a 2nd team all-state selection in the 1600-meter run after placing 5th at state with an incredible personal best time of 5:40.56. Sara Hammond just missed making 2nd team allstate as well in the 400-meter dash, finishing 6th overall. She ran a personal best time of 59.64 seconds in winning the regional title in the event earlier this sea-

These impressive performances, along with those of many others, helped RCHS capture its 8th regional title in the past nine seasons and a 3rd place finish at the Class 2A State Championships this past spring.

The changes also include numerous substantive, form or both changes to the terms and conditions for providing services to every customer class. These changes, if approved, may, among other changes, cause certain customers presently served under the General Service, Mining and Public Lighting classes to be assigned to a more appropriate rate schedule which reflects their load and operating characteristics, nature of the use, quality and quantity of service used, time when used, purpose for which used and other reasonable considerations

The average monthly bill for each customer class to which the proposed electric rates will apply will increase, or decrease, approximately as follows: Residential: $3.50, 4.27%; General Service: $0.48, 0.32%; Large Power: $(0.63), (0.02)%; Large Commercial/Industrial Time-of-Day: $(69.77), (0.02)%; Small Time of Day: $139.48, 0.92%; Mine Power: $1,387.24, 6.32%; Large Mine Power: $283.43, 0.19%; Lighting: $0.40,

The filing of KU's base rate application will cause the Value Delivery Team ("VDT") Surcredit Tariff and associated billing credits to be withdrawn from service effective August 1, 2008, pursuant to the Commission's March 24, 2006 Order in Case No. 2005-00351. The VDT Surcredit is a 0.293% monthly credit to customers' bills. In its base rate application, KU is proposing to include all savings associated with the VDT initiative in the calculation of its proposed base rates. When the new base rates become effective, customers should receive the benefit of all, including the shareholders' portion, of these savings through base rates.

The filing of KU's base rate application will also cause the Merger Surcredit Rider ("MSR") Tariff and associated billing credits to be withdrawn from service effective with the change in base rates pursuant to the Commission's June 26, 2008 Order in Case No. 2007-00563. The MSR Surcredit is a 0.868% monthly credit to customers' bills. In its base rate application, KU is proposing to include all MSR savings in the calculation of its proposed base rates. When the new base rates become effective, customers should receive the benefit of all, including the shareholders' portion, of these savings through base rates.

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by Kentucky Utilities Company. However, the Public Service Commission may order rates to be charged that differ from these proposed rates. Such action may result in rates for customers other than the rates contained in this notice.

Notice is further given that any corporation, association, body politic or person with a substantial interest in the matter may request leave to intervene by motion within thirty (30) days after notice of the proposed rate changes is given. The motion shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission, 211 Sower Boulevard, P. O. # Local students represent state at National History Day in Maryland

Five Rockcastle County Middle and High School students traveled to the University of Maryland June 15-19 for the annual National History Day contest. Their road to Maryland began with state competition at the Kentucky History Center on April 26. Nine middle and five high school students vied for the chance to represent the state at the national competition. All but one of the Rockcastle projects qualified by placing first or second in their project categories.

Researching historical topics that fit the theme, Conflict and Compromise in History, the students began working as early as last October in search of interesting people and in-

Jared Lake, Will Walker, Senator Mitch McConnell, and Ben Lake at the senator's office. The students enjoyed a visit with Sen. McConnell and a special tour of the US Capitol.

Local teacher takes part in externship

The Southern Kentucky Area Health Education Center (AHEC), housed at Rockcastle Hospital, hosted Regina Burton from Rockcastle County Middle School in a teacher externship sponsored by the Berea College GEAR UP Partnership.

While at the Southern Kentucky AHEC, Burton attended the AHEC Math And Science in Health Careers (MASH) camp to learn about various health careers. Burton accompanied the middle school campers to the University of Kentucky where they conducted various science experiments and also spent time with Director Dwain Harris learning more about the various resources AHEC offers. Burton will use the knowledge she's gained at AHEC to educate her middle school students about the skills needed to be successful in healthcare careers.

In partnership with the University of Kentucky and Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center, Inc., the Southern Kentucky AHEC organizes and provides - for both healthcare professionals and the public - a wide variety of educational programs aimed at identifying and improving the healthcare needs of all the residents in their 15 county region.

The Berea College GEAR UP Partnership partners with Madison, Jackson, Estill, Lee, Rockcastle, Estill Counties along with Berea Community Schools to raise aspirations, build skills and create a college-going culture for all 8th and 9th grade students.

To: Parents and Guardians of Brodhead Elementary students From: Brodhead Elementary School staff and PTA

We are beginning to get things ready for the upcoming school year. We look forward to working with you and your child. I am sure that together, we can give your child the best education possible.

We will be conducting "Back to School" night on Tuesday, August 5, 2008. Back to School will be just like it was last year. We will have specific times to meet with students in each grade level. At that time, you will meet all of the teachers in that particular grade level. They will go over information that you will need to know about how the school works, the curriculum that will be taught, what your child will need to know before moving on to the next grade and who your child's teacher will be.

After this brief meeting, you and your child will be able to go to your child's classroom and spend some time with your child's new teacher. The purpose of this is to help your child be ready for the first day of school. This is your opportunity to see your child's class, meet many of their classmates and their teacher. On the first day of school, parents are not allowed to accompany their child to the class-

The PTA will be having a cookout during Back to School night and many other activities will be going on. We look forward to a future working together to provide your child with a great education. Please arrange now to attend Back to School Night during your child's grade level meeting. If you have questions, you may call the school at 758-

The following is a list of the classes and times they will meet on August

Kindergarten/Preschool 4:00 First Grade 4:30 Second Grade 5:00 Third Grade 5:30 Fourth Grade 6:00 Fifth Grade 6:30

If your child is a new student to Brodhead, either through moving to Brodhead or being a preschool or kindergarten student, you will need the following items before you can attend BES:

- Immunization Certificate (Ky. form) Eye Exam (Ky. form)
- Physical (Ky. form)

Education Station

Submitted by Casey Dillingham

As people, we live in a never-ending search for knowledge and education. However, for some of us, the struggle is great as, sometimes, the world is not cooperative. Sometimes it can be difficult to continue this dream, whether it's a budget that doesn't comply, or the simple fact you do not have a car. For Rockcastle County residents there is no such thing as an obstacle, as there is an organization that looks far beyond those problems to help.

The Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) is a non-profit organization that serves residents in Rockcastle and the surrounding counties—Adult Education is a program within CAP that offers free educational instruction and employability skills improvement. They will work with you to provide the learning schedule you need, and this—yes—even means providing transportation to and from class.

It was recently decided to incorporate free public transportation from a designated pick-up and drop-off site. Students, or future students, that do not have their own transportation are encouraged to call the Adult Learning Center to schedule a time and location where you can be picked up. Students will stay in the classroom for approximately two hours before returning to their drop-off site—the same location you were picked up at. The public transportation option will be available on Tuesdays, but because this idea is one of the many new steps the Adult Learning Center is taking to help rural Kentucky, it will rely on the students interest and need to make it possible. No matter your location, if you are interested in using the Learning Center's services feel free to call (256-5307) to ask about a pick-up time and location that would be best for you.

In 2 Cor.10:3-5 we read, "For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh: (For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds;) Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ;" Paul is pointing that we are in a war. A spiritual battle of right & wrong It is a battle for the minds of men. The devil is doing all he car to deceive, misled, delude, seduce, misguide, misinform human beings. Now God is seeking to win the hearts of people with the power of his truth. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." Rom.1:16. The truth of God is in conflict with the lies of the devil. Sad to say the majority of the world is in the broad way, Mat.7:13-14. listening and buying the thinking of the devil. But there are those honest and good hearts, who are listening to God's viewpoint, Lk.8:15. Now the question is: Are you listening to God's thoughts about life, death, and eternity or to the devil lies?

The Family Room By: Dr. Roy Don Whitehead

How can you help your children have successful marriages? If you are divorced, does that mean your children will be too? A study done at the University of Minnesota sheds some light on this subject.

The five-year study was of 290 young people from late teens through their mid-twenties. Whether or not the parents were divorced, good parenting produced higher quality romantic relationships and marriages among the children. The parent who builds a good relationship with his or her child helps that child to have a better marriage. In other words, it is not the parent=s marriage but the parent=s relationship to the child that makes the most difference. For divorced parents who do not want their children to go through the pain of divorce, this study holds out hope.

What is the good parenting that produces good marriages?

1. Good parenting means being warm and nurturing. Children are like tomatoes; they grow better in a warm environment. They need the attention and affirmation from the people who gave them life.

2. Good parenting means establishing definite boundaries between parent and child. The good parent does not treat the child as a buddy nor does she use the child as her counselor. She does not allow the child to be her parent and take care of her. She is the adult and acts accordingly. Another study concluded that parents with bad role boundaries when their children were thirteen sharply increased the children=s chances of ending up in an abusive relationship.

3. Good parents are involved in their children=s lives and interested in their activities. They talk to and listen to their children. They spend time with their children so that information will be shared between the two parties.

4. Good parents treat their children the way they hope a romantic partner will treat them some day: with love and respect.

5. Good parents teach their children to argue rationally. It is possible to have an argument without shouting, cursing and name-calling. The good parent resolves conflict with his child by rational discussion. Children who learn how to resolve conflicts do a better job of relating to future romantic partners. Parents who scream at their children should not be surprised if their children end up with partners who scream at them.

6. Good parents are firm, fair and consistent in disciplining their children. They do not enforce different rules when they are angry than when they are calm. They do not use rules to punish the child. They are the same "yesterday, today and tomorrow."

This study is most interesting because it emphasizes the relationship that exists between parent and child as the primary influence on future romantic relationships. Previous studies have seen the parents= relationship to each other as the primary influence. There is a great amount of hope in this new study for both couples who are still together and couples who are divorced. It is the quality of the relationship between the parent and the child that has the most effect on future romantic relationships.

Eleven firefighters responded with two pumpers and were on scene within 4 minutes. After an extensive search of the area shown to be causing the alarm, no fire or water flow was found and it was determined to be a malfunction in a sensor on the alarm system. Sunday July 27 13:17 hours

- Received report of single vehicle accident, car on its top and on fire on Climax Road, approximately 2 miles from Big Cave Road. Seven firefighters responded with pumper and tanker. Upon arrival observed Mercury Cougar had overturned and was resting on its top in ditch, fully involved with fire. Driver was already enroute to Rockcastle Hospital, being taken by private vehicle. Due to large amount of gasoline in car and it resting on its top, 1800 gallons of water was used to extinguish fire.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet! Some things to think about...

What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?

Test results from Consumer Report, 2008

Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?

A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150* degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains.

B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum. The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/ bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufactures recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.

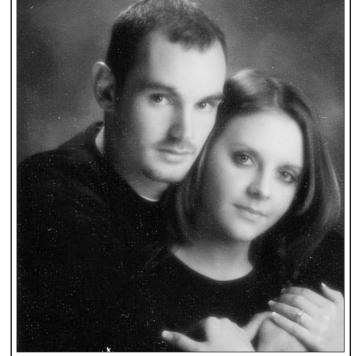

Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work? C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.

D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or blanch

E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.

The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

Fencing: More than just making good neighbors

Famous American poet Robert Frost said in Mending Fences that "good fences make good neighbors" and I would like to begin today's article from that starting perspective.

Now, I know not every reader is shopping for a fence, but it's a subject I've said little about in this column. So, today, let's consider some information about fencing why and how.

Indeed, good fences seem to make good neighbors. I think this is probably because of a need to differentiate between what's mine is mine/ what's yours is yours. Also, the practice of getting with a neighbor and walking the line fence (usually of stone in bygone days of yore) was a springtime ritual, one could say even a sacred practice. (Roman pagan god Terminus was supposedly honored when neighbors walked the line fence.)

There may be reasons for fencing that are "neighborly", or reasons practical (such as keeping outsiders from entering a pool area), for fencing. Usually it's both. Also, there are aesthetic considerations, privacy, and containment issues.

Gated communities are popular, especially with those who have made their livelihood and want to enjoy it without being bothered by solicitors and others who are still trying to make a way for themselves. Fenced yards and barred windows keep those who might want what's yours outside of your space.

Let us now look at it from the perspective of privacy and beauty as part of a nice landscape. There may be various reasons you'd want a fence. Maybe privacy, protection, maybe beautifica-

Maybe for function, especially if you want to keep animals in (or out), or if you want to screen undesirable views or sounds.

There are a few more things to consider where fencing is concerned. Probably you ought to talk with your neighbor. This would be courteous, and maybe the two of you can even agree to split the cost?

But, if not, you have the right to build a fence on your own property (in most cases) even if your neighbor is not happy about the idea. (Just make sure you know where the property boundary is; you don't want to hear "you put that fence on my property and you're going to tear it down or I'm going to suit you"!) And, be sure all of the fence is inside your property line. Then, being in line with any local codes or permits needed, there is not much the person "across the fence" can say.

Once you have made a decision to build a fence...things like what materials, how it will look, what benefits there might be, what the costs are, what the life expectancy is, are to be considered

Then, get to the nuts and bolts of building your fence, or hiring it done if you aren't up to the task.

Screening out noises, undesirable views, bad critters or people, can be legitimate considerations and desirable reasons for fencing. Boundary fencing is another topic. Partitioning parts of your yard into another "room" or for another function can also be a reason to fence.

(Fencing can be a growing hedge, not just wood, metal, plastic, etc.)

Selection of materials, styles, colors, figuring how much of what to buy, these are considerations.

(And, rolling land will require more materials than you think if you just stretched a line from one end to the other.)

When push comes to shove, if you are restricted to, say, a 6 foot high fence, can you perhaps add some soil to the ground where the fence is to go? Would this enable you to hide the view you don't wish to look at if you can't build a taller fence?

Privacy fencing may need to screen prying eyes, security fencing may need to keep people and animals out. Some fencing is installed primarily for looks. And, sometimes it's just for a psychological barrier—which might be a line of trees, or a picket fence, or maybe split rails to differentiate space or set a mood.

Whatever your reasons for makring your boundaries or fencing your yard, in the spirit of Robert Frost, build a good fence and make some good neighbors. Happy fencing!

Norma Eversole authors book, "Letters from Wildie"

The drive back and forth to work is often spent keeping an eye on both the traffic and the clock but, for Norma Eversole, the three mile drive from her home to Roundstone Elementary School became the setting for stories she composed in her head as she made her daily trips.

Upon retirement in the spring of 2000, she was ready to begin putting her ideas into short story form.

Having attended the Appalachian Writers Workshop at Hindman Settlement School over a number of years, Norma was encouraged by having several short stories accepted for publication, but she continued to work on the manuscripts she had written in the form of letters. Finally, she saw the significance of the road she had traveled all her life as the common thread that would bring her stories together in book form.

"Letters from Wildie" is a look back at a place and some of its people who were content to inhabit a very small area and took the time to sit down and tell their stories.

at the Rockcastle County Public Library later in August and

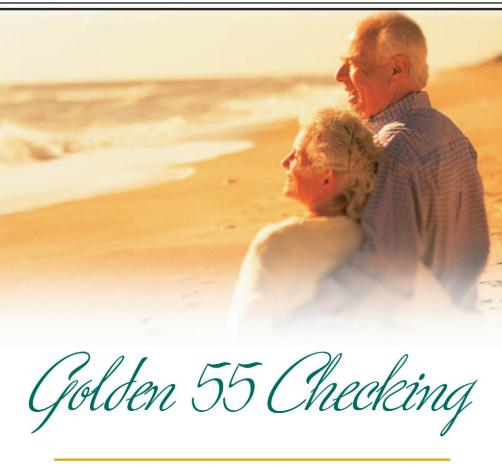

A book signing will be held for now the book is available from the author.

Retired Roundstone Elementary School teacher Norma Eversole has recently written and published the book, "Letters from Wildie."

Glenna Morris, an employee at Rockcastle Health and Rehab in Brodhead, was one of approximately 30 people who donated blood on Monday at a blood drive for the Kentucky Blood Center. The drive was held in the center's bloodmobile, parked in front of the Rehab Center, Taking Morris' donation was Phlebotomist Justin Butler, formerly of Brodhead who now resides in Eubank. The blood center also held a blood drive on Friday at the Rockcastle Hospital, where 42 pints of blood were donated.

Band Camp finished

Submitted

Band Camp is finally over. A week can go by so slowly when one is marching. But the hard work is paying off. When asked, one of the marchers remarked that "it was such a busy time, I don't remember a thing." Mr. Daugherty and Ms Smith directed the Marching Rockets at camp. They were assisted by Matt Durham (class of 2007) with brass and both Christie Olivia Napier and Stephanie Barnett (class of 2008) worked with the Colorguard.

Early in the week, on Monday evening, the band stopped marching for 20 minutes and celebrated the birthday of Will Walker. There were cupcakes and ice pops supplied by his parents. Will was surprised and the entire band was extremely grateful for the break on that intensely hot day. They'd missed a scheduled dip in the pool to cool off that afternoon due to a thunderstorm. By the end of the second day everyone was pretty bedraggled and miserable, all except Kyle Shelton. This was his first year at camp and he was just thrilled and proud to be the first in his family to have this opportunity. He was smiling and not miserable Each day had a spirit designation and there were daily winners of spirit awards. Sunday was Red, White and Blue day and was won by Morgan and Mallory Harper and the Percussion section. Monday was Musician day and was won by Christa Doan, Morgan and Mallory Harper, Rachel Hemsley and Catherine Hounshell. Emo day was Tuesday and Andrea Gonzales, Reanna Hasty and Percussion Wednesday was Nightscapes and was won by Christa Doan, Nicole McFerron, AJ Rehor, and Percussion. Hillbilly day was

Thursday and the winners were Cassie Taylor, Andrew Robbins, Christa Doan and the Drumline section. Grand prize winners for the week were Christa Doan, Cassie Taylor and the Drumline.

Campers from all the schools are judged by the Camp Crescendo staff daily on the upkeep of their rooms. The roommates chosen as outstanding campers of the day are permitted a late night swim in the pool. It is a privilege they all vie for as nothing feels better after a long hot day. On Monday the Rockcastle boys baritones, flutes, saxophones and trumpets, and the Rockcastle girls brass, percussion and woodwinds won and Wednesday the Rockcastle girls guard were the winners.

Late in the evenings, well after dark and with all the marching done for the day, other competitions between the participating schools are held. Rockcastle kids won many events. At the first night's volleyball match Rockcastle came in second to Hart County's first. The next night, at the swim meet competition, Rockcastle led the way with Devin Davidson and Reed Remington winning the 2 man relay 50 meter freestyle. Devin also won the 25 meter freestyle, the 25 meter breast and the 100 meter relay which he swam all by himself. Another night a talent show was held and Johnna Ballard and Dalton Hutton won. Thursday night is Pizza Night where all Rockcastle kids are winners and get to eat real food again.

On the last day of camp all the bands who have been at Camp Crescendo for the week put on a presentation for friends and family. The Marching Rockets looked and sounded terrific. Andy and Paige Beichler said the sound was amazing. Parents who have attended this event for several years were especially impressed and said that it was the best ever. Leon Davidson said, "Their hard work and the days spent have really paid off. They are working together as one unit and their sound is excellent."

Many awards were given out at the presentation on Friday, including all the awards for the swim meet and the talent show. Devin Davidson, Reed Remington, Johnna Ballard and Dalton Hutton were presented with their awards. Devin Davidson was also voted by his peers in the band as Outstanding Camper. Regina Rice, who is Field Commander and Kyle Shelton received the National Band Association Outstanding Music Camper Award. They were selected by the band directors for their outstanding efforts and attitude. Regina Rice told me that she was "really proud of how we did. We all had a positive attitude this year." Hart County is usually at Camp Crescendo every year with us and a real camaraderie has developed between Rockcastle and Hart Bands. So much so that when Nicole lost the end of her piccolo after the performance Hart County helped strafe the field. The missing piece however remains MIA.

All in all, it's amazing how these kids can endure the camping experience and still have fun. Personal cell phones were held by Ms Smith and allowed to be used only briefly right before bedtime. There is a story I heard about some cell phone alarms being set to go off in timed increments in early hours of the new day, while all in a bag together and in Ms Smiths' custody.

The first Monday of August is coming up and, as with every 1st Monday, offers a fantastic opportunity to show your support for the band. Patronize the Pizza Hut in Mount Vernon and mention the RCHS Band and the band will receive 20% of the sale. This applies to both dine-in and carry-out orders all day long. Also this coming Monday and Tuesday nights, the Band Boosters (band parents) will be working the food concession for the Brodhead Fire Department at the Brodhead Fair. Eat pizza for lunch (don't forget to mention the band) and come to the fair for supper.

Farm Service Agency reminds farmers, ranchers and other agricultural producers they have until

August 1st deadline

August 1, 2008, to nominate eligible candidates to serve on local FSA county committees. "County committees are important because they help deliver federal programs, which is an important aspect of our service to agriculture," said Teresa Lasseter, administrator of USDA's Farm Service Agency. "I encourage all producers to get involved by nominating eligible candidates to serve on county committees. "I especially urge producers to nominate beginning farmers and ranchers, as well as minorities and women. Helping beginning farmers and ranchers is a USDA priority under the new farm bill. Having these producers in the county committees will help us build a strong future for our next generation of agricultural businesses and communities.

FSA county committees help local farmers through their decisions on commodity price support loans, conservation programs and disaster programs, and by working closely with county executive

To hold office as a county committee member, a person must participate or cooperate in a program administered by FSA, be eligible to vote in a county committee election and reside in the local administrative area in which the person is a candidate. A complete list of eligibility requirements and additional information are posted online at http://www.fsa.usda.gov; click on the "FSA Counts on You" Spotlight.

Individuals may nominate themselves or others as candidates. FSA encourages beginning farmers and ranchers, as well as minorities and women, to file a

This fall, the Family Life CFDC, a program of the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP), will convert from two half day sessions to a full day format from Monday to Thursday. After school care will also be provided for enrolled families who meet certain requirements with parents or guardians that are working or enrolled in school themselves.

CAP's Family Life CFDC provides center-based preschool programs for families with children 3 and 4 years old. The center also provides home based services for families who are expecting or have children younger than three. For more information, please contact:

Anyone interested in conducting grazing activity on CRP acreage under this declaration, must contact the local Farm Service Agency Service Center for approval before any grazing activity takes place. FSA Service Center Deadline extended

The 2008 final crop reporting date for all crops except small grains has been extended to August 15th, for the 2008 crop year ONLY. If the crop has NAP coverage, the crop must be reported the earlier of the final reporting date or 15 calendar days before the onset of harvest or grazing of the specific crop being reported.

Direct and Counter-Cyclical Program signup

Agriculture Secretary Ed Schafer said USDA's announcement for signup in the 2008 Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment Program (DCP) helps deliver certainty for the crop year and the option of a timely advance payment. Contracts are now available at USDA Service Centers and signup will continue until September 30, 2008. USDA's DCP readiness follows the June 12 availability of marketing assistance loan and loan deficiency payment (LDP) provisions, within three weeks of commodity title en-

USDA computes DCP payments using base acres and payment yields established for each farm. Eligible producers receive direct payments at rates established by statute regardless of market prices. For 2008, eligible producers may request to receive an advance payment of 22 percent of the direct payment for each commodity associated with the farm. USDA will issue advance direct payments as soon as practical after enrollment.

Final direct payments will be issued after October 1, 2008. Counter-cyclical payments vary depending on market prices, and are issued only when the effective price for a commodity is below its target price (which takes into account the direct payment rate, market price and loan rate).

Since 2002, USDA has issued approximately $40 billion in DCP payments to America's agricultural producers. Participants must submit the completed DCP contract by Sept. 30, 2008. Applications filed after this date will not be approved.

Cardiac CT a first for Rockcastle Hospital

ockcastle Hospital and the UK HealthCare Gill Heart Institute are combining their expertise and technology to offer high-tech heart imaging to patients closer to where they live.

Gill Heart Institute cardiologists Dr. Mushabbar Sved and Dr. Rick McClure worked with Rockcastle Hospital radiology director John Mitchell and radiology technician Billy Roberts to perform the first cardiac CT at the hospital on Monday, June 23.

The first patient was Victor Holley, a 67vear-old Air Force Veteran with a family history of heart disease. Holley complained of occasional chest discomfort and had an abnormal stress test. Dr. McClure felt Holley was a good candidate for the test, which produces hundreds of images of the heart. Cardiac CT offers physicians tools to do coronary calcium scoring to detect the presence of artery-elogging plaque.

Cardiae CT also can produce images similar to angiography to diagnose heart disease and determine a patient's risk for heart attack. The non-invasive test offers patients the opportunity to have a detailed examination of the heart vessels without the risk that may accompany cardiac catheterization, which involves slightly sedating the patient and inserting a catheter through a small incision in the groin or arm to obtain images of the heart. While considered a minimally invasive procedure, catheterization does carry certain risks, including bleeding. Its advantage is that is a blockage is seen, interventional cardiologists can perform angioplasty to open the vessel and then insert a stent to keep it propped open.

"Cardiac catheterization remains the gold standard by which we compare other tests, and we are very excited about the accuracy of this technology," said Syed, who has special training in cardiovascular imaging. "The accuracy of cardiac CT is very good, 90 percent or better in most cases, and this is less invasive than catheterization."

Local physician continues tradition of showing horses

By Arielle Reese, Rockcastle Hospital Community Relations Director

is beginning to set in castle County and Dr. d Bullock removes his coat as he enters the front of his home. It has been a day at the clinic, seeing patients with various ailments, prescribing medication and teaching healthy habits. As he strolls past the trophy case in the office, he pauses for a moment to reflect on the ribbons, pictures and trophies inside. His thoughts are interrupted by a tug at his pants. He looks down and is greeted by his three and a half year old daughter, Bailey. He bends down and picks her up so they both can see the prized possessions. She turns to him and says, "Daddy, show me MY ribbons!"

Dr. Bullock always had horses growing up on the family farm in Orlando. His father used to trail-ride and, at around age 13, David first started to ride with his father, Glyn. The transition of trail horse to show horse was a natural one because of the Tennessee Walking Horse's easy going disposition and smooth flat and running walk.

Dr. Bullock always wanted to show horses and after joining the medical practice of his sister, Dr. Karen Saylor, his dream became a reality.

In November of 2006, he purchased his first show horse, Encore Blue, a Tennessee Walking Horse. Dr. Bullock's father passed away shortly after that, but David says his love for horses helps him connect with his father e him connect with his father even today.

Dr. Bullock currently owns nearly 20 horses and travels with his family to horse shows around Kentucky. Tennessee and North Carolina, almost every Saturday night between April and November. He is continuing the tradition with his own children. Bailey already shows her miniature horse, Cupcake, in the lead line class and is a blue ribbon winner every time. Dr. Bullock is preparing for the culminating Tennessee Walking Horse event, The Celebration, in Shelbyville, Tennessee, where he plans to show two horses.

The next time you visit Dr. Bullock, he may offer you advice on lowering your cholesterol or tips for perfecting your running walk.

I have tried to quit smoking a few times but I don't stick with it...what can I do to stick with my decision?

The decision to become a non smoker is not an easy journey, but a manageable one. I believe you must have a set goal, positive attitude and support from family, friends or a support group.

Nicotine is addictive and has effects on the body similar to heroin, cocaine marijuana and alcohol. Nicotine is psychoactive (works on the brain), a euphoriant (makes the user feel good), produces stimulation, relaxation and a sense of relief for the body. It also produces withdrawal symptoms when suddenly stopped.

Since 2004, I have been the smoking cessation facilitator at Rockcastle Hospital. We offer the Cooper/Clayton method to stop smoking to the general public. The method was developed to help people succeed in becoming a non-smoker. It is a 12 week FREE program that uses nicotine replacement products, education sessions and support group meetings. There are different programs available and with research, talking to your physician or local health department or hospital, there should be a program that meets your need. The decision to become a non smoker is a hard, but healthy decision for yourself and the people around you.

Facts and Figures About Organ Donation

Almost 100,000 Americans are registered on the United Network for Organ Sharing waiting list for donated organs, including over 740 people on the waiting list in Kentucky.

A new name is added to the waiting list every 14 minutes.

Every year, an estimated 6,000 people die while waiting for an organ transplant. Fifteen to seventeen people die each day due to the lack of a donated organ.

Transplantable organs include the kidney, heart, liver, lung, pancreas and small bowel.

Transplantable tissues include bone, cartilage, skin, comeas, heart valves, saphenous veins, tendons and ligaments.

Acceptable donors range from newborn to senior citizens.

All major religions approve of organ and tissue donation.

One individual donor can provide organs. bone and tissue for nearly 50 people in

An estimated 450,000 Americans are treated with transplanted bone, tendon and ligament tissue each year.

About 50,000 comea transplants are performed annually, with 5,000 people waiting for donated comeas.

In 2007, approximately 29,000 successful organ transplants were performed. It is estimated that twice as many could have been performed if more people donated organs.

By law, donation is the right of every American age 18 or older. Hospitals are obligated by law, to identify potential donors and to inform families of their right to young woman from Kentucky is breathing easier today because of a new type of lung transplant performed for the first time in Kentucky by surgeons at the University of Kentucky HealthCare Transplant Center. Rebecca Boyd, 23, of Pikeville received new lungs on Saturday, May 24.

UK Transplant performs landmark procedure

The "donation after cardiac death" (DCD) lung transplant is an emerging new technique and only 12 such transplants were performed in the United States last year. Although UK has performed DCD kidney and liver transplants for the past 12 - 18 months, this marks the first time for a lung transplant.

Dr. Timothy Mullett, director of UK's lung transplant program, said this technique may prove beneficial to expand the pool of potential organ donors.

"We are really in a crunch as far as lung transplants are concerned because of the limited number of donors available. Lungs are only available in about 15 percent of patients considered donors because lungs are either injured or susceptible to injury or disease early after brain death."

Organ donation after cardiac death has increased the donation of life-saving organs mostly kidnevs and liv-TIKHealthCare

ers - by as much as 25 percent in a few areas of the country. Some experts estimate that it could increase the number of deceased-donor organs in the U.S. by 30 percent.

Donation after cardiac death is becoming more prevalent across the country. "This type donation is slowly opening up and transplant centers that are doing them are starting to do more of them," said Dr. Mark Bonnell, director of UK's heart transplant program, who also participated in UK's landmark surgery.

Typically, organ donation occurs when a person suffers a traumatic brain injury from which there is no possible means of recovery. After all medical efforts are exhausted and rigorous testing determines . that all brain function has ceased, brain death is declared. Organs are kept alive for many hours by mechanical ventilation to provide oxygen and the patient's own heart providing blood flow.

Organ donation after cardiac death occurs when a patient has suffered cardiac arrest and the heart stops beating. Without proper blood flow, the vital organs become unusable for transplantation in only minutes. Timing is very important in both DCD and brain death donation making transplantation "meticulously planned events," Mullett said.

Bonnell said that "although there may be some differences in immediate organ function donation versus donation due to brain death, the ultimate result is both very good and comparable. Importantly, this allows transplanting of more patients who would otherwise not have received organs."

Increasing the number of organ donations is not the only benefit from this type of organ donation.

"Donor families are desperate for a way to make some sense of a tragic situation," Mullett said. "Offering families the opportunity to donate organs brings a glimmer of something bright to a dark situation." Mullett said.

Currently, there are 99,000 people in the United States waiting on a life-saving organ or tissue transplant. A name is added to the list every 14 minutes. An estimated 15 to 17 people die every day due to lack of a donated organ. In Kentucky, 632 names are on the waiting list and 38 of them need lungs.

The UK HealthCare Transplant Center has been providing transplantation services since 1964, including lung transplants since 1991. UK surgeons now perform over 130 transplants each year. So far, UK has performed 12 lung transplants this year and is on schedule to do 25 to 30. The hospital did 18 last year.

The faculty and staff of the transplant center specialize in the transplantation of all major solid organs, including the heart, lung, kidney, pancreas

UK study: baby aspirin better for your health

lion Americans each year may be hospitalized with bleeding complications caused by needlessly taking a daily dose of an adult-sized aspirin rather than a baby aspirin to prevent a heart attack or strake.

A study by a group of UK HealthCare Linda and Jack Gill Heart Institute cardiologists found that the commonly prescribed 325 mg adult tablet may be more than today's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, found that doses higher than a baby aspirin, 75 to 81 mg, are no better at preventing cardiovascular events longterm and are associated with increased risk of gastrointestinal bleeding.

Gill Heart Institute cardiologists and University of Kentucky College of Medicine faculty Dr. Charles Campbell, Dr. Steven R. Steinhubl and Dr. Susan Smyth, along with Dr. Gilles Montalescot of the Institut de Cardiologie-Centre

Hospitalier Universitaire Pitié--Salpêtrière in Paris, France, systematicallyreviewed published data regarding clinical studies involving aspirin dosing. Even in patients with diabetes, who may be more difficult to treat, they found no large-scale studies that support higher doses of aspirin.

"While aspirin is an effective drug for the prevention of clots," said Campbell, lead author of the report, "the downside of aspirin therapy is an increased tendency for bleeding (particulary from the GI tract). We believe the minimum effective dose should be utilized (75-81 mg)." However, Campbell notes, "We also believe more study in this area is warranted to determine if the minimum dose is effective for everyone, or if dose should be adjusted from person to person."

Aspirin is the most-used drug in the world. More than 50 million people, or 36 percent of the adult population in the United States, consume 10 to 20 billion aspirin tablets each year to protect their hearts from clots, which are the leading cause of heart attacks and strokes.

"Patients should check with their doctor to be sure, but there is almost no one who needs to take more than 81 mg of aspirin a day for protection from heart attacks," Steinhubl said.

Going forward, the study notes that the greatest challenge ahead for physicians may be to determine how to identify the best blood-thinning regimen for their patients. Visiting physicians from the University of Kentucky

Hospital, AHEC host MASH camp

he fourth annual MASH (Math and Science in Health Care) Camp at Rockeastle Hospital attracted 18 students, the eamp's highest attendance yet.

But quantity of students isn't as important as the quality of the camp, so the Southern Kentucky Area Health Education Center (AHEC) worked hard to develop a curriculum rich in education and fun.

The mission of the camp, held July 21-24, was to give the students, all rising 8th graders, a close-up look at the many health careers they might one day pursue. Students toured the hospital, observed various employees at work, and learned from physicians, administration, nursing, physical therapy, respiratory therapy, dieticians, the hospital chef, and more. The students took a field trip to the University of Kentucky, where they got a close-up look at the minimally invasive surgery lab. They also enjoyed a number of handson activities and fitness labs.

A new feature of this year's camp was the team projects. The kids were assembled into teams and given a specific disease to research. At the end of the camp, they gave group presentations on the disease, its effect on Rockeastle County, and their approach to dealing with the disease with an emphasis on prevention.

It was the first camp for organizer Amy Basham, a health career/health education coordinator for the AHEC.

"My first MASH camp was an amazing experience," Basham said. "While the camper's highlight was the minimally invasive surgery lab at UK, mine was the team presentations. This was something brand new to camp this year and I think all the teams did a phenomenal job on their presentations."

The AHEC thanks the Rockcastle Hospital professionals who helped with the camp as well as counselor Regina Burton, and junior counselors Cheyenne Hensley, Skylar Holcomb, and Lyndsey Barton.

Bad to-School Tips

Presented by
Dr. Callie Shaffer, Pediatric Medicine

traveling to and from school

Review the basic rules with your youngster:

School Bus

- Wait for the bus to stop before approaching it from the curb.
- Do not move around on the bus
- Chack to see that no other traffic is coming before crossing.

  What was a set to always remain in clear view of the bus driver.
- rs should wear a seat belt and/or an age- and size-appropriate car safety seat or booster seat.
- All children under 13 years of age should ride in the rear seat of vehicles
- Remember that many crashes occur while novice teen drivers are going to and from school. You may want to limit the number of teen passengers to prevent driver distraction. Do not allow your teen to drive while eating, drinking, or talking on a cell phone.

Walking to School

CALLS AND HOUSE CONTRACTOR

- Make sure your child's walk to a school is a safe route with well-trained adult crossing guards at every intersection.
- Be realistic about your child's pedestrian skills. Because small children are impulsive and less cautious around traffic, carefully consider whether or not your child is ready to walk to school without adult supervision.
  - Bright colored clothing will make your child more visible to drivers.

To schedule an appointment with Dr. Callie, call (606) 256-4148

Backpack safety

- Choose a backpack with wide, padded shoulder straps and a padded back.
- Pack light. Organize the backpack to use all of its compartments. Pack heavier items closest to the center of the back. The backpack should never weigh more than 10 to 20 percent of the student's body weight.
- Always use both shoulder straps. Slinging a backpack over one shoulder can strain muscles. Wearing a backpack on one shoulder may also increase curvature of the spine.
- Consider a rolling backpack. This type of backpack may be a good choice for students who must tote a heavy load. Remember that rolling backpacks still must be carried up stairs, and they may be difficult to roll in snow.

Eating during the school day

- Most schools regularly send schedules of home. With this advance information, you can lunch on the days when the main course is on prefers not to eat.
- Try to get your child's school to stock healthy characteristics as fresh fruit, low-fat dairy products, water and 100 percent nuit juice in the vending maghines.
- Each 12-ounce soft dank contains approximately 10 teaspoons of sugar and 150 calones. Drinking just one can of soda a day increases a child's risk of chessity by 60%. Restrict your child's soft drink consimplier.
