Funnel Cloud spotted in county.....

Last Friday afternoon around 3:15 p.m. the above photo of a funnel cloud in the Western part of the county was taken by Tricia Beth Laswell, from her aunt's home on Quail Road. Rockcastle's Emergency Management Director David Colson said the above funnel cloud was probably the same funnel cloud that touched down as a tornado in Waynesburg and Broughtontown area of Lincoln County, where extensive damage was reported. Colson said there were no reports of damage in Rockcastle County due to Friday's severe weather. Because of the storm, four buses from Brodhead School were called back to the school, where they were delayed until approximately 4 p.m. when the weather had cleared up.

May 29th last day of school in Rockcastle

By: Richard Anderkin

By a vote of 3-1 on Tuesday night, the Rockcastle County Board of Education approved a request for one disaster relief day from the state.

By being allowed to not make up the last snow day this school year, the last day of school would have been Friday, May 29th.

Board members Martin Vanzant, Tina Hasty, Mike Burdette and Angie Mink discussed the calendar change for some time with school superintendent Larry Hammond and Rose Brown, Director of Student Services, before they made their final decision.

Although the school system will get the one disaster day for students, all school employees, including bus drivers, cooks, and custodians will be required to work on Memorial Day, May 25th.

Brown told the board that plans have been put in place at each school for professional development for each of the school system's 500 employ-

Brown also reported that principals, school employees and parents had been polled as to what would be the best way to make up the day and that the option eventually approved on Tuesday night was the number one overall choice.

Chairman Vanzant, who voted against taking the disaster relief day, said he thought if school employees were going to work on Memorial Day students should go as well and he noted that teachers are paid for 187 instructional days a year. Vanzant also said he didn't think parents should dictate how the school system is

Before taking the vote on the calendar change, Brown told the board that if they opted to not take any action and go to school on Monday, June 1st, which would have been the last day for school, those retiring from the school system this year would not receive a retirement check until July.

Both Brown and Hammond also told the board that summer school at Eastern Kentucky University begins on Monday June 1st and that several local teachers were enrolled at EKU, where they were working on their Masters Degrees and Rank I.

Board members Burdette, Mink and Hasty all said they thought the option that was approved was the best for the school system as a whole.

After Tuesday night's action by the board, RCHS Principal Jennifer Mattingly announced that graduation would be held on Friday night May 29th at 7 p.m. (More information about the upcoming graduation will appear in future editions of the Signal).

Criminal case against Mayor Kirby dimissed

By: Richard Anderkin

The criminal case against Mt. Vernon Mayor Clarice Kirby, for official misconduct, has been dismissed.

On Monday afternoon, Rockcastle District Judge Scott Lawless granted a motion by defense attorney Jerry Cox, to dismiss the case with prejudice, meaning the same charges against Kirby cannot be brought against her again.

Kirby was arrested on September 23rd of last year, after Rockcastle School Superintendent Larry Hammond obtained a warrant for her.

At the time Hammond sought the warrant from County Attorney Billy Reynolds, he said the Mayor instructed city employees to "do away" with limestone rocks that belonged to him, during the construction of new sidewalks on Richmond Street.

According to the order dismissing the case, Lawless ruled that the city of Mt. Vernon owned the rock in question because it was on the city's rightof-way. "The Commonwealth cannot make its case," Lawless' ruling stated.

Earlier on Monday morning in district court, Lawless had set a tentative trial date of June 18th in the case, according to County Attorney Reynolds, who said that Cox filed the motion to dismiss the case at the same time.

'I argued against Mr. Cox's motion because I don't think the crime the Mayor committed actually had anything to do with ownership of the rock, the crime came by her actions after the rock was removed" Revnolds said.

Following remarks in open court, Judge Lawless took the motion under submission and made his ruling dismissing the case later in the day.

A Rockcastle County Grand Jury handed down a four count indictment on Friday against a out of trust," Bartley said. well-known former Mt. Vernon used car dealer.

Larry Gooch, 60, of McMullin Road, Crab Orchard, was indicted on four felony counts of Defrauding a Secured Creditor by removing from proper jurisdiction automobiles which had liens, when he operated Town and Country Motors on the 461 bypass in Mt. Vernon.

According to the indictment, Gooch's actions took place during the last six months of 2008.

Following Friday's action by the Grand Jury, asst. Commonwealth Attorney Jeremy Bartley, who will be prosecuting the case, said Gooch is accused of selling cars that had liens on them and not paying off the creditors who held the liens. "He is accused of being

According to the indictment the four financial institutions which were holding the liens were: Citizens Bank, Fifth Third Bank, Dealers Service Corporation and Auto Finance Corporation.

Gooch was released on bond after he filled a $50,000 property bond on Tuesday in the Rockcastle Circuit Court Clerk's office. He will be arraigned on April 24th.

On February 13th of this year, Citizens Bank sued Town and Country Motors in Rockcastle Circuit Civil Court for nearly $715,000.

Gooch closed Town and Country Motors, which was located across from the Rockcastle County High School, in December of 2008.

Members of the Livingston Volunteer Fire Department were called to the low water ford in the Rockcastle River just south of Livingston on Friday evening, after a car got stuck in the river. Livingston firefighter Russell Barron said two women from Nancy had tried to drive across the river in a Ford Tauraus but because the water was too high they were unable to get across to the Wildcat Mountain Road. After getting stuck the women got out of the car and managed to get to other side of the river on foot. Livingston Fire Chief Sam Stallsworth said three different vehicles have gotten stuck in the same place in the river this year. On Friday, Rockcastle weatherman Bud Cox recorded over a half inch of rain at the weather station in Mt. Vernon. Cox said that rain has fallen eleven of the 15 days in the month of April in county, totally 3.19 inches. (Photo by: Richard Anderkin)

Rockcastle Memories

By David J. Griffin

"I'm looking over a four-leaf clover"

A couple of weeks ago after reseeding my lawn, I walked through the grass in my yard and spotted several patches of clover. I realize that a "fine" lawn would not contain clover; however, I have a special connection to that particular plant.

I notice and love clover because my mother (Bee) had a knack for locating individual four-leaf clover leaflets in large patches of the traditional threeleaf varieties. Almost every time she and I took a walk in our yard in Rockcastle County, she would stop, stoop, and pick a four-leaf clover. I have never seen anyone with the ability to find these "good luck charms" as often or as quickly as Bee. Every member of our family knew that Bee could find them like no one else that we knew.

Almost every time Bee located a four-leaf clover, she carefully pulled the stem and pressed the leaf between the pages of her well worn Bible. I have no idea how many she eventually collected.

There are many forms of folklore associated with clover leaves. In Irish tradition, the shamrock (three-leaf clover) represents the Holy Trinity: one leaf for the Father, one for the Son, and one for the Holy Spirit. If a Shamrock is found with a fourth leaf, it is said to represent God's Grace.

Another interpretation is that one leaf stands for faith, another for hope, the third for love, and the last for luck. This is illustrated in the poem "Four-Leaf Clover."

I know a place where the sun is like gold, And the cherry blooms burst with snow, And down underneath is the loveliest nook, grow.

One leaf is for hope,
and one is for faith,
And one is for love, you know,
And God put another in for luck
If you search,

you will find where they grow. Ella Higginson

It has been said that there are 10,000 clover plants with three leaves for every one that has four leaves. At any rate, the variety with four leaves is quite uncommon. The cause of this unusual phenomenon has been debated for hundreds of years.

Scientists cannot agree whether it is caused by genetics or by some aberration of the environment. The most accepted theory is that it is caused by a recessive gene appearing in extremely low numbers. Because the gene is recessive, the only way to produce additional four-leaf plants would be for two recessive varieties to combine or produce offspring.

I was astonished to learn that clover can have lots more than the traditional 3 or 4 leaf varieties. The Guinness World Record states that the existing record is for a plant with eighteen leaflets.

I hate to admit that I have never found a four-leaf clover on my own – and I have attempted to find them on many, many occasions. So if you find one, consider yourself to be most fortunate.

When I was in high school, I remember a verse that many of the girls of that time sang. I can only remember one verse, and I could not find the author.

I'm looking over a four-leaf

That I overlooked before.

One leaf is sunshine, the second is rain, Third are the roses that grow in the lane.

No need explaining the one remaining Is someone I adore.

I'm looking over a four-leaf clover

That I overlooked before.

Even though many people consider four-leaf clovers to be signs of good luck and are happy to see them growing in their yards, others consider white clover to be a weed and seek to eradicate it from existence

If you plan to try to find a four-leaf clover, I wish you luck!

Points East

This business of growing old and succumbing to arthritis, senility, loss of hearing, etc., etc., is not normally a pleasant undertaking.

But over the spring to date I have had opportunities to become acquainted with a host of young people who have gone out of their way to make me feel young again.

I have written already in this space about the Spring Breakers and the sacrifice they make to give up partying for service but over the last few weeks I've become acquainted some young women on campus at Eastern Kentucky University who are members of Chi Omega Sorority.

Service to humankind is not just Spring Break for these young ladies. It's literally a way of life while they are in school. And early this spring they adopted Habitat for Humanity, where I work, as a cause they'd like to hook up with.

And they look to make their work touch as many bases as possible. Helping Habitat build more homes with hard-working, low income families is worthwhile in and of itself, but collecting aluminum cans to be recycled and sold is a boon to our environment in several

I've gotten a really good and positive response from several people, either by email, personal letter, or one-to-one out in the public. A few days ago, I picked up my mail at the Signal office. I had received the most wonderful letter from Elinor Denney of Lexington, Virginia, and formerly of Mount Vernon. It had been written back in February. As you can see, I don't pick up my mail as often as I should. My apologies to Mrs. Denney for being so lax in my duties.

As I said, it was a most wonderful letter. I found it not only historical, but it had a lot of insights, and it was even a tad humorous in one situation. I certainly want to thank Mrs. Denney for sharing her memories and hope to hear from her again if she should remember anything else noteworthy.

Mrs. Denney had evidently read the first of the "Roots" series featuring the memories of Alma Jean Dewberry. Mrs. Denney closed her letter with a P.S.: "Say hello to Alma Jean. She was a lovely young lady."

The following is the letter from Elinor Denney as I received it, so I'll just print it as it was written, except for an occasional comment from me. Dear Mrs. Cook:

I enjoyed reading your early Mt. Vernon history. I believe I can add a few facts from my memories of living in Mt. Vernon.

After dropping out of her southern Indiana grade school, she worked alongside her father on a tenant farm and then got a job in Louisville making cigars when she turned 16.

Farm Injuries

Presented by Dr. David Bullock

Farming is the second most dangerous profession--only underground mining is more dangerous. For children, who can work on farms and with farm machinery regardless of their age, it is the most dangerous profession. About 300 children die each year from farm accidents.

For farm families, constant work around high-powered machinery is accepted as part of life, almost regardless of age. Children as young as twelve can work on any farm with parental consent and on the family farm at even younger ages.

And the risk is not just increased for children. For example, farmers are over 200 times as likely to be electrocuted as the average population.

Tractor accidents are the most common cause of deaths from farm injuries. These are usually roll-overs where a person is pinned and crushed.

Loss of hands, feet, or limbs occur from auger injuries and power-take-off injuries. Both of these implements have safety guards available which will prevent most injuries. However, it is common to disregard the safety features for the sake of convenience or to save time.

Everything runs so smoothly most of the time that a person can be lulled into a sense of security. Then an accident occurs in a split second which forever changes one's life, such as losing an arm. Or a child.

A wide variety of other farm related hazards can also cause injuries and death. Animals can assault a person, and chemical poisonings can occur from silo gases, pesticides, fertilizers and other chemical agents. One must be alert to many different risks when working on a farm.

Expenditures from water/sewer money questioned...

Dear Editor,

Among the numerous taxes enacted or increased by the Mt. Vernon City Council in the last few years, the occupational tax, the restaurant tax, the insurance tax, etc. - one that has received little attention is the water and sewage tax increase. Why was this tax increased and what is the money being used for?

The city administration recently purchased $5000 of kitchen equipment and a $2100 walk-in freezer/cooler for the concession stand at the Lake Linville Park. The stand is rented roughly 15 times per Whether most Mt. Vernon residents have ever used this park and how much use it receives generally are important issues that should be considered before spending this amount of money. However I will put them aside for now.

Additionally, these type of expenses should be approved and in the city's budget before they are made. Those purchasing for the city should not buy equipment unless it has been approved beforehand in the budgetary process.

At a minimum, the city council should amend the budget ordinance to reflect these types of "unforeseen" expenses if they approve them. I will also put aside these issues for now.

However, two thirds of the $2100 walk in freezer was paid for out of our water and sewage funds' ?miscellaneous? line item. This at a time when we owe millions in bonds for these services.

Should we be paying for a walk in cooler every time we get a drink of water? Should we be reflecting upon frozen food whenever we use the restroom? How does a walk-in freezer/ cooler improve our water and sewage services?

Please join me in requesting that our city council reassign this expense to a more suitable category, such as parks or recreation, and that it disallow future preapproved in the budgetary process.

> Sincerely, Dr. Michael Sheliga Mt Vernon, KY Phone: 256-9458

Occupational tax increase was not needed...

Dear Editor,

The budget for miscellaneous revenue and expenses for the year is $20,000. Yet the actual Feb.YTD revenue is $130,272 and the actual Feb.YTD expenses are $132,348. I know why these numbers are so high--DOES the city council?

The yearly budget for the occupational tax revenue is $250,000. The actual Feb.YTD revenue is $341,874. I know why the revenue is so high--DOES the city council?

I'll save the council some

(1)The Misc. income and expenses are this high because the actuals include the food tax money the city gets and spends.

(2) The additional revenue on the occupational tax is because "all of you raised it last year to 'BALANCE' the budget."

The thing is, the food tax and the occupational tax were not included (in the current budget). People should be asking all of you why you passed the increased tax and not put it into the budget?

If your revenue exceeds your budget at year end there will surely be many questions asked about why the occupational tax increased was necessary to balance a budget if it's not even part of the budget

There are still four more months till the closure of the budget. I'M FORECASTING (ON OCCUPATIONAL TAX) AN OVERRUN IN REV-ENUE BY AT LEAST $294,990. If I'm right ,the occupational tax increase was NEVER required.

Just a few more reasons the city council should be reviewing the monthly reports before rubber stamping thm.

> More to come. Sincerly Rick Courtney

Encouraging people to show up at City Council meeting...

Dear editor.

I would like to extend an open invitation to ALL residents of the city of Mt Vernon to attend the council meeting on Monday the 20th of April at 7 p.m. at the firehouse. The reason being that we all have comments about what is happening within the council, but very few attend the meetings to SEE what is actually happening.

Mr Anderkin does a great job at reporting what has happened at these meetings, but sometimes people's comments and meanings are misconstrued without tone.

I would also like to set a challenge to our council mem-

Last month when I attended the city meeting, apart from the odd mutter now and again usually clarifying why some things are done a certain way, I hardly heard a word from anyone expressing their views on topics (excluding councilman Jones). If a council member does not voice their opinion, are they expressing the opinion and will of the community? So I urge you to discuss points of topics rather than to stare blankly at the papers in front of you. Understanding is achieved through confrontation. What is best for the city is open dialogue and an expression of one' feelings for what is right, otherwise why occupy a council

I look forward to the next meeting and hope my invitations and challenges are met. Thank you,

Chris Longhurst

Hunt honored for actions in WWII that helped save fellow soldier

By: Richard Anderkin

It took an 85-year-old Alabama man much of his life to track down a fellow soldier who saved his during a battle in World War II.

But, Willard L. Holcombe, of Waterloo Alabama, finally did track down 84-year-old Owen Hunt of Mt. Vernon a couple of years ago.

Hunt and Holcombe served together in the Army's 34th Infantry in World War II and Holcombe was severely injured during the Anzio Beachhead Landing.

Holcombe credits Hunt with saving his life and, a few weeks ago, Holcombe's brother, Edwin was in Mt. Vernon to present Hunt with a small token of appreciation on behalf of his brother.

Edwin Holcombe and a grandson stayed a couple of nights with Hunt and his wife Berniece at their home on West Main Street, because Holcombe had come to Kentucky to speak to the Laurel Bee Keepers Association in brother Willard was just as London.

While Holcombe was staying with the Hunts, he presented Owen with a handmade heart and American Flag on his brothers behalf. The heart read:

"To: Ernest O. Hunt, PFC U.S. Army Hero-

This represents my heart to you for saving my life on a cold day in the heat of battle in Italy during WWII.

I have forever been in- two occasions and that he debted to you my friend. I salute you."

Willard L. Holcombe

PFC U.S. Army Hunt said that Holcombe was with reenforcements who had joined his company, after the initial beachhead landing on January 22nd of 1944 and that the two knew each other for only a short while before Holcombe was wounded.

Hunt said that during the fighting, Holcombe was shot and couldn't get himself out of a foxhole.

Hunt, who was 19 at the time, said he was carrying a radio in order to keep in touch with commanders, but that he still managed to pick Holcombe up out of the foxhole and carry him over a hill, where he laid him on the hood of a Jeep, which carried Holcombe away to safety.

"I never saw him or talked to him again, until two years ago," Hunt said.

Edwin Holcombe said his thankful to Hunt today as he was some 65 years ago.

"My brother thought Hunt should have gotten some kind of recognition from the Army, but he didn't," Holcombe said.

"He was determined to track him down, no matter how long it took," he added.

Hunt said that Willard Holcombe had been to see him in Mt. Vernon on at least talked to him on the phone from time to time.

Hunt said Holcombe traveled throughout the United States looking for his fellow soldiers with very little information about them.

Hunt said Holcombe knew only his name and, during his travels, when he would get to a different area code, he would call information and ask for Ernest O. Hunt and "he finally found me."

"I didn't do anything that any other soldier wouldn't have done, but I appreciate the Holcombe's kindness," Hunt said.

The Anzio Beachhead Landing lasted from January 22 of 1944 to May 25th.

Willard Holcombe is a farmer who raises cotton and livestock on his Alabama farm.

Edwin Holcombe, who honored Hunt on his brother's behalf, is an Air Force veteran who lives in Shelbyville, TN. His grandson, Justin Sadler, who was with him when he was in Mt. Vernon last month, is a member of the JROTC at McGavick High School in Nashville TN, where he lives.

Hunt and his wife, Berniece who is 78, have been married for 60 years. He worked at the Bluegrass Army Depot in Richmond for 35 years before retiring many years ago.

An encouraging word:

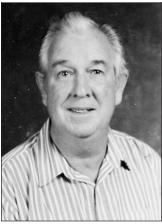

Thought Is Important

By Howard Coop

It was a cool, damp, and gloomy morning in the early days of spring, a good time to sit before an open fire and think. Alone in the house, I was sitting in front of he fireplace with my eyes firmly fixed on the flickering flames. My grandmother entered the room without my noticing her presence. She startled me when she said, "A penny for your thoughts." It was, as far as I remember, the first time I ever heard those words.

In the years that have passed since that experience, I have heard that statement many times. Each time I hear it, I think: That doesn't place much value upon human thought. But human thought is important, very important. Without it, there would be little, if any, progress. With human thought, much progress has been made and life has become easier and better for evervone. But there is more.

Ralph Waldo Emerson who lived through most of the nineteenth century is often called one of the wisest of Americans. He is credited with saying, "A man is what he thinks about all day long." Marcus Aurelius, accredited with being the wisest man of ancient Rome, lived in the second century B.C. He

Throughout human history, human thought has been regarded as tremendously important. It is worthy far more than a penny, for it shapes human life and gives direction to

In the first century A.D., a man named Paul, writing to friends in the Macedonian city of Philippi, offered this suggestion: "Whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, what ever is admirable—if anything is excellent or praiseworthy—think about such things." His advice for human thought was good then, and it is good now. It can, and it will, make a difference by directing life in the right

"What Is Written"

In Col.3:10-11 we read, "And have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him: Where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free: but Christ is all, and in all." Again in Gal.3:29, "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus." There is a powerful truth taught in these verses, that all barriers that so often divide men are tore down in Christ Jesus. Social barriers, economic barriers, gender barriers, racial barriers, educational barriers, nationality barriers; all these are tore down in Christ. For all who obey the gospel are one in Christ, sons and daughters to God, standing in a equal relationship with God the Father. When one is truly converted, "he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." 2 Cor. 5:17b. All those erroneous ideas that separate men before conversion are toss aside, now Christ is all and in all, and thus unity is obtained. Isaiah had prophesied this would come to pass in the gospel age, Is.11:6-10. Human prejudice is cast off as filthy rags, for it is sinful behavior, Jm.2:9, "But if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin, and are convinced of the law as transgressors."

so that the proceeds go to Habitat, the work touches at least two important bases. And if they can volunteer to answer phones at WEKU (88.9 FM) during that NPR station's spring pledge drive wherein 84 Lumber gives Habitat a framing board for every pledge call to the station, all of a sudden they are helping three good causes.

And if they can enlist the aid of half a dozen fraternities and the foot ball team to join right in, then all of a sudden the effort is a movement instead of a

So let me tell you about Rachel Green and Madison Rostad. They are sisters at Chi Omega. I'm not sure what year of school they are in but I do know they will be back this fall and I've never seen two more beautiful coeds this excited about gathering up beer and soda cans to fight for human needs on a number of fronts.

Since January of this year they have advertised, campus wide, and run contests to see which service organization can collect the most beverage cans on campus. My suspicion is that all they have to do is wink at the fraternity boys to get the beer cans bagged up, but they have been all over town drumming up support for the effort. And it is paying off.

Already the effort has been worth several hundred dollars to Habitat, but several hundred cubic yard's of space has been saved in landfills and precious resources have been recycled back into our country's absurd dependency on aluminum.

All of which is somewhat beside the point because the amazing fact is that it is possible for old timers like me to commence having heroines younger than our grandchildren who are not engaged in music or acting or tennis or softball or whatever athletic sport when realer examples of heroism surround us in their own subdued ways.

Rachel and Madison are not interested in attention or acclaim. They are just dead set in leading everybody, old and young alike, toward a goal of doing the right and better thing.

I am oh so proud to count these young women among my friends and I'm so proud that they are recruiting their sisters at Chi Omega and the rest of the EKU Campus to our cause. And I am so relieved to know, in certain terms, that our world is going to keep getting better and better because kids like Rachel and Madison are gonna make darn sure that it happens.

school. Mr. Wm. McBee and Mr. Ralph Griffin bought the school after Langdon School closed and the church had been empty for many years.

About 1940 they remodeled it into a dwelling, and Mrs. Miller and her family who owned a dry goods store on Main Street lived there. The family consisted of Mrs. Miller, her son Raymond, a widowed daughter Blossom and her daughter Rose Katherine, another daughter Norine, her husband Alec Milam and their two daughters Phyllis and Nanette, and Mrs. Miller's young son Harold. [This would be the dwelling house on West Main Street, as the Langdon School burned. From past research, I understand, as best as I can determine, the school was still functioning at the time of the fire.]

The McBees lived next door, between the Millers and the Baptist church.

I do not know when Langdon School was organized or closed. Miss McCord then went to Hyden to a Presbyterian mission center, but while she was in Mt. Vernon she organized the Women's Club, an international organization of women for community betterment. [This certainly sounds like a worthwhile endeavor. It's too bad that someone doesn't pick up the torch, and organize another such club.]

When I became president of the Women's Club, I invited Miss McCord to come for a visit, and she told us many interesting stories of early Mt.

One rainy night coming home in the dark from a town meeting, she fell over a cow in the muddy street. She persuaded the town to erect streetlights. She also was persuasive in the building of the new state Brodhead road to replace the old crooked road beyond West Main Street.

In 1948, Mrs. Walker Owens, who had been president of the Women's Club, decided we needed to honor Miss McCord for her years of community leadership. She persuaded me to go with her to the quarry to pick out a suitable rock. After a long, hot search, we found a stone that pleased her. She then persuaded Mr. Jim Cummins to hitch his two mules to the stone, and she and I and my two small children followed him to the small park on the corner of Main Street and Richmond Street near the depot. She then hired someone to chisel in Miss McCord's name and dates. I assume it is still there, and I wonder if people know its significance. [I certainly intend to check into this farther, and will definitely make sure that it is brought to public attention.]

One spring Mrs. Henderson, Joe Henderson's mother, planted a dogwood tree near the stone.

Miss McCord, Mrs. Owens, and so many others would be so gratified to see the wonderful, progressive community Mt. Vernon has become and to see how it has built on their dreams and visions. Miss McCord would be especially proud of Mt. Vernon's exceptional school system and the many graduates who go on to the best colleges and universi-

I think of John Lair as one who realized the potential of the area with its strategic location on the edge of the Bluegrass, and yet retaining the beauty of the mountains and the rich cultural mountain tradition and heritage; and there are many others whose initiative and hard work have made Mt. Vernon a place I'm proud to call home.

I am glad that I and my family shared its history.

Judge Tapp sentences Knuckles to 25 years

According to a news release from Commwealth Attorney Eddy Montgomery's office, a Mt. Vernon man was sentenced to 25 years in the state peniteniary on March 30th by Circuit Judge David Tapp, following a trial in Rockcastle Circuit Court in Feb-

In that February trial, 39-yearold Alvin Knuckles was tried on three counts of Trafficking in Controlled Substances.

The case was investigated by Rockcastle Deputy Sheriffs Joe Rush and Jason Kirby and 5th District Constable David Mason.

After a two day trial, the jury found Knuckles guilty on all three counts and recommended a 25 year sentence, based upon the past criminal record which had been put into evidence.

On Friday, March 30th, Judge Tapp held a final sentencing hearing where assistant Commonwealth Attorney, Jeremy A. Bartley, who tried the case in February, asked the judge to consider the defendant's lengthy criminal history, that included multiple prior felonies.

According to the news release, after hearing a final plea for leniency from the defendant, Judge Tapp noted the parallel between the jury's recommendation and the number of pills sold in the case, both being twenty-

Judge Tapp indicated that this verdict seems to illustrate the community's increasing intolerance for the sale and use of illegal drugs.

During the trial Bartley presented evidence that Knuckles was accompanied on at least one drug transaction by his teenage daughter.

This fact was also noted by Judge Tapp in terms of his decision to impose a twenty-five year sentence, according to the re-

Judge Tapp went on to find that Knuckles was not eligible for probation.

'Even were you eligible," Tapp stated, "I would not grant you probation.'

According to court documents, Judge Tapp went on to say that probation or conditional discharge would unduly depreciate the seriousness of the defendant's crime.

"This is a monumental decision in terms of sending a message to those selling drugs. This might be one of the longest sentences, for drug trafficking, imin Rockcastle County,"said Commonwealth's Attorney Eddy Montgomery. "I thank the jury for their verdict and Judge Tapp for his courage to impose this sentence."

Sheriff reminds residents it is illegal to ride ATVs and 4-wheelers on public roads

Rockcastle County Sheriff Mike Peters said this week that many Rockcastle Countians may be under the impression that it is okay to ride their ATVs and 4wheelers on public roadways, but that is certainly not the case.

Peters said he had received several complaints from residents throughout the county, and especially in the Brodhead area, about residents who were riding their off-terrain vehicles on public highways, including city streets.

The Sheriff said that residents should remember that if they are issued a citation, the fine and court costs in district court could easily exceed $153.

"Just a word of caution - the best thing would be for residents to keep their off-terrain vehicles off public roadways," the Sher-

Rush said Bullock is accused of walking into the Shell Station around 11:45 p.m. and telling the clerk to give him all of the money or he would kill him. Rush said Bullock had his hand under his shirt at the time of the threat, indicating he might have a weapon. Bullock left the store on foot after the robbery and apparently did not have a weapon.

Rush also said that Shackleford told police that Bullock had a cash drawer with him when he returned to the vehicle she was driving and would not tell her where he got it. "He just told her to drive the vehicle," Rush said.

According to the arrest citation Bullock had $415 in cash in his front pocket when he was arrested. At the time of his arrest, Bullock was also charged on an outstanding warrant from 2004 for theft by unlawful taking under $300.

Bullock is being held on a $23,000 cash/property bond and Shackleford is being held on a $5,000 cash bond.

Preliminary hearings for both Bullock and Shackleford have been scheduled for April 20th in Rockcastle District Court.

During this year's Spring fire season, which ends on April 30th, local Forest Ranger Marvin Stone's Forestry Fire Crew and each of the county's volunteer fire departments have fought almost 20 fires. The above fire at on Lower Dry Fork, near the Rockcastle/Jackson County line destroyed nearly 100 acres and had produced flames in excess of 20 feet. Stone said the majority of the fires this year have been arson. The two largest fires in the county have been at Mullins Station where 350 acres burned and at Lime Plant Holler where 140 acres were scorched. Stone's crew also had to evacuate ten homes because of one fire that scorched two trailers and burned outbuildings. Stone, who has been the county's Forest Ranger for 20 years, is asking for help in finding those responsible for setting forest fires. Stone said Crimes Stoppers is offering a $1,000 reward for information that will lead to an arrest and conviction. Those with possible information should call 1-800-27-Arson or the State Police Post in London at (606) 878-6622. Remember it is illegal to burn between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. through April 30th.

From all areas of Kentucky girls came to Langdon; girls who were especially studious, serious, and talented, and who could not afford a formal and expensive education. in addition to classes attended at the Mt. Vernon School. I think it appropriate to point out the Presbyterian Christian Spirit that allowed black students to also attend. When the Brown School became a public school, blacks were not permitted to attend; a segregated black school was established on Nigger Town hill.

The first intelligence tests ever given to a student groupone of the first student groups to study home economics-one of the first mission schools in Kentucky-one the first mission schools to institute a surgical clinic-one of the first Vacation Bible Schools in the nation-one of the first schools to institute a school hot lunch program.

To further its home economics work, the school eventually constructed and maintained a house in which the girls cooked, sewed, planned household duties, and generally "kept house." This residence still stands as the home of Mr. and Mrs Vernon Cox. (Mrs Cox came to Langdon as a teacher.)

Editor's note: This house is presently the Lynn Tatum residence. Miss Helen Spicer Orth, formerly of Maryland, Langdon's nurse, was the first county nurse and also started the first girl scouts troop in Rockcastle County. Cousin Booth, the school's longtime custodian doubled as the school's gardener which provided vegetables for the school cafeteria.

It is needless to say most of the girls who came to Langdon did so without a great deal of money. As a Langdon pamphlet pointed out in 1915; "We want only those girls who are earnestly desirous of training both in the academic and industrial departments. Our aim, and the aim of all instruction, is to furnish a practical elementary education, which shall fit young women for places of usefulness and service." For this reason scholar-opened in 1927, the Presbyterian educational institutions, which include Langdon, flourished throughout this section of the state. Langdon's prestige mounted steadily. Its physical plant expanded rapidly. Its name became almost an educational legend in Kentucky.

Then, quite suddenly, and quietly in 1927, the school ceased to function as a school and became a Christian Home for mountain girls attending public schools. From that day until 1938 when the property was finally sold, the school no longer exerted an influence in the daily life of the community. We say, quietly ...for it was quietly. When the decision came to discontinue the school. public education in Rockcastle

County had begun to bloom. The times were quickly changing. The horse and buggy had been parked forever. The slow pace of the county was giving in to a race with machines. There were few local people to argue the need to continue Langdon. The times had simply passed Langdon by. To be more technical, the present Mt. Vernon Grade and High School [Baker-Stewart-McCord School] was being constructed and a need for the Presbyterians to operate a mission school at Mt. Vernon no longer existed. Miss Anna Belle Stewart, the guiding light of Langdon in its last influential days, reported the facts to the town. The Presbyterian Church, she said, came to Mt. Vernon and established a mission school because there was a great need for education. When the town could support its own educational program and plant, there was no need for a mission school. So the school had to move to the mountains of Eastern Kentucky where an educational need existed.

In 1934, the school closed forever. Looking back over the thirty years since it closed, services in that church. With the educational and religious roots of Rockcastle so firmly planted in Presbyterian soil, why is it that thirty years later is hardly a sprig of Presbyterianism left in the community? We found in our search for pictures and our talks with former students, that all of them have but the fondest and kindest memories of the school and church. But all agree, the Presbyterian Church did not make a concerted effort to enlist community children in the Presbyterian faith. Quite the contrary, it was stressed that non-boarding pupils who attended the school make up their own mind on the church to which they would belong.

In case of boarding pupils from other areas of Kentucky, if there was no Presbyterian Church in their home towns. they were also told to join the church of their choice. Since the Baptist and Christian churches were represented in most areas of Kentucky, most students chose one or other. Whether this failure to stress Presbyterianism to local people was a local administrative error, or an error on the national church level, or a deliberate decision, we do not find any former student or teacher ready to voice a definite opinion.

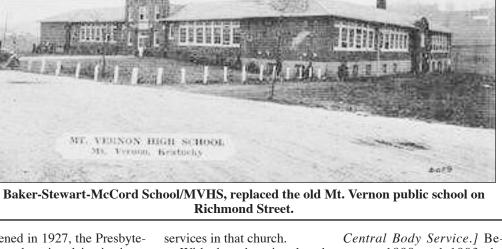

However, we venture to guess, could the church begin its school again under the same existing circumstances of 1899, it would not likely allow its students to steer so obviously a non-sectarian course.

The year-by-year history of Presbyterian schools and education in Rockcastle County would itself be a book. To discuss the many local people directly involved would take reams of paper and type, as would the many administrative and educational decisions made by the school's several administrators. Below we hope to recount, with the help of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church, Langdon's history as briefly as possible, with the hope that those who remember the intimately rich and rewarding years at Langdon will not chastise us too strongly. We would like to thank Mrs Lewis Miller, a former Langdon teacher; Mrs Roscoe Adams, a former student; Mrs Henry Anderson, a ried in the Langdon Chapel, and Miss Eila Carson, for their help in obtaining pictures and information on Langdon. In 1899, a school was former student who was mar-

founded by the Presbyterians of Transylvania Presbytery and named the Mt. Vernon Collegiate Institute. There were two teachers. As noted earlier, it was located on Richmond Street in the area of Carl Brown's Supermarket [present Central Body Service.] Between 1899 and 1903 the school progressed and a third teacher, name unknown, was supplied by the Women's Board of the Church. On November 28, 1903, the Rev. Charles R. Hunt, of Mt. Vernon, a home missionary serving four small churches in the area, and president of the Institute, wrote to the church Women's Executive Committee: "There are eight schools within the boundary of the Transylvania Presbytery, one of the poorest and smallest, with 1,765 members and only one church (Danville) able to assist schools and that one with two colleges already on its hands. So we are left with a very important field of work and no resources on hand." He estimated the church property to be worth $7,000.

Editor's note: The December 21, 1900 Mt. Vernon Signal listed the two teachers as Miss Dove B. Letcher from Richmond & Miss Mary D. Cox from Danville. The Board of Directors were; M. Bowers, J.W. Brown, James Houk, Dr. Aden G. Lovell (3 Dec 1855-11 Mar 1926), D.N. Williams, J.J. Williams, & Casper C. Williams (17 May 1861-29 Dec 1939) President. In addition to the Presbyterian Church at Mt. Vernon, there were also Presbyterian churches at Livingston and Rock Springs, near Brodhead. There are no Presbyterian Churches in Rockcastle presently.

In 1905, the school's name was changed to McFarland Memorial Chapel. J.H. Baxter became principal with a staff of three and an enrollment of 126. During 1905, Ida M. Taylor replaced Mr. Baxter as principal. She had a staff of five. Brown Memorial Church of Baltimore, Maryland, assumed support of the school, and erected a girls dormitory and industrial building (Langdon), thereby increasing facilities.

In 1907, the school was renamed Brown Memorial School after its patron church in Baltimore. There were now a staff of seven. In 1909, Miss Mary Rose McCord became principal and the support of the school was changed to the Women's support of town's people. Though church officials reportedly did not believe the town ready to try its wings on complete control of the school, never the less the church decided not to press the issue. So in 1910 the school building on Richmond Street was sold to town authorities to be used as a public school (the first in Rockcastle) and day school work was taken over by the town. Editor's note: The first public school in Rockcastle County was the Rockcastle Academy, established in 1810, believed to have been at the home of James Dysart on Skaggs Trace.

With the proceeds from the sale (amount unknown) the Presbyterians used the money

Miss Mary McCord

"Langdon"

for the enlargement of the home (Langdon) as an industrial school. Several classes were now taught in the Langdon Building. With the school's fast expansion under Miss McCord, in 1914 the town contributed land adjoining Brown Memorial School on Williams Street and the dormitory was further expanded through a contribution from Mrs Thomas P. Langdon, of Baltimore. The name of the school was changed to Langdon Memorial School. The school could now accommodate 40 boarding pupils.

At this time (1914) one of the two most dedicated educators in the school's history arrived at the school as a teacher, Miss Anne Belle Stewart. She showed much promise and efficiency that in 1915 she became principal, replacing Miss McCord who was transferred to another recently opened mission school where her particular type of administrative ability was needed.

Where as Miss McCord's administration had been one of necessary stern and strict discipline for a growing school, Miss Stewart brought a more lenient and cosmopolitan point of view. Her administration was to be marked by a more relaxed atmosphere. It has been said: Miss McCord was a builder and business woman-Miss Stewart a friend, teacher and scholar.

It was apparent Langdon was coming of age. In 1916, intelligence tests were introduced at the school, and a city playground director established a recreation program. In 1917, a small five room house (now the home of Vernon Cox) was constructed for practice housekeeping. Six girls lived in the house at a time. In the school there was a staff of seven and an enrollment of 79. It is reported at that time it cost $125 to keep a girl in school for a year. Meal costs averaged about four cents per girl. In 1918, Langdon pioneered home canning and food conservation. The following year, 1919, physical examinations were instituted, along with a clinic of skilled surgeons. There were many sore throats following the conclusion of the first clinic. It was reported 15 girls had their tonsils removed. During 1920, it was noted that one-fifth of all rural schools in Rockcastle were manned by Langdon girls. It was also the year in which Miss Rachel Benfer arrived at Langdon. She was to stay until 1925. Miss Benfer is now area representative for the Women's Division of the National Board of Missions, New York City. Editor's note: Indeed many early Rockcastle teachers were Langdon graduates who after attending Langdon went to a two year Presbyterian teachers college in North Carolina. The editor's first teacher Della Scoggin was a Langdon gradu-

In 1923, the first daily Vacation Bible School was held with an enrollment of 30. The Bible School did so well that in 1924, the first Church School of Missions was held with an attendance of 200. In 1926, it became obvious to the church that the local public school was on firm ground and making remarkable headway. Miss Stewart and other officials re-evaluated Langdon's educational program.

Miss Stewart found the public school [Baker-Stewart-McCord/MVHS] could now do a complete job in education, and she advised that Langdon cease to function as a school and become a Christian home for mountain girls. It did in 1927, and Miss Stewart was no longer needed at Langdon. Like Miss McCord before her, she was assigned to more greener educational and administrative fields. She went to Byrdtown, Tennessee, as a community worker, a field in which she excelled, and later to Tucson, Arizona, where she lived a few years before her

In the school records at the time it is noted: "Mt. Vernon is building a $40,000 public school building which will contain an auditorium-gymnasium available to Langdon and community use. The room is to be named Anna Belle Stewart Hall at the suggestion of Mt. Vernon citizens in appreciation of the services of the former school principal, and also in recognition of $9,000 in gifts for the building from personal friends and relatives of Miss Stewart, who contributed for a community house during the last years of Miss Stewart's service. At Miss Stewart's request, the $9,000 was turned over to the public school to complete a $10,000 building fund gift from Langdon.

Editor note: Anne Lair Henderson stated she remembered that Mt. Vernon High School did not allow dancing/ sock hops in their gym like other schools for many years because Langdon's principal, Anne Belle Stewart had contributed money for the building of the gymnasium, and dancing was not allowed in Presbyterian protocol.

The new Mt. Vernon Grade and High School was named, and is still named, Baker-Stewart-McCord School, in honor of Miss McCord, Miss Stewart, and U.G. [Ulysses Grant] Baker, father of Fred Baker, who was a public school official at the time. Named to head Langdon was Harriett Jackson. House mother was Melissa Montgomery.

Editor's note: U.G. Baker was a prominent merchant in Mt. Vernon, his store building now called the Harold Jones building, still stands on the corner of Main & Church Streets, beside Cox Hardware and across from Hiatt's 5 & 10. He had contributed money for the building of the new Mt. Vernon School and was chairman of the school board.

During 1932 and 1933 very little of exceptional note happened at Langdon. The School Missions continued to be a success. Community children were encouraged to use the Langdon library and circulation reached 425 monthly. The Langdon girls also began a program to help the Red Cross by mending garments and supplying hot lunches for underweights in public school.

Editor's note: When the Langdon property sold in 1937 the library was donated by the Presbyterian Church to the Baker-Stewart-McCord School/MVHS. But in early 1934, with no incentive for growth and expansion, the Presbyterian Church closed Langdon as an economy measure. During 1936, the property was used at no cost for several community activities; for example, the Works Progress Administration; a sewing group, woodworking class, library, civic clubs, and during the Louisville flood, to house 80 refugees.

In 1937, the cottage was sold to Vernon Cox. In 1938, the balance of the property was sold to the former Rissie Williams. She in turn sold it to Robert Ed Mullins, who tore down the deteriorating building.

Editor's note: Local retired banker, Jess Bullock recalled that some time during the Second World War (1941-45), that his father, Estill Bullock contracted the job to tear down the Langdon building and hauled the lumber to Danville where it was used to help construct a tobacco warehouse.

To those over 50, the memories have more direct meaning. It was their school. They were an immediate and integral part of life, and they shared directly in the teenage laughter and heartbreak. But Langdon has another meaning that is clearly illustrated in its history. It was religion at the pinnacle—religion at work for the betterment of mankind physically as well as spiritually. There is little doubt that Langdon's teachers and administrators possessed that dedication to education, church, and God that proves the meaning of the statement; the cross, properly bourne, is a support, not a burden. Mr. McClure's article demonstrates a time in our history when education was a privilege and not a right as it is today. A time before state regulation and public school transportation made education available to all young people. A time when many Rockcastle children longed for an education but did not have the means to achieve

The Presbyterian Church recognized that need and through missionary zeal made a tremendous contribution to the education and welfare of Appalachian children. Many of Kentucky's early settlers came from Presbyterian congregations and were committed to universal literacy. The first two colleges in Kentucky, Transylvania (Lexington) and Center (Danville) were established by the Presbyterians and it was from these two education plants that mission common schools were started throughout the state of which Brown/Langdon Memorial was apart. The aim and scope of the Presbyterian vision is well documented in their mission statement from the 1905 Brown Memorial School pam-

"It is the purpose of the school to develop, by every means in its power, sound judgment and Christian manhood and womanhood, and thus to enable boys and girls to make the best use of their lives. Such preparation includes among other things an acquaintance with good art, good music, and good literature: an acquaintance with nature, with geography and history, and with civic moral, and industrial life. Anything less than the development of all the senses dwarfs the child, and renders him unfit for the work God meant him to do.

In accordance with this belief, much attention will be given to the REAL THINGS about the pupils, and little to mere abstractions. This will be especially true of the lower grades. Every effort will be made to keep before the students right ideals in home making, industry, and citizenship. Co-operation, inter-dependence, courtesy, self-reliance, freedom from self-consciousness, and freedom of expression in all its forms, are ends sought."

I was amazed to discover the far sited vision of Langdon that combined a classical education with physical fitness. Langdon even fielded a girls basketball team and a boys baseball team. One member of the baseball team, George Payne, went on to become a professional ballplayer with the Chicago White Sox. Principal Anne B. Stewart started a town recreation program that ran for several years at the old Mt. Vernon school baseball field. That the first intelligence tests ever administered in America. to a student group, were here in Rockcastle County. That Hebrew and Greek were taught in the county. Langdon stood as a testament to the Presbyterian zeal to teach Appalachian children so that they could become good solid citizens. I find it very easy to believe the words Mrs. Ruth Armstrong (believed to be the last surviving former Langdon student) used to describe her old school, "It was a special and wonderful place."

April is Redbud and PRIDE Clean-up Month

Judge Buzz Carloftis declares April as Redbud and Pride Spring Cleanup Month in Rockcastle County.

The proclamation, signed on March 10, 2009, encourages Rockcastle County residents to participate in TOUR Southern and Eastern Kentucky (TOUR SEKY) Redbud Month activities and PRIDE Spring Cleanup

April was first declared Redbud month in 2004 in an effort to jump start the Tourist season in the spring. Since then, more than 350,000 redbud seedlings have been given out in Southern and Eastern Kentucky. 40,000 more seedlings and trees will be planted in April, 2009.

The annual Spring Cleanup is hosted by Eastern Kentucky PRIDE, which is Southern and Eastern Kentucky's environmental cleanup and education campaign. PRIDE asks counties, cities and citizens to organize roadside litter pick-ups and beautification projects during the Spring Cleanup. PRIDE can support them with cleanup supplies, T-shirts, and trash disposal and beautification funds. To learn about the region-wide Spring Cleanup, please call PRIDE, toll free, at 888-577-4339 or visit www.kypride.org. To learn more about PRIDE volunteer opportunities in Rockcastle County, please call James Renner, the county's PRIDE coordinator, at 606-256-1902.

TOUR SEKY is an initiative of Congressman Hal Rogers. The organization's mission is to educate, expand, develop and market the existing and potential tourism industry throughout southern and eastern Kentucky, while contributing to the economic, cultural growth, health and awareness, and overall quality of life of the region. For additional information about TOUR SEKY visit www.tourseky.com, or call 606-677-6142.

Nominees sought for Entrepreneurship awards

In today's trying financial times, analysts predict that small businesses and entrepreneurs can play a more important role than ever before in growing the economy of Southern and Eastern Kentucky.

This in mind, nominations are being sought for the 2009 Excellence in Entrepreneurship Awards (EIEA). These awards seek to celebrate success in entrepreneurship by recognizing businesspeople and entrepreneurs in 55 Kentucky counties including Rockcastle County—who have created and are managing a successful enterprise.

The Excellence in Entrepreneurship Awards program is sponsored by Eastern Kentucky University's (EKU) College of Business and Technology, Kentucky Highlands Investment Corporation, and The Center for Rural Development. It honors Southern and Eastern Kentucky entrepreneurs for their economic success, community contributions, and operational achievements in a business or non-profit organization.

Nominations will be received in four categories:

•Business (in existence five or more years with greater than 25 employees)

•mall Business (in existence five or more years with 25 or less employees)

•Start-Up (in existence less than five years)

•Not-for-Profit Entity (in existence at least six months) Nominees are judged on the economic success of the enterprise, contributions to the community, job creation, and operational achievement as measured by innovative business practices, superior safety achievement, and superior technol-

To download a copy of the 2009 EIEA nomination form, please visit www.eiea.eku.edu. A nomination form may also be downloaded from The Center for Rural Development's website, www.centertech.com, by clicking on the Excellence in Entrepreneurship link.

Nominations may be submitted by any individual or business and must be received by the EIEA nomination committee on or before the June 1 deadline. Interested parties can also email the committee at cbt.eiea@eku.edu, or call the EKU College of Business and Technology at (859) 622-1409.
