

Residents meet to discuss new fire department

By: Sara Coguer

A large crowd gathered Saturday evening in the Climax, Three Links and Disputanta area to discuss the possibility of beginning an area fire department.

Around 50 residents attended the meeting at Climax

County Judge-Executive Buzz Carloftis

Christian Church, learning what exactly needed to be done so that they can have a community fire department.

County Judge-Executive Buzz Carloftis and CSEPP Coordinator Howell Holbrook were on hand, as well as fire chiefs from other departments in the county, to give the residents information.

The most tangible benefit of a community fire department, according to Carloftis, is a reduction in insurance rates for residents. Carloftis also told the crowd what the county does for each of the departments

Very low voter turnout Tuesday

By: Sara Coguer

If you were one of the 1,257 Rockcastle County voters yesterday, you can pat yourself on the back for doing your civic duty. Tuesday's turnout was one of the lowest for the county in recent memory. In fact, while voter turnout was expected to be about 10% - Rockcastle only managed to turn out just over 1% of its 11,396 registered voters.

Newly-elected Republican candidate for Commission of Agriculture James Comer was the highest vote getter in the county with 810 votes. He easily defeated his opponent, Rob Rothenburger who got 155 votes.

Senate President David Williams easily won the governor's Republican nomination with 673 votes over Phil Moffett's 270 and Barbara Holsclaw's 99.

Somerset native Hilda Legg easily won the county for

For 2011-12 fiscal year

Council approves budget

By: Sara Coguer

In their regular monthly meeting Monday night, the Mt. Vernon City Council approved a $9,022,464 budget for the 2011-12 fiscal year. The city expects to have $8,371,468 in expenditures, including water and sewer.

The total budget for the general fund is $536,975, with a five percent pay raise for city employees included.

The Police Department has a budget of $690,170 and the Fire Department's budget is $109,587.

The council approved the first reading of the budget ordinance, with the second reading coming in the June meeting.

Mayor Mike Bryant gave the council a list of needs that the city is facing including a new water tank farm on Sand Springs Hill because the predicament of the current one "keeps me up at night worrying." He also told the court that the city needs to purchase backup generators for the water and sewer plants to the tune of $114,725 each. Bryant told the court that the most important one was for the water plant in case of a disaster, natural or otherwise, that shut down electricity to the plant.

Sheriff's office finds meth lab

By: Sara Coguer

Two Livingston residents were arrested last Friday after officers from the Rockcastle Sheriff's Department found components of a meth lab in their residence on Mahaffey Hill Road.

Deputies were in the process of a routine traffic stop when they had to begin pursuit of 59-year-old Gary D. Mullins and Maranda N. Smith, 27, who did not pull over until they had reached their home.

Upon arrival, officers asked Mullins and Smith for identification and they did not have any but Smith said she had identification in her purse in the home. When Smith and the deputy went into the home, the deputy found the meth components. Mullins was charged with manufacturing methamphetamine, 1st offense, possession of a controlled substance, 1st degree/1st of

by:
Sara Anderkin Coguer,
Editor

Well, I am watching every day the beginning of something I have been dreaming about I guess since Jason and I got married -- we are actually building a house. I still have to pinch myself every once in a while, and mom told me I was going to have a heart attack if I didn't quit getting so excited.

Now, don't get me wrong, the Lord has blessed us with wonderful homes in our lives, but I just can't imagine anything better than having a home that only you have lived in, you helped design, that you got to choose everything for, so that it is only yours.

Actually Jason and I moved around a lot when we first got married. Seriously, who let two kids with only one job and no idea about finances get married? (Just kidding, mom!) We lived in a room, literally, behind my mom and dad's garage after we got home from our honeymoon. Honestly, we had everything we needed. A table and chairs with a little fridge and microwave, a couch, coffee table and tv, and our bed, dresser and a hanging rack. We lived like royalty.

Jason was still in school and he mowed lawns all that summer, making a lot of "cash." We ate like kings and had nothing to show for all of his enterprise, but it sure was fun. We seemed to run into a lot of famous people eating out that summer, but no one more than former governor Wallace Wilkinson. He must have mowed a lot of lawns that summer, too.

We lived in the back room from May to January and then moved to a farmhouse out at Sands Springs. We only had enough furniture to fill five of the nine rooms, but we definitely had some great times there. Our most favorite memory will be of the bat that got into the house. We were young and ignorant, and only knew that it was us against the bat.

If anyone had looked through the upstairs screen door, they would have thought Jason was killing me -- with a broom. The funniest thing was that he was yelling "die" with every swing. We were informed later that bats were on the endangered list (they should have looked in that backyard and they would have come off the list), and we should have snuck up behind it, thrown a towel over it and then released it back to the wild. Oh well, our bad.

We only lived there until the first of May because we had had some night visitors who were out for no good, and I was creeped out. So we moved to Jamie and Rick's basement. Again, everything we needed, even a built in dishwasher in Kayla. She was about six, and loved nothing better than to come down and wash our dishes. Ashamedly, we let her.

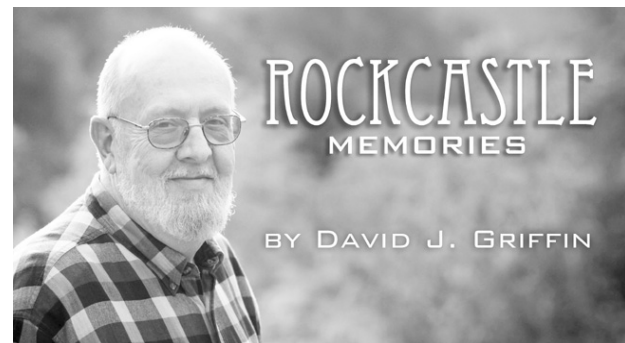

About the first of June of the next year we moved to a very small trailer in Brodhead. All I can remember about that summer is that we watched OJ's wild ride along the California freeway. We weren't there for long because Jason's mom and dad found us a house on West Main Street in August right before school started.

Jason and I were both gainfully employed with the school system at this time. So you would have thought we would have had a little more sense about saving money. (We didn't). The wonderful gentleman that lived next door was the landlord, and he told us he had to raise the rent to $160 a month, but he couldn't be coming over all the time to change a light bulb for that price. We readily agreed, and promised him no late night light bulb changing.

Well, we became pregnant with Alaina in February of 1996, and moved to an apartment over Cox Hardware in August. That was the best move because I didn't have to move anything. We also lived there long enough to have Alaina, but we were able to finally buy a house in May of the next year. That was 1997, so we had lived in seven different places in five years.

We have fond memories of each home, but our fondest was of our last home in Maretburg. I guess we were just tired of moving, I was tired of packing up wedding gifts and then never seeing them again, and it was the first home we actually owned. We managed to raise three great kids there, and if it only had one more bedroom we would probably still be there.

However, having said that, I am so excited about the new house, and anyone who knows me well knows I have been looking at house plans forever. Jason wonders what I will do with my extra time now that I can't pick out a house plan, but I am sure I will come up with something to do. Like pick out a house plan for our home on the beach, for when we retire . . .

Polio - A most dreaded childhood disease

Like many a child who grew up in my time, I was frightened each summer child when polio epidemics occurred across the United States. The disease was considered by nearly everyone as the most frightening public health problem of the post-war era in America. The year of 1952 brought the worst outbreak in the nation's history. That year alone, 58,000 contracted the disease, leaving 3,145 people dead and more than 21,000 with the paralysis that accompanied the disease.

Because most people thought the disease was caused by unsafe drinking water, my mother (Bee) always hated for me to go swimming during the summer when the disease was prevalent. Over and over, she would say, "I wish you wouldn't go swimming." However, most of my friends would be going; so I would join them most of the time. Although I will admit having a nervous feeling when doing something of which Bee did not approve.

The disease was actually determined to be a contagious viral infection which was spread from one person to another. Although approximately 90 percent of the cases of polio exhibited no symptoms, it became considerably more serious if the virus entered the blood stream. In those instances, the disease destroyed motor neurons causing muscle weakness, paralysis, or death.

In August of 1951 and much to our horror, one of my older brother's best friends contracted polio. His name was Billy Machal; they been friends for a few years. Billy was older than my brother and was planning to be a medical missionary. He had been interested in chemistry from childhood, even owning a chemistry kit while still very young. The previous year he had enrolled in classes at Georgetown College to major in pre-med. It was that fall when he was preparing to return to Georgetown that he was stricken with the illness.

At first, his family thought that Billy had just a summer flu bug; then his fever spiked, remaining high for several days. His local physician advised his family to take him to Berea. From there, he was rushed to St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington, where he was properly diagnosed and our worst fears became a reality. The polio virus had affected his breathing, and he was placed in what was called an "iron lung" -- a large mechanical device that breathed for the patient.

Billy's parents (Lena and Charles Machal) were at his side when he died. One of the family members recounted that Billy had looked at his mother and a tear slid down his cheek. Our entire family, like the entire community, was devastated because he was such a friendly and kind young man. Several of his friends recounted that they had become Christians because of his influence.

His funeral was one of the first I ever attended. In-

By Ike Adams

I had email from a relative last week who was reminiscing about her favorite memory of my Mom. It had to do with picking strawberries when she visited our place at a very young age.

I have many, many amazing good memories of my mother but let me say, for the record, that not a single one of them involves strawberries. In fact, even after I became an adult, I had nightmares about Mom and strawberries. For instance, one recurring dream had me drowning in a railroad gondola filled with strawberries and all I had was a gallon lard bucket with which to bail myself out. My Mom, instead of pulling me out of the sea of berries, kept yelling that if I worked a little faster, I could save myself.

When I was growing up my parents came up with the bright idea that the road from rags to riches had to do with a couple acres of strawberries. Dad ordered the plants through the Extension Service and followed their planting instructions to the letter. Every afternoon for a week or so our family spent the hours between the time and I got home from school, setting strawberry plants in a couple of hillside fields that he had prepared for that purpose.

I was only in second grade but the memory is as fresh as though it happened yesterday. I honestly didn't mind that first year, even though it was back breaking, because I was so excited about the prospect of an unlimited supply of strawberries. Prior to the commercial endeavor, we had one little patch that yielded about a gallon at a time and these were devoured about as fast as we could pick them. Mom managed to put up seven quarts or so for cobblers during the winter and said cobblers were a huge treat during the winter. I can remember having the choice between strawberry cobbler or a cake for my birthday in January and the cobbler won without a second thought.

The Extension Service adamantly insisted that all blooms be picked off the first year so that all the growth could go to runners. Keeping those blooms picked off was a daily chore and a dire omen of things to Art Showcase was a big success...

Dear Editor,
The Arts Showcase event held last Friday evening was a success. Many students, relatives and arts enthusiasts came out to show their support for visual art and jazz. The rain stopped and Church Street was closed, which helped visitors enjoy an evening with the arts, thanks to our talented high school students.

For two hours, the jazz band entertained all who came, the trees of the courthouse lawn. Freshly planted pansies graced their setup. Visitors moved between the music and art display in the gallery. At times they just relaxed, seated on the Church Street wall, taking in the sights and sounds of a delightful spring evening. Some enjoyed refreshments from Roy, the hot dog man, who stayed late for the evening.

As the evening closed, conversations continued between parents and friends of the arts. It was a wonderful, peaceful time for people of all ages. More arts events are planned for the summer and fall.

Students, parents and grandparents were excited to see the art in the gallery. Discussions about future possibilities flourished. It was decided then and there that a special block of projects during summer days should be set aside for middle and high school students.

Please stop by the gallery for more information on upcoming events. We are open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m.

Sincerely,

Sincere gratitude...

Dear Editor,
I am pleased to convey my gratitude and thanks to each of the citizens who showed up at the Climax Christian Church on Saturday to show support for a new fire department. This district of the county is the most remote from present fire departments, and I am pleased that the fiscal court is able to provide financial support for such endeavors to protect property and lives. The number of citizens who came to the meeting proved to me that they are, indeed, interested in forming a new fire department. Howell Holbrook, Jr., who is with this office, will coordinate efforts to help build a new department. He can be reached by calling 256-8436.

My appreciation to the members of the Climax Christian Church who graciously provided us a meeting place and, also, my sincere thanks to the men and women in the community who spurred this effort forward.

Respectfully,

Generous donation to Relay for Life...

Dear Editor,
We would like to thank Rose Brown for the donation of the signed basketball for the Lady Rockets Championship team that was given to the Relay for Life auction.

Without her donation, we would not have been able to raise as much money as we did, as the basketball brought over $3,200 just by itself.

Again, thanks to Rose Brown for the donation.

side the casket, there was a glass covering placed over Billy's body because at that time the cause of the disease had not yet been identified.

My fear of polio was made even more real because of the death of such a close friend of the family, increasing my dread of the summer disease. Headlines in local and regional newspapers touted the increase in the number of young people dying from polio. Annual epidemics became increasingly alarming.

During the time of the polio epidemic, an American medical researcher from New York City named Jonas Salk was working on a way to prevent the horrid disease. President Franklin D. Roosevelt became its most famous victim, and it was he who provided funds for the development of a vaccine or its cure.

By 1955, Salk introduced a vaccine that would eventually bring the disease under control. The field test of the vaccine was called the most elaborate program of its kind in history and it involved 1,800,000 school children. Students were lined up, one after another, to receive the vaccine in the form of an injection.

When the news of the vaccine's success was made public, Salk was hailed as a "miracle worker." Unlike anything that one would see or hear in today's world, Salk, when asked on a televised interview who owned the patent to the drug, replied, "There is no patent. Could you patent the sun?"

Salk went on to found the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in La Jolla, California. In the following years, it was there that he continued to conduct research on many important diseases. Until his death on June 23, 1995, he was searching for a vaccine against HIV.

It is impossible to describe how children and their parents of that time felt when the vaccine was discovered. I can remember standing in line at school to receive my "polio shot." Like any child, I had never been fond of getting vaccinations, but I did not even flinch when that particular inoculation was administered. It was a relief beyond measure to know that we no longer had to fear the disease of polio and its effects.

As a foot note, my brother also attended Georgetown College and eventually married Billy's sister, Eva Ann Machal. They have been married for many years and have two daughters, Debbie and Denise, as well as numerous grandchildren. Eva has told me stories of her brother many times. Even though I was very young when he died, because of my sister-in-law I feel that I too knew Billy.

The Tale of Mama's Quilt

Some of my earliest and fondest memories revolve around the days when family or friends would visit and the family quilts were brought out of the cedar chest and old trunks. My mom and grandma had several handmade quilts tucked securely away, and only brought out "for show". Some of the quilts were old. They had been made by other family members of generations past.

I always enjoyed hearing the stories that went along with each quilt. They would start something like this: "I remember making this one back in 1925..." for instance. "...It was when your mama was just a baby. Now, this piece here was her play dress, this piece here was one of your great-great-aunt's dresses..." and so on. "This quilt was made by your great-grandma (Melvina Bustle-Norton of Wabd, just after 1900 and her daughters, Sula, Orla, Nell, and Myrtle) and given to us for a wedding gift."

Each quilt had its own history. Some had even won blue ribbons at various fairs.

Family quilts are certainly something to treasure. A few days ago, I was at the county extension office doing some quilting myself when Doug Brock came by with a treasured family quilt to be shown in an upcoming quilt show. It was indeed a very beautiful quilt and very old. It was speculated that it could be of the Civil War era.

I found this story of the quilt interesting and thought others may be interested, too. The following is a story written by Doug Brock to accompany the quilt in the show.

Tale of Mama's Quilt

By Doug Brock, Sr.

The year was 1928 when the William Lucas Overbay family was traveling by horse and buggy from their farm at Pine Hill, Kentucky to Stanford, Kentucky. They had passed through Main Street, Mount Vernon, and Brodhead. When passing through Main Street in Crab Orchard, Kentucky, there was a quilt show and sale going on.

Mom, who was Rissie Overbay Brock, and the wife of Virgil Brock was about 10 years old at the time. Mom saw a quilt that was so beautiful that she had to have it. Mom looked at her dad and said, "I'd love to have that quilt." Since mom wanted the quilt so badly, her dad bought it for her.

Mom was the youngest of ten children born to Mattie Cottingim Overbay and William Lucus Overbay. William Lucus was a big, big man. Mom always told me that her Dad carried her around in his big strong arms and took her with him whenever possible. William Lucus Overbay worked in the old stone quarry at Mullins Station and ran a small grocery store at Pine Hill. He also owned a small coal mine.

On that day Mom became the care taker of this quilt and I think she did a great job. Now 83 years later I, C. Douglas Brock, have become the caretaker. The quilt pattern name is New York Beauty. However, the quilt has an American Indian look. The beautiful hues of brown, rust and green, are reminders of nature and the peeks look much like teepees. The pattern curves in and out down they quilt, much like a snake would slink through the woods. There are 1,342 teepee shapes and 66 1/2 circles for a total of 1,517 colored pieces of fabric in the quilt.

As you look upon Mama's Quilt today, I hope that you see the time, thought, preservation, beauty and love that went into Mama's Quilt. Be aware of what the quilt symbolizes: yesterday is gone, tomorrow is not here, today is all we have. Let the next stitch you make be a good one. Hug someone today or give them a loving smile—that way, Mama's Quilt will have been worthwhile.

"Points East"

come. But sure enough, the plants grew and flourished and by the end of that first summer what had started out with a couple or three thousand plants in a single furrows turned into rows three feet wide with plants in the tens of thousands.

The first harvest, in year two, coincided with the last day of school as I recall. Neighbors and cousins were enlisted to help pick berries "on the halves" a gallon for us and a gallon to take home. I was just out of third grade and advised that I was picking for my room and board. Mom was the field boss and Dad took time off his regular work to handle marketing chores. The berries were graded for shipping and for the local market which consisted of numerous grocery stores and plain old door to door peddling. Mom kept all the rejects such as mashed or deformed berries for our own use.

As field boss, she surveyed the work of every picker and woe be to anybody who missed a single ripe berry. So at night, after picking at least 20 gallons of berries each, we sat in the kitchen and mashed berries for jam, stuffed them in to quart jars for canning and into plastic cups for freezing. Mom even experimented with drying them. Another relative made wine much to Mom's dismay.

We ate strawberry something for breakfast, lunch and supper and snacked on strawberries in the field. This went on pretty much 24-7 for five weeks or so.

And it soon became obvious that for the duration (more than ten years) our lives would revolve around strawberries. Some variation of strawberries was on the meal table 365 days a year. I even had to take strawberry jam and peanut butter sandwiches to school for lunch. I learned to despise strawberry pies and cobbler.

I'm not even going to get into all the work that had to do with plowing and resetting plants for the next year, but suffice to say the work lasted all summer. Suffice, also, to say that strawberries soon became the ultimate disillusionment of my young life.

So, for most of my adult life, I have graciously refused anything strawberry. However, just over a year ago when I was diagnosed with diabetes, I discovered that strawberries were one of the few sweet fruits I could devour without having a sugar spike and I've learned to love them again. I go through a couple quarts a week now and I am amazed that they are available in the grocery store 12 months of the year. I'm not sure how or where they are grown—just that they satisfy my sweet tooth.

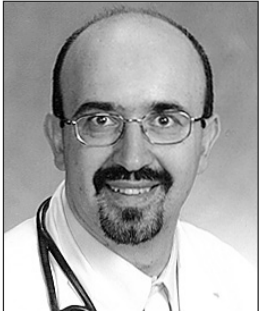

Strawberries are in season in central Kentucky right now and several nearby growers offer the option of picking them yourself for half price. I take one look at the long rows and tell them that I'll pass on picking and pay full price. I don't want the nightmares to start again.

RCHS girls' track team seeks 11th regional title

RCHS completed their regular season with a win at their own home invitational and a 3rd place finish at the Central Ky. Conference Championships. RCHS has not lost a home track meet since 2003 when Mercer County defeated them. Coincidentally, that was the last year the team did not win the regional title, losing also to Mercer. RCHS did go on to beat Mercer in the state championships that year.

At their home invitational, RCHS defeated Madison Southern 173-122 to keep their home winning streak intact.

Sophomore Michaela Hunter was named the meet

MVP for her outstanding performances including wins in long jump (17'6"), triple jump (37'4"), the 200-meter dash (26.54), and the 400-meter dash (59.34).

Also winning events were the following: Alyssa Allen - 100-meter hurdles (17.94); Jessica Albright - 300-meter hurdles (53.44); Rachel Cain - 3200-meter run (13:35.9); Bryonna Cromer - 800-meter run (2:40.1); Amy Johnson - shot put (31'11.75") and discus (102'6"). The girls' 3200-meter relay team of Jessica Albright, Rachel Cain, Alyssa Cox, and Bryonna Cromer also won with a time of 10:49.

At the CKC meet, the girls were without the services of the varsity members that are middle schoolers. Those team members had the evening off to rest for the middle school state championships which were held last Saturday. Despite not running several events, RCHS finished 3rd overall behind Henry Clay and Boyle County. With the RCMS competitors in the mix, the girls' team would have made a run at winning their 3rd straight conference title.

RCHS sophomore Michaela Hunter won individual conference titles in long and triple jump, as well as the 200 and 400-meter dashes. She also set new CKC records in triple jump and the 200, while breaking the RCHS record in the event and running the 3rd fastest time (24.94) in the history of Class 2A. Michaela received the award for most points (40) and the award for best performance in triple jump (37'1"). She also long jumped 16'6.75" and ran a 58.5 in the 400-meter dash.

Sophomore Amy Johnson won conference championships with awesome performances in both shot put (31') and discus (100'6").

Freshman Alyssa Allen placed 4th in the 100-meter hurdles at the Central Ky. Conference Championships with a time of 17.59 seconds. She finished as conference runner-up in triple jump with a personal best of 33'10.75". She also placed 9th in the 300 hurdles in 54.58 seconds.

Senior Jessica Albright finished 5th in the 300-meter hurdles with a great time of 50.54 seconds. Jessica also placed 12th in the 200-meter dash in 28.94 seconds.

Junior Bryonna Cromer finished 8th in the 800-meter run with a personal best time of 2:34.84.

Freshman Lyndsey Abel

RCHS first baseman Chris Wren goes for the pitch in last Friday's 13-2 win against Harrison County.

Pitcher Ben Lake works for a strikeout in Friday night's win against Harrison County.

RCHS sophomore Amy Johnson throws shot put at the CKC Championships. Amy was conference champion in both shot put and discus.

RCHS sophomore Michaela Hunter won individual conference titles in long and triple jump, as well as the 200 and 400-meter dashes. She also set new CKC records in triple jump and the 200, while breaking the RCHS record in the 200 and running the 3rd fastest time (24.94) in the history of Class 2A. Michaela received the award for most points (40) and the award for best performance in triple jump (37'1").

Rockets 5-3 in May

The Rockcastle Rockets baseball team is doing well in May, winning five of their eight games so far this month.

The Rockets biggest wins in May have come against district rival Casey County with a 15-4 win and against Harrison County with a 13-2 win. Other wins for the Rockets include a 7-3 win over Wayne County, 8-7 win over Williamsburg and an 8-5 win over Pulaski County.

The Rockets ranked second in the district behind Somerset, who gave the Rockets their worst loss in May, 16-3. The Rockets also lost to Corbin and Clay County.

Softball update

Since May began, the Lady Rockets softball team has gone 2-6, with a 10-9 win over Jessamine County and a 1-0 win over Casey County.

The Lady Rockets will play their final home game this Saturday at 11 a.m.

Tickets are $20 for both the girls' and boys' game and all proceeds benefit the Kentucky Lions Foundation. They can be purchased at www.kyallstars.net. Rockcastle should have a good showing for this game which benefits a worthy organization.

According to Jody Demling, not only did Sara become the all-time leading scorer in girls basketball at Rockcastle County (2121 points), her 1584 rebounds ranks #9 all-time in Kentucky girls basketball and her 522 blocked shots ranks #4 all-time.

In their state tournament run to the championship, Rockcastle was the only team in recent history to defeat four top 20 ranked opponents.

In the final Lit Ratings in the Courier-Journal, Madison Central was ranked #16, Clay County at #14, Calloway County at #17 and Manual #1. Rockcastle was rated #3. However, in Dave Cantrall's ranking the state final poll, Rockcastle and Manual were tied at #1.

Mamaw's Kitchen

By Regina Poynter Hoskins

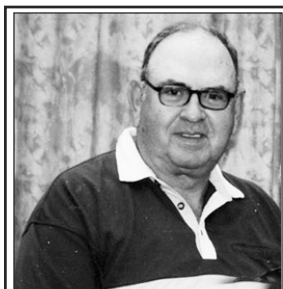

To prepare the garden for planting, early in the spring, Daddy would burn all the dead weeds, grass, and leaves where he would later plant the many vegetables that would help feed us over the summer and winter months to follow. The smoke from the fire would perfume the crisp coolness of the season. He loved working in the garden. I was his shadow, trailing along behind him, not really helping at all, just watching and enjoying the time spent with my father. The first vegetables planted were lettuce and green onions. A skillet of hot baked cornbread was always served with the salad. What a feast!

WILTED LETTUCE
Leaf lettuce • Green onions
Bacon • Vinegar • Salt/Pepper
Wash and clean lettuce and onions. Tear lettuce into bite-sized pieces and slice onions thinly. Cook bacon until crisp. Remove bacon from skillet and add vinegar (to taste) to the hot bacon grease. Pour over lettuce and stir gently. Crumble bacon over greens. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Serve immediately.

FRESH GREEN BEANS WITH POTATOES
3 pounds green beans
6 slices bacon, diced
2 pounds small new potatoes
Salt and pepper, to taste String, break, and wash beans. Set aside to dry. Sauté bacon in large pan until crisp. Add green beans; cover with water. When beans start to boil, reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 1 to 2 hours. Wash and scrub potatoes. Add to beans. Season to taste. Cook another 25 to 30 minutes or until potatoes are tender.

BAKED CORNBREAD
3 tablespoons oil or bacon grease
2 cups white self-rising cornmeal mix
2 eggs
2 1/2 cups buttermilk
Preheat oven to 450°. Put bacon grease(or oil) in 8-inch iron skillet. Place in oven to get hot. Combine the cornmeal, eggs and buttermilk. Mix thoroughly. From the hot skillet, pour all but about a tablespoon of the hot bacon drippings into the cornmeal mixture. Mix thoroughly. Pour batter into hot pan, and bake at 450° for 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown. Turn out onto plate while still hot and serve.

Happy 70th Birthday!

The remaining needs on the mayor’s “wish” list included new sewer lines in different areas of the city, and an upgrade to the sewer plant itself.

Sealed bids for the Rose Hill Sewer Project were opened Tuesday afternoon, with the city and project manager having 90 days to start construction after all bids are accepted. Mayor Bryant told the council, “Although we have 90 days, my hope is to get the process and construction going sooner to take advantage of good weather.”

Finally taking advantage of an agreement with Hanson Aggregate, the city took a couple of loads of free rock to put down at the marina at Lake Linville. The city and Hanson had agreed that the city could have 100 tons of rock free each year for five years.

Councilwoman Sharon Saylor told the mayor that she felt the walking trail at the lake would also benefit from some gravel, as there are several large potholes in the trail that have to be maneuvered around when walking.

Councilwoman Jamie Bryant told the mayor that she had been asked by a couple of people why Mt. Vernon did not have an emergency weather warning system, especially in light of the recent string of bad weather this spring. Mayor Bryant said he also had people ask him that and he really didn’t have an answer, that he didn’t think that such a system had been explored by former mayors.

Mayor Bryant told Bryant that he would look into the matter, to see if such a warning system could be a cooperative effort between the city and county and the cost of such a project.

Fire Chief David Bales told the council that he thought such a system could be tied into the 911 system.

Police Chief Terry Jackson gave his monthly report to the city, including introducing Nathaniel Price as a newly hired officer. Price was formerly a deputy for former sheriff Darrell Doan. The new position was needed as Officer Brian Maupin left this month to go to the state police academy and Officer Jeffery Parker is leaving in June for a tour with the National Guard in Iraq. There are currently only seven officers, but Chief Jackson assured the council that there was “still full 24/7 protection.”

Chief Jackson’s police activity for April included: 66 citations issues with 38 arrests; 7 DUIs apprehended; 19 citations written for other traffic offenses; 9 citations for speeding; 12 arrests for other criminal charges; the capture of 10 wanted persons and 16 traffic accidents investigated with one injury reported. Nine investigations were opened with seven being cleared or closed.

Fire Chief David Bales gave his monthly report for April, telling the council that the department made 19 runs and used 4,750 gallons of water. The department was paged to four accidents with injuries and possible entrapments; one investigation of control burn; one structure fire; three grass and brush fires; one vehicle fire; one miscellaneous service call (propane leak); five commercial fire alarm activations; one smoke investigation; one EMS assist and one commercial odor investigation (electrical wires).

Judge Carloftis also told the crowd that the county helps each department with obtaining grants and very low interest loans to purchase equipment or erect a building, and that the county makes the payments for several of the county departments.

What the community would have to do is come up with the land to build the fire station on. When the Pongo area wanted a fire department, the Bullock family donated the property to the fire department, for as long as it remains a fire department. The property owner in this case could also make qualifications for the property donation.

One of the most important aspects of a new department is having enough volunteers in order for the department to be certified as a fire department. Holbrook told the crowd that a community fire department had to keep 13 members certified at all times, but the number that was needed to be trained and certified was more in the 20-22 area, due to people moving or being unable to respond to a fire call. Fire chiefs from area departments were on hand to help explain to residents how to get certified.

Mt. Vernon Fire and Rescue, Livingston Fire Department, Brindle Ridge Fire Department and the Sand Gap Fire Department in Jackson County all respond to fires in the area, with Brindle Ridge being the closest at about 12 miles away.

the Republican Secretary of State nomination with 609 votes to Bill Johnson’s 385. Johnson would go on to win the state however, by a little more than 1000 votes.

John T. Kemper won the Republican nomination for Auditor with 551 votes to Addie Wuchner’s 357. Kemper will represent the Republicans in the fall.

On the Democrat side, Allison Lundergan Grimes won the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State with 112 votes to Elaine Walker’s 76 votes. Grimes will face Johnson in the fall.

For State Treasurer, L.J. “Todd” Hollenbach easily defeated Steve Hamrick, 134 votes to 45. He also will go on to represent the Democrat party in the fall race.

In the race with the most candidates, B.D. Wilson won the county in the Democrat race for Commissioner of Agriculture with 55 votes, but Robert “Bob” Farmer will be the Democrat nominee due to winning statewide.

Art Gallery hosts first exhibit Friday

The Church Street Art Gallery and Studio held their first art exhibit last Friday evening, showcasing art from Rockcastle County High School students.

The event was kicked off with a ribbon cutting ceremony by Mt. Vernon Mayor Mike Bryant. Owners Joanne Guilfoil and Janine Norman coordinated the event with RCHS art teacher Les Scalf.

Band Director Greg Daughtery showcased the "Jazz Band" in front of the courthouse. The brass section was featured on many familiar tunes and the students added musical talent to the event.

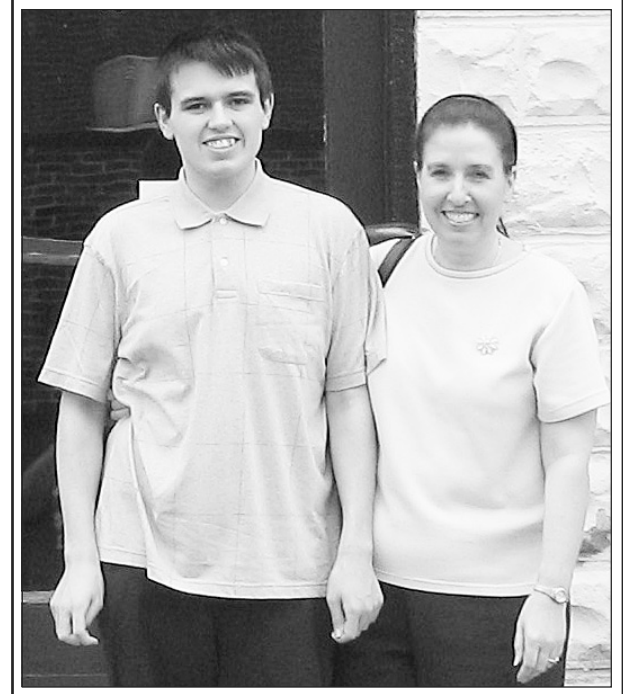

The gallery, with instructors Guilfoil and Norman is offering painting and mosaic art classes at a variety of times for local residents of all ages. You can contact them at 606-308-2508 (Janine) for Mosaic Classes and 606-256-5404 (Joanne) for Painting Classes.

The Church Street Gallery (located on Church Street around the corner from the Hiatt's 5&10 building) will partner with Vitalize Mt. Vernon, a City of Mt. Vernon program, to present a series of gallery showings. The next event on June 24th will showcase the "Capture Your County" photo contest sponsored by the County. The deadline to submit photos to the Rockcastle County Development Board is June 10th and the best (25) photos will be presented. Tonya Cook was on hand at the gallery greeting table to promote a Cultural ARTS Council. She is working to establish a group of people that want to promote the arts in this community.

If you are interested in participating, you can reach her at 606-308-1851.

RCHS student Corey Bond and his mother Lisa were the first on hand last Friday night to enjoy the first exhibit at the Church Street Art Gallery and Studio. The exhibit, in which Corey had a piece displayed, showcased high school art student's work. About 100 people attended the event which included a performance by the RCHS Jazz Band.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet?

Some things to think about...
What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?

Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150* degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains.

B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.

The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.

Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.

D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.

E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.

The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

Rockcastle Health and Rehabilitation Center recently participated in providing supplies to the victims of the tornadoes in Alabama. With their help, along with the efforts of "Church on the Rock" in Berea, a generous donation was supplied to these victims.

BES principal selected for leadership training

Caroline Graves, principal of Brodhead Elementary School, is among 48 Kentucky school leaders who will receive executive-level leadership training at an institute funded by the state's business community through the Kentucky Chamber Foundation and a grant from the AT&T Foundation.

Graves' participation in the Leadership Institute for School Principals pilot program is sponsored by a generous contribution from Citizens Bank.

"I am honored to have been chosen as a participant to The Leadership Institute for School Principals and look forward to this opportunity. I look forward to the challenge of exploring my own individual strengths and weaknesses in an effort to produce positive outcomes for the students I work with," said Graves.

Graves and the other selected principals will attend classes this summer at the Center for Creative Leadership in Greensboro, N.C., a top-ranked global provider of executive education founded in 1970 that established an education and nonprofit section in 1988. The principals will also attend follow-up sessions in the fall and early next year in Kentucky.

"The AT&T Foundation's focus is to keep kids in school. We felt that the Leadership Institute was a perfect pilot program to see if leadership training for principals can make a difference in school systems," said Mary Pat Regan, AT&T Kentucky President.

Elementary, middle and high school principals from across Kentucky representing both public and private schools applied for the institute. The participants were selected by a committee of an advisory board made up of business leaders and school superintendents. View a full list of principals attending the institute at kychamber.com/instituteprincipals.

"Employers understand the positive impact of strong leadership in the workplace, and the same is true of schools," noted Dave Adkisson, secretary of the Kentucky Chamber Foundation and president and CEO of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. "That's why we think it is important that Kentucky principals be given executive-level training similar to that provided for corporate leaders."

UNITE to offer free basketball camp at RCMS

Free regional basketball camps will be offered by Operation UNITE again this summer.

The Shoot Hoops Not Drugs program with former University of Kentucky basketball star Jeff Sheppard will have six stops:

- Tuesday, June 7 - Nancy Elementary School in Pulaski County.
- Thursday, July 14 - Rockcastle County Middle School in Rockcastle County.

Each camp begins at 4 p.m. and concludes about 7 p.m. Participants are asked to arrive 30 minutes early to complete registration.

Any school-age youth is welcome to participate in the program, which provides basketball skills instruction in conjunction with anti-drug and self-esteem messages.

Participants are asked not to wear open-toe shoes or sandals.

All participants will receive a free event T-shirt, regulation basketball, food and water, and be entered into a drawing for two portable basketball goals given away at the conclusion of each camp.

Presented by Phoenix Products, Shoot Hoops Not Drugs camps are fun, interactive, and provide a safe, drug-free activity where children have an opportunity to interact with positive role models while learning fundamental basketball skills.

In addition, parents and guardians will have an opportunity to attend a UNITE Foundation education program on how to talk to their children about drugs. Information on the signs, symptoms and dangers posed by drugs will also be given.

As a senior at the University of Kentucky, Sheppard was named the NCAA's Final Four Most Valuable Player in the Wildcats' 1997-98 National Championship season. He would later go on to play one season with the NBA's Atlanta Hawks and 3 years in Italy.

Sponsors are still welcome. To learn more contact UNITE at 1-866-678-6483.

Since 2006, UNITE has conducted 33 regional camps with 4,307 participants representing 52 Kentucky counties, 11 other states and one other country.

For more information about Operation UNITE visit their website at www.operationunite.org.

Congratulations to Stephanie Barnett, daughter of Andy Barnett of Berea, on making the Dean's List at EKU this semester.
