H1N1 case confirmed in county

The father of a nine-month-old Mt. Vernon girl confirmed this week that his daughter was diagnosed and treated for the H1N1 virus, commonly known as the swine flu, on Memorial Day.

The father said a doctor at Rockcastle Regional Hospital confirmed the virus through proper diagnosis and treated her appropriately. "She was sick for about a week, and made a full recovery. They did a great job," he added.

The father said his daughter could only have gotten the virus at Shiloh's Restaurant or at Wal-Mart because that was the only two places she was exposed to anyone besides him or her mother.

Angie Thacker, Nursing Supervisor at the Rockcastle Health Department said, on Wednesday, that she was aware of the one case and that she was certain no others had been reported in the county.

There have been 164 confirmed and probable cases of the virus in Kentucky. No one has died as a result of being infected.

Besides Rockcastle, cases have been confirmed in Laurel, Whitley and Knox Counties.

Thacker said that to avoid contamination, the local health department recommends: covering coughs and sneezes; washing hands frequently and thoroughly; staying away from people who are sick; staying at home if sick; seeing a doctor if feverish and feeling very ill, getting proper rest, nutrition and keeping stress levels down.

"The bottom line is if a student feels the least bit ill they should stay home," Thacker said on Wednesday.

Symptoms of the H1N1 flu are similar to seasonal flu, including fever, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, body aches, headache, chills and fatigue.

Thacker said a vaccine for H1N1 could be available, possibly in October, and that the local health department would keep the public informed.

However, Thacker said the health department encourages everyone to get a flu shot each year and not simply because they are afraid of getting H1N1.

"A flu shot is just a good idea," she said.

For more information contact the local Health Department at 256-2242.

The 2009-10 school year in Rockcastle County got underway for students last Thursday and, on Monday, students and staff members were in their normal routine. In the top photo, first grade teacher Jennifer Alsip prepares to help Destiny Adams with an assignment. In the middle photo, new Roundstone Elementary School Principal Jim Ward talks with teachers: Nikkie McKinney and Debbie Burdette. Brodhead has 395 students enrolled and Roundstone 281. At left: Mt. Vernon Elementary School kindergartner Chelsea Roberts was one of the first students through the lunch line at MVES on Monday. Roberts is one of 721 students, not including pre-school students who will attend Mt. Vernon this year. For now 2,902 students are enrolled in school, which does not include pre-school students, which school officials think will top last year's 170 mark.

County Clerk questions pay increases for OT administrators

An ongoing battle between County Clerk Norma Houk and the Rockcastle Fiscal Court erupted once again Tuesday, at the court's regular monthly meeting.

After most of the regular business of the court had taken place, Houk asked to speak and questioned the court as to why they had cut $35,000 for her deputies' salaries but could justify increasing County Treasurer Joe Clontz's and Administrative Assistant Patricia Martin's salaries by $12,000 a year. Houk said the court's decision had cost her two workers in her office.

Houk said she had been criticized for paying a deputy, who had been there 26 years, $45,000, when Martin had only been with the county three years and was making $36,000. "It's not just me," Houk said, "all county employees who have been here all these years are insulted."

Clontz defended the raises, saying that he and Martin were responsible for collecting $1.2 million in occupational taxes for the county and the raise was compensation for "the added work and responsibility we have taken on."

Clontz also reminded Houk that her deputies salaries increased $60,000 in a two year period, including a 50% increase for her daughter, and that it was her "choice to let those two deputies go instead of reducing your husband's and daughter's salaries in order to keep them (the two workers)."

Houk retorted that the salaries paid her deputies last year were more because of the extra work her office had with two elections, purging the voter list, etc. and that her employees would not make as much this year as they did last year when they "worked six days a week." However, Clontz said that, according to figures given his office for retirement contributions for

Durham arrested after police find 48 "pot" plants

Wayne Durham, Jr., 41 of Orlando was charged with cultivating marijuana, possession of a controlled substance, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia on Monday night after police went to serve an emergency protection order on him in an unrelated case.

Rockcastle Deputy Sheriff Joe Rush said he saw drugs and drug paraphernalia laying on a table in the living room of Durham's residence on Big Cave Road, when he served Durham with the EPO around 9 o'clock Monday night.

Rush said he then asked for, and received, consent to search Durham's residence.

Rush said he and other officers found 48 marijuana plants in a bucket in a tall grassy area near an outbuilding behind the house and that it appeared Durham had just uprooted the plants from the area in an effort to hide them from police.

"I saw a Febreze can in a tree, which looked suspicious, so I thought he might have been trying to mark a spot where he was hiding something," Rush said. "Sure enough the small pot plants were in a bucket."

Rush said police also found a bag in the house that contained suspected marijuana seeds.

Dowell began in the funeral business in 1953, as an employee of Sparks Funeral and, in 1969, he, and partner Roy Martin, bought the business which they renamed Dowell and Martin. Dowell has served as Rockcastle County Coroner for over 30 years and continues to hold that position. Dowell also serves as a deacon at First Christian Church and is a longtime member of the Mt. Vernon Lions Club. Making the presentation were: Kiwanis member Gertha Mink and Larry Hammond, Kiwanis President.

Rockcastle Memories

Poplars are ready to shine

A few days ago I was casually strolling through my woods on Furnace Mountain when I noticed a Tulip Poplar with leaves that were changing from green to bright yellow. I realize that most poplars do not change colors until early fall, which officially begins in September. However, by the time school begins, I am more than ready for autumn and the transformation of color that accompanies it. For this reason, I became very excited when I noticed the yellow color along the wooded path.

The Liriodendron tulipifera or tulip poplar is the official state tree of Kentucky, and I have a history with them. When I was a youngster in Rockcastle County, our yard was filled with the towering giants, which customarily attain heights of over 120 feet.

In the spring, they are covered with yellow flowers with dashes of red and orange – and they fill the woods with a sweet aroma. Squirrels feast on the fruit of the trees, whose seeds are viable for 4-7 years. The trees' finest development is located, of course, in the Southern Appalachian Mountains.

Due to their height and brittle nature, tulip poplars are frequently subject to lightning strikes and wind damage. I can remember several occasions when our trees were hurt by summer storms. Sometimes it felt like I had lost a member of the family when one was damaged. I suppose you can call me a "tree hugger," because I certainly feel a special connection to these huge plants.

It is difficult for me to walk through my woods without stopping to lean against a poplar and whisper a silent prayer to the Lord for his wonderful creations, especially deciduous trees. I pray over my forest on a regular basis as I walk through the paths that I have made.

The Bible tells us in 1Chronicles 16:33, "Then shall the trees of the wood sing out at the presence of the Lord, because He cometh to judge the earth." It is nearly impossible to ignore the majesty of trees because they do rejoice at His presence, and they are a testament to His mighty power.

Almost 20 years ago, when my wife and I purchased a wooded area near the iron furnace in Powell County, I was delighted to learn that one of the dominant species of deciduous trees were poplars. One area near the back boundary, along the edge of a cliff, there is a large stand of mature poplars, and I am routinely drawn to that spot.

Because of their extreme stature, the canopy of their leaves is very high; therefore, not too many smaller plants grow on the ground. I consider them to possess a certain stately elegance, which makes walking in this area enjoyable and easy. I spend most of my time in the woods in that area.

Native Americans usually made their dugout canoes from the trunk of poplars and early settlers often referred to the tree as Canoeewood. Settlers too made canoes from the trunks because of their length and wide diameters. The wood is fine-grained and is often used for panels of carriages, siding, flooring, and even coffins. My brother and I buried our mother in an elegant poplar coffin. I know that she would be pleased.

Approximately a year ago, my wife and I purchased the lot across from our home. At the time it was grown up with brush and small shrubs. I hired my friend Kevin to assist me with cleaning up the area, and we noticed that many of the young trees were poplars. Once again, I was delighted with my discovery. Now these trees are growing at a tremendous rate, and I am delighted that they line the front of that area.

Tulip poplars are rapid-growing and are resistant to disease and insects. In other

The Roots of Rockcastle

by: Tonya J. Cook

An old "friend" came by this past week to pay a call on the citizens of Rockcastle, as well as the surrounding counties as they would benefit from this visit, too. It was as much a part of the county's history as anything else that has been written about in "The Roots" series. It is the Brodhead Fair, or "The Little Worlds' Fair" as it has been called. This year celebrated the 128th consecutive year this old friend has come to call, giving generations of local citizens much anticipated fun and joy.

The fair, which began in 1881, was once a major event in the county. Unfortunately, with all the various entertainments and means of social exchanges such as email and the telephone, the fair doesn't carry as much "punch" as it once did.

The fair meant a lot of things to a lot of people. It served as a social event giving people a chance to see friends and neighbors that they usually wouldn't have had the chance to see. The event was reason enough for relatives to come in for a visit and attend the fair. Young gentlemen of past eras, as well as today, took their best girl and perhaps stole a kiss on top of the Ferris wheel.

The ladies always had some canned goods, quilts, or needlepoint items to display with hopes of winning the blue ribbon. There was a variety of livestock on display; all kinds of sheep, pigs, cattle, and probably most anything that could be mentioned. The main draw was the big horse show, so I've heard from my family, who grew up here for generations. I would suppose that in the early days, there weren't many rides, but the focus was more on the visual aspects and the mere socializing that the fair gave the people to enjoy.

The fair began when my grandpa, Roscoe Norton, was six years old. As a child, I remember being told of the many wonders of the Brodhead Fair. It became a family tradition in our family for generations. He was the eldest of twelve brothers and sisters that where were raised on a big farm at Wabd. The fair was always a special event to them; a place where they could go to visit, show off their livestock, or other home-made goods. As the children grew to adulthood, they rode their horses in the horse shows...even my great-aunts rode.

Some of my earliest memories were of the fair. As you would expect, the rides on the midway would have been my favorite part. (By this time, they had come a long way from when my grandparents went, back in the 1880s.) However, my favorite memory was the horse show they always had on Saturday night. There was a very talented gentleman who played an electric organ in the center of the track where the horses were put on parade. The horses were ridden to keep time with the music. It seemed like they were almost dancing.

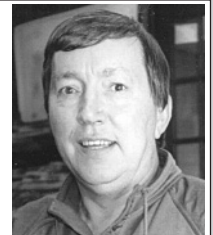

I think I still have some of the prizes and stuffed animals that were won over the years. They weren't that valuable at the time, but they have acquired sentimental value since then.

I'm sure the fair has given local citizens much joy and entertainment for years. If you have favorite memories of the fair from years past, the earlier the better, share them in The Roots of Rockcastle.

(Remember, I'm always looking for a bit of Rockcastle history. If you have a story to tell, and all of us do, please contact me through the Mount Vernon Signal, or therootsofrockcastle@windstream.net)

Gardening Advice

This week is your last chance to get mustard and turnips seeds in the ground if you expect to have a crop. And that is assuming that you live in central or the mountains of Kentucky.

If you live in Wind Gap, PA, for example, there's a chance that you can still sow spinach there where the sunflowers used to be and have a marvelous crop come late winter or early spring. Otherwise, you should give up anything other than cleaning up the residue left this fall from your dead and dreary stalks---assuming you live in northern Pennsylvania or thereabouts.

And not many of you readers, other than Fred Beste, choose to live such a northern and desolate life style but I do know that FJ passes the column along and I feel obliged to offer you free gardening advice if you live there on the swampy tundra or on the salty flats of the normally miserable east coast.

If you live in Kentucky, and your tiller is still running, and you want to take a chance on something, RomAll beans will still make it if you get them in the ground this week and if we don't have an early frost. All you have to do is plow up a little bit of ground and dig some rows and plant em. At this writing I have 7 different varieties of late beans climbing the trellises. No more perfect time will happen for late lettuce, radishes, and name your favorite greens.

But if you have a big piece of plastic or a tarp to cover them come frost warnings, there's no reason you can't have green beans from the garden for Thanksgiving. Same thing for your cucumbers and maters and peppers. I have mine planted, but we did cucumbers on Labor Day last year and had them crisp for Thanksgiving. Along with fried green tomatoes.

I spent most of the cool hours of the day on Saturday plowing and then sowing about a dozen different varieties of lettuce, mustard, beets, turnips, squash, kale and beans. All I need right now is a good hard rain and I will have a good fall garden. In the meantime I have 7 different kinds of beans just ready to vine and about 300 feet of Bodacious sweet corn waist high. New cucumbers, late peas, just coming up and the mystery of what I've sown in haste that has yet to appear.

The wind and rain and early frost may get it yet but I'm betting that that my late fall vegetable garden will be better than anything that anyone had come

Screening for Scoliosis

Presented by Dr. Callie Shaffer

Back problems are more common in children than most people realize; about 2% of children will have some degree of abnormality. Most of these will be mild and not require any treatment, but some children will go on to develop a significant "spinal curvature" during their adolescent growth spurt.

Most of the time the cause of the curvature will be unknown. This is called idiopathic scoliosis and it is eight times more common in girls than boys.

The good news about scoliosis is that screening tests are easy to do. Most schools have screening clinics where a nurse examines the students for the early changes. Screening is most important at ages 10-14 and should begin before children start their growth spurts.

The exam is quick and simple. The child's spine is examined from the back in both a standing position and with bending forward.

When the spine with scoliosis bends forward, it is forced to rotate slightly as well. Because of this, the ribs will form more of a hump on one side of the back than the other. Another sign is checked for with the child standing erect. A child may have unequal creases of the waist folds if there is scoliosis.

If the screening tests for scoliosis suggest that there is a problem, it is important to see your physician for an x-ray of the spine. This allows measurements which will determine if there is a problem that needs treatment or if periodic follow-up with x-rays is adequate. X-rays may also find other causes for the curvature such as unequal leg length or an abnormal vertebra in the spine.

Fortunately, screening is very effective. Early diagnosis will allow the most options for treatment and give much better permanent results.

In Loving Memory

In Loving Memory of Elizabeth Miller

A year has passed and still you grieve,
The tears flow down your face;
You miss her voice, you miss her laugh,
No one can take her place.
But when you think of where she is,
In Heaven's land so fair;
You know you're weeping for yourself,
'Cause there's no weeping there.

Her closest friend is Jesus
And He takes her by the hand,
He talks with her for hours
As they walk in Heaven's land.
There's light once more within her eyes,
Her smile is always near;
So cry your tears while you're down there,

'Cause there's no crying here.
Here is where she's happiest,
Here's where she belongs;
She's praising God with every breath
And joining in the songs.
A joyful glow is on her face
And wonder fills her eyes;
So let your tears flow if you must,

'Cause here, nobody cries.
She has a mansion that is grand,
And friends that she can't number;
Eternal celebrating
In this land where there's no slumber.
And she shines brighter than the stars,
And angels seek her face;
So grieve and miss her while you may,
There's no grief in this place.

If she could speak to you once more,
One thought she would repeat:
That now, her happiness is full,
That now, her joy's complete;
That Christ will be returning soon
And all creation waits,
He'll wipe the tears from every eye

Just inside Heaven's gates.
One day you'll be together, Yes!
And that day time can't sever;
There'll be no death or parting then
In that Blessed Forever.
You'll see her anytime you wish,
What joy your hearts will reap!
So cry your eyes out while on earth,
It's your last chance to weep.

Too many of same winners at horse show...

Dear Editor,
 This letter is to comment about the horse shows that are held at the Brodhead Fairgrounds. The horse show is fun but I just feel like the whole thing is a set up.

I mean, if your name is not a certain one, you don't have a chance to win. We entered our two horses the past two or three times and each time didn't get anything. It seems like its the same people, same names that always win. I have heard several other people say the same thing as I am.

I've seen horses there that have a better walk and gait than the horses who have won. Again, the horse shows are fun and I enjoy them, but no one else, other than certain ones, can ever win one of these. It's just a waste of money to enter any class because you will never win because of your name.

So, all I'm saying is please give us little people a chance. There are other horses than these people's horses. I just feel that these shows are rigged and I've seen a lot of better horses showing.

Thank you,
 Johnny Northern

Next meeting August 18th...

Dear Editor,

I would like to thank the Mount Vernon Signal for the opportunity to say thanks to the 67 members of the CCFGG for coming out during work hours and helping us present the 3,500 petitions asking the Fiscal Court not to take any action toward zoning Rockcastle County.

We forgot to add 190 to the court. The petitions were added but not included in the total count, plus I have had many more petitions turned in after the Fiscal Court meeting. We now have over 4,000 names against zoning Rockcastle County.

Our next meeting of the CCFGG will be August 18th, same place 3rd floor of the Rockcastle County courthouse at 6 p.m.

I would also like to thank the 97 CCFGG members who showed up for the July meeting during a tornado! I also apologize for no a.c. in the courthouse meeting room that night. I know all the members that left dripping wet with sweat, I know my clothes were soaking wet. So, if you see the Judge before the August meeting, please ask if we could have a little air conditioning in the meeting room.

Hope to see all the members there, we are 4,000 strong and growing.

 Elected Chairman

Start your day with breakfast

Family and Consumer Sciences

Hazel Jackson

Rockcastle County Extension Office

Do you have trouble eating breakfast? Maybe you never seem to have enough time in the morning. Or you may be one of those people who just is not hungry at the start of the day. Well, maybe it's time to reconsider whether or not you are a "breakfast eater." There are plenty of reasons why eating breakfast is a good idea. And, there are endless possibilities to help you have an affordable, healthy, convenient, tasty breakfast.

Breakfast eaters, compared to those who skip breakfast, tend to weigh less. Eating breakfast may help you control calorie intake throughout the day. It may also help you maintain a more steady level of energy, so you can avoid that afternoon slump. So, if eating breakfast can help you control your weight and give you more energy throughout the day maybe it's worth a little extra effort. People who eat breakfast tend to have healthier diets with more vitamins, minerals and fiber.

Even if you are not hungry in the morning, eating a balanced breakfast can get your day off to a good start. Some people find they are less hungry before lunch and have a better morning if they include some protein at breakfast from milk, egg, cheese, peanut butter or plant protein like a soy cereal. Having a breakfast that includes fiber also helps you stay full longer. Try oatmeal or cereal bars with at least 3 grams of fiber in each serving.

If you need to grab breakfast to go in a hurry, you will need to plan ahead to avoid the morning rush. Fresh fruit, cereal bars, hard boiled eggs, a cheese sandwich or even leftover pizza can be eaten for breakfast. You can make your own breakfast wraps or muffins at home to eat on the go. Yogurt and smoothies can be purchased in to go containers or you can make your own servings to put in a travel container. For young people, the school breakfast program can make having breakfast an easy-to-do bargain. School food service cafeterias offer a high-quality breakfast for minimal cost. And you won't have to do the dishes or any clean-up.

The most important thing about breakfast is to eat it! With a little planning you can make breakfast an easy part of your day. Give it a try for a week to see if you feel better.

"What Is Written"

Notice Jn. 14:15, 21, 23, "If ye love me, keep my commandments ... He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him...Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him." Now beloved, it is clearly taught by our Lord and Savior in these passages, that loving Jesus, involves keeping his commandments. It's appalling to hear sectarian preaching, like, "Honk if you love Jesus" or "You don't have to do anything to receive salvation, just believe." No, real love and faith moves one to obey the Lord and keep his commandments. People who love Jesus will want to do exactly what Jesus says. His word will be honored and respected, because real love does this. Folks who reject his commandments, but claim to love him and know him, are called liars in the scriptures! 1 John 2:4, "He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him." Do you love Jesus? Do you Keep his word?

Quick and Easy Tips to Trim Your Energy Bill!

A BRIGHT Idea That Saves!

Sure, standard incandescent bulbs seem to cost less initially, but they actually can cost up to 33 PERCENT MORE to operate! The Compact Fluorescent Lamps (CFL's) can last up to 10-20 TIMES longer and will generate up to 75 PERCENT less heat!

TIP Within A TIP: Set a goal of purchasing at least one CFL per trip to the grocery or per month and you'll be surprised at how soon every bulb in the home will be replaced and saving energy dollars!

Does the Smallest Room in Your Home Cost You the Most?!

One of a home's biggest energy wasters can be the multi-bulb strip fixtures found in many bathrooms that kids and adults perpetually forget to turn off - an expensive habit! It's easy to forget you are multiplying your use and cost by the number of bulbs in the strip, so an 8-bulb strip left on can have the same dollar impact as leaving 8 lamps on throughout your home!

TIP Within A TIP: If children leaving the lights on are a problem, consider offering them an incentive of 25 to 50 cents of every dollar saved on the next energy bill to go toward a reward. Before long, a new dollar-saving household habit can replace the wasteful and expensive one!

An encouraging word:

The Salt of the Earth

By Howard Coop

There was nothing extraordinary about Friday, March 6, 1959. For most people, that date is forgotten and has little, if any, special significance. A google search led me to the conclusion that it was, indeed, an ordinary day on which little of importance happened.

But that day has special significance for me; it was one of those days I distinctly remember. I made some notes that I filed away and have kept. On a number of occasions, I have referred to those notes across the years.

I remember the day because, along with many people across the eastern half of Kentucky, I rose early that morning and dutifully drove to Lexington to attend a rather insignificant meeting that had been called in response to a situation that required responsible action. During that long and somewhat boring meeting, those of us in attendance listened to about three hours and forty-five minutes of passionately delivered addresses containing numerous oratorical flourishes designed to heighten our interest. One man, speaking at various times during the day, spoke for about two hours. A woman spoke for almost an hour, and another man spoke for about forty-five minutes. Those three persons, all excellent speakers, were attempting to define personal responsibility in terms of the special situation faced and the extent of responsibility for those of us who were attending that meeting.

In most situations, personal responsibility is not all that difficult to understand. Most of the time we do not have large conferences that are called with an array of outstanding orators to remind us of our personal responsibility, and we cannot wait for some extraordinary moment in human affairs to act responsibly. Rather we are expected to act as responsible persons in the ordinary, inconspicuous, and common experiences of everyday life.

In the ordinary affairs of everyday life, most folk know what personal responsibility involves. Under all circumstances, just do the right thing and thereby become the salt of the earth.

Marching Rockets deep in early development

Submitted by A. B. Sharpe
TINK – TINK – TINK goes the metronome. Eight or maybe as many as twelve notes blare out. And the directions from atop the scaffolding keep coming “Start over”, “Find your marks”, “Count your steps”, “Do it again.” Twenty seven pairs of feet roll to the left, then forward, then back, three stand ready in the pit, nine colorguard perform their coordinated sequences and one field commander conducts the show. This is the 2009 Marching Rockets!

Early rehearsals of the seasonal show are spent on marching fundamentals and drills. A lot of time is spent learning individual placements and movements. Marching programs are finely detailed and as precise as a Swiss watch mechanism. Steps are numbered and counted and proper execution is what matters. There are 26 separate sets in the opener alone. The band members have a precise number and direction and type of step to memorize within each separate set.

This defined choreography is outlined on reams of paper laid out like a football field. Each and every marching musician has a number on the grid that shows their position. Each and every page details each and every marcher's location. And every page shows the movement and changes of all. The score of the musical selections gets added in as the footwork is mastered. It will look effortless and run like a clock by the first performance but at this stage of development it is a demanding and laborious proposition to turn an amorphous band into a defined and specialized presentation.

The 2009 Marching Rockets are spending almost 6 hours of class instruction time and 6-8 hours or more after school each week to learn and perfect a show worthy of competition and halftime entertainment. While the rest of us bask in the air-conditioning these dedicated young musicians are toiling in the hot sun for their art and our

Their responsibilities include putting on workshops, giving speeches, teaching a class at the Kentucky FFA Leadership Training Center, making appearances and bringing greetings at agricultural events, and serving as advocates for both agriculture education and the agricultural industry.

His team focused on the state theme “Ignite Your Passion” which challenged FFA members to allow the opportunities provided by FFA and agriculture education to help them discover what they are truly passionate about, whether it is public speaking or community service.

Individually, Adams travelled over 10,600 miles and visited 17 chapters.

“The most rewarding part of it all is hearing that member say, ‘You are my Inspiration’ or ‘I want to be like you one day’,” said Adams, “Just knowing you've impacted the lives of FFA members is truly special.”

Adam's team is the 25th consecutive state officer team to pay their Lifetime

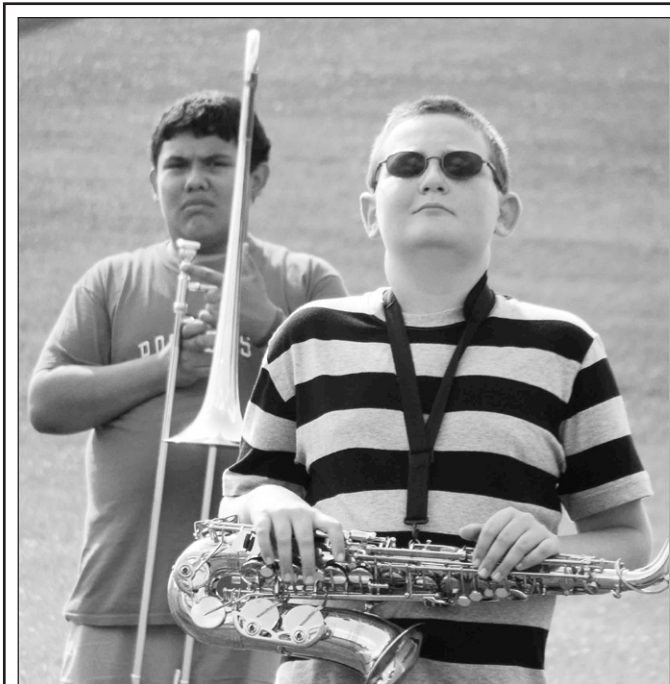

FFA Alumni dues.

They also instituted the Living to Serve Challenge which encouraged FFA chapters across the state to increase community service, especially in those areas hardest hit in this winter's ice storm.

Last week's severe thunderstorm caused damage throughout the county, including at the residence of Gene and Ann Senter at Calloway, where a large Black Walnut tree fell on one of their storage building. Lester Kirby's crew had to use a boom truck on Tuesday to gain access to the top of the tree so it could be cut down in pieces. Residents are also still cleaning up in other areas of the county this week.

The bank clock at Community Trust in Mt. Vernon showed a temperature of 91 degrees on Monday, but the official recorded temperature at the Cox Funeral Home weather station was only 87. Weatherman Bud Cox said the official high for August was 89 on Sunday. On Saturday he recorded a official high of 88. Rain has fallen five of the eleven days of the month, totally 1.68 inches. The most rain fell on August 1st and 2nd when .95 was recorded. The 90 degree mark still has not been reached in Rockcastle County this year.

her employees, the salaries had not changed in 2009.

Houk also brought up the fact that according to state law, minutes of the fiscal court are to be recorded in her office and that the court's minutes had not been recorded since March of this year. “I've told you all twice now that the minutes are not being kept up,” Houk said.

County Judge/Executive Buzz Carloftis said he was under the impression that the recordings had been brought up to date but said that this would be remedied. He noted that the minutes could not be recorded immediately after meetings because they did not become official until approved by the magistrates at a subsequent meeting.

Other Business

In other business, the court heard a report from Jim Holton, project manager for the SourceCorp construction project. Holton told the court that SourceCorp was in the new building and “doing business” there as of August 3rd. He also noted that this meant that SourceCorp's $25,000 plus per month rent would begin being received in August.

Holton also said that even though the project had been delayed by the wet weather that Larry Goff should be finished with the grade and drain work (on the access road) by the end of next week and that work on relocating utility poles would begin soon. “We received a $480,000 Economic Development grant for the utility work,” Holton told the court. The project manager also noted that the EDA grant was a matching grant and that the occupational tax revenue had made obtaining the grant possible. Holton told the Signal last week that the entire project would not have been possible without the court enacting the occupational tax. “Grants don't fall from the sky. Communities have to show a willingness to invest in their own community,” Holton said.

Holton also said that a Memorandum of Agreement had been issued for the industrial authority to receive $1.3 million from the Department of Transportation, as part of their six-year road plan, for roads on the backside of the property, turn lanes off 150, etc. He also said that the cost of landscaping would also fall under the grant. To date, the industrial authority has been approved by for over $2 million in grants for the project.

A grand opening for SourceCorp has been scheduled for October 19th with local and state officials, including Governor Beshear, Holton said.

Sheriff's Tax Settlement

Dale McNew, who handles Sheriff Mike Peters' business affairs, presented the court with Peters' 2008 tax and franchise tax settlements.

The tax settlement showed a total of $2,547,655.32 collected with $2,440,132.67 disbursed to taxing districts. Peters' commission on the taxes collected amounted to $105,091.42 for the year. The total collected in franchise taxes for 2008 was $272,459.54 with $261,036.22 due taxing districts and $11,128.63 paid Peters in commissions.

McNew said the next step would be, after approval of the settlement by the court, to send the settlement to the state so a quietus could be issued and then an audit for 2008 would be conducted by the state. The quietus has to be issued in order for the sheriff to collect the 2009 taxes.

During the meeting, the court also approved a five year lease with the Rockcastle County Library at a lease fee of $5 per year and approved a $2,000 donation to Mt. Vernon Elementary for new playground equipment (a $20,000 project).

The court also approved $13,484 for Western Rockcastle Fire Department to purchase a 2,000 gallon water tank ($7,500) and pay Wynn Fire Equipment $5,984.38 to mount the tank on an existing chassis the department has. An item for $4,800 for a pump for the tank will be revisited at a later date by the court. Money for the equipment will be taken from an allocation for fire departments from occupational tax revenue.

TOUR SEKY releases new tourism guidebook

TOUR Southern and Eastern Kentucky (TOUR SEKY), based in Somerset, announces the release of an exciting new tourism guidebook designed to increase awareness of adventure tourism opportunities both for those who live in the region and those who are traveling from far away.

"We want people who live in the region to know there is a lot of adventure right in their own backyards, and we want everyone to know that Southern and Eastern Kentucky has a lot to offer," said Jeff Crowe, President and CEO of TOUR SEKY. "Reduced family funds don't have to mean reduced fun. Even families who think they can't take an extended family vacation can find lots of affordable adventures within a day's drive."

Page after page of engaging, high impact photography shows the real essence of the best Southern and Eastern Kentucky has to offer. Working closely with the TOUR SEKY staff, Somerset firm Kirby Stephens Design designed the publication to be a bold and exciting invitation to experience the adventures of the region.

This free tourism guide focuses on five main areas of Adventure — Outdoors, Music, Agriculture, History, and Arts & Crafts. Also, the guidebook offers adventure maps and potential itineraries for the casual traveler.

After much deliberation, we have made the difficult decision to close the Lykins' Mt. Vernon bulk plant effective July 31st. Many factors had to be considered, but the final deciding reason was the EPA regulations being imposed. The cost of the implementation of these regulations is overwhelmingly prohibitive.

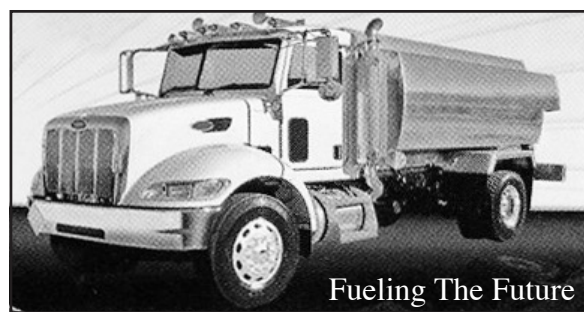

On the positive side, we will continue to service this area from our London bulk plant. We are retaining our employees who are familiar with the customers and we are looking forward to providing even better service and product. The telephone numbers will remain the same - 606-256-5714, 606-256-2114 with the calls being taken at the London office and will still be a local call.

Thank you for your patronage. We want to maintain a personal contact with each one of you. We regret having to make this move, but we want to emphasize that our goal is to remain available and accomodating to our customers.

Change is always difficult, but hopefully it will lead us into an efficient and improved future.

Enrollment began Monday in Brodhead

Classes for adult education underway at Brodhead Center

The Rockcastle County School system is not only providing public education for kindergarten through 12th grade students in the county this school year, they are now responsible for furthering the education of adults.

Last year, the Christian Appalachian Project in Renfro Valley voluntarily relinquished the adult education grant, which had helped them provide adult education services to residents in the county for over twenty years. And, for now, the Rockcastle School system has taken up the slack.

Enrollment for the school system's new program began on Monday at a building, located on Hwy 150 next to the Brodhead Fair Grounds and Thacker Field. That building has also served as the Senior Citizens Center in Brodhead for several years.

According to Project Director Jenny Sweet, the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court, which owns the building, agreed to allow the use of the building for the Adult Education Program a few months ago. This helped in the process of applying for the state grant to fund the program.

According to the 2000 U.S. Census, there are 5,118 individuals in Rockcastle County, ages 18 years or older, without a high school diploma or GED. "The goal for the Rockcastle Adult Education Center is to serve 326 individuals during the next ten months, with at least 65 individuals completing their GED," Sweet said.

Adult education services provide academic skills instruction, GED preparation and reading instruction for eligible adults. Adult education assists adults in improving educational attainment levels and successfully entering employment and continuing education. The instruction may also include life skills, employability skills and computer literacy.

"The foundation for increasing postsecondary learning opportunities is a high school diploma or GED. Our local community and its leaders have taken a first step by investing in our Adult Education Center. This investment will lead to increased opportunities at the local level to prepare our citizens for postsecondary studies," said David Pensol, Instructional Supervisor for Rockcastle County Schools.

The new Adult Center staff includes Marisa Albright, ABE/GED Instructor, Kelli Loudermilk, Enrollment and Data Collection, and Sweet.

"As we look toward 2020 and the Kentucky Council on Postsecondary Education's goal of transitioning more students into postsecondary education and doubling the number of persons with bachelor's degrees in the state of Kentucky, we find in Rockcastle County that 10.5% of the population has some college, but no degree, 2.0% have earned an associate's degree and 8.3% have earned a bachelor's degree or higher," Pensol continued.

"More individuals, whether it is a person with a high school diploma or GED, need to pursue further training at the postsecondary level. By doing this, Rockcastle County will have more residents qualified for higher paying jobs that can attract more business and industry to our community which results in not only helping our community, but the priority and end result being to help individuals and families," Sweet added.

If you didn't finish high school, there are free classes at the adult education center to help prepare you to take the GED test. Or if you are a high school graduate and need to improve your reading, math or communication skills to prepare for further training at a university, college or technical school, you may be eligible for free adult education services.

For more information, call the Rockcastle Adult Education Center at 256-0218 or 758-4013.

U.S. Congressman Rogers announces House approves $17.85 to fight drugs in Southern and Eastern Kentucky

U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers of Somerset, who represents Kentucky's Fifth District, which includes Rockcastle County, announced this week that the House of Representatives has approved $17.85 million for a variety of drug interdiction and eradication programs that benefit southern and eastern Kentucky. Through Rogers' leadership, Operation UNITE, drug enforcement operations in the Daniel Boone National Forest, nation-wide prescription drug monitoring programs, and marijuana eradication efforts by the Kentucky National Guard all received funds this summer during consideration of the FY10 federal budget.

"I applaud the House for passing these important funding measures to rid our communities of drugs. As our region continues to tackle the epidemic of drugs, it is comforting to know that Operation UNITE and state and local law enforcement partners will be able to carry on their successful programs and rid our streets of drug pushers while drug users get the help they need," said Rogers. "The combination of crime investigators, church pastors, educators, and medical professionals has made a tremendous impact on our neighborhoods and has taught our young people of the serious dangers of drugs. Operation UNITE brings hope to our region as its vital work strengthens communities, encourages addicts a way out, and encourages families to live drug free."

The following is a summary of the 2010 funding passed by the House of Representatives:

- $4.45 million for Operation UNITE's law enforcement operations was included in the FY 2010 Commerce, Justice, Science and Related Agencies Appropriations bill which passed on June 18, 2009. One of UNITE's priorities is creating drug task forces for interdiction, confiscation and un-

EPA gets involved after diesel spill

Wednesday wreck closes south I-75 for several hours

A Wednesday evening wreck on Interstate 75 involving a tractor-trailer and Chevy Blazer pulling a Volkswagen Beetle shut down both southbound lanes of I-75 completely for about three hours, near the 63 mile marker.

The wreck occurred around 5:30 p.m. when a tractor-trailer hauling crates hit a U-Haul car trailer loaded with the Volkswagen Beetle in the rear.

State Trooper Staci Walker said the truck driver from Louisville said he was looking down to get a bottle of water out of a cooler and when he looked up he was on top of the Blazer, which was traveling very slowly halfway in the slow lane and halfway in the emergency lane.

Walker said the driver of the Blazer, who was from Georgia, told police that shortly before the wreck, she realized her Blazer did not have enough power to pull the Volkswagen up the hill and she was attempting to move into the emergency lane when she was struck from behind by the semi.

When the semi hit the car trailer, the trailer and Blazer jackknifed and the back of the trailer hit the front of the Blazer destroying the Blazer, Beetle and trailer.

Walker said the truck driver lost control of his truck after impact, traveled past the Blazer and trailer and the truck then over turned, blocking both lanes of the interstate.

The driver of the truck was not injured nor was the female passenger in the Blazer. The driver of the Blazer was taken to Rockcastle Regional where she was treated for an injury to her arm.

"If they had been pulling that car, both of the women in the Blazer would have probably been killed," Walker said.

One lane of the interstate re-opened around 8:30 p.m., but the other lane was not opened until about 10:30 p.m.

The truck's fuel tank ruptured in the wreck spilling diesel fuel at the scene.

Walker said EPA officials were called in to take soil samples which caused the delay in re-opening the second lane of traffic. Walker said EPA officials finished their work at the scene around midnight.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet! Some things to think about...

What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?

Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
 A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and bleach to help dissolve stains.
 B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.

The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.

Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
 C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.

D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.

E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.

The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.
