According to Rockcastle County Sheriff Mike Peters, the above head-on collision occurred Tuesday afternoon when a 1998 Chevrolet Camaro, driven by Johnathan Adams, 25, of Mt. Vernon, hydroplaned, crossed the center line, and hit the oncoming 2003 Toyota Tacoma, driven by Ricky Bullock, 40, of Brodhead. Adams was airlifted to the UK Health Care Center with a head injury while Bullock was treated at Rockcastle Regional with a foot injury and later transferred to UK. A passenger in Adams' vehicle, Steven Coffey, 25, of Mt. Vernon, was also treated at Rockcastle Regional for non life-threatening injuries.

Five indicted on drug charges by Grand Jury

The Rockcastle County Grand Jury indicted five individuals in three cases on Friday.

All indictments were presented by the Mt. Vernon Police Department.

County Attorney Billy Reynolds praised the work of the agency, saying that Police Chief Terry Jackson, Asst. Chief Ed Robinson, and their squad continue to make great strides in fighting the drug problem.

"I can't tell you how efficient they have been in bringing justice to those contributing to the drug problem in this community," Reynolds said.

Robert D. Brummett, of Crab Orchard, and William K. Bullens, Jr., of Mt. Vernon were indicted on charges relating to a meth lab that was found in their Mt. Vernon Days Inn hotel room in April of this year. Brummett was indicted on a charge of Manufacturing Methamphetamine while Bullens was charged with the offense of complicity to manufacture.

Also indicted were co-defendants Starlin Dewayne Robinson and Kayla Mae Barnes, both of Mt. Vernon.

Both are charged with Possession of a Controlled Substance and knowingly and unlawfully possessing Oxycodone. Robinson is also charged with possessing a controlled substance while in possession of a firearm.

The last indictment handed down was for Ronald Abney, of Mt. Vernon who was indicted on three counts related to an arrest in Sept. of 2009.

He was charged with Possession of a Controlled Substance, Possession of Drug Paraphernalia, and operating a motor vehicle while under the Influence of drugs or alcohol. His bond was set at $20,000 cash or property;

While the case involving burglary charges against Larry Woodall, 47, of Brodhead, were continued, there was some recent activity due to a motion filed by County Attorney Billy Reynolds.

Reynolds filed a motion to revoke and forfeit Woodall's bond.

He cited that the defendant had violated the conditions of his bond on June 7th when he was arrested for Operating on a Suspended License in Butts County, Georgia. Then, on June 9th, he skipped a preliminary hearing in Georgia.

Reynolds said that filing motions to forfeit bonds will start becoming a common practice in his office. "I'm not going to sit around and allow those charged to make a mockery of our judicial system," Reynolds said.

On Lambert Road

Fiscal Court votes to begin condemnations

The Rockcastle Fiscal Court voted Tuesday to direct County Attorney Billy Reynolds to begin condemnation proceedings against property owners on Lambert Road who have not signed easements for the road to be widened and worked on.

The motion, which passed unanimously, came after discussion between the court and Gillis and Mayme Gregory, property owners on the road. Mrs. Gregory, who said she had been working personally to try and get property owners to sign easements, told the court that another bad place had appeared in the road where a culvert washed out during the May storms.

County Judge/Executive Buzz Carloftis told the court that the county had never backed away in filing condemnation suits where they felt it was warranted for the public good. "We didn't start this," Carloftis said. "Residents of Lambert Road came to me complaining of the dangerous, narrow road."

Carloftis went on to say "we have bent over backwards and given property owners every opportunity to (voluntarily) sign easements." He also noted that property owners who have not signed easements will still be able to sign them at any time. Magistrate William Denny expressed the opinion that if the landowners who have not signed know that the court is serious about condemnation proceedings, it might help get more property owners to sign easements.

Kathy Robinson, who was at the meeting representing the county attorney's office, said the process could take from six months to two years, depending on how much opposition the affected landowners mounted.

Two roads were discussed for possible lowering of speed limits -- one was successful -- Copper Creek Road, the other was not -- Poplar Grove Road.

Carloftis told the court that he had been contacted by the Department of Transportation, inquiring as to the speed limit on Copper Creek Road. He said a recent incident, where a driver, traveling at high speed, left the road, hit

Officers find marijuana plot as result of I-75 crash

A two vehicle crash on Interstate 75, that backed up traffic for hours last Thursday, included a surprise for police when they arrived to investigate the scene.

According to Kentucky State Police officials, one of the vehicles went well off the road into a wooded area and came to rest in a small marijuana plot.

State troopers Don Trosper and Barry Blair responded to the scene and immediately eradicated the plants. The plants were located on the state right-of-

Randy Wagner, 48, of Crossville, TN, was the driver of the above tractor-trailer that ran off Interstate 75 and into a wooded area in the Conway section of Rockcastle County on Thursday afternoon. A car, driven by Kelly Napier, 35, of Lexington, failed to merge when the three lanes came down to two and forced the tractor-trailer off the road. The tractor-trailer came to rest in a marijuana plot. See related story for more details.

Burnell Foister, 63, of Hamilton, Ohio, was killed early Saturday morning on I-75 when the above 2004 Ford Explorer he was driving struck a deer, traveled off the roadway and rolled several times before Foister was partially ejected, according to Rockcastle Coroner Billy Dowell. Foister and his wife, Gay, were enroute to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina for a family vacation. Dowell said it appeared that other family members and friends were traveling in a convoy with them at the time. His wife escaped with minor injuries.

Cromer files to keep Mayoral job

Current Mayor Gary R. Cromer, who was appointed in February of this year to fill the unexpired term of Mayor Clarice Kirby, has filed as a candidate for the upcoming Mayor's race in November. Cromer previously served as Mayor for 11 1/2 years, leaving office in December, 1998.

Cromer will face incumbent councilman Don Jones, Dr. Michael Bryant, Sr., and former Deputy Sheriff Nathaniel Price.

In announcing his candidacy, Cromer told the Signal "we have to keep our water system and infrastructure in good shape and to do that we have to work closely with lending agencies, grant writers and engineers in order to secure funding for needed project." The Mayor went on to say "there must be more job creation in our community, through use of our industrial parks, so local people will not have to leave our county to work."

Cromer, a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University with a degree in business administration, is a Vietnam veteran and lifelong resident of Mt. Vernon. He owned and operated Appalachian Medical Equipment for 22 years. Married to the former Janie Hunt, they have two children, Zachary Cromer and Michelle Atkin, and three grandchildren.

Candidates have until August 15th to file for the November election. (Cont. to A8)

Bishop says he "will run" for County Judge/Executive

To be eligible, Bishop had to file a statement of intention with the Clerk's office by April 1st, and did so on March 19th. He has to officially file as a candidate by August 10th, the same deadline placed on those wishing to enter city council races.

Also, Michael McGuire, who challenged incumbent Ralph Allen in the Spring for the Fifth District Magistrate seat, indicated that he is considering filing as a write-in candidate.

One of the most annoying things about living in a relatively secluded but easily accessible place, such as Charlie Brown Road here in Garrard County and on which I live, is that is that people who grow tired of their domestic animals find it convenient to drop them off on us.

The kittens that were so cute, the puppies that looked so cool to the kids, grow up fast and suddenly become aggravations that need serious veterinarian attention. The kitten that cuddled and purred when he or she was tiny turns into a cat with a "don't even try to touch me" disposition and sharpens its claws on couches, curtains and carpets. The puppy who playfully yapped and licked the kids' hands when he or she (the pup) was six weeks old turns into an adolescent dog that weighs 40 pounds or more and chews on chair legs or a favorite pair of shoes anytime the owner is not looking.

"These look like kind and gentle people in this neighborhood and I'm sure they really need a new cat or dog", the droppers-off must say to themselves and so, they sneak onto Charlie Brown Road or onto Old Railroad Grade in the dead of night, push the pup or kitten out of the car and lay rubber as they speed away so fast the former pet can't catch them.

I may be wrong but I am assuming that the droppers-off are from nearby towns such as Berea, Lancaster and Richmond who mistake that we country folk really give a darn about the pets they don't want. They don't realize that every kitten and most of the pups they drop on us are nothing more than coyote bait.

I promise you that a kitten or a cat or even juvenile dog, unused to self protection in the outdoors, dropped off in our neighborhood, is nothing better than fox or coyote food and that it will suffer a horrible death. Please take your unwanted animals to the nearest shelter and hope that someone with the strength of reason and responsibility adopts them. Otherwise they will be humanely put to death and that has to be better than being chased down and torn to shreds by a coyote.

And that's what happens if you drop a house dog or cat in our neighborhood hoping that someone will take the responsibility that you abdicated. We are not in the animal rescue business here, nor will we be. And we'd like to be rid of the coyotes who seem so prone to feed in our back yards.

I suspect that this is a universal irritation among rural living people. I'm not sure that we can do anything about it other than make the irresponsible feel guilty. And I'm not sure that feeling of guilt lasts very long.

The Roots of Rockcastle

by: Tonya J. Cook

From a historical perspective, I've never examined the only river that begins here in the county: the Dix. I'm sure it had a part to play in the history and development of the county. The Rockcastle River, for which the county is named, is by far the most noted water source in the county. It, as we know, serves many purposes from being a county boundary line to being a good place to fish and canoe. However, at this time, I would like to focus on the lesser known Dix River.

Unlike the Rockcastle River that begins in Jackson County, the Dix River begins in Rockcastle County. According to Wikipedia, the river begins in western Rockcastle County between Mount Vernon and Brodhead. It flows in a northwesterly direction, passes north of Stanford and east of Danville. The waters of the Dix River are retained by a dam of the same name in the Danville area to form Herrington Lake, the source of water for Danville.

Herrington Lake was created in 1925 by the Kentucky Utilities company, and was to supply hydroelectric power to the surrounding counties of Boyle, Mercer, and Garrard. As it turns out, it is the deepest lake in Kentucky at two hundred forty nine feet, at the deepest portion. It is so deep that it has never frozen over, except in 1936 and 1978. It is home to several species of fish, and provides recreation and tourism. The dam, at the time of the lake's creation,

Classic Outdoor Games

In a simpler time, kids played outdoors almost every evening. We did not have electronic toys or computer games, and our parents most often used the only television set at night, so we congregated in our yards to entertain ourselves. As San Francisco Chronicle Columnist Adair Lara explained, "We were set out in the yard in the morning and brought in at night, like cats." Parents were not concerned about children of the '50's and '60's remaining fit because we had a myriad of games that provided ample amounts of exercise for our young and growing bodies. We frequently drank out of the garden hose attached to the side of the house in order to stay hydrated while playing in our yards.

Bud Cox and I were recently discussing the games that we played in the evenings in our respective yards. He recalled, "We all gathered in the funeral home yard at night after we finished what Mom had for us to do." That was another thing - we usually had chores to perform before being turned loose.

Bud and I listed several of the games that we played on a regular basis, including kick-the-can, King of the Hill, sandlot baseball, flag football, basketball, and flashlight tag. The game we both remember being played most often was kick-the-can. While Buddy and his crew were playing in his yard, my friends were doing the same on old US 25 in front of Jim Winstead's house.

The group playing at the funeral home usually included: Bud and Jerry Cox, Ronnie Winstead, Bennie Chaney, Charles Bennett Farris, Jim Cox, Charles Burke, and Lawrence Bales. Most of them were in the 11-14 year-old age range. Buddy summed up the end of those evenings when he recalled, "The games concluded when some of the parents yelled to say, 'It is time to come in now!'"

In order for others to understand how much fun we had, let me explain the rules for playing kick-the-can. Basically, the game is a form of hide-and-seek, requiring one member to be chosen as the "it" person. Everyone gathered in a circle around the can, and the person who was "it" hid his eyes and counted to 100 while everyone else ran away and hid. Then the person who was "it" sought out the others; he did not need to touch the others, only to see them. They then had to come to the can and sit on the ground while "it" went back to find the others.

Where this game became interesting was while the "it" was off looking for the others, one of the players who was still free could sneak up

Keith Ohr to compete for PGA Championship; event to be televised nationally on CBS in Aug.

Louisville's Keith Ohr recently qualified to compete for a Professional Golf Association (PGA) championship. It's a major happening in the life of the 35-year-old golf pro.

But not near as major as what happened 10 months ago.

"Actually it was 10 months and three days," says Ohr, referring to the birth of twins Andrew Joseph and Amelia Ryan.

"They are amazing," says the first-time dad. "They crawled for the first time the other night, right into the kitchen."

Ohr and wife Andrea, both natives of eastern Kentucky, may be new to parenthood, but some of his earliest steps were taken on a golf course.

He didn't have much choice, being the product of a family highly skilled in athletics.

His grandfather and father lettered at the University of Kentucky in baseball, and an aunt in golf.

All family and friends can be expected to be playing close attention August 12-15 when Keith competes for the 2010 PGA Championship at Whistling Straits in Kohler, Wisconsin.

The event will be televised nationally on CBS.

The 2008 and 2009 Kentucky Professional Player of the Year, Ohr earned the right to compete in the prestigious event by firing a final round 75 and finishing in a tie for 9th at the 2010 PGA Professional National Championship at French Lick Resort in Indiana late last month.

Only the top 20 finishers advance on to the PGA Championship.

He had competed in the same tournament twice before, coming up short of advancing on to the big stage in 2006 and 2007.

At this point, the 1993 ECHS grad doesn't know where his career might take him, but he'll never forget where it began and will be forever grateful to the people and community that gave him his start.

Reared on Francis Street in Irvine, where he could often be seen practicing chipping in his back yard at a very early age, Ohr says the Estill County Golf Club, which he lovingly refers to as "Little Augusta," was his home away from home.

"The time spent playing golf in Estill was invaluable to my career. To be able to live where you can play every day and any time of the day and without limitations, and where you know everybody, you just don't get that at too many places.

"If I had a dollar for every time I went around that course, I'd be a rich man."

Following a successful high school career, Ohr accepted golf scholarships to the University of Louisville where they continued to excel.

Ohr majored in sports administration and spent his first summer out of college working at Gibson Bay Golf Course in Richmond.

Since then he has served as golf pro at Louisville's Big Spring Golf Club for eight years, and is now in his third year at pro at Wildwood Country Club off Bardstown Road in Louisville.

Wildwood, which has been around since 1952, is one of

Stay cool and safe this summer

Hot weather and vehicles: A deadly combination for kids.

As temperatures heat up, children are at serious risk for heat stroke when left alone even for a few minutes in a closed vehicle.

When left in a hot vehicle, a young child's core body temperature may increase three to five times faster than that of an adult. This could cause permanent injury or even death.

Stay cool and visit Rockcastle Professional Pharmacy (located in the Outpatient Services Center at Rockcastle Regional) during the month of July and receive education on hot vehicles and free sunglasses for children.

$12 million debt was refuted by county judge...

Dear Editor,

What a surprise it was to see the $12 million in county outstanding debt reported in last week's Signal. This amount was used as a question by the female candidate for county judge during the primary debate and refuted by Mr. Carloftis. Although some of that amount will be paid by funds from Source Corps, $2 million more was added during this election year for road pavement. Even though some help is received on these amounts, the interest gobbles up county funds.

It was also pleasant to see that Mr. Carloftis, as reported in the June 10 Signal, has proposed a payment on the principal of the Source Corp building. This will decrease the long-range interest to be paid on the project. As I recall, this idea was also mentioned first by the female candidate, during the debate. It would be great for all citizens to encourage the Judge to keep this practice going. Why don't you give him a call and tell him how you feel about this idea.

More funds that should be in city's budget...

Dear Editor,

Last week I told you about $372,820 absent from the new city budget.

I've also found hundreds of thousands more not in the budget. This is not new to the mayor or the city council. They were all told a month before they passed the budget.

I've tried to deal directly with the city council and the mayor but have gotten nowhere!

Don Jones has asked the mayor about this and even asked to have it put on the last month's agenda but the mayor has refused to even verify if I'm correct. Now that I'm going public with this information, maybe the mayor will get enough pressure to prove me wrong, or add it appropriately to the budget.

More to come.

Sincerely,

Rick Courtney

"The members here have been incredible with their support and generosity."

Ohr will be among the 156 players on the course when tourney play begins, and an immediate goal will be to remain when the field is cut to the low 70s for weekend play.

"I'm sure the course will be very difficult and the crowds large, but I've played in front of lots of people before and it helps to keep me focused," says the man who could be in the same company as the golfer whose game he most admires, Tiger Woods.

Ohr who is only about 5' 9", feels chipping and putting are the stronger aspects of his game, but notes "When everything comes together, I can compete with a lot of people.

Winning the tournament would no doubt bring great happiness to Keith Ohr, but would never overshadow the joy that came into his life 10 months and three days ago.

And that could spell big trouble for the rest of the field.

"I know how I operate. I play my best when I'm happy."

was the largest earth-filled dam ever to be made, and was considered an engineering feat.

Construction on the dam began in 1923. The top of the dam is 287 feet above the river bed; that's one hundred fifty feet higher than Niagra Falls. At its base, the dam is seven hundred fifty feet and one thousand eighty seven feet across the Dix River Gorge between Mercer and Garrard counties. Kentucky Utilities owns the land beneath the lake. The dam is a much needed asset in controlling flood water, too As you can see, it is quite a feat in itself to be able to contain the water of Rockcastle's Dix River.

The Dix River, after leaving the Herrington Lake, flows about another two miles where it meets the Kentucky River at High Bridge, about twenty miles southwest of Lexington.

In the gardening communities of generations past and to some degree today, the Dix River was and is, a factor in irrigation of crops along the largely agricultural route. The earliest of settlers may have camped along its banks and even used its current for transportation in canoes.

However, today, as a part of the Aquatic Habitat Enhancement Project, in 1991, a fish ladder was constructed near the dam. Its aim was to protect and increase the trout population of the river. The hydroelectric plant located at the Dix Dam can produce more than 1/5 of Kentucky's total capacity.

I've always been interested as to how small rivers, such as the Dix, reach the ocean. In the case of the Dix, it flows into the Kentucky River, which flows into the Ohio River, which is the largest contributor by volume to the Mississippi River that as we all know empties into the Gulf of Mexico, a portion of the Atlantic Ocean. Just to think it all began here in the hills of Rockcastle County.

Remember that I'm looking for good stories about the county, people and the events in their lives. I may be contacted through the Mount Vernon Signal or at therootsofrockcastle@windstream.net.

and "kick the can," allowing everyone to go hide again. The game was over when "it" found all players without allowing the can to be kicked. As one can imagine, it was tremendously difficult to locate every player - so it was not unknown for "it" to become so exasperated that he went home, and thus ended the game.

The players who participated in the game on old US 25 included: Kenneth Hansel, Earl Benton Cromer, Paul Hansel, Billy "Bat" Ramsey, Paul Carter, and me. There were others who played some of the time, but these were regulars. There were woods adjacent to our playing site, and it was quite difficult to find players who ventured into the woods to hide.

I will never forget one incident that happened to me while playing this absorbing game. I was selected to be "it" and several of the players had been caught when Paul Hansel came running toward the can to free them. Paul kicked the coffee can, which then struck me squarely on the nose! I had never had, nor have I had since, a broken bone. But that can managed to break my nose, and I was bleeding like a "stuck pig" as I ran toward my house to seek medical attention.

One of my best friends at the time was Kenneth Hansel, and he ran after me to explain to my mother (Bee) what had happened. He told her, "David Joe left a trail of blood from Mr. Winstead's yard all the way home!" I suppose that was at least a quarter of a mile in length.

Bee immediately loaded me into the family car with a towel over my face and hauled me to see Dr. Griffith. After his examination, he said, "David Joe's nose is broken. I will have to place cotton inside and it should be left for a day or so." He gave Bee some pain pills and instructed her to take me home. Thank goodness that is the only broken bone I have ever suffered.

There was another game that we played as children in my grandfather's (Pop) yard - flashlight tag. This game too was a form of hide-and-seek with the only difference being the "it" person only had to shine the light on the person hiding. What kid doesn't love carrying a flashlight? And if it can be incorporated into a night-time yard game, who would not love to participate? Being played in the dark added an air of mystery to the game. In my neighborhood, some of the girls even liked to play. I can remember Bonnie Winstead and Brenda Carter joining the guys as we stalked our prey in the night in Pop's big yard.

To keep from being bored, the kids in my neighborhood played every game we had ever heard of, and then some we made up. I love a quote by a recent-but-anonymous source, "Today, children tend to get more screen time and less screen time!"

It is really a shame that children of today do not know the pleasure of such afternoons and evenings, enjoying the great outdoors like we did. They don't know what they are missing. As I recall those good times with all of my childhood buddies, I note once again how blessed those of our generation have been. We had so much fun!

What is an Allergy?

Presented by Dr. Karen Saylor

The body has defenses against virtually everything. Sometimes, however, the body chooses the wrong defenses to handle certain proteins, such as the pollens and molds, that come in contact with the nasal passages, eyes, skin and gut.

In the case of allergies, the wrong antibody, called IgE antibody, is produced. The IgE antibody attaches to certain cells in the skin, nose, lungs and eyes. These cells are called mast cells, and they contain the substances that cause the symptoms of allergies.

When the proteins of pollen or mold spores come in contact with the IgE antibody, a reaction takes place in the mast cell which releases histamine and several other very potent substances. These chemicals cause a runny nose, sneezing and watery, itchy eyes--all the symptoms of allergies.

Certain proteins, such as molds and ragweed or grass pollens, can very easily induce allergies because of their size and chemical makeup. Larger proteins usually do not induce allergies.

Heredity also plays a big role in who will develop allergies. A person has a greater chance of allergies if close relatives have had hay fever, asthma or eczema. Allergies are very common. About 15% of Americans have some form of allergies.

Checking the blood level of the IgE antibody can be useful in evaluating allergies. A high level will assure your doctor that allergy testing is worthwhile, while a low level makes it less likely that allergies are the cause of your symptoms and other treatments may be tried first.

Medicines can help many people, and allergy shots can help most people by inducing the body to develop the right defenses.

An encouraging word:

Just Do The Good Thing

By Howard Coop

In one sense of the word, James Russell Lowell, the many-sided New Englander of the nineteenth century, was right when he penned those famous words that are part of a familiar hymn: "Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide in the strife with Truth and Falsehood for the good or evil side."

To be sure, there are truly great and infrequent moments when momentous decisions of life-changing proportion must be made. Sooner or later, everyone will face one of those rare, but inescapable, moments. When that moment comes, a decision with lasting consequences will be made. As a result of that decision, life will never be the same; in one way or another, it will be changed forever.

However, before that big moment arrives and the momentous decision of a lifetime confronts us, daily life is made up of one little decision after another, and decision-making, as everyone knows, is not always easy. Sometimes we fret and stew over even a minor decision and, in the end, discover that making the decision is actually more difficult than doing what the decision requires of us.

Many accept the idea that we are not puppets pulled by a string; we are responsible beings who possess free will and the right to exercise that will. So, we constantly make both major and minor decisions that have real consequences for our lives. Therefore, most of us need some steady principle that will serve as a reliable guide to will help us with the day-by-day decision-making process.

Nearly two thousand years ago, a man, in a letter written to a friend and fellow-worker on the island of Crete in the eastern Mediterranean Sea, offered a simple suggestion that can be helpful in the decision-making process of every day. Persons, he suggested, "must learn to devote themselves to doing what is good." With this basic principle as a guiding rule, the decision-making process is greatly simplified: Do not hesitate; just do the good thing.

a small tree and landed next to a home on the road. A 40 mph speed limit was approved for the road.

However, the Poplar Gap Road, in Magistrate Bill McKinney's district, met opposition from McKinney who said he had not had any complaints from residents on the road and felt “it doesn't help anyway.” No action was taken.

Two members of the Livingston Homecoming Committee were at the meeting to request a donation for the upcoming Labor Day celebration. Margaret Martin and Cleo Bryant told the court that the homecoming committee “worked very hard but we need more young people to help.” Last year, the court made a $200 donation and Martin said that Mayor J.C. Griffin had instructed them to request $2,500 but the court elected to make a $500 donation, the same they made to Brodhead's Dix River Festival earlier this summer.

The court declined to sign an agreement proffered by Bruce Wagman, an attorney from California who works in the area of animal rights, concerning operation of the animal shelter.

The issue has been ongoing for several months, since Rockcastle Animals in Need (R.A.I.N.) contacted Wagman for help in filing suit against the county over the animal shelter. Wagman, and another attorney in the same field from Louisville, visited the court and laid out the changes/improvements that needed to be made at the shelter. The court has complied, they say, and are now operating within the state law governing shelters.

The agreement would have involved daily operation of the shelter, with R.A.I.N.'s involvement mentioned several times in the document. In his cover letter with the agreement, Wagman told the court that if the agreement were not signed, that open records requests would be made that would require several days a week for the court to comply with.

However, Magistrate Bill McKinney said he felt that since the Animal Shelter Director David Carpenter submits monthly reports documenting operation of the shelter that these would be sufficient to comply with an open records request. The court did agree to require training for the Carpenter and Dog Warden Buck Farthing.

The question of paying accrued leave time to an employee, employed for less than a year, who was terminated was brought before the court by Jailer James Miller. Miller told the court that it was an “agreeable termination” and he felt the employee was due the accrued leave time.

The county's administrative code covers employees who quit and give two weeks notice but not a terminated employee.

After some discussion, the court decided to pay the employee in question for accrued leave time.

On the meeting's agenda was three more claims from contractors hired to repair damage to roads from the May storms. These claims bring the total for contractors alone to $319,804.52, not including gravel bills and county employees work.

Carloftis also told the court that most of the cost of repairing three slides in the county, “might” be paid by FEMA and the cost for the three slides, at the lowest price obtained so far, would be $196,186. The three slides are the biggest one on Maret Cemetery road, one on Buffalo Branch Road and the other on Old Dixie Highway in Mt. Vernon. Two other slides, on Copper Creek Road and part of one on Possum Kingdom Road, were paid for by the soil conservation service. In order for soil conservation to pay for a slide, there must be a stream involved causing the slide.

Magistrate Bill McKinney told the court that “If FEMA is not going to pay, we don't need to award a contract, we may have to do the work in a different manner.” However, a motion was made to proceed with the low bid on the projects but not begin work until more information is received from FEMA.”

Two other slides will be reimbursed by the soil conservation service, Carloftis said, one on 10 Foot Hole Road and Upper Calloway Branch.

It was also noted during the meeting that the court had not received excess fees for 2009 from County Clerk Norma Houk in the amount of $31,923.12. County Treasurer Joe Clontz told the court that the excess fees check is normally paid when Houk presents her annual settlement in January. Clontz said he had contacted the Department of Local Government who said the excess fees check was due the court by March 31st of this year.

The state of the county's precarious finances were also discussed. With the pay-outs to contractors for repairing roads damaged in the May storms and ongoing expenses associated with the new industrial park, totaling over $200,000 on this month's agenda alone, the court is having a hard time paying current obligations. The court also has a $82,584 payment due August 1st for one half of the county's workers compensation and general liability insurance policy.

However, Carloftis told the court that the bulk of the county's road fund money ($700,000) from the state was expected shortly and that occupational and insurance tax money expected during the first part of August might be enough to ease the financial strain. FEMA and state reimbursements for 88% of the cost of the work from the May storms and state grant reimbursements ($1.3 million) for work at the industrial park should be available within the next two to three months, Carloftis said.

In terms of the crash details, KSP Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Officer Charles Garland determined that a black 1995 Mitsubishi 3000GT, operated by Kelly Napier, 35, of Lexington and traveling south on the interstate, failed to merge right when the left lane she was in came to an end.

The Mitsubishi then went out of control in the gravel median and struck a tractor-trailer in the driver's front. The tractor-trailer, operated by Randy Wagner, 48, of Crossville, TN, then went out of control, struck a guard rail and came to rest in a wooded area.

Napier, Wagner, and a passenger in Napier's vehicle, Holli Combs, 32, of Lexington, were all treated at Rockcastle Regional Hospital for non life-threatening injuries.

UConn women calling on Kentucky star Hammond tops girls' high school rankings

(Reprinted from Courier-Journal.com)
The girls' Class of 2011 is not as talented or as deep as we've seen in recent years or that we will see coming behind in for a few years.

But at the head of the class is a big-time player that ranks among the top 30 players nationally - Rockcastle County's Sara Hammond.

The 6-foot-2 Hammond has been solid for three years and was sensational this summer for her Kentucky Premier AAU team.

Hammond has a bevy of schools after her and Louisville is one of the tops on her list but recently she's been contacted by two-time defending national champion Connecticut and that staff is expected to watch her this summer.

Hammond is the clear-cut No. 1 and leading candidate for Miss Basketball next season. Here's a look at the rest of the top players in the '11 class.

UConn women calling on Kentucky star

The top senior-to-be high school girls' basketball player in the state - Rockcastle County's Sara Hammond - has a new school involved in her recruiting process: Connecticut.

The two-time defending national champions have called to inquire about Hammond's and will evaluate her this summer at several AAU events. UConn assistant coach Shea Ralph called and chatted with Hammond's AAU coaches last week, according to her father.

Interest in the 6-foot-2 Hammond has picked up after a sensational spring playing for the Kentucky Premier AAU team. She had a solid Deep South Tournament in April where HoopGurlz said she "caught the attention of everyone."

Hammond saw her national ranking soar to No. 27 and her college list grow.

Louisville has long been one of her top schools, along with Western Kentucky, Vanderbilt, South Carolina and West Virginia. But she's added Notre Dame, North Carolina, UCLA, Texas and Georgia to her list among several others.

And now UConn is calling.

"I thought I had narrowed it to five schools," Hammond said recently. "But with (other schools) now in the mix, it just make my decision tougher."

"I want to get through July and the AAU tournaments and then sometime before my first game (as a senior) make my decision." Hammond said "location does matter," and noted she wants her family to be able to come and watch her play in college. She was a first-team All-State selection as a junior and is the leading candidate for Miss Basketball next season. She also spoke highly of the Louisville program and coach Jeff Walz. "Coach Walz and all of them (at Louisville) have been great," she said. "I have been there three or four times and am always in constant contact with them. That plays a big part now that I am a senior."

He has finished second at the London Country Club and third at the Old Bridge Golf Club. Cade is the son of Jeff and Treana Burdette of Mt. Vernon.

This past Saturday the Rockcastle County 12U All-Stars defeated Whitley County 6-1 to win their second straight Cal Ripken District 5 Title. The 12U All-Stars will now advance to the 2010 Cal Ripken State Tournament held at Shillitoe Park in Lexington. Their first game will be at 5 p.m. Thursday. Rockcastle eligible to apply for ARC funding support

The Center for Rural Development in Somerset is accepting grant applications from local governments in cities and counties across Southern and Eastern Kentucky—including Rockcastle County—through July 19 in the latest cycle of federal funding support from the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) for community strategic planning.

The grant applications are for the second cycle of ARC mini-grants awarded to The Center in 2010 through its Developing and Implementing Community Strategies Program to communities to encourage and support improved community strategic planning throughout the region.

During this funding cycle, The Center has the potential to award $90,200 of the overall $145,000 in ARC funding support targeted for this year to help advance economic and community development plans in Southern and Eastern Kentucky.

In February, U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-05) and Lonnie Lawson, president and CEO of The Center, presented $54,800 in ARC mini-grants to six communities or organizations to grow economic development through strategic planning efforts.

"Stimulating innovative and sustainable economic development solutions in the region we serve is at the core of The Center's mission, and these grants target communities that have the ideas—but lack the resources—to move them forward," Lawson said.

"This funding will assist these communities in developing or furthering plans and strategies that will help fuel positive and tangible economic and community development activity in our region for years to come," he added.

Funds can be used for either the successful creation of a strategic plan or the implementation of priority community development projects identified in existing strategic plans. The Center also is encouraging the use of technology solutions in the implementation and execution of these plans and projects.

Individual project awards will range from $5,000 up to a maximum of $10,000. All projects must be completed within a six-month period.

Recipients of the latest round of ARC grant funding awarded earlier this year included Tri-Cities Heritage Development in Harlan County; Letcher County Convention and Tourism Commission; Wayne County Fiscal Court; City of Stanford; and Harlan County Fiscal Court.

For more information about the program or to seek grant applications, contact Patti Simpson at

Her dedication to the community along with her tremendous work ethic will go a long way towards ensuring that everyone's voice is heard."

Danielle Smoot was hired as Rogers' District Communications Coordinator in November 2008. In addition to her new responsibilities as Field Representative, she will continue in her communications role and will now be based out of the Somerset office. Prior to her service

Norma Reams and grandson, Skyler Durham, took time to purchase a glass of lemonade from Emily Sturgill, 5, this past Saturday. Emily decided to take part in "LemonAid Days," a project of the Salvation Army, by setting up a stand in front of the Dollar General Store next to Save-A-Lot. The project will benefit homeless children staying at the Salvation Army Shelter in Lexington. Emily, the daughter of Donnie and Hope Sturgill of Mt. Vernon, collected over $100 in her first hour and a half from sales and donations.

Mount Vernon firemen Chris Alexander and Brandon Reynolds work to put out a fire that ignited under the hood of a car on Richmond Street in Mt. Vernon last Thursday. It happened directly in front of the old Car Quest Auto Parts building. According to the Mt. Vernon Police Chief Terry Jackson, the car caught fire after backfiring.

Rockcastle County Recycling Trailer Schedule Changes

The Rockcastle County Recycling Center is now providing recycling drop-off opportunities in outlying areas of Rockcastle County. Due to the purchase of two new recycling trailers, beginning June 1st, the recycling trailers will be left permanently at the following locations: City of Brodhead (gravel lot across from Citizens Bank), City of Livingston (gravel lot across from old Livingston Gymnasium), Brindle Ridge Volunteer Fire Department (at Conway), and at the Pongo Volunteer Fire Department. The trailers will only be pulled out to empty them and will then be taken back to the same location.

The following items may be put in these trailers: mixed paper, mixed plastic #2-7, #1 plastic bottles, clear milk jugs, steel and aluminum cans, glass bottles and jars, and cardboard.

Please help us make this a successful venture by being clean and/or neat with our recycling habits. Do not put anything in the individual bins except what is labeled on them. If you drop something on the ground, pick it up. Absolutely no trash is to be put into the bins! Remember, camera surveillance is utilized in Rockcastle County and it is illegal to improperly dispose of trash.

FFA members attend KLTC at Hardinsburg

Submitted by Nichole Roberts-
 Chapter President
 Billy Cameron-
 Chapter Reporter

The officers and assistants from our local FFA Chapter travel to Hardinsburg every summer to the Kentucky FFA Leadership Training Center for a week. This year 19 officers and assistants from RCHS attended FFA camp. During the week of July 5th-9th they had the opportunity to participate in several athletic activities, bond with their chapter, take classes to help them serve in their office more efficiently along with meet FFA members from all around the state. FFA members were able to take classes such as Ag Careers, Going to College, Conservation, Forestry, and many other agricultural classes, which taught members more about teamwork, leadership, communication, and really taught them more about the agricultural world.

We are proud to say our chapter Reporter, B.B. Cameron ran for camp council and was elected as the Vice President. Camp council is the camp officer team for the week; they inspect the cabins where the campers stay to make sure they are clean, raise and lower the flag as well as help new campers get around camp. Our chapter president, Nichole Roberts also served as a delegate to help elect the camp council. Also, the RCHS officer team presided over the over the Thursday night session. Only 4 out of the 27 chapters attending, presided over the sessions.

Athletic activities always keep everyone well entertained at camp. For several hours a day campers are able to play volleyball, tennis, basketball, softball, swim in the pool along with other card games and activities. However, as a chapter we compete in a volleyball tournament with other chapters from around the state. Members from each chapter are also chosen for an All-Star team to compete in Volleyball, Softball, and Basketball against the advisors. From our chapter Billy Cameron was chosen to play on the softball All-star team.

Chapter Reporter, Billy Cameron, was elected Vice-President of the Camp Council. The Camp Council was the top six FFA members elected out of the 337 members that attended FFA Camp that week.

The state quiz contest is held during this week as well. Charity Adams from our chapter competed and placed very respectably. Charity also recited the FFA creed during the Thursday night session. Leadership awards are given to members who go above and beyond, participate, and stand out during the week. From our chapter Billy Cameron was chosen for an outstanding leadership award, which is only given to the top 3% of the members attending the camp.

Last but certainly not least, our chapter would like to send out a special thanks to our local Alumni for assisting with the cost of attending the Kentucky FFA Leadership Training Center.

Rockcastle County Recycling Trailer Schedule Changes

The Rockcastle County Recycling Center is now providing recycling drop-off opportunities in outlying areas of Rockcastle County. Due to the purchase of two new recycling trailers, beginning June 1st, the recycling trailers will be left permanently at the following locations: City of Brodhead (gravel lot across from Citizens Bank), City of Livingston (gravel lot across from old Livingston Gymnasium), Brindle Ridge Volunteer Fire Department (at Conway), and at the Pongo Volunteer Fire Department. The trailers will only be pulled out to empty them and will then be taken back to the same location.

The following items may be put in these trailers: mixed paper, mixed plastic #2-7, #1 plastic bottles, clear milk jugs, steel and aluminum cans, glass bottles and jars, and cardboard.

Please help us make this a successful venture by being clean and/or neat with our recycling habits. Do not put anything in the individual bins except what is labeled on them. If you drop something on the ground, pick it up. Absolutely no trash is to be put into the bins! Remember, camera surveillance is utilized in Rockcastle County and it is illegal to improperly dispose of trash.

First class of 2010 summer youth program Lakes graduates from 2010 Rogers Scholars

Submitted by Sharon Dodson, The Center
for Rural Development

Rogers Scholars graduate Ben Lake of Rockcastle County is returning to his home community with a renewed commitment to community service and determination to use his newfound confidence to step up into a leadership role.

Lake, 16, a junior at Rockcastle County High School, graduated from the first summer session of Rogers Scholars on July 2 at The Center for Rural Development in Somerset after completing the week-long program, which focuses on building critical leadership and entrepreneurial skills in participants as the region's next generation of leaders.

"The Rogers Scholars program is truly an experience of a lifetime," he said. "I learned to ballroom dance, how to improve the great county of Rockcastle, both physically and economically, and interacted one-on-one with university professors."

Lake, son of Scott Lake and Karla Lake, said he plans to do more volunteer work and seek out entrepreneurial opportunities to bring positive recognition to Rockcastle County.

As a Rogers Scholar, he said, the experience provided him with the skills and knowledge "to improve my community and how to successfully work and lead from within."

Rogers Scholars—The Center's flagship youth program—emphasizes the development of technological skills and builds in participants a sense of leadership, an entrepreneurial spirit, and a commitment to rural Kentucky.

"Rogers Scholars instills in young people the desire to serve their home communities and the region by assuming a leadership role, if they haven't already, as soon as they graduate from the program," Lonnie Lawson, president and CEO of The Center, said. "These students truly represent the best and brightest minds in our region and are the next generation of leaders in Southern and Eastern Kentucky."

Each graduate will receive an offer of a college scholarship from 14 participating colleges and universities in Kentucky, and one university in Tennessee.

During the week, Scholars participate in a series of leadership and team-building exercises; interact with some of the state's top business and professional leaders; complete a community service project; and receive professional development training in one of three declared majors: engineering, video production, and the newest offering, healthcare.

Thirty-six high school students—all rising juniors—graduated from the first session of Rogers Scholars, which was held during the week of June 27-July 2 on the grounds of The Center in Somerset, and another group of 37 students will join the program later on in July for the second and final summer session.

This is the largest group of graduates to attend Rogers Scholars in the history of the 12-year program.

"The Center is honored to share the Rogers Scholars experience, described by past graduates as an experience of a lifetime, with 73 outstanding high school students from within our 42-county primary service area," Jessica Melton, associate director of leadership and training for The Center, said. "These students have exemplified strong leadership skills and a commitment to our region."

"After spending a week with Rogers Scholars," Melton added, "I know great things lie ahead for Southern and Eastern Kentucky."

"What Is Written"

In Matt.28:18 NRSV we read, "And Jesus came and said to them, 'All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me.' Again in Eph.1:22-23 we read, 'And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church, Which is his body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all.'" Jesus is the head of the church. He sent the Holy Spirit to guide the apostles into all truth. "Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will show you things to come." Jn.16:13. All truth that is necessary to guide from earth to heaven is revealed in the Bible. "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." 2 Tim.3:16-17. We do not need to look to church traditions, the creed books of men, the decrees of the pope, catechisms, by-laws, "latter-day revelations" or any other documents or teaching from men! The Bible reveals completely the will of God for us today. Let us know if you would like to study the word of God, we are ready to help.
