In last week's Signal in a report of a fire that destroyed two mobile homes on the former Clifford Marler property in the Wabd Community, we said that the Mt. Vernon Fire Department extinguished the blaze.

However, it was actually Western Rockcastle Volunteer Fire Department, in whose district the property was located and were the first responders to the scene. The Mt. Vernon Fire Department was called for assistance with the blaze.

The home of Danny Vance on Mareburg Road was heavily damaged by fire on Friday morning. Although Mt. Vernon firefighters were able to knock down the fire quickly the house sustained major smoke damage. Mt. Vernon fire chief David Bales said the fire was apparently caused by a faulty electric heater. Vance had left his home only a few minutes before the fire was reported by a neighbor. At left, Bales and asst. fire chief Jack Weaver are shown hooking a compressed air tank to firefighter Jackie Wayne Weaver, before he entered Vance's house. Vance's sister Kim, said the majority of the contents in the house were a total loss. (Front page photos by: Richard Anderkin).

Two arrested on Meth charges after ten mile chase Sunday night

Two men are in jail following a police chase which began around midnight on Sunday in Rockcastle County and ended in Laurel County.

According to a news release from Kentucky State Police, Trooper Scottie Pennington observed a Toyota truck, with only one headlight, traveling southbound on US 25 near Burr as he was heading north.

Police said Pennington activated his emergency equipment in an attempt to stop the vehicle for the violation but the driver refused to stop.

A vehicle pursuit began and traveled for approximately ten miles, entering Laurel County, where a tire deflation device was utilized to bring the vehicle to a stop.

Police said the driver continued to evade police, even after three tires on his vehicle were flattened. The car eventually got stuck on railroad

H1N1 vaccine clinic set for this Thursday

The Rockcastle County Health Department has scheduled a free H1N1 flu vaccine clinic for Thursday, (today), November 12th.

The clinic will be held at the Rockcastle County Middle School from 4-7 p.m.

Health Department Nursing Supervisor, Angela Thacker said appointments are not required to get the shot or the mist.

"We are borrowing a lot of vaccine from our sister counties in the Cumberland Valley area and we hope we will be able to serve everyone," Thacker said.

Thacker said that the shots and mist will be given until supplies run out, but she also said that those who want the vaccine should not arrive at the middle school before 3:45 p.m., so that the flu vaccine clinic does not interfere with school traffic.

Thacker said the only people who will not be given the flu vaccine are children under six-months-old.

Thacker said the local health department does have a small amount of the H1N1 vaccines on hand at the current time.

The health department is out of the seasonal flu vaccine and Thacker said she does not anticipate that the department will receive any more.

For more information contact the health department at 256-2242.

Although there have been several confirmed cases of the H1N1 flu in the county, no deaths have been reported.

Veteran's Day was Wednesday

Harvey Hensley was Navy pilot in World War II

By: Richard Anderkin

World War II Veteran Harvey Hensley is a very modest man, even though he was instrumental in the United States' success in battles in World War II, including the battle of the Coral Sea and Midway, which took place in the South Pacific.

Hensley, now 86 and living in Mt. Vernon, shot down 16 Japanese planes in the Battle of the Coral Sea, which took place in the South Pacific from May 4th through the 8th of 1942.

The battle was the first fleet action of World War II, in which aircraft carriers engaged each other. It was also the first naval battle in which neither side's ships sighted or fired directly upon each other.

Even though Hensley shot down 16 planes in the battle, his own plane, an F-4-F Wildcat, was shot up so badly by the Japanese that it had to be shoved over the side of the aircraft carrier Yorktown, after Hensley managed to land it. One of his planes, which had to be destroyed, was on fire when he landed it during the battle at Midway.

That would be only the first of four planes Hensley flew during the war that was shot up so badly the Navy had to shove them into the Pacific Ocean.

During the battle of Midway, a month later, Hensley shot down four more Japanese planes in his SB2C fighter bomber.

"We managed to sink most of the Japanese fleet that hit Pearl Harbor during the battle of Midway," Hensley said.

During the battle of Midway, the Yorktown was sunk, but U.S. pilots sank three Japanese carriers during the battle.

During his time in the South Pacific, which was most of World War II, Hensley flew the FM2 Fighter, F-4-F Wildcat, the F-6-F Hell Cat and the SB2C Fighter Bomber and the TBD Torpedo Bomber.

Besides being stationed on the Yorktown, Hensley was also stationed on the USS Enterprise, USS Savo Island and USS Cow Pens.

By the end of the war, Hensley had shot down 24 planes and struck numerous Japanese ships.

"I was like all the other soldiers. I was just doing what I was told to do to help my country," Hensley said this week.

Hensley, who was a Lieutenant when he got out of the Navy in June of 1946, got his pilot's license at the age of 17, while working for the Civilian Conservation Corps, a program devised for young men by then President Franklin D. Roosevelt to restore the forests in the country.

Hensley, who was raised at Crooked Creek, joined the CCC in McKee in Jackson County and was eventually transferred to a CCC camp in Idaho.

On December 5, 1941, Hensley left Idaho and traveled to Washington State, where he enlisted in the Navy.

Pearl Harbor was bombed two days later and, because Hensley, 19 at the time, was already a licensed pilot, he was sent to Jacksonville, Florida for training as a dive bomber. He never received basic training.

After training in Florida, Hensley was sent back to the west coast, where he boarded the Yorktown and headed to Pearl Harbor.

"I don't really like to talk about the war, it is something I have tried to stay away from," Hensley said.

After being discharged from the Navy in June of 1946, Hensley returned to Rockcastle County, where he met Laura Brewer, through his sister, Maggie.

Hensley said he asked Laura to marry him the first night the two actually had a date. Hensley tried farming for about a year, but decided to take Laura and go back to Washington State, where he would run a tug boat, between Seattle and Anchorage, Alaska for 20 years.

At times, Hensley would travel thousands of miles and battle 60 foot swales, with only a four man crew. "That was some of the roughest country you will ever see, but I loved the water and I didn't mind the hard work," he said.

Hensley's crew also recovered the drilling platform that was used when the U.S. tested a nuclear weapon off the coast of Alaska in 1951. "They drilled a hole in the ocean 3,000 feet deep to test that bomb and no one else wanted to salvage the platform because of the roughness of the ocean and the hard work, but we went and got it," Hensley said.

After 20 years as a tugboat captain, Hensley and his wife decided to return to Rockcastle County, because Hensley said his wife really missed her family.

They bought a farm, but Hensley said he was not a farmer and went to work for Interstate Coal in London, where he worked as a Supervisor for 18 years.

Hensley's wife is now deceased and eight years ago, he met and married Mrs. Bethel Falin of Mt. Vernon. The two met at the Rockcastle Senior Citizens Center. Mrs. Falin's husband, Albert, also passed away several years ago.

Rockcastle Memories

Remembering Thanksgiving Day

Several days ago I was standing on my deck on Furnace Mountain watching the leaves fall into my yard and I was taken back to the family celebration of Thanksgiving Day at Pop and Mommie Katie's house in Mt. Vernon. From the time I was old enough to remember until Pop passed away, the entire family gathered for a feast of home-cooked favorites. I will never forget the cozy warmth of a home filled with the smell of Mommie Katie's bird filtering throughout the small house.

For days Mommie and my mother (Bee) had been busy cleaning and preparing for the meal. Bee's wine-soaked jam cake was in the refrigerator along with a tray of pickles, olives, cranberry sauce, celery, and carrot sticks. Very early on Thanksgiving morning the preparation of the meal had begun.

As a young boy I was tempted to open the refrigerator door and sample some of my favorite treats, only to be told by my mother, "David Joe, you will have to wait until everyone gets here!" I reluctantly made my way to the living room to watch television on the black and white set until it was time to sit down at the big old kitchen table.

Usually my brother Al and his family arrived first. His wife, Eva, would join the women in the kitchen to assist with the dinner preparation. Al, Pop and I made small talk in the den in front of the big old Warm Morning stove. Pop usually pulled his rocking chair up to the front of the stove so that he would stay warm and could monitor the fire.

Next to arrive would be Uncle Charles Brown, Aunt Ruth and my cousin Janis. It

Mark your calendars now and you will have no excuse for missing Christmas in The Village which is Paint Lick's way of Celebrating the Holidays community-wide. There may even be some dancing in the street. There will certainly be places to meet and greet.

Festivities will begin around 10 a.m. on Saturday, December 5th. We never know exactly how the celebration is going to work out—just that it takes on a life of its own and everybody goes away happy.

This annual event was one of three major gatherings arranged by the late Dean Cornett after she and Kevin Brown had Friends of Paint Lick (FOPL) up and going. I don't remember exact dates but I do know Kevin was in grade school at the time, has since finished Law School and that he has been practicing law for several years now.

Dean had just retired at the beginning of FOPL and that lasted about three weeks. After incorporating as a non-profit corporation, she and Kevin cajoled what was then People's Bank of Paint Lick into loaning them money to purchase an old building straight across the street. A tireless and persuasive fund raiser Dean raised money from businesses, corporations and private foundations to cover operating costs and pay off the mortgage.

In the meantime a community library was put upstairs, a GED program was established, College Classes were arranged, a clothing bank, food bank, and a community outreach program was up and running. Saturday recreation for children in the community became wildly popular.

She managed to recruit a Doctor, John Belanger, MD to use the building adjacent to FOPL's to start up The Paint Lick Family Clinic to serve

The Roots of Rockcastle

by: Tonya J. Cook

This week we conclude the historic narrative written by Kathleen Quinn-Hunt as recorded in "The L&N Railroad at Livingston and Surrounding Areas". Picking up where we left off last week:

The train was a convenient means of travel, as it was relatively easy to travel to Louisville and Corbin in a day. One could leave Livingston on 24, be in Louisville in time to see a doctor and transact any other needed business, and then return home that night on 21. One could make the same-day trip to Corbin by catching 23 around noon, and then returning on 22 late in the afternoon. Trains with odd numbers ran south and trains with even numbers traveled north. People who were employees had annual passes which allowed them to ride the rails at any time. Others had trip passes which were obtained for a particular destination and return trip.

Daddy, Clifford Quinn, started working as a call boy for the L&N when he was fifteen years old. There were few telephones, and the call boys were used to notify the railroad men when they were due to go out on a run. A call boy was on duty twenty-four hours per day. I have heard Daddy say that he always hated to walk up on Gauley Branch in the snow and get some poor railroader out of bed. He was later promoted to a fireman. It was at this time that the Depression hit and everyone was destitute. There was no work. Even my grandfather was laid off for three months. We all lived in the same house to survive. The railroad lost many blocks of coal as they were taken by people in order to keep fires going to keep the family warm. Men who were working for the railroad were known to throw off blocks of coal where large families having a hard time could easily retrieve them. Daddy dug Mayapple roots, dried them, and hoboed to Mullins Station where he sold them to Estill Mullins. He would then hobo back to Livingston with a few pieces of change which would be used to keep body and soul together. He became a very good card player, and I have been told that I got my first pair of hard-soled shoes from money that he made playing poker with the fellows at the Mill Lot. As things began to pick up in the 1940s, Daddy was called back to work for a short time. After this, he worked for a time at the Seagram's Distillery and Reynolds Metal Company in Louisville. While there, and with the railroad in the blood, he learned that there was work on the Birmingham Division, and transferred there. He later transferred to the Florida East Coast.

Being the third generation, I also had some railroad in the blood, and after a short tenure of work in Michigan, I went to Birmingham and got a job in the L&N Depot as a file clerk in the Express Office. Then, I was promoted to a messenger clerk in the Dispatcher's Office, and later I worked at the information desk in the Ticket Office of the L&N Railroad Depot on First Avenue and Twentieth Street. A resignation brought an end to a third generation of railroading, as I was beginning the process of raising two daughters, both born in Birmingham, Alabama.

Chronic Daily Headaches

Presented by Dr. Kevin Rowe

After years and years of having headaches, a person's headaches commonly become more frequent and can even be present "all the time." When it gets to this point, they can be called "chronic daily headaches."

These headaches are difficult to deal with. First, your doctor will want to exclude more serious causes of the headaches. This involves a thorough discussion of the headaches and how they have progressed and an exam looking for neurologic changes. If there are findings on exam, or evidence from the history, further tests such as blood tests and a CT scan may be indicated.

The most common cause of chronic daily headaches is having an underlying headache type such as migraines or tension type headache which is being treated with medications nearly every day. When headache medicines are used that often, rebound headaches will occur when the medicine leaves the body. This can happen with nearly any of the medicines that are used to treat headaches if they are used more than three days a week.

How can you prevent chronic daily headaches or at least decrease the likelihood they will develop? Surprisingly, the first step is to stop using any medicines for the headaches. This will allow the headaches to return to their normal pattern, whether it is a migraine or tension-type headache. The underlying headache will then become more responsive to appropriate treatment.

Keep a headache diary to monitor their frequency, severity, and how they respond to various treatments your doctor advises. Then work closely with your doctor to utilize prophylactic medicines and non-drug treatments such as relaxation exercises and biofeedback to control your headaches.

Who needs John and Kate when you can have one happy family of eight

A trip to see immediate family members doesn't take much planning for Lynda Houk.

She, her husband, and daughter share the same house with her parents, grandmother, sister and niece.

Having four generations living under one roof is an arrangement that grew out of a conversation between her husband, Joe, and father, Charley, in 1992.

The plan had been to build three separate homes on a 100-acre farm near the Nelson-Bullitt county line.

"Joe suggested building just one home for everybody to share," says Lynda. "We're very proud of our home, but it's nothing fancy, and there's not a single piece of fancy furniture."

Seventeen years later, the unique arrangement is still working well for the Walton-like family, according to Lynda, 44, owner of a nearby business called Gifts Galore & More.

Everyone has his or her own bedroom in the 8,000 square foot, two-story home, sitting high atop a hill, and the favorite gathering places are the big kitchen and family room.

In summer months, family and visitors like to sit on the two wrap-around porches on both levels that look out over a small lake and the scenic

And, of course, The Paint Lick Spring Festival, Fall Festival and Christmas in the Village affairs were up and going by the late eighties. None of this would have happened without our Dean Cornett who passed away five or so years ago. Dean would be proud that almost everything she started is still flourishing.

The Festivals give our little village a sense of pride and hope and I daresay there's not a soul who lives here who is not proud to call Paint Lick Home.

There will be several vendors selling modestly priced food stuffs. Numerous “gifts”

This year, thanks to Bluegrass, we have a raffle underway for a brand new, top-of-the-line, professional grade, Stihl chain saw complete with carrying case, blade guard and other accessories. Tickets for the saw are $2.00 each or 3 for $5.00 and may be purchased at First Southern Bank in Paint Lick, at the FOPL building Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays or by getting in touch with Loretta Adams at the Garrard County Extension Office 859792-3026. They will also be available at Christmas in the Village up until noon or so.

Last, but far from least, Santa Claus will arrive at the Paint Lick Fire Station shortly before noon with a fire truck load of gifts for all the kids.

I'm out of space here, but I sure to hope to see you in Paint Lick on December 5.

An encouraging word:

The Impact of the Mayflower Compact

By Howard Coop

November 11, 1620, is a significant, but often neglected, date that every citizen of the United States of America should remember. The date is significant because what happened on that day had a profound impact upon the development of democracy in America.

On that date, the Mayflower, before landing at Plymouth, was anchored off Cape Cod. There were 101 colonists aboard, and William Bradford, who later became governor of the Plymouth Colony, observed that some were "not well affected to unity and concord, but gave some appearance of faction."

As a result of the dissention among those who were to form Plymouth Colony, there was a meeting aboard the Mayflower to attempt to solve those divisive problems. That meeting produced a short, but significant, document with far-reaching influence. Consisting of a mere 193 words and signed by 41 men, that document, which was to become known as the Mayflower Compact, had a profound impact upon the formation of governments in the new world.

While it is sometimes described as such, some authorities say that it was not the first constitution for government in the new world; but it did contribute two basic principles that profoundly impacted the democratic form of government that did develop in the new world.

The first principle was: The compact established a form of government for the Plymouth Colony in which the colonists agreed to abide by majority rule and cooperate for the general good of the colony.

The second principle was: That government formed aboard the Mayflower was based upon the belief that government is a covenant. For that government to be legitimate, it had to derive authority from the consent of the governed; therefore it must be "of the people, by the people, for the people."

For 389 years, these two principles have prevailed in American democracy. Yet, there is an erosion of these principles when political correctness demands an overarching federal structure that is no longer of the people and overlooks the majority by focusing attention upon the minority.

In Loving Memory

In Memory Of My Friend Birthday 11-13-2009

Well I am not sure how to start,
I'm sitting here with a broken heart.
Remembering the times we all had,
The good along with the bad.
There are times I tell myself I am alright,
And times I cry day and night.
I never dreamed I could miss someone so bad,
But with you Lucy I really have.
I can remember all the pain you felt,
From that car wreck you was dealt.
I remember the black eyes and broken bones,
Taking you into my home, to help you get strong.
I remember doctors drilling into your hips,
Tears rolled down your cheeks onto your lips.
I remember the places on your eyes,
Eye doctor cutting them off and how you cried.
The trips made to many doctors I don't regret,
All the bad I wish I could forget.
I want to remember on your birthday,
Were you were at and were you stayed.
I want to remember that apple stack cake,
You would bring to the house that you made.
For you and Spud it was yours and his day.
I want to remember thanksgiving and you,
This year we won't know what to do.

It will be hard to sit down and enjoy a meal,
Not hearing stories about your family and brother Bill.
Hearing the gospel songs that you would sang,
With the joy to us they would bring.
I want to remember Christmas here with me,
How happy you and my kids would be.
I would worry about the meal being so fine,
You would say stop that girl before you lose your mind.
You said "it don't matter what we have to eat",
"I am just a simple person just give me a seat".
All you wanted was our love and to be a part of my family,
For you and Ed was not blessed with any.
I just hope that we filled that part for you,
We all sure thought the world of you.
You told me you knew I was strong,
And I would be able to move on.
You told me to be proud of whom I am,
And never be afraid to take the stand.
You said it took a great person to do what I had done,
When you needed a child you had none.
We went through so much together,
I am glad you finally made it to heaven.
I know you will have the best birthday, thanksgiving, Christmas ever.
You waited many years to be together.
You may be gone but never forgotten by me and mine,
For good friends are very hard to find.

Credit card reform aims to protect customers

Family and Consumer Sciences

Hazel Jackson

Rockcastle County Extension Office

While a couple of provisions from the Credit Card Accountability, Responsibility and Disclosure Act of 2009 were implemented in August, more reform is in the near future. Aimed at helping struggling families in the tough economy, the Credit CARD Act was signed into law in May. Over the next year, more provisions will be phased in and change the way companies market, manage and issue credit cards.

If you currently have a consumer credit card, you have likely seen some of the initial effects of the Credit CARD Act. Beginning Aug. 20, credit card companies were required to give customers a 45-day advance notice of any significant changes to card terms. In addition, companies must now give card holders 21 days to make their monthly payment, instead of the previous 14-day deadline.

Even more reform is set to take effect in February. These provisions include limiting when interest rates can increase, prohibiting universal defaults from unrelated accounts and imposing a regular payment due date each month. At this time, companies will no longer be allowed to charge their customers an "over-limit" fee without their approval. The Credit CARD Act will also eliminate credit card marketing events near university and college campuses, since credit usage will be restricted for minors. To obtain a credit card, any individual under 21 will be required to have an adult cosigner or show proof that they can repay the debt. In addition, these joint accounts will require parent or guardian permission for credit increases.

Additional provisions for the Credit CARD Act will be implemented in August 2010. For a consumer that is more than 60 days late on a monthly payment, the credit card company may increase the interest rate; however, the rate must be reduced to the previous level after six months if the customer has made timely payments over this period. While most of the reform targets consumer credit cards, this law will also require gift cards and certificates to be valid for five years unless clearly disclosed at purchase.

Although the Credit CARD Act does not currently cover business or corporate credit cards, federal agencies are conducting research studies to assess these and other credit-related issues. In addition, there is no provision to limit how high interest rates can go, but lawmakers are confident that these changes for credit card companies will be beneficial to all consumer card holders.

Tiger Pause

Thank You Veterans

*When America had an urgent need,
These brave ones raised a hand;
No hesitation held them back;
They were proud to take a* *stand.

They left their friends and family;
They gave up normal life;
To serve their country and their God,
They plowed into the strife.
They fought for freedom and for peace
On strange and foreign shores;
Some lost new friends; some lost their lives
In long and brutal wars.
Other veterans answered a call
To support the ones who fought;
Their country had requirements for
The essential skills they brought.
We salute each and every one of them,
The noble and the brave,
The ones still with us here today,
And those who rest in a grave.
So here's to our country's heroes;
They're a cut above the rest;
Let's give the honor that is due
To our country's very best.*

Hospital donates life-saving device
Rockcastle Regional Hospital & Respiratory Care Center recently donated an automated external defibrillator in hopes to increase access to defibrillation at the Rockcastle Seniors Citizens Center. The automated external defibrillator (AED) is a computerized medical device that can check a person's heart rhythm. It can recognize a rhythm that requires a shock. And it can advise the rescuer when a shock is needed. The AED uses voice prompts, lights and text messages to tell the rescuer the steps to take. AEDs are very accurate and easy to use. Jeff Smithern will train staff to operate the AED safely. Ralph Stanley II to perform at Kentucky Music Hall of Fame this Friday, Nov. 13th

Ralph Stanley II will perform at the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame this Friday, November 13th. Doors open at 6 p.m.

Ralph Stanley II will perform at the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame this Friday, November 13th. Doors open at 6 p.m. with the show beginning at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 at the door.

The Berea College Bluegrass Ensemble will open the show at 6:30 p.m. with Ralph II doing a short performance along with a meet and greet afterwards. The tickets can be purchased for $5 at the door and all seating is general admission.

Great record albums evolve in their own direction at their own speed, indifferent to the best-laid plans. Had it followed the original schedule, Ralph Stanley II's This One Is Two would have been out a year or more ago. And, given the talents behind it, it would have been a good album. But it would not have been the remarkable musical achievement it has now become.

During the album's additional year of growth, new songs were found and older choices laid aside, new musicians were added to the already sparkling lineup and new arrangements were ventured. Every element in the project was sharpened. The result is an album that stands on even ground with the best country recordings ever made.

Stanley, who's known as "Two" to his friends (and thus the album title), has spent nearly half his 30 years as lead singer and rhythm guitarist for his father's fabled bluegrass band, the Clinch Mountain Boys. But like the great vocalist Keith Whitley, who preceded him in that position, Stanley has always had a passion for hardcore country songs, the ones that never wear thin from repeated singing.

"I've always wanted to do something more traditionally country," he says, "because that's the music I really admired growing up. When I first signed to Lonesome Day Records, we talked about me doing a half-and-half album, half country and half bluegrass. But the country part turned out so well that we decided to do a whole album of it, nothing but country. And I'm so glad we did."

Those who cherish a direct, unadorned and emotionally honest sound will be glad as well. Stanley's voice resonates with the same sensitivity and conviction we hear in such masters as George Jones, Merle Haggard and John Anderson. His song choices in This One Is Two are equally persuasive. Besides the two solidly country pieces he co-wrote himself, he interprets memorable lyrics from the pens of Lyle Lovett, Tom T. and Dixie Hall, Townes Van Zandt, Fred Eaglesmith, J. P. Pennington and Elton John, among others.

In this sweep, Stanley ruminates about life on the road

("Honky Tonk Way," "If This Old Guitar Could Talk"), homicidal jealousy ("L. A. County"), the excitement of the rails ("Train Songs"), the beauties of the Peach Tree State ("Georgia"), the agony of separation ("They Say I'll Never Go Home," "Cold Shoulder"), his legacy as the son and nephew of the trailblazing Stanley Brothers ("Lord Help Me Find The Way," "Carter"), the comfort of easy ladies ("Loretta") and the irreplaceability of mothers ("Moms Are The Reason Wild Flowers Grow"). It's an 11-course feast of pure country.

Rockets defeat Rowan 41-21 on Friday night

By: Richard Anderkin

The Rockcastle County High School football team defeated host Rowan County Vikings 42-21 in the first round of the state football playoffs on Friday night.

The Rockets jumped out to a 21-0 lead over the Vikings in the first period on three touchdown runs by sophomore Clark Rowe and they never looked back.

Rowe added another score in the second period, giving the Rockets a 27-0 lead, before Rowan got on the board before the half, making the score 27-6.

Rowe scored again in the third period on a five yard run and again on the first play of the fourth period on a 21 yard run to make the score 41-6.

Head coach Scott Parkey began to substitute in the fourth period, to avoid injury to his starters, and the Vikings picked up two late scores.

"Rowan County was a good team but our kids were ready, I am proud of the way they stepped up. It was certainly a playoff atmosphere" Parkey added.

"Rowan County was well prepared to defend against our offense, but we made some changes, running a lot to the weak side and changing the passing game, and it obviously worked. Dustin (Bishop) was very consistent from the quarterback position, something we really needed for the playoffs." Parkey said.

Parkey also praised the defense. "It was the best game the defense has played all year, they showed a lot of heart, giving up only 50 yards rushing all night long," he noted.

"The defense also held Rowan when it was first and goal from the two yard line and they came up with three fumble recoveries in the game, which was big," he said.

Parkey also praised the Rocket special teams, which recovered three fumbles on kick offs.

"Coach Bishop has done a great job of getting the special teams better and better each week," Parkey said.

Offensively, the Rockets, had 436 yards of total offense. Rowe had another great game with 226 yards rushing on 28 carries, John L. Saylor got 83 yards on ten carries, Dustin Bishop had 30 yards on six carries, Zack Reams had nine yards on two carries, Brandon Jones gained one yard and Jon Miller and Jadon Brock, two yards. Rowe, who is just a sophomore, now has over 2000 yards rushing and has scored 26 touchdowns. Rowe scored all six Rocket touchdowns on Friday night.

Bishop was seven for 11 passing for 83 yards. He completed passes to four different players. Rowe caught two passes for 32 yards, Jamie Todd had two catches for 31 yards, Matt Bullens caught one for ten yards and Reams had two catches for 12 yards.

The Rockets were led on defense by B.B. Bradley who had eight tackles and assists.

Bullens had seven tackles and assists, followed by Rowe with six, Dalton Dillingham with five, Ben Lake with four, Cole Abney, John L. Saylor, and Todd, three each, Nick Thomason and Bishop, two each and Corey Baker, Perry Mason, Luke Allen, Damien McDaniel, Spencer Childress, Eli Haddix and Brian Morrison, all with one.

Abney, Allen and Nick Thomason all had fumble recoveries on defense. Saylor, Bullens, Bradley and Dillingham all had sacks in Junior John L. Saylor is shown gaining eight yards on one of his ten carries on Friday night against Rowan County. Saylor had a total of 83 yards. The Rockets travel to Bell County on Friday night for the second round of the state play-offs. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

RCHS girls' cross-country team qualifies for state

The RCHS girls' cross-country team competed in the Class 2A region 5 Championships this past Saturday at Knox Central High School. The Lady Rockets faced their most difficult challenge in recent years. Rival Boyle County benefitted from two transfers from Lexington Christian Academy that were ruled ineligible by the KHSAA earlier in the year, but later won an appeal and were allowed to compete. RCHS hoped to return to form after the team was decimated by an injury to a key team member in 2008 and only one runner qualified for state. The girls' team didn't disappoint, finishing 3rd overall on Saturday in the Region 5 Championships with an exceptional team performance. They defeated 4th place West Jessamine by 19 points. Boyle County took the team title, with Bell County finishing as regional runner-up. RCHS has won five regional championships since 2002 and was regional runner-up in 2006.

Leading the way for RCHS was two-time defending regional champion Laura Dollins, a senior at RCHS. Laura ran the difficult course around Knox Central High School in an amazing 22:14.74, finishing 3rd overall. She earned all-region honors for her great performance and finished the season ranked 13th in the state. At the state championships, she will look to improve upon

Agricultural News

By: Warden Alexander, FSA Director

County Committee Election

The election of agricultural producers to Farm Service Agency (FSA) county committees is important to ALL farmers and ranchers with large or small operations. It is crucial that every eligible producer participate in these elections because FSA county committees are a link between the agricultural community and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Committee members are a critical component of the operations of FSA. They help deliver FSA farm programs at the local level. Farmers and ranchers who serve on committees help with the decisions necessary to administer the programs in their counties. They work to make FSA agricultural programs serve the needs of local producers.

Agricultural producers of legal voting age can vote if they participate or cooperate in any FSA program.

Ballots were mailed to voters by Nov. 6, 2009, and must be returned to the FSA county office or postmarked by Dec. 7, 2009. Eligible voters may contact their local FSA county office before the final date to return ballots if they do not receive a ballot.

FSA announces Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP)

On October 2, Secretary Vilsack announced the eligible counties for the LFP Program where producers can receive disaster payments for forage losses due to severe drought. Producers are reminded that LFP sign up for 2008 losses began on September 14, 2009, and ends Dec. 10, 2009, and Jan. 30, 2010, for 2009 losses.

LFP provides payments to eligible livestock producers that have suffered livestock grazing losses due to qualifying drought or fire. For drought, the losses must have occurred on land that is native or improved pastureland with permanent vegetative cover or a crop planted specifically for grazing for covered livestock due to a qualifying drought during the normal grazing period for the specific type of grazing land in the county. For fire, LFP provides payments to eligible livestock producers that have suffered grazing losses on rangeland managed by a federal agency if the eligible livestock producer is prohibited by the federal agency from grazing the normal permitted livestock on the managed rangeland due to a qualifying fire.

Eligible Kentucky counties for the 2008 calendar year are: Adair, Bell, Casey, Clinton, Cumberland, Harlan, Knox, Laurel, Lincoln, McCreary, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Russell, Wayne and Whitley. Currently no counties are eligible for 2009.

Eligible livestock under LFP include beef cattle, alpacas, buffalo, beefalo, dairy cattle, deer, elk, emus, equine, goats, llamas, poultry, reindeer, sheep and swine. For losses due to drought, qualifying drought ratings are determined using the U.S. Drought Monitor located at <http://www.drought.unl.edu/dm/monitor.html>.

For additional information regarding the LFP program, contact your local FSA Service.

some experience. Words simply cannot express how thankful and honored I am for the privilege of serving on behalf of Pulaski and Rockcastle Counties,” Wood said after filing.

Deatherage, a resident of the street.

Deatherage said thieves took items she, and husband Coleman, had purchased to sell at flea markets, which included knives, guns, quilts and Indian dolls from a storage building in their yard.

Kathy Bryant, who also lives on Paul Street, said thieves recently took over $4,000 worth of tools and syphoned gas out of her husband John’s company truck.

Bryant said thieves walked into her family’s garage and took the tools and a two-tier tool box. “There had to be more than one thief who came into our garage because one person couldn’t have loaded that tool box,” she said. The breakin at the Bryants occurred while the Bryants were at home in bed around 11 p.m. on October 29th.

Since the breakin at Bryants, they have installed a security system.

Deatherage said she was offering a reward for information that may lead to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the rash of breakins.

Deatherage said those with information could call her at 256-9717, the Mt. Vernon City Police at 256-5372 or the Rockcastle Sheriff’s office at 256-2032 daughter of Bethel Cummins Falin Hensley of Mt. Vernon and the late Albert Falin.

Kathy Robinson, 43, who has worked in the Rockcastle County Attorney’s office for the past 23 years has also filed for the office of county clerk.

Carlos McClure files for jailer

Local businessman and Rockcastle County Road Department employee Carlos McClure, 44, announced on Tuesday that he had filed for the office of Rockcastle County Jailer.

McClure, who has been in the used car business in the county for 20 years and a Rockcastle Road Department employee for 22 years, said he thought it was “time for a change in the jailer’s office.”

McClure said he feels his experience in business over the years, and the fact that he had worked with work release prisoners at times over the past 15 years, qualified him to be jailer.

McClure said he thought he could save the county money if he were elected jailer.

McClure and his wife Tara, who owns and operates Bee Jays Grocery at Conway, have a seven-month-old daughter Palin.

McClure’s father, Delno, has been second district constable for the past 12 years.

Current Rockcastle County Jailer James Miller, 51, has also filed for reelection. He is seeking his fourth term. Miller also served as deputy jailer before being elected to the office in 1997.

Carlos McClure

Other county residents who have filed for the May Primary include Rockcastle Property Valuation Administration Margaret Offutt.

The 68-year-old Offutt has served as PVA since 1995 and before that she served as deputy PVA for 13 years.

45-year-old Rockcastle County Attorney Billy Reynolds, has also filed for reelection. Reynolds is seeking his third full term in office.

Kevin Gibbons, 41, has filed for magistrate in the second district, an office currently held by William Denny.

Roger Alcorn, 43, has filed for Constable in the 5th District, a position currently held by David Mason.

Those wishing to file for the May Primary have until Tuesday, January 26th at 4 p.m.

Council members Ronnie Cash, Larry Taylor and Carlos Cash also voted to give Newland Construction 45 working days to complete the project. If the project is not complete in the 45 working days, Newland will lose $100 a day.

The only other bidder on the project was ASA Builders of Berea, who bid $18,600.

In other business, the council voted to enter into an agreement with RC&D Engineers of London for an archaeology study on the proposed new city park, across from Citizens Bank on Hwy. 150.

The city has obtained a $40,000 grant but, before they can continue with construction at the park, the state is requiring the study.

Land for the park was donated by Community Trust Bank last year.

Council member Ronnie Cash also told the council that he had contacted a representative from the Kentucky League Cities and that the organization would be in Brodhead in December to provide training to council members and Mayor Walter Cash as to how to properly conduct city business.

The council also briefly discussed a recently approved $9,650 Homeland Security Grant, which will be used for a new repeater system for the fire department.

Council member Taylor, who is also Brodhead Fire chief, said the repeater would help communications between fire department members and 911.

tracks near East Bernstadt.

Further investigation into why the driver did not stop for Trooper Pennington uncovered an active Meth lab inside the truck, according to KSP Public Affairs Officer Don Trosper.

Pennington arrested and charged:

Ford J. Wagers, 24, of London, with fleeing or evading police, unlawful possession of Meth precursors and several traffic offenses.

Frankie Powell, 29, of Brodhead, with fleeing or evading police, unlawful possession of Meth precursors and several traffic offenses.

Both individuals were lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center, under a $30,000 cash or property bond, and they are scheduled for preliminary hearings next Monday, November 16th.

Trooper Pennington is continuing the investigation and was assisted, at the scene, by Rockcastle Sheriff’s Deputies Joe Rush and Ronnie Bradley Jr., along with other state troopers from the London Post and deputies from the Laurel County Sheriff’s office.

ceived a call around 6 p.m. from CSX officials, but that when members of the Livingston fire department arrived at the scene they found nothing.

“He was so sure he had hit a man walking along the tracks that he stopped his train on the tracks behind Medley’s Barber Shop,” Barron said.

The asst. chief said members of the Livingston fire department and Mt. Vernon fire department searched the area around the tracks and the Rockcastle River for over two hours.

Barron said volunteers also looked under the train cars for any sign of blood or clothing and found no evidence that anyone had been hit.

RCHS to host annual Book Fair and Food Drive

Students from Rockcastle County High School will host a special Book Fair from Scholastic on November 30-December 7, 2009, to help add more exciting new books to the RCHS Library Media Center. This year's themes are "Destination Book Fair: Read Around the World" and "Destination Ashlee's House: Feed Your Community".

On Tuesday, December 1, 2009, from 1:30 until 4:30 PM, the Book Fair will be open for parents and community members to come by to do their shopping. Tied in with the annual Book Fair is a Boxed and Canned Food Drive sponsored by the RCHS Book Club to benefit Ashlee's House. Students will have their names put into a drawing for each box or can of food they donate. Prizes include Book Fair gift certificates and other surprises! Food donations will be accepted in the school library each day during the Book Fair.

Students can also participate in a guessing game for another chance to win a book fair gift certificate. For more information about the RCHS Book Fair, visit webpage "http://bookfairs.scholastic.com/homepage/rockcastlehigh" or call Janet Wells, RCHS Library Media Specialist, at 606-256-4816.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet? Some things to think about...

What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?

Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.

Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?

A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150* degree) soapy water containing lye and bleach to help dissolve stains.

B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.

The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufactures recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.

Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?

C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.

D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.

E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.

The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.
