Music Hall of Fame and Museum, saw cuts to their allocation of coal severance funds appropriated in the state's recent two year budget.

For both the 2010-11 and 2011-12 fiscal years, each of the fire departments will receive $6,500 from the commonwealth. This is down from $7,500 in both the 2008-09 and 2009-10 budget. This figure compares to the $25,000 to $75,000 various fire departments in Pike County will receive.

The Kentucky Music Hall of Fame and Museum is scheduled to receive $25,614 in coal severance funds in 2010-11 and $47,366 in 2011-12. Both numbers are down from what was received in each of the last two fiscal years.

The last allocation was the promise of $25,614 to be used towards the purchase of a new bookmobile at the Rockcastle County Public Library.

However, the approval of the funds is not yet complete because of a formality that exists that requires the Fiscal Court to apply for the funds. Neither State Representative Danny Ford nor Librarian Pam Chaliff foresee any problem in finalizing the pro-

Final recap of tax rolls shows $361m assessment

The final recapitulation totals for real property tax assessments in the county was presented by PVA Administrator Margaret Offutt to the fiscal court at their regular June meeting.

The total 2010 taxable assessment for Rockcastle County is $361,167,735. This total breaks down into three categories: residential - lots, $223,084,132; farm - land and other improvements, $75,619,460 and commercial, industrial, telecommunication and leasehold interests, $62,460,843.

The assessment for residential property reflects an increase of $1,957,600 which Offutt said was new construction and increased assessment on property, primarily property selling for more than the assessment.

Hunt steps down after 20 years as Renfro Valley CEO

After twenty years of service as the Chief Executive Officer at Renfro Valley Entertainment Center, Connie Hunt is stepping down.

Hunt gave official notice of her resignation on June 15th but has vowed to ownership that she will continue overseeing Renfro Valley's operations until at least July 15th.

She gave no specific reasoning as to why she made the decision to leave. However, she did say that was grateful for the opportunity to lead Renfro Valley during her long tenure.

"I'm so appreciative of the opportunity I had to lead such a wonderful institution that is known all across our state, country, and world," Hunt said.

A native Rockcastle Countian, Hunt said developing the motivation to work hard in her leadership capacity came natural. "As a hometown girl, I was very passionate all throughout my time here in wanting to see Renfro Valley do well. I hope that I have been effective in leading Renfro Valley through the last two decades," she said.

As of now, it is not clear how the Renfro Valley ownership will go about identifying Hunt's succes-

Rockcastle family arrives in Alaska

The local family who traveled from Renfro Valley on their big, yellow bicycle to Alaska, arrived last week.

The pioneering "Pedouins" as the Bill Harrison family's traveling nickname, arrived in Juneau, Alaska on June 24th. They are scheduled to reach their designation of Fairbanks this week.

Since leaving Rockcastle County on August 1, 2009, the Harrison family has peddled their 14 foot, 27 speed, 5 seater custom-built quint bike, on state and secondary roadways across 13 states in the southern and western portions of America, and the Vancouver Island of Canada. They pulled 745 pounds of cargo that included themselves and a small trailer containing a laptop, camping equipment, food and clothing.

Bill and Amarins Harrison, of Mt. Vernon, have been home schooling their children, Cheyenne, 7, Jasmine, 5, and Robin, 3, who accompanied them on the 7,000 mile bike trip.

The Harrisons had 20+ flat tires with minor and major repairs, plus replacement of parts for the quint bicycle on their long journey.

I have an old classical guitar named Martha Ann that is almost as beat up as the one that Willie Nelson used to play on stage and from time to time, when I have the house to myself and know that nobody else is listening, I pull it out and try to pick like Willie, as best I can, Blue Eyes Crying in the Rain, On the Road Again, Pancho and Lefty, etc. I will put a CD on the player, turn the volume down to the point that I can override it and pretend that I am in the band. Or I will sing softly to myself and weep a bit, There's a Picture that I Carry

And then sometimes I just lay it my lap there in the bed and strum chord progressions before we turn out the lights and I ask very annoyed, bookengrossed, Loretta if she can guess what I am playing.

And she will tell me that I'm not playing anything that she wants to hear but if I will play Amazing Grace or My Old Kentucky Home for no more than two minutes, she will take time out of whatever it is she may be reading to listen. It has to be one or the other. She can't tolerate two tunes at one session even though I always insist on closing out with my theme-- the first three lines of Wildwood Flower.

Then she will tell me that if I don't put the guitar away and find a silent way to amuse myself, she is going to finish off my guitar with one hard blow, there on the bridge, from the corner of her hardbound book. And since I can't bear the thought of a pile of broken spruce mingled with Martin guitar strings on my side of the bed, I hastily put the guitar back in the case. (If I honestly thought she did not intend to carry out the threat, I would play Wildwood Flower all the way through and then repeat it farther down the neck to close out the show.) But Loretta is not much given to encores nor theme songs and I do so love my old guitar.

Loretta knows that I am probably thinking about our late and dearest friend, Martha Ann Wheeler and that, if she doesn't stop me, we will both fall into a fit of melancholy. Because, invariably, I will get to stuff that was standard for Martha Ann

Vernon, all fueling centers were real "service" stations. My father (G.H. "Hobe" Griffin) owned three stations from the time I was in elementary school until I graduated from high school and left for college.

The first filling station that I recall Daddy owning was the Gulf Station on Main Street next to the Greyhound Bus Depot. (This is where the Mt. Vernon Bank is presently located). I was probably only six or seven years old at the time so the memories are pretty limited, but I can remember him having me stand on a box in order to wash the windows of some of his best customers. He would say, "Get all of them bugs off good, son!"

He also occasionally sent me next door to get sandwiches from the bus station. There were lots of men who just hung out at the station, and Daddy would purchase hamburgers for the entire crew. I think he loved being the center of attention - a trait which has frequently been attributed to the Griffins in gen-

When I was entering high school and starting to drive, Daddy opened a Pure Oil Station on Richmond Street. He gave me a job pumping gasoline and changing oil after school and on weekends. One week during the summer, he had to travel to Ohio to visit his ailing sister. He asked me to take charge of the business while he was away. Needless to say, I was busting proud that he had enough confidence in me to leave me alone at the station.

In his absence, I completely cleaned the building, inside and out. I wanted to do an extraordinarily good job to show Daddy that I was more than capable of living up to his expectations. I even took the oil cans off the shelves and dusted each one.

The day before he was to return, I painted each island in the lot and washed the driveway. The place never looked better. When he pulled into the lot, he could not believe his eyes. He commented, "I guess I will have to put you in charge more often!" Coming from my father, this was the ultimate compli-

Talkingtons could be talk of town

If more people knew what lies behind the four walls of their home, Larry and Maxine Talkington would be the talk of the town.

Step through the front door of the blue house off Whitetail Drive in Spencer County, and you're immediately surrounded by a collection that would rival any antique mall in America.

From giant soft drink advertising signs to tiny tractors, there's hardly an inch of space not taken up by a display.

"I'm not too crazy about a naked wall, I like lots of pictures," says Maxine, a Louisville-Shelbyville native who has lived here for 11 years.

When she and Louisville native Larry wed seven years ago, Maxine's pictures immediately got lots of company.

Larry, a 1976 graduate of Pleasure Ridge Park High School, and his twin brother got hooked on collections when they were 12.

Lynnwood Garrett, a Louisville postal employee fondly remembered

Zip"attended the same church as the Talkington family and got the boys interested in stamp collecting.

"It just took off from there and never ended," says Larry, noting the hobby grew to include the typical baseball cards, comic books, seashells, and rocks.

The twins also combed their rapidly expanding Valley Station neighborhood following excavations, looking for arrowheads.

"You could pick up a pocketful of arrowheads around there after every rain. I just wish I had kept all of them."

Had he not gotten rid of some items, it's hard to imagine where he'd have room to store them today.

Besides the walls, every shelf, nook and cranny has one kind of collectible or another.

Tractors are in abundance, consisting mainly of replicas done to 1/64th scale.

There are also more than 5,000 Hallmark Christmas tree ornaments, some of which have been valued as

At one point in time, Martha and I knew every song that Porter and Dolly had ever recorded. She sang like Dolly and I gargled like Porter. Folks would gather up around us and listen, without interrupting, when we sang and played together. Martha on her big Washburn dreadnought; me on my little Goya classical. She was at our house in Paint Lick at least two week-ends a month for several years

When Martha Ann Wheeler took ill some seven or so years ago, she was a registered nurse. I'm not really sure what her illness was nor do I believe the medical profession ever really understood the exact nature of her affliction. It was akin to multiple sclerosis but came with complications not generally associated with that disease. The best diagnostic facilities in the country never figured it out and Martha Ann sought help from most of them.

Martha Ann, on her time off from nursing, moonlighted on stage a couple nights a week at the best night clubs in Cincinnati with professional guitarists and bands that loved her renditions of Patsy Cline. She consistently brought down the house. I could not imagine myself in that league but she did it as a hobby before she became so desperately ill. And then, one night she fell dead climbing the stairs and our lives are oh so empty.

And so, from time to time, I pick up my little classical guitar and try to pick a tune or two and pretend that it's Willie that I'm studying on. But it's really Martha Ann and she's right here in my lap.

I kept my '58 Chevy inside the wash bay and polished on it until it was the cleanest car in Mt. Vernon. Sometimes Lloyd Fain, Marion Whitehouse, or Bobby Joe Sweeney would stay with me while I worked. When they got sleepy, they took naps in the rear seat of my Chevy.

Daddy took over that Standard Oil Station in 1972 and ran it until 1981. I can remember several men who worked for him there, including: "Chock" Machel, Hank Coates, Donnie Doan, Gary Reppert, Gary Cromer (who would later become Mayor), and my brother Dwight.

I always worried about Daddy when he was operating that station because he carried huge amounts of cash in his pockets. When I discussed this with him, he simply said, "No one is going to bother me because I always keep my Smith and Wesson in my hip pocket." You could not convince him to keep the money locked away. I think that he felt that carrying it on his person was the only way

he could be certain it was

On weekends when I came home from UK, I usually spent Saturday afternoon washing my 1963 Chevrolet at Daddy's station. He also allowed me to change my own oil and use his tools to add customized accessories to my automobile. I remember one weekend when Charles Hensley helped me add a set of gauges to the dash of that blue Chevy. They looked so good and worked perfectly. I always considered Charles to be a Master mechanic.

In those days, a bell would ring when a car approached the pumps. Then the station attendant would give that well worn inquiry, "Regular or ethyl?" Filling a car's fivegallon tank took approximately six or seven minutes. Competition kept the cost of fuel to a minimum. I am not precisely sure when it was, but I can remember a gallon of regular gasoline selling for 29 cents.

Today fuel stations are anything but "service stations." In this busy, hustleand-bustle world, we are required to pump our own gas and oil and to clean our own windows. The upkeep of our automobiles is left to the individual or to the dealer from which the car was purchased.

My last oil change was $34.95. In the days of Daddy's Pure Oil Station, you could get an oil change for under $10, and the service included many things that you simply cannot have checked today. Somehow that just doesn't seem to me to be "progress."

(You can reach me at mtnman@mis.net or you can drop me a line at P.O. Box 927 -Stanton, KY 40380. I appreciate your suggestions and comments.)

"What Is Written"

In Job 20:12-14 we read, "Though wickedness be sweet in his mouth, though he hide it under his tongue. Though he spare it, and forsake it not; but keep it still within his mouth: Yet his meat in his bowels is turned, it is the gall of asps within him." There is an important concept we would like to develop for a few moments from these verses. Doing wicked things is "sweet" while doing it. The Hebrew writer said in Hebrews 11:24-25 "By faith Moses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter; Choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season;" There is pleasure in doing things that are sinful, this is how Satan can tempt us into doing wrong. It is the enticement or bait that the Devil dangles in front of us to get us to do wrong. And yes it is "sweet" for the moment or for a season. But then notice, that our text says that it turns into "gall" i.e. something that is very bitter. Sin has some very bitter consequences that comes after the transgression. I would imagine that Eve found the forbidden fruit very pleasant to eat. But there were bitter consequences to her sin. The shame, the guilt, the curses from God, driven out of the Garden of Eden, yes it was all so very bitter. Remember, sin may be sweet to eat, but it will be bitter as gall in your bowels. Can we study with you?

TODD HOLLENBACH Kentucky State Treasurer

The Roots of Rockcastle

by: Tonya J. Cook

With Independence Day upon us, it tends to make us reflect toward the past. I'm aware that Mount Vernon was established well after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, but I was wondering what was the latest news in the county even as much as a hundred years ago. How were the good citizens preparing to celebrate the holiday? What were they talking about at their holiday gatherings? I decided to go to a good source, and researched the Mount Vernon Signal dated June 17, 1910. This was the only issue on record prior to the Independence Day celebration.

It seems the big news of the day was a recent murder at Livingston. "Cold Blooded Murder" was the headline. "The worst murder ever committed in Rockcastle County occurred at Livingston last Saturday night when Will Madden, age 19, a son of Jeff Madden was shot down without a moment's warning, and without one semblance of an excuse." The victim was with three other boys waiting for a train at the depot to take them to Berea when the murder occurred. There was a long list of witnesses. Four Livingston boys were charged with the crime, and arrested by deputy sheriff, Cam Mullins, and brought to Mount Vernon on Sunday.

I checked out some of the Personals, and some of them read as follows: "Charlie Hurst of Brodhead is suffering of a severe case of rheumatism." "Attorney C. C. Williams is in Williamsburg, where he has an important case on trial." "C. H. Chandler, the eastern Kentucky telephone magnate and flour man is in town today. Mr. Chandler has returned from a two week's visit east to attend the annual meeting of the Commercial Traveling Men's Association."

Some of the local news was that U. G. Baker would be filling his new storeroom with hardware just as soon as the special shelving which he has ordered arrives.

If you were a gentleman and in need of something special to wear for the Fourth, you could look no farther. There was an advertisement that read: "They Just Struck Town!" This was in reference to a "striking" $15 dollar suit. They were pure wool, and made by "first class tailors", so the ad said. They came in stylish gray, with the latest black and white effects. The name of the store wasn't given, but this fine garment could be found "around the corner, next to the courthouse".

Other ads were: "For sale, cheap. A good second hand buggy. Contact J. T. Meadows." "Special sale, known as the Sparks-Davis Addition. Town Lots. These lots, comprising thirty-five in number, are located in the western part of Mount Vernon. These lots sell for $125 each for a hundred by two hundred foot. One lot with a house on it is worth $750. The lot you will get will not be known until the day of the drawing takes place, but remember, should you get the worst lot in the bunch, you'll get your money's worth." If interested in the little venture, you were to contact S. W. Davis or E. S. Albright.

From reading this historical material, I didn't see any forthcoming community celebrations noted. Evidently, former citizens didn't celebrate with the same gusto and enthusiasm on the grandiose scale as we do with the cookouts, fireworks, and other festivities lasting as much as three or four days. However, I did enjoy reading the news of a hundred years ago. For those of us who had ancestors living here at this time, it should be particularly interesting, as this was the news they read, the ads they saw, and the events that shaped the county.

Remember that I'm looking for good stories about the county, people and the events in their lives. I may be contacted through the

Mount Vernon Signal or at therootsofrockcastle@windstream.net

An encouraging word:

Reflect on Basic Principles By Howard Coop

July 4, 1776 is recognized as the date on which delegates of the thirteen original American colonies adopted the Declaration of Independence.

Before those delegates adopted the Declaration of Independence, 56 men, recognizing the danger involved, risked their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor for the cause of freedom and signed that short document, consisting of 1,364

The Declaration of Independence, recognized as one of history's more significant documents, did specific things. It broke the relationship between the colonies and England, prepared the way for the formation of a new nation, and established certain basic principles that were, and continue, to be the foundation of the nation.

The United States of America, the name given to the new nation by the Declaration of Independence, is a unique nation. In the document, those who wrote and adopted it recognized that "Nature's God" was the source of certain entitlements. Too, the people in the new nation were, and are, endowed by the "Creator" with certain "unalienable rights." Then, the framers of that document appealed to "the Supreme Judge" for the restitution of their intentions, and they relied upon "divine Providence" for their protection. Without an established church as in England, the new nation was a nation under God, and to this day, when we pledge allegiance to the flag, we recognize "one nation, under God."

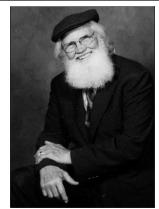

There was equality in the new nation. In it, there are no lords and commoners; all are created equal, and their Creator has endowed them with certain unalienable rights that include life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Governments are instituted to insure these rights; they are not the source of rights. These governments are not inherently powerful; they derive their "just powers from the consent of the governed."

When a government becomes destructive of the ends for which it was established, it is the right and the duty of the people to change or "abolish" it and form a new government.

On this Independence Day 234 years after the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, reflect on these basic principles and apply them to our present government.

Everyone is invited to John Holbrook's 75th birthday party, Saturday, July 3rd from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at Rockcastle Senior Citizen Center on US Highway 25 South in Mt. Vernon. Please join us for refreshments. The only gift we request is your presence.

90th Birthday Celebrated

Mrs. Thressel Owens recently celebrated her 90th birthday. Three of Thressel's nieces surprised her with a cheesecake birthday cake. They were: Pat Hansford Stinson and Marsha Hansford Lowes, both of Indianapolis. IN and Debbie Hansford Toler of Vancouver, Canada. Others celebrants at the surprise potluck supper were: husband, Henry; daughter and grandson, Mava June and Shawn Stamper of Richmond; niece, Gina Frazier Gosselin of Somerset and friends, Ray and Barbara Cranert and James and Robert McClure, all of Mt.

On June 16th, Thressel, along with her husband and daughter, traveled to Liberty, S.C. to visit her sister, Marie Frazier. There she was surprised with another birthday supper which she celebrated with sister, Marie and husband, Lowell; niece, Lisa Frazier Keys and husband, Dennis and great nephew, Aaron Keyes. Lisa made a carrot cake from scratch and decorated it with a bunch of wildflowers, "tied" with a pink ribbon and visited by a tiny bumble bee. Thressel enjoyed her two favorite kinds of cake, lots of good food, many nice presents and the company of friends and relatives for her 90th birthday.

Thressel was born May 25, 2910 to Walter and Anna Brown Broyles at Plato. She was married to Henry Owens Sept. 17, 1940 and still cooks and does the laundry in addition to raising a small garden and taking care of her multitude of flowers

Blooming Trees of Summer As the seasons march from cold winter to spring to summer, finally to autumn, most trees and shrubs bloom in Spring.

Let's take a look were so many refuse to; at trees that bloom when they're "not supposed to"! For trees bloom in spring, everybody knows

Trees, shrubs and vines that bloom in summer are pretty rare to be sure. But here are some that will impress.

Magnolia grandiflora, plus magnolia virginiana, are two nice ones to start with. The giant southern magnolia blooms much of the summer, and the well-behaved sweetbay magnolia blooms from May to July. Both offer up lovely fragrant white blossoms for the homeowner, or visitor.

Vitex Agnes Castus or Vitex Negundo have mostly blue blossoms in summer and leaves that sometimes make one think they just might be cannibis (marijuana) plants. The Vitex somewhat resembles a crepe myrtle in appearance.

Crepe Myrtle. Yes, that plant that blooms in summer from Florida to lands northward where it does not dip much below zero in winter. Usually a multi-trunked tree or shrub, the crepe myrtle has lovely bark and blooms on new wood. It can die back to the ground in more northern climates and still come back and bloom in the same sea-

Golden Rain Tree turns a golden yellow in June, it's about the size of a dogwood or redbud. It loves hot sunny weather and is tolerant of adverse conditions. Blooms in July usually.

Washington hawthorne. Pretty white blooms in late spring. Lovely berries and fall color also.

Japanese pagoda tree. (Saphora). This fine tree from Japan and China blooms in summer with lovely white blooms and followed by bean-like seed pods.

Evodia danielli, evodia huphensis, etc. This tree blooms in August with fragrant blooms that bees love.

Red berries later on make for pretty autumn or winter attractiveness.

Mimosa or silk tree. Though considered an invasive weed tree in some places, it blooms much of the summer, and is a favorite of hummingbirds.

Kentucky coffee tree blooms in early summer and has seed pods that hang on into winter. Not real noticeable.

But the tree, upon maturity, can be a real show-stop-

Mountain ash, Korean mountain ash, European mountain ash....this group of trees (Sorfbus) bloom in late spring or summer. Especially suited to higher elevations.

Elderberry. Though it blooms in March in Florida, you'll see it blooming in May, June or July in Kentucky and nearby states. Lovely clusters of white blooms and edible small fruit. A "chocolate" colored variety has been introduced that is the rave in some areas for lanscaping.

Fringe tree. Smoke tree. Rose of Sharon shrub. All are late spring or summer bloomers.

Seven sons flower is a tree/shrub resembling the crepe myrtles. It blooms August and maybe a little before or a little later.

Franklinia tree. Extinct in the wild, and rare in cultivation. But a desirable tree similar to a sweet bay magnolia in appearance. Blooms August until frost. Difficult to grow, but worth the effort if you are a patient person.

Also, hard to find at a garden center.

Sourwood, oxydendrum arboretum, is one of my favorites. This tree produces wonderful sourwood honey in the Smokey Mountains, and occasionally elsewhere. It blooms late June into July, with fingers of white bell shaped flowers. One of the best for red fall color. Must have acid soil to do well.

Stewartia. Camillia-like blooms, a trunk that is colorful, and blooms in summer. Hardy in most of America.

Enough said, try one if you can find it at a nursery.

Catalpa and Fringe Tree are late spring bloomers...but I am going to count them.

Trumpet creeper is a harty vine with an orange colored (smetimes red or yellow) trumpet shaped blossom. Favorites of hummingbirds...so much so that most hummingbird feeders are immitations of this flower.

The City of Mt. Vernon opened bids Thursday for the Newcomb Ave./School Street project. Four bids were received, ranging from $209,000 to the low bid of $151,000. Mayor Gary Cromer said he thought the council would accept the low bid but, besides the $22,000 cost of acquiring the needed land, the cost of moving utilities would also have to be figured into the $300,000 budget and he planned to wait until he had total figures to call a meeting of the council. Shown above is a sketch of what the new configuration of School Street will be once the project is completed.

The family of Gladys M. Adams wishes to thank all of you for your comforting prayers and support during Mother's illness and for your kind expressions of sympathy following her death a few weeks ago. It has been a sad time for us as we to grieve her passing and continue to miss the quiet and loving influence she had on our family. We thank everyone who helped comfort us through visits, food, cards, flowers, library donations and most of all, prayers during our loss.

Thank you to all the health care professionals who provided compassionate care to her during her illness; all the doctors and nurses and everyone who treated her with such gentle kindness. She was most appreciative of you. Thank you to Cox Funeral Home and the sensitive way you deal with grieving families and your dignified services. Emergency Management, added, "We want to make sure that every Kentuckian that is eligible receives the disaster aid they need." He continued, "Tell your friends, neighbors and relatives, they MUST register with FEMA before the deadline."

FEMA will accept registrations until Monday, July 12, at 8 p.m. EDT, 7 p.m. CDT.

Registering for disaster assistance is simple. You can apply online anytime www.disasterassistance.gov, or by phone at 800-621-FEMA (3362), TTY 800-462-7585. Phone lines are open every day from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. EDT.

Anyone who had damage from the disaster should register even if they're not sure if they qualify. Let FEMA decide your eligibility.

Some people may think they are already registered because they registered with the Commonwealth, their local emergency management agency, the Red Cross or other charitable organization. The FEMA process is completely separate. The only two ways to register with FEMA are by phone using the toll-free number or online www.disasterassistance.gov.

People with insurance should register. FEMA cannot duplicate coverage from insurance, but policy holders may be reimbursed for some uninsured losses after the insurance settlement is final. It is important to keep receipts for all disaster-related expenses.

increased by $1,124,700 and commercial by $143,132.

Deducted from the property assessment for residential $33,005,000 for the Homestead Exemption (property owners 65 years and older) and $15,415,700 for property owners on 100% disability. Farm land deductions were $12,139,700 for the Homestead Exemption and $2,383,400 for disability. Commercial property deductions amounted to $76,400 for the two exemptions. There are 1,423 taxpayers receiving a Homestead Exemption in the county and 583 receiving a disability exemption.

Also exempted under the Agricultural Land Use Act was $80,624,914. According to Offutt, this amount is made up of any property over 10 acres for which the property owner does not pay property taxes on the full assessed amount but rather on an amount, ranging from $100 to $400 an acre, that the property owner could expect to receive in revenue if the property were farmed.

The final recap also showed $3,141,500 in additions to the 2010 assessment and $3,501,500 in deletions -- primarily from land taken off the tax rolls for the new Hwy. 150.

The report reports that there are 7,230 total parcels of residential property in the county; 2,859 farms and 410 commercial properties. There are also 80,503 acres listed in the fire protection category.

The 2010 assessment is up slightly over the 2009 assessment of $358,228,567.

While giving directions, Cummins said Spivey started saying she wanted Ms. Cummins' purse. She held up her blouse, showed a gun and said "don't make me hurt you".

Spivey reportedly took the prescription first and when she saw it was only topical cream, demanded Ms. Cummins' wallet. Cummins handed over her purse and the woman left the scene in a 2001 silver PT Cruiser. Police began their search immediately after receiving Ms. Cummins' 911 call.

Accounts of the event suggest that Spivey actually performed the robbery while Ennis drove the getaway car. According to Ed Robinson with the MVPD, the charges carry the same penalties.

Spivey and Ennis are also wanted on the same charges in North Carolina. It isn't yet clear if they will first be transferred to North Carolina or Kentucky upon leaving Knoxville.

However, Robinson said that both the warrants and the extradition papers are on their way down to Knoxville from Commonwealth Attorney Eddie Montgomery's office.

Amanda Cummins, the daughter of victim of the hold-up, told the Signal on Tuesday that the family is "relieved" that the suspects have finally been brought into custody.

Roy Martin, Chairman of the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame and Museum, said the Hall of Fame will certainly miss Hunt and the close working relationship the two institutions had under her leadership.

However, he said she will continue to produce the Hall of Fame's induction ceremony to be held next year.

In terms of what her next step will be, Hunt said that it's not yet solidified. However, she said she is certainly looking forward to the next chapter in her life. Her only immediate plans at this point are to take "an extended summer vacation".

The Renfro Valley Entertainment Center has been a staple in the Rockcastle County community since 1939 when local resident John Lair founded the business.

"Family Room" (Cont. from A7)

There are a significant number of households, however, where this is not the case. In these households women are the victims of physical and emotional abuse. The abuser considers her to be his property and subject to his laws. He thinks that he can be abusive to her and that neither she nor the legal system can or should do anything about that abuse.

In the minds of these abusers there are two sets of rules: one for him and one for her. He may go wherever he wants, whenever he wants and with whomever he wants. If he stays out until 3:00 a.m., she is to expect no explanation but is to get out of bed and cook breakfast for him as if nothing is wrong. On the other hand, she must let him know her whereabouts at all times, and she must ask his permission to go out. If she is late, she must account for every minute. It is not unusual for an abuser to insist on accompanying the victim wherever she goes, even to the gro-

An abuser who thinks he owns his victim will be possessive and jealous. He will accuse her of seeing other men, even if there is no evidence that she has done anything wrong. He will abuse her either verbally or physically for looking at or talking to another man, even if it is an innocent conversation at Wal-Mart. He may threaten to hurt her or any man with whom she has a relationship.

For some abusers the end of the relationship does not mean their thinking about ownership changes. The couple may be separated or divorced but he still may think that he owns her. He may already have a girl-friend, but he becomes irate if she has a boyfriend. Sometimes these situations lead to violence, with the exhusband attacking the woman and/or her boyfriend.

No one can own another human being. The concept of slavery has been repudiated by almost every national government and international organization in the world. Sadly, that message has not yet been heard in some homes, where victims are treated as property by the men who claim to own them.

If you or someone you know is in a violent relationship, call Family Life Abuse Center at 800-755-5348.

Golf scramble raises $5,500 for WHAS Crusade for Children

Rockcastle Regional Golf Scramble raises $5,500 for WHAS Crusade for Children

Second Section

Rockcastle Regional Hospital and Respiratory Care Center held its Golf Scramble on June 23, 2010 at Cedar Rapids Country Club where eleven teams gathered to raise money for WHAS Crusade for Children. The weather was hot, but the day couldn't have been better! The event raised $5,500.

WHAS Crusade for Children wasn't the only winner of the day. The team sponsored by Community Trust Bank came in first place, followed by "Team Bussell" in second. The team sponsored by Citizens Bank in third. Andrew Pensol was the winner in the closest to the pin contest. Megan Herde of Dean, Dorton and Ford won the longest drive contest.

It was a heated contest with the final swing taking place close to 7:00 p.m. Initially, Community Trust Bank and Team Bussell tied for first place at 19 under par. The play-off started on hole one and both teams were still tied after five holes. Hole five was repeated and tied again. Teams were sent back to hole five tee box for a closest to pin to determine the winner, but no one hit the green. The play off was then moved to hole eight for a closest to the pin contest, where Richie Bray from the Community Trust Bank team hit a shot to about 10 feet to win the scramble.

The event wouldn't have been possible without the generous support and time of many people. Thanks to all those who sponsored beverage carts, holes and teams: Marshall Emergency Services Associates (MESA), Seneca Medical, People's Bank, Aflac, Rockcastle Regional Nursing Management, Mount Vernon Signal, UK Physician Liaison Program, Bissell's, UK HealthCare, Community Trust Bank, Rockcastle Medical Arts, Dean, Dorton & Ford, Attorney John Ford, Attorney Willis Coffey, County Attorney William D. Special thanks to D&S Service, Fayette Graphics, Integrity Premium Advertising, Rockcastle Professional Pharmacy, KY Golf Superstore and Cedar Rapids Country Club. Since 1990, Rockcastle Regional has participated various annual fundraisers to raise over $77,200 for WHAS Crusade for Children. To date, Rockcastle Regional has received over $470,300 from the Crusade. This money has been used to purchase three vans, portable ventilators, a specialized bathtub and numerous pieces of equipment and therapy materials.

Be prepared for the next disaster

As any scout can tell you, "Be Prepared" is an excellent motto. With the storms and flooding of early May still fresh in people's minds, now is a good time for you and your family to prepare for the next disaster—whatever it may be.

There are three important steps to personal pre-

- paredness: 1. Get a kit.
 - 2. Make a plan. 3. Be informed.

You and your family should be prepared to survive on your own for at least three days after an emergency. This means having enough food, water, and other supplies. Remember, basic services such as electricity, gas, water, sewage treatment, and telephones may not be available for days, a week or longer.

•At a minimum, your kit should include:

water per person per day for at least three days, for drinking and sanitation. •Food, at least a threeday supply of non-perishable food.

•Water, one gallon of •Battery-powered or hand crank radio and a NOAA Weather Radio with tone alert and extra batteries for both.

•Flashlight and extra batteries.

First aid kit. •Whistle to signal for •Dust mask, to help filter contaminated air, plastic sheeting and duct tape to create a shelter-in-place.

•Moist towelettes, garbage bags and plastic ties for personal sanitation.

•Wrench or pliers to turn off utilities.

•Can opener for food (if kit contains canned food).

•Local maps. •Cell phone with charg-

Celebrity chefs say people eat with their eyes first. Then, they serve up a deliciously crafted work of art on a plate. It may be true, but most of us our senses of smell and taste to satisfy hunger.

Lots of people turn to salt as a fast flavor-fix for food. Table salt is 40-percent sodium, which is an important mineral for the human body. Problems arise when salt is overused, especially as a flavor substitute in bland foods and low-fat recipes. Excessive sodium in the diet is linked to high blood pressure, which can result in heart disease, kidney failure and stroke. Even though salt serves as the major source of sodium in the diet, the recommended maximum daily intake is just 2,400 milligrams or about 1 teaspoon.

Culinary herbs also enhance the flavor of food without the associated health concerns. They come in several forms; fresh, dried or ground. Volatile oils in fresh herbs are released into food as flavor and scent when chopped or cooked. Drying fresh herbs, especially in whole leaf form, concentrates these oils. Powdered or ground herbs initially release the highest flavor concentration but often have a shorter shelf life than dried herbs. A good rule of thumb is 1 tablespoon of fresh is equal to 1 teaspoon of dried or 1/4 teaspoon of ground herb. When using dried herbs, rub the ingredient between your palms first to release volatile oils, and then add to southern European cuisines. It pairs especially well with fish, shellfish, eggs, vegetables and tomato-based dishes. Basil is an easy to grow annual available in many varieties and flavors. Italian basils are the kind most often found in dried and ground form at grocery stores. Basil retains good flavor when dried but loses depth when compared to fresh.

Oregano also is popular in southern European cooking and is considered essential to Italian cuisine. Use it to enhance tomato sauces, soups, salad dressings and bean and vegetable dishes. Drying brings out the best flavor and you can usually find oregano in this form. A perennial in most gardens, it is easy to grow once established. A good choice for growers is True Greek Oregano. Parsley offers more than a garnish for the plate. This leafy herb has a distinct "green vegetable" flavor which punches up just about any dish. Parsley is especially popular in soups. Common species include flat-leaf parsley and curled leaf parsley. Parsley becomes bland and almost flavorless when dried, so use it fresh or freeze small quantities for cooking later. A
