Six days missed to date

No School again on Wednesday

Rockcastle County School Supt. Larry Hammond called off school again on Wednesday, for the sixth time this school year.

Wednesday's cancellation of schools means, for now, students will have to go to school this school year until May 25th, if no more days are missed because of inclement weather.

According to local weatherman Bud Cox, since January 1st snow has fallen 11 of the 13 days of the month and the mercury did not reach the freezing mark until Wednesday.

The low recorded temperature in January was five degrees on the 3rd and 4th.

Before Wednesday, the high temperature in January was 29 on the 12th.

York dies after trip to pain clinic in Florida

On Tuesday, January 5th, Williamsburg police found the body of a Brodhead man in the back seat of a car that had been driven back to Kentucky from a Florida pain clinic, Whitley County Coroner Andy Croley said.

The body of Timmy L. York 44, was taken to the Williamsburg police station by a woman who lives in the Mount Vernon area.

Another woman from Rockcastle County was also in the car, the coroner said.

York died on Interstate 75 somewhere in Tennessee while coming home to Kentucky, Croley said. The women were trying to reach a Williamsburg medical clinic, using the vehicle's global positioning system, but they found themselves at the police station instead at about 11:30 a.m., the coroner said.

The coroner said York had Xanax, a drug used to Winter weather in the county has caused roads to be slick and hazardous, causing school to be dismissed six days over the past two weeks. Above, Gary Prewitt eases down a very slick Old U.S. 25 on Saturday morning. (Front page photos by: Richard Anderkin.)

Mt. Vernon City Water Department employees braved the cold temperatures on Saturday morning to fix a main water line break, caused by the extremely cold temperatures the county has been experiencing. Above, city superintendent Dennis McClure, left and employee Brian Pittman work to get the broken line, which was on Main Street in front of McKinney's Tire. It took about six and half hours to fix the line but no customers were without water, although some residents did experience low water pressure.

Shortly after 11 p.m. on Monday night, Rockcastle County roads became extremely slick and hazardous. Rockcastle 911 dispatcher Russell Barron said 18 wrecks occurred in the county in about a two hour period, including the above wreck, which happened on Lake Cumberland Road. A Somerset couple hit the cliff about a half mile from Mt. Vernon.

State Highway Department employees have been working around the clock in the past two weeks to keep roads safe, putting tons of salt on all state roads. Above, employee Tim Daughtery is shown getting into a salt truck on Monday to begin pre-salting highways before the bad weather on Monday night.

Road complaints are main topic at Fiscal Court monthly meeting

Road woes in the county took up much of Tuesday's regular meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court.

Gary Mason and Alan Cromer were at the meeting to once again ask the court why a private land owner had been allowed to erect a gate across Eagle Creek Road in the southern end of the county.

Mason, who had been before the court on the matter before, questioned why the road had not been closed properly and why the county quit maintaining it.

There was much discussion on the matter, and County Attorney Billy Reynolds was called on to research the law.

The court explained to Mason and Cromer that the road had been abandoned by the county and had not been worked, beyond the gate, since at least 1994. On Wednesday, County Judge/Executive Buzz Carloftis told the Signal that he had found out, since the meeting, that the gate had been up for over 30 years. However, Cromer told the court that the road, beyond the gate, was worked in 2005 to which Carloftis responded "not on my order."

Evidently the gate was not locked for many years but Magistrate Bill Rockcastle County Judge-Executive Buzz Carloftis has filed for a fifth term.

Carloftis was among several who filed as a candidate for the May Primary in Rockcastle Norma Houk's office.

Carloftis, 58, has been County Judge-Executive since 1993 and is the longest sitting Judge-Executive in the 5th Congressional District. He is also the fourth longest sitting County Judge-Executive in the state.

Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell, 72, who has served longer than any other Rockcastle County official, also filed for re-election. Dowell, who was first elected in 1965, will be seeking a 12th term.

Livingston City Council member 34-year-old Phillip Doan has filed for magistrate in the second district as has Joe Barron, 44. Incumbent district magistrate two Will-

Local man loses everything in Monday night fire in Mt. Vernon

Three volunteer fire departments braved slick roads and extremely cold temperatures to respond to a house fire on Quarry Street in Mt. Vernon early Tuesday morning.

According to a dispatcher at Rockcastle 911, firefighters were called to the home of Larry Bradley at 3 a.m.

Bradley said he was asleep and was awakened by glass shattering in his bathroom.

Fire Chief David Bales said the heat from the fire caused the window to shatter.

Bradley said he thought someone was trying to break-in, but when he opened the bathroom door the heat from the fire and the smoke overwhelmed

I'm really confused about all this global warming warning bull manure being foisted on us by the high and mighty numbskull squad of over-funded, self righteous scientist-wanna-be's and the good old United States news media. My little corner of the globe has been getting colder and colder over the last couple of years. I don't deny that we've had a few consecutive warm winter spells since the turn of the century. On the other hand, the southeastern part of the United States is currently undergoing the coldest winter we've seen in 40 years after experiencing the coolest summer since back in the mid fifties.

In the meantime, while weather patterns follow a somewhat predictable flow from decade to decade, half the population of the continent is suddenly up in alarm in fear that north pole is melting and California is gonna be washed away and they blame it all on coal.

You can't walk through downtown Berea these days for fear of getting hit by an errant jerking knee in fear of coal. If I were in charge of things, I'd simply cut off all coal-generated power going into Berea and let them fix their problem. A sun god mounted on top of Boone Tavern ought to do it, especially if they can turn jerking knees into electricity.

Actually California is going to be washed away due to earthquakes and normal erosion sometime down the line but not in our life time. Thank God. Can you imagine an influx of washed-away Californians moving to your town? If that doesn't make you shudder, I don't know what it will take.

And also, thank God, California is apt to be around well after Arnold Whatanasser learns to speek angleesh.

Your average hillbilly can leave the mountains, move to Detroit, or, for that matter,

Rockcastle Memories

Rockcastle Memories Collecting knives

When I was a little boy following my grandfather (Pop) around, I noticed that he always had a knife in his pocket. His reason for carrying such a "nifty" item all the time was not for fun or habit but to use as a tool. His use of the knife was sometimes humorous but always interesting.

Once Pop and I were strolling through his garden when he stopped and plucked a turnip from the ground. He shook off the excess dirt from the vegetable and reached for his knife. As he began to peel the turnip, Mommie Katie walked up and said, "Gene, surely you are not going to use that knife to peel that turnip!" He laughingly replied, "Sure I am, it works alright when I cut my toenails!" That woman could give a look of disgust that was so potent that it was truly unforgettable. And I can still see it on her face as she turned and walked back to the house.

Pop gave me my first knife when I was about six years old. He did not have a certain brand that he used, but he chose one that had good steel and that he could keep sharp. The knife he gave me was a Camillus, and it is still in my collection. Although it is in anything but pristine condition, I am so proud to still have that white-handled, three-bladed knife from my grandfather.

While sitting under a shade tree in our yard, Pop showed me how to use a "whet stone" to sharpen my new knife. By the time I finished that task, that baby would shave the hairs off my arm.

He also gave me proper instructions on the use and care of such a useful tool. Mostly, I just used it for "whittling." But Pop illustrated any number of uses for a good knife. And he gave a lecture that I have never forgotten concerning the safety of using a pocket knife.

From that point on, I became a collector and have continued for over 50 years. At some point, I discovered the well-known Case brand of pocket knives. My collecting has been concentrated on that brand even though I have lots of other brands as well.

When I first started teaching chemistry at Campbellsville High School, I met an elderly gentleman who was a real authority on knives, and I often visited with him to learn more about older knives. He was probably in his 70's at the time, and one day he presented me a beautiful Case knife that he had owned for many years. I remember him saying, "Since you have such a love of good knives, I want you to have this one that I have had for a long time." His generosity touched me, and that one always brings those memories to mind whenever I handle it. I suppose that was probably the reason that I started collecting the Case brand.

In the mid-sixties, I took a teaching position at Mt. Sterling High School which came attached with the assignment of assistant football coach. The head coach, "Chili" Ishmael, was a good friend of mine, and he also loved pocket knives. He had one special Case knife that he never failed to have in his pocket when he coached. We teased him a lot about his "lucky" knife, but the teasing stopped when we won the State Championship in 1969!

Todd, my son who was killed in an automobile wreck in 1992, had a great appreciation of knives. One Christmas I gave him a Case "Eisenhower" with stag handles, and I think he loved that knife more than any gift I ever gave him. Needless to say, that one is certainly my most prized. Any time that I hold it, I still see the big smile that he had when he opened that gift.

Another choice knife that I favor is one that my wife gave me a few years ago - a Case canoe with Mammoth-tusk handles. The company claims, "These handles are more than 13,000 years old." She surprised me this past Christmas with one that has an elk engraved on the cream-colored handle. It is just too cool!

The subject of knives reminds me of a man here in Powell County who is a "flint knapper." His name is Johnny Faulkner. One summer afternoon, he and I sat under a tree as I watched him shape a knife blade from a large piece of flint that he had collected in the county. For a couple of hours, he carefully chipped away small pieces of the stone until it began to take the shape of a blade. His skills are quite remarkable! When he finished his flint knife, he graciously handed it to me and said, "You can have this as a souvenir." It has a place on

by: Tonya J. Cook

For the next series of columns, I hope to explore the section of the county known as Wabd. This small community is especially dear to me, as my maternal great-grandparents and most of their kin lived there.

For my information, I've interviewed Winnie Norton-Bullock by phone. She was born in Wabd to Willis Mitchell Norton and Clearcy Sowder-Norton in 1924. Her grandfather, Robert Patterson Norton and my great-grandfather, Joseph M. Norton, were brothers. The following are her memories of her living and growing up in Wabd.

Wabd was just a small, rural, farming section of the county located west of Mount Vernon on what is now Highway 461. Most of the people who lived there had large farms on the rolling acres that are so abundant.

Central to any small community was the local general store and post office. In this case, they were combined. This operation sat on the corner of Old 461, known as the Doc Adams Road and I think, Spiro Road. Kentucky Candle Wax Supply now occupies this area.

The store/post office was there when Winnie was born, and she is pretty sure it was there long before that. There was a gentleman known as "Uncle" Will Robbins, who ran it. After some time, it was torn down and Clarice Denny built and ran a general store there.

For a time, the home of Bradley Saylor was used as the post office. It was a large, two-story frame house that is still standing. It is located on the Doc Adams Road, just after it turns off the new Highway 461, and is owned by Howard McClure. Winnie said, that to get your mail, you had to go to the side door and knock for service.

Another central point of interest was the Norton School. It was a small frame building located about a mile up Sand Springs Road to the left. It housed grades 1 through 8, and started in 1917. The final year the school was in existence was 1956.

Winnie and her children attended it, as did all the children of the area.

Winnie said that there was a plaque on the front wall of the classroom that noted each teacher, and the year that they taught. She also had some documentation at home that had the same thing. It is as follows: Egbert F. Norton was the first teacher in 1917. He was followed by John Scott, 1918 and -19; Ernest Bullock, 1920; John Scott, 1921; Nellie Norton-Cope, 1922; Ernest Bullock, 1923; John Jones, 1924; Nellie Norton-Cope, 1925; Bessie Norton, 1926; Myrtle Norton-Miller, 1927; Dolly Norton, 1928, -29, and -30; J. N. Brown, 1931; Jean Pope, 1932 and -33; John Scott, 1934; Laverne Owens, 1935; John Jones, 1936; Winnie Coffey, 1937; Fannie Norton, 1938; Cletus Southard, 1939; Leonard Bullock, 1940 and -41; Catherine Graves, 1942 and -43; Ina Lear, 1944; Martha Graves, 1945; Ina Lear, 1946; Martha Graves, 1947; Wilma Whitaker, 1948; Lucille Graves, 1949; Alma Pike, 1950; Elisa Gilliam, 1951; Norma Payne, 1952; Mary Jane Hall, 1953; Hubert Hunt, 1954; Lucy Payne, 1955; Joanna Norton, 1956.

This will end our visit to Wabd, at least through the memory of Winnie Norton-Bullock. As I have noted before, and must stress, these are memories that have been related to me by telephone. I have taken the liberty of adding a few comments here and there in order to better explain the story. If anyone else has anything farther to add, please feel free to contact me with the information.

Psoriasis Can Be Treated, Not Cured

Presented by Dr. Kevin Rowe

Millions of people have psoriasis, a genetically determined skin disease. When the psoriasis is in a visible area of the skin, it can make a person self-conscious and cause him to avoid many activities, such as sun bathing, even though sunlight actually helps the rash.

Psoriasis is a disease that causes thickening and redness of the skin, typically in areas of pressure, such as over the knees and elbows or between the buttocks. In severe cases, it can develop across the whole body. Stresses, trauma to the skin, and certain medicines may exacerbate the condition. These causes should be avoided whenever possible.

Topical steroids are quite helpful in controlling the symptoms, but as soon as they are stopped there may be a recurrence, or even worsening, of the disease. One of the most useful treatments is keeping the lesions soft with ointments or moisturizers. Plain petrolatum is good, and a moisturizer, such as urea lotion, can be helpful.

More severe cases may benefit from newer medications such as topical retinoids or calcipotriene. On facial lesions where steroids should be avoided if possible, a person may use topical tacrolimus or pimecrolimus.

A very reliable treatment is a strong topical tar cream along with exposure to sunlight. Unfortunately, tar preparations can irritate the skin, stain clothes, and have a tar odor. In the most severe cases, a person may need to take oral medicines that reduce the cell division which is at the root of the problem. This can include immune modifying medicines such as infliximab or etanercept.

Although treatment is usually effective, there is still no cure for psoriasis.

Senate Week in Review...

By Ed Worley,
State Senator

Members of the Kentucky General Assembly convened the 2010 legislative session last week with a variety of issues that need attention, including the a l w a y s -challenging task of compiling a two-year budget plan for the Commonwealth.

Even-year sessions, like this one, meet for 60 days. The two-year state budget is written during this "long session," and this budget session will be difficult because of the magnitude of the decisions we must make. Even if we only flatline the spending already in place, Kentucky faces at least a $900 million deficit. That is 10 percent of the annual budget, and a number that large cannot be remedied with simple changes.

Since we passed the current budget two years ago, it has been cut six times, mostly through wholesale cuts across State Government, together with certain tax increases. As Governor Beshear said in his State-of-the-Commonwealth address, out of adversity comes opportunity. This is our chance to re-evaluate our priorities for State Government, assess which state programs work and generally slim down our agencies to a manageable level. Simply requiring all areas of government to reduce spending by 10 percent will not necessarily make government more efficient in the long run.

One way to make government more efficient is make government more transparent and ethical. We will have several bills this session aimed at putting state spending and campaign finance reports online. Twenty years ago, Kentucky was at the forefront of ethics reform and we need to continue this distinction.

We also want to be a leader in education. This week, University of Kentucky President, Dr. Lee Todd, spoke with the Obama Administration about federal initiatives to increase the number of math and science teachers in our K-12 schools -- a push we have successfully made in Frankfort for several sessions. We will be continuing those efforts this year, along with keeping a close eye on the implementation of school testing reform measures we passed last year.

Of course, during the next three months, there will be many other issues to arise, ranging from criminal code reform to energy independence to domestic violence. Each week, I will report on our work in Frankfort, but to truly be your servant at the Capitol, citizens must be actively engaged. In addition to following news reports and reading my columns, you can keep up with legislative action through the Kentucky Legislature Home Page and the General Assembly's toll-free phone lines, or our free e-mail news service.

The Kentucky Legislature Home Page, www.lrc.ky.gov, provides information on each of Kentucky's senators and representatives, including our phone numbers, addresses, and committee assignments. The home page also provides summaries and texts of bills under consideration, as well as information on the daily progress each bill has made through the legislative process.

By going to our eNews page, www.lrc.ky.gov/pubinfo/listserv.htm, you can subscribe to frequent e-mail updates on what is happening at the Capitol. In addition, the General Assembly has its own blog, Capitol Notes, www.lrc.ky.gov/pubinfo/capitol_notes.htm, that will allow you to receive legislative updates at your leisure.

You can also stay in touch with General Assembly action in the following ways:

- A taped message containing information on legislative committee meetings is updated daily at 1-800-633-9650.

- To leave a message for any legislator, call the General Assembly's toll-free Message Line at 1-800-372-7181. People with hearing difficulties may leave messages for lawmakers by calling the TTY Message Line at (808) 896-0305.

- You can also write any legislator by sending a letter with the lawmaker's name to: Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

- You can also e-mail me at ed.worley@lrc.ky.gov.

"Points East"

California, and then come home for a visit eight weeks later and you can't understand a word he says because he has the dialect of his new locale down pat and does not want to fall back into bad diction habits.

I've had hundreds of cousins move northward with a parting salute and a fare well: "Reckon I'll see yaall in a little while if the good Lords a willin and the creeks don't rise."

On the first visit home, instead of "How you all doin? That younger sure is growin up": its "ououou mye goodness it is so wonderful to see youse gouys again. UOOO OOO ooo, mye, mye; isn't sweet little Johnny commencing to mature."

I swear to you, they learn this in eight weeks or less. Arnold has been in California for sixty years and he still sounds like a Hungarian who learned what little English he can pronounce from a sailor while he was on the boat on his way over here. Not only that, but he married into the Kennedy Clan, paradoxically still hates welfare and got himself elected Governor of California. I figure that as soon as his term is up he will move to Minnesota, announce that he is a candidate for gov, and be elected by a landslide without spending a dime on his campaign. As in California, all you have to have to be governor of Minnesota is an empty skull and a fantastic body.

In Kentucky, all you have to have is an empty skull with a devious atmosphere inside it to get elected to anything. If you don't believe me, take a long hard look at our legislature and the governor's office.

But don't get involved in any duels unless you can lie your way out of it. Even you, might consider running for office and you surely would not swear a lie.

Yards to Paradise

January is National Mail Order Gardening Month

By Max Phelps

Planning season for the upcoming year's success and accomplishments generally begins in January for gardeners, homeowners, and many outdoor workers and businesses. Planting season is preceded by planning season.

The lull in business following the winter holidays, coupled with cold days that make outdoor activities less inviting to many, tends to get folks into a mode of wishing and daydreaming and a perusing of the loads of catalogs that seem to flood our mailboxes early in the year. Indeed, sitting by the fire can lead to some very useful planning time.

Catalog merchants and mailorder and online vendors know that you want your advertising flyer or message in front of potential buyers especially December through February. Seed catalogs timed to fill mailboxes at this time when many have time on their hands are probably showing up at your place, and may be covering the desk or coffee table unless they've been put in the trashcan already.

I want to encourage anyone who has some need or desire to do more in the yard or garden next spring and summer to consider actually taking advantage of some of these catalogs. And, there are many to choose from!

The Mail Order Gardening Association has a website that lists lots of catalogs and links to gardening portals.

An encouraging word:

The Value of Friendship

By Howard Coop

Christmas has come and gone; only memories of memorable moments remain. Memory of one special moment lingers in my mind.

On Sunday evening before Christmas, I went to the Kentucky Depot, one of my favorite restaurants, to have dinner and to order a meal to take home to Kathryn who was unable to accompany me. When I arrived, Crystal, whose name means "beautiful and flawless", was serving as hostess. She greeted me pleasantly and escorted me to a seat. After a brief conversation, Crystal returned to her station, and I went to see what was available on the buffet. There, I met Gladys, the amiable and outgoing owner of the restaurant. She, too, greeted me warmly, and after a pleasant conversation, I asked her about a take-out meal for Kathryn. She assured me that it would be a delight to prepare it. As we talked, Mimi, a lovely lady with winning personality, approached us. Knowing what I wanted without asking, she had taken a glass of tea to my table and had come to take my order, and I gave it to her.

As I ate my dinner, I watched those three ladies as they happily prepared a bountiful meal for me to take home to Kathryn. When they finished that task, they came by my table to see if I needed anything.

As I left the table after my meal, I stopped to thank Gladys for her help. While we talked, both Crystal and Mimi joined us, and in a moment, I felt a tap on my shoulder. When I turned, there stood Jessica, another waitress with an ingratiating smile and a genuine sense of humor. She joined us, and after four hugs, many kind words, and some tears of joy, the conversation ended.

I paid the cashier and left. In my heart, I felt genuine peace and good will, for I had received an angelic message from those gracious ladies: The value of friendship is priceless.

"What Is Written"

In Acts 16:27-34 we read about the conversion of Philippian jailer. After the earthquake the jailer was about ready to kill himself vs.27. It was then that Paul said, "Do thyself no harm: for we are all here." vs.28. In vs.30 we read about the jailer bringing them out and asking that great question, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" Notice what they said, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." vs.31. Now a lot of folks want to stop right there and close their Bibles, and say, "That's all you have to do to be saved, just believe in Jesus, faith only." But that is not where the story ends beloved. How would the jailer and his family know what to believe about Christ? How could they have known about death, burial and resurrection of Jesus from that statement of vs.31? Notice vs.32 "And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house." They had more to say in teaching them, than what is stated in vs.31. Let's continue in vs.33, "And he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his, straightway." Washing their stripes was a manifestation of the fruits of repentance in their lives. Take note that they were baptized the same hour of the night, (sometime after midnight vs.25, approximately 1-3 AM in the morning). How did they know about being baptized? They had "spake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house." Why would they be baptized in the middle of the night? They wanted to be saved from their sin. Baptism is a condition of salvation that is to be preached to every creature, Mk.16:15-16

Quick and Easy Tips to Trim Your Energy Bill!

TEMPERATURES AREN'T THE ONLY NUMBERS THAT FLUCTUATE WITH THE SEASONS....

$o can your electric bill!

By signing up for Jackson Energy's Levelized Billing program, you know within a few dollars how much your bill will be every month. Here's how Levelized Billing works -

"What IS Levelized Billing and why is it better for me?"

Levelized Billing takes the highs and lows out of your monthly electric bill by using a rolling average of your most recent 12 months' bills and varies by only a few dollars each month.

It differs from the old "Budget Billing" program, which used the same payment amount each month based on your last 12 bills. Then once a year, a settle-up amount had to be calculated to factor in weather fluctuations and other changes. Levelized Billing eliminates the settle-up payment because it is a constant rolling average of your electric bill!

"Great! So how do I sign up OR ask a question?"

Sign up for Levelized Billing by calling 1 800-262-7480, or download a Levelized Billing Sign-Up Form by visiting us at: www.jacksonenergy.com and clicking on the "Paying Your Bill" button on the home page. All you need to do is fill it out and mail it to us to enroll!

Mail to: Jackson Energy, Attn: Levelized Billing, 115 Jackson Energy Lane, McKee, KY 40447.

Applications being taken for wildlife habitat program

USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) is accepting applications for the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP). Landowners may apply for WHIP at any time. However, applications received by January 29 will be evaluated and considered for the 2010 program year. Applications received after that date will be held until the next evaluation period.

WHIP provides land users an opportunity to improve wildlife habitat. The program provides financial incentives for installing eligible practices on land they own or control. The land user must devote at least 10 acres to eligible wildlife practices.

In Kentucky, the primary focus of WHIP is to improve early successional and forestland habitats for declining species and other wildlife. Restoring remnant prairies, planting native grasses, shrubs and trees are some of the eligible practices for the program. Other eligible practices include implementing forest stand improvements and creating shallow water areas. Excluding livestock from sensitive streams and woodlands is also an important focus under Kentucky's 2010 WHIP. Since WHIP focuses on improvement to wildlife cover, food plots are not eligible under the program.

WHIP applications are evaluated and ranked to determine which applications provide the most beneficial habitats. For more information about the program, call the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Information Center at 1-800-858-1549 and ask for the name and telephone number of the private lands biologist serving your area.

Money tips for college students

How to make it, use it and save it

Plan your financial goals

Students with jobs are encouraged to set long-term financial goals beyond paying the current month's bills.

The biggest goal should be to save money for retirement. For college students, another important goal is to graduate with as little debt as possible. Financial goals may also include saving for a vacation or a new car. Whatever the goal, have a plan to achieve it.

To plan for your financial future, make a list of your short and long-term goals. Estimate how much you will set aside from each paycheck to save for those goals. Make sure your estimate is reasonable. You will have a better idea of how to reach your goals when you know for how long you will need to save. That may mean cutting back on some things such as dining out or shopping. It might even mean getting a part-time job, if your schedule permits.

Remember that how much you earn may affect your financial aid package. Dependent students are expected to be able to use more of their earnings to pay for college because the financial aid system assumes their parents are paying for most of the students' day-to-day expenses.

Whatever your goal may be, you have a much better chance of reaching it if you have a plan in place.

To learn how to plan and prepare for higher education, go to www.GoHigherKY.org. For more information about Kentucky scholarships and grants, visit www.kheaa.com; write KHEAA, P.O. Box 798, Frankfort, KY 40602-0798; or call (800) 928-8926, extension 6-7372.

Ford Brothers Auctioneers-Realtors Add On-Line Auction Service with MarkNet Alliance

Ford Brothers Auctioneers-Realtors, with offices in Somerset, Mt Vernon and London, are celebrating 45 years of successful operations assisting clients all over the Southeast. Ford Brothers commitment to ensuring all clients have the most responsive and impactful advertising and marketing for listings and auctions has been greatly enhanced with the strategic alliance with MarkNet Alliance, a web based company dedicated to marketing on site and hosting online auctions of real estate and personal property. This alliance allows Ford Brothers clients to benefit from a nationwide audience of buyers and sellers by use of the World Wide Web.

According to the National Association of Realtors, using Internet to search for property has risen dramatically. Just 2% of buyers used it in 1995, but that rose to 83% in 2006. "In our beta testing of this product in our market we have seen a vast increase in unique viewers to auctions and listings on our web site, and for us to have the ability to hold an on-line auction for our clients has huge benefits such as negating any concerns with inclimate weather, time frames for getting an audience for the sale; and a host of other logistical issues", says Devin Ford of Ford Brothers. Real estate auctions continue to be one of the fastest growing marketing sectors, generating 58.4 billion dollars in 2007, up 5.3% from the previous year nationwide.

"While live ...on-site auctions will continue to be a staple of the industry, adding the alliance with MarkNet... and our ability to draw on our award winning marketing and advertising resources, allows Ford Brothers to keep out in front in serving our customers", says Matt Ford.

To check out the online auction features added to their web site you can visit fordbrothersinc.com.

Rockets lose in overtime at Pulaski County

The Rockcastle County Rocket basketball team lost their first district game of the season on Monday night, when the Pulaski County Maroons beat them in overtime, 71-66.

Poor free throw shooting by the Rockets in the second half allowed Pulaski County to stay in the game and a last second questionable call put Pulaski County on the free throw line where they hit one shot to put the game in overtime.

"I'm not sure about that call, but we shouldn't have put ourselves in that situation to begin with," said head coach Benny Blanton.

"We've got to do a better job of finishing," Blanton said.

The Rockets were led in scoring by their big man, Derek Thacker who had a season high 30 points.

Jamie Todd had 10, Matt Bullens, 7, Dustin Reynolds and Matt Lunsford, 5 each and Travis Carpenter, 2.

The Rockets were scheduled to play Southwestern on Tuesday night but because of bad weather the game was canceled.

Coach Blanton said he did not know if the Southwestern game would be rescheduled since it is not a district game.

The Rockets will host Knox Central on Friday night.

Rocket big man Derek Thacker, shown here in an earlier game this season, scored a season high 30 points on Monday night against Pulaski County. The Rockets will return to action on Friday night when they host Knox Central.

Lady Rockets beat Clay Co. and Pulaski

The Rockcastle County High School Lady Rockets upped their season record to 13-3 this week, after wins over highly-touted Clay County and district foe Pulaski County.

Monday night the host Lady Rockets easily defeated the state's 19th ranked team, the Lady Tigers of Clay County, 55-33.

The Lady Rockets led by seven at the end of the first quarter and by 15 at half-time. In the third period they added to their lead by four and in the fourth quarter they played good defense to ice the 22 point victory.

Senior Jackie Alexander led all scorers with 16, center Sara Hammond scored 13 and led her team in rebounding. Shanlee Burton had 10, Angie Lawrence, 7, Kristen Abney, 5 and Sydney Arvin and Ella McQueary, 2 each.

On Tuesday night the Lady Rockets easily downed the Lady Maroons of Pulaski County, 76-44, in a district game, evening their district record at 2-2.

The Lady Rockets jumped out to an early lead and never looked back, leading 43 to 17 at half-time and 61-25 at the end of three periods.

Head Coach Chrysti Noble played all sixteen of the players on her roster, with four players scoring in double figures.

Junior Kristen Abney led the way with 19 points, Michaela Hunter had 14, Alexander and Hammond, 11 each, Arvin, Burton, Lawrence and Katie Cowan, 4 each, Casey Sturgill and McQueary, 2 each and Holly Ham, 1.

"We played good defense and didn't make many turnovers. But in order to reach our goals, we have a lot of work to do," coach Noble said.

The Lady Rockets, who are ranked in the top 20 in the state, will travel to Breathitt County on Friday night. The Lady Rockets have four consecutive road games before they return home on January 29th for another district game with Pulaski County.

Lady Rocket Michaela Hunter scored three points in the JV game on Monday night against Clay County.

Gabbard signs with Univ. of the Cumberland

This past Thursday, RCHS senior Deana Gabbard signed with the University of the Cumberland where she will continue her education along with her cross-country and track career.

Gabbard joins a very talented team coached by Floyd Stroud who is in his 18th season as the Patriot's head coach. Coach Stroud has had great team success over the past two decades and has also coached over 80 All-Americans in both cross-country and track during his tenure.

The University of the Cumberland competes in the NAIA's very competitive Mid-South Conference and the women's team is the defending Mid-South Conference Cross-Country Champions after claiming the title in 2009.

A Governor's Scholar and a former all-state athlete in track and field, Gabbard has distinguished herself as an outstanding distance runner over the past several years at RCHS. She's regarded as one of the hardest working athletes in the history of the RCHS track and cross-country program by Mark Brummett, head girls' track and cross-country coach at RCHS.

"Deana is certainly one of the hardest working, most dedicated athletes I've ever coached," Brummett said. "She will definitely be a great addition to Coach Stroud's team."

In the meantime, Gabbard is looking to help lead the RCHS girls' track team to their 4th straight Mason-Dixon Games Class 2A Indoor State Championship title. The team is also seeking their 10th Region 5 Championship title during outdoor season, which would also be the team's 7th straight, and another shot at the Class 2A Outdoor State treat anxiety, and the pain-killer oxycodone in his possession. The drugs were prescribed to him, Croley said.

Funeral services for York were held on Sunday at the Marvin E. Owens Home for funerals.

iam Denny has yet to file. Incumbent district one magistrate, John Holbrook, 74, has also filed for reelection and third district magistrate, Bill McKinney, 64, filed for a fifth term on Tuesday. Holbrook is a democrat and McKinney a republican.

Also this week, Alan Cromer, 51, filed for magistrate in the third district. 40-year-old Chris Mason, also filed for constable in the 5th district. He is seeking to take the seat of his late father David, who died last week.

Mason has been appointed by Carloftis to fill his father's unexpired term and will serve until Jan. 1, 2011.

Those wishing to run for office in the May Primary have until January 26th to file.

Those wishing to run for a non-partisan office, such as Mayor, city council or school board have until August 10th to file.

“Robbery”

in Thursday's robbery of Cumberland Valley National Bank & Trust in Berea, during which a cross-dressing man took an undisclosed amount of cash from the bank at gunpoint.

According to a press release from the Berea Police Department, Lear confessed to the Berea bank robbery, as well as the crimes in Richmond and Danville.

Assistant Danville Police Chief Tom Bustle said police were able to catch Lear because of a joint effort between the Berea, Danville and Richmond police departments, the Rockcastle Sheriff's Office and Kentucky State Police.

“We all had pieces of the puzzle,” Bustle said.

In Boyle County, Lear faces charges of first-degree robbery and theft stemming from the Dec. 29 robbery of The Check Exchange at 1406 Hustonville Road.

In that robbery, a white male about 6 feet tall, dressed as a woman, wearing a maroon wig, make-up and dark clothing stole an undetermined amount of money, Bustle said.

Witnesses told Danville Sgt. Todd Davis that the robber “had very nice facial makeup.”

On Nov. 6, a man dressed as a woman robbed the Comfort Suites at Exit 87 off of Interstate 75 in Richmond.

Police have contacted the FBI to see if Lear matches descriptions of suspects from any other robberies.

him.

Bradley was taken by ambulance to Rockcastle Regional Hospital where he was treated for smoke inhalation and burns to his face.

Bradley said he was not able to recover anything from the house, but that he did have insurance.

Besides the Mt. Vernon volunteer fire department, firefighters from Brodhead and Livingston also responded.

Firefighters were on the scene of the fire for more than four hours.

“Roads”

McKinney said that the landowner locked it several years ago because of a series of thefts on the property.

After over an hour of discussion, the matter was left with Carloftis telling Mason and Cromer that Reynolds would research the matter further.

Cromer later filed as a candidate for Magistrate in District 3, a seat presently held by Magistrate Bill McKinney, who also filed his papers for reelection yesterday.

Another contingent of residents of Madison View Drive were at the meeting to ask for work on their road, including widening, guard rails and cutting of pine trees that obstruct vision.

This group was told that the road would be inspected to see what could be done and if easements could be obtained in the areas where the road needed to be widened.

Sandy Whitaker and Zack Gentry with Rockcastle County Soil Conservation were at the meeting to tell the court that they now have a $5,000 grant to help with animal removal in the county.

Gentry told the court that their organization had contracted with Dead Animal Removal Services out of Winchester to remove dead animals at a cost of $75 each. The grant will allow the soil conservation service to pay $55 of each removal with the farmer being responsible for the remaining $20.

This is the first time this service has been available in the county. Previously state law required that animals be buried under strict guidelines.

Gentry and Whitaker told the court that the $55 co-pay would be available as long as the grant money lasted and asked the court to become a partner in sustaining the program when the $5,000 grant runs out. The court expressed their support of the program and said they could be counted on to provide funding when needed.

The court also heard from Jerry Burke, a member of the Rockcastle County Library Board. Burke told the court that the heat pump, which services the rear part of the library, had been malfunctioning for several years, causing a big increase in utility bills.

Burke said that the board had tried several times to have the unit repaired but to no avail and asked the court to share the cost of replacing the unit with them.

Gene Cromer, who is in charge of maintenance at the courthouse, was asked to look into the cost of replacing the unit and report back to the court for further action.

Rockcastle Sheriff Mike Peters and County Clerk Norma Houk both presented their 2010 budget and the request for the annual order setting maximum amount for deputies and assistants.

The court took their information and decided to wait until a special called meeting Friday to take action on them.

Johnny Bengé, Chief of the Western Rockcastle Volunteer Fire Department, was at the meeting to inform the court that work had been completed on a fire truck they have been working on for some time. Bengé thanked the court for their financial help and said that the truck, in which they had between $50 and $52,000 invested, had been appraised for $65,000. He said that much volunteer labor and donated funds had gone into the project.

Bengé drove the truck to the meeting and invited the court to look it over after the meeting.

Carloftis and court members commended the department for their efforts and expressed their support for all six fire departments in the county. Magistrate Jan Stevens noted that one more department was needed in the county, in the northern end.

County Treasurer Joe Clontz presented the monthly financial statement to the court. The statement showed positive balances in all accounts although the county did have to borrow $500,000 in December on a short term loan in order to meet obligations which are heavier in the first half of their fiscal year than in the last half.

The court also had to pay up front for infrastructure work at the Business Park South Industrial Park which will later be reimbursed to them by the state through grants the industrial authority obtained. The first reimbursement was received from the state recently in the amount of $127,000 on a 70/30 grant. The loan will have to be repaid by June 30, 2010, the end of the court's fiscal year.
