The three civilian commissioners, appointed by the fiscal court to reapportion the five magisterial districts in the county, made a report at Thursday's special meeting of the court.

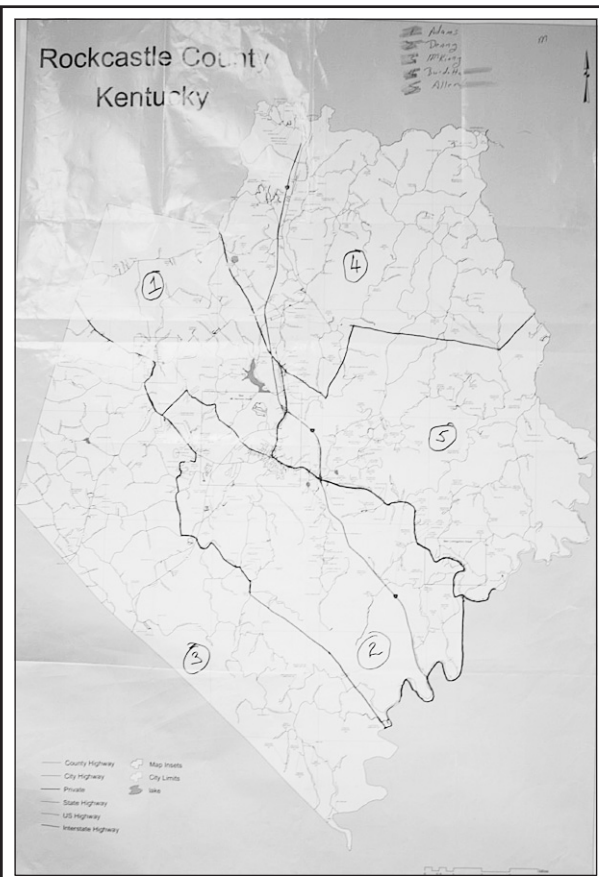

Appointed were Dr. Mike Hamilton, Larry Doyle and David Owens with County Clerk Danetta Allen also serving on the commission. Dr. Hamilton served as spokesman for the group and told the court that the group's recommendation had been made with an eye toward the most minimal changes, including the least precinct changes, and of meeting the 10% variance allowed by law between the most populated and the least populated precincts.

The reapportionment plan was presented to the court last Thursday (see map below) by the three commissioners appointed to make the changes necessary and the only change discussed was in the southeastern part of the county (lower right hand area) where District 2 will be extended to make it more contiguous.

Lightning strike hits water plant

By: Sara Coguer

Saturday's early morning storms not only dropped over an inch of rain on the county, a lightning strike knocked out both pump motors at the Mt. Vernon water plant, effectively slowing the pumping capacity to nearly every water district in the county except Livingston.

According to Mt. Vernon Mayor Mike Bryant, the strike, which happened about 10 am Saturday morning, hit the area of the plant that houses the pumps, knocking out the pump motor starters on both pumps with an estimated damage of $100,000. After several hours of collaborative work between the city, fire department, police department, EPA, Ky. Division of Water and the Health Department, pump #1 is temporarily back up until replacements can be ordered and installed. Pump #2 is still not working and the city is only operating with the one pump.

Ramblings . . .

by:
Sara Anderkin Coguer,
Editor

I have had a week of firsts, and so far so good. A lot of people already know it, but Paige pretty much does it all around here, to the point of never being able to take a week long vacation unless we are not printing.

She is the only person who knows what to do with the billing system, she is the ad makeup guru, billing guru, page making guru, etc. Don't tell mom, but she has absolutely let her have too much control!

Anyway, our niece Kayla wanted to go on a mission trip out of the country, and she wanted Paige to go with her. Paige wanted to go, but could she actually leave this place for a whole week without it falling apart?

Well, for the most part, yes! Of course, she has been training me for months, so much so that I feel like an Olympian in training for my one shot at glory. (I have been watching too much of Make It or Break It with my girls!)

I have been a nervous wreck all week, I just know I am going to forget to put something in the paper or mess up an ad. I forgot to start the mailing labels Tuesday afternoon before I left, and mom hates to listen to those things run on Wednesday, but otherwise I think I remember how to do everything she told me (it's very complicated!). Who knew you had to start the labels in just the right position or the whole machine blows? Well, that is what Paige told me! Surely she wouldn't have made that up.

My other first this week hasn't actually happened yet but I am dreading it like the plague. I have never been to a real bachelorette party, and my youngest sister's, Allison's, is this weekend, in Louisville, with about fifteen girls half my age. Thank goodness Paige will be there too, so I won't be the oldest! However, I just don't know if I can hang with these girls.

I have never been much of a daredevil, my one or two times of telling mom I was doing one thing and then doing another as a teenager ended awkwardly with mom waiting in the kitchen when I got home. It was never good for mom to be in the kitchen when I got home and hadn't been where I was supposed to be.

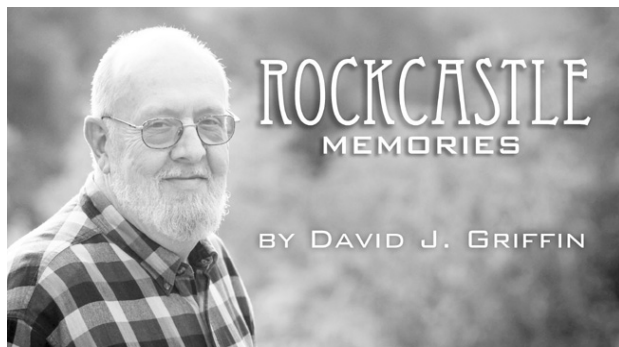

Anyway, my nickname in the family is "fk," short for fun killer. It is meant to be funny, but there are only so many ways one can take that nickname. I try to put a good spin on it, but it is kind of hard sometimes.

I don't let it bother me, after all I do have three children and a husband who gets up and goes to work at the break of dawn, so cut me some slack. However, I really don't want to be the "fk" Saturday night, I just hope my nature doesn't sneak up on me.

I also have an issue with running around with a bunch of good looking, skinny twenty somethings. Obviously, attention is going to be drawn to us. Obviously, I am going to come up on the short end of the stick. I am normally not a vain person or high maintenance, but even I have some pride.

Paige always seems to embrace situations like this, but after almost forty years, I still haven't figured out how to do that. I can't help but think of a conversation a good friend told me once that she had with her own late twenty/early thirty something daughter. (Of which I haven't been for a long time). It had to do with the running joke among females that young men love Cougars (older women),

Remembering Independence Day

The Fourth of July has been one of my favorite holidays since I was a young boy. For as long as I can remember, getting to set off fireworks has been one of my favorite forms of entertainment. I even recall saving my money so that if my family ventured into another state that allowed the sale of fireworks, I could purchase a big bag to store in my ammunition box that I hid under my bed.

In those early years, my mother (Bee) and dad (Hobe) occasionally took trips to the Smokey Mountains and that gave me the opportunity to pick up some firecrackers and Roman candles to put in my stash. I distinctly remember telling Daddy to stop at the first roadside fireworks stand. Bee always made sure that I was careful not to purchase something that was overly dangerous when I was deciding exactly what to buy.

One of my earliest memories of attending a large fireworks display occurred when my favorite uncle, Charles Brown, invited me to go with his family to see the Kiwanis Fireworks Show, which at the time was held at Stoll Field on the campus of the University of Kentucky. I had never been to anything like this before, and for approximately two hours I was completely spellbound by the fabulous display of exploding rockets above the football field. I can remember him recounting to Bee that I said, "Look at that one!" after almost every explosion. Now that I am thinking of that night, I suppose it was one of the reasons that I always loved fireworks.

Another memory of mine involving fireworks is when a great friend of our family, Clinton Helton, came to visit one summer, and he brought me a sack of assorted fireworks to set off at my discretion. I saved those and only allowed myself to set off a few at a time. Kenneth Hansel and I set them off in my grandfather's (Pop) front yard in the evenings when it got really dark. People in the neighborhood would tell us that they had seen the show for days after it was over.

When I became a teenager and was able to drive, I always had a date and attended some fireworks display either at the Valley Drive In Theater or some other place that held demonstrations. I can recall sitting on the hood of my 58 Chevy while at the drive-in, looking toward the heavens watching large rockets exploding over Renfro Creek. Of course, even seeing an excellent fireworks display today doesn't seem as remotely entertaining as it did in those days. I suppose that memories from that time are full of a bit more charm.

When I left Mt. Vernon to attend the University of Kentucky, I made it a point to attend the Kiwanis show at UK every year. It was so much fun to take a date and sit in the stands eating hotdogs, drinking Cokes, and watching the exploding rockets as we celebrated Independence Day. As I recall, one side of the football stadium was almost filled with spectators.

When I became a father, my two sons shared my fondness for pyrotechnic explosions. Each summer we gathered on Independence weekend and fired off our rockets into the sky. We also made it an occasion to barbecue that night just before the rocket display. Both Andy and Todd loved the experience, and the look on their faces made it all worth while. Every time I traveled to a state that allowed the sale of fireworks, I purchased enough for the coming July. I still have a sack of Todd's fireworks in one of my closets. I simply cannot make myself toss them out.

I have always thought

Points East

By Ike Adams

I spent the summer of 1967 on campus at Pikeville College working a full time job that mostly involved painting dormitory rooms to help pay tuition. My roommate was a fellow from a hollow near Betsy Layne Kentucky and he was, if such is possible, more of a hillbilly than I was.

Walt Fraser had grown up, as had I, in a home without indoor plumbing, his father was a disabled coal miner, as was mine and his family depended on its food supply from a few hill side acres of vegetables, a small orchard, hogs, chickens and the occasional slaughtered steer. The lifestyles of our youth mirrored one another's.

Walt also had a relative in Pikeville who allowed him to park an old, rusted '49 Ford pickup. When he got homesick for Betsy Layne, he could simply hop in the truck and drive, 15 crooked miles and go home for supper a couple times a week and of course on weekends. However it was over 70 miles from the head of Blair Branch to Pikeville so I did not enjoy that luxury. So I started going home with Walt for a home cooked meal now and then and discovered that, like my own family, his dad owned a good work horse and a temperamental mule.

In short order, Walt and I began plowing garden spots for his neighbors. I would use the big mare horse whose name was, Mert to go from garden to garden and break ground with a bull-tongue plow that Mert pulled along in a box sled.

Walt followed on a riding harrow another plow loaded atop the harrow. The mule, named Jack, would mind every word Walt told him, but he would only pin his ears back and switch his tail when I tried to use him. Walt harrowed up the soil and laid it off in straight furrows while I plowed up the next garden.

We could easily get at least 4 times as much work

MOM'S FUNERAL WAS MEANINGFUL TO US, WHICH WAS JUST WHAT SHE WANTED.

"From her favorite songs to her special prayers and the pastor whom she respected, Mom's funeral was an important way for our family to share just how wonderful she was. It was a meaningful tribute that celebrated her life and the things she loved. Arranging many of the details ahead of time with Mom and our funeral director helped make sure of that. When Mom died, the funeral director took care of everything, providing us with comfort and peace of mind. Together, we created a meaningful funeral that was just the way Mom wanted it."

We understand the value of creating a meaningful funeral service.

done by teaming up than Walt could have managed by himself and we could make more money on any given Saturday than we could all week painting dorm rooms. We even worked on Sundays for folks who would allow us to break the Sabbath. We paid Mr. Fraser a generous cut for buying feed and tending to the nags and we could still clear $40 to $60 each on any given week-end. Good money for two hillbillies in 1967.

So late one Saturday toward the end of July, we had spent all day plowing fall gardens. I was headed back up the road with the plow in the sled and Old Mert was ambling along but we stopped to wait as Walt finished up the last little garden which was surrounded by a 5 foot split paling fence. Suddenly I saw a long, fat black snake sneaking along the fence row. I knew that Walt was deathly scared of snakes, so I grabbed the snake by the tail and in a single motion heaved it toward Walt.

It landed smack dab in the middle of Jack's back and I then discovered that the mule was as terrified of snakes as Walt. Jack gave a mighty jump, jerked the plow out of Walt's hands, tore across the garden and soared over the fence. The plow hung on the top rail of the fence but that did not stop Jack. A ten foot section of fence hit the road which only scared Jack more and up the holler he went with pieces of palings flying everywhere and Walt running behind him yelling WHOA, WHOA, WHOA!

Walt ran out of breath but Jack headed straight for the barn. I had never heard Walt utter a four letter word in our acquaintance but he cussed me until he ran out of breath. He would pause for a minute or two and start again and he let me know that my share of the day's work would be used to pay for the fence and new handles for his favorite plow which was as busted up as the fence.

He also let me know that my plowing career was over and that I was no longer welcome in Betsy Layne. In fact, he stayed sullen the rest of the summer and we spoke to one another only when we had too. I apologized over and over again but there was no forgiveness in Walt's heart when it came to snakes.

Walt used his summer plowing money to buy a little Corvair and when classes started up in late August, he moved out of the dorm and commuted to school from home. We rarely saw each other and rarely spoke when we did. He dropped out at the end of the first semester and I never saw him again. As far as I know, he's still plowing gardens.

fireworks an appropriate way to celebrate the day when the United States declared its independence from Great Britain. The holiday has evolved into a day associated with fireworks, parades, barbecues, carnivals, fairs, picnics, concerts, family reunions, and various other events cel-brating our American heritage. But fireworks are a must.

Living on Furnace Mountain can provide its own form of entertainment and celebration during a 4th of July weekend. There have been sightings of fireworks displays which are occurring in Mt. Sterling, Winchester, and even Lexington. The Mountain Park Dragway in Clay City of course gives the best view because of its location as viewed from our back deck. We have witnessed the “rockets’ red glare” from there on several occasions. Its just one more way in which the good Lord has blessed me by placing me where did.

And finally, with an exhibition of fireworks being as spectacular as it is, it seems be a united display of our heartfelt gratitude for the freedom that this nation provides to us all.

there is even a television show called Cougar Town (which this “fk” has never watched, it comes on at 10 p.m., I believe).

My friend told me that she was having a conversation with her daughter about men and my friend referred to herself a Cougar.

Much to her dismay, her daughter explained that she (the daughter) was actually the Cougar, her mom was more like a Saber Tooth Tiger. Wow! Talk about a put down. I only hope that I'm just fun to be around Saturday night, and these young women don't think Paige and I are a Saber Tooth.

Local driver participates in National CTAA Rodeo

Submitted
 Community and public transportation operators and drivers are the heart of our industry. Each year, the Community Transportation Association of America (CTAA) celebrates all that these talented individuals do for the passengers, communities and systems that make up our national transit network.
 An annual Community Transportation Rodeo provides an outlet for drivers to compete and show off their skills and talent. This year's Rodeo competition took place on Sunday, June 5, 2011 at Lucas Oil Field in Indianapolis, IN.

The Rodeo consists of a written test, driving obstacle course and a hands-on safety skills demonstration. Any community or public transit driver can enter. This year, 79 drivers from across the Nation participated.
 Two drivers from Kentucky participated in the Rodeo competition. They were: Lola Swinney with Rural Transit Enterprises Coordinated (RTEC) in Mt. Vernon and Rhonda Heightchew with Louisville Wheels Transportation. Both represented our transit systems very well in the competition.
 We're all proud of you both. Thanks for all you and the rest of the talented individuals in transit do for our communities each and every day.

Katelynn Griffin earns scholarship

An Eastern Kentucky University senior from Crab Orchard has learned recently that her prestigious broadcasting scholarship has been renewed for 2011-12.

Katelynn Griffin, a broadcast news major, is one of only eight students statewide to earn the 20th annual Harry Barfield Scholarship, presented by the Kentucky Broadcasters Association and valued at $2,500. She first earned the scholarship a year ago.

The scholarships are awarded through a competitive application process that includes academic achievement, the recommendation of a faculty member, and extracurricular activities. The awards are renewable for a second year provided recipients continue to meet specified criteria.

"The Kentucky Broadcasters Association is proud to be able to help these talented students pursue their higher education," said Gary White, president and CEO of KBA. "This year's total of $20,000 in scholarship awards means that the KBA has now awarded more than $150,000 in scholarships since the inception of the program in the 1992-93 academic year. Many of these recipients have gone on to successful careers in broadcasting."

The program is named in honor of Harry Barfield, the late president and chairman of WLEX-TV in Lexington.

MOM'S CHOCOLATE CHIP POUND CAKE
 While deciding which recipes I wanted to include in this book, I remembered Mom's chocolate chip pound cake. When I asked Will if he remembered the cake, he didn't. Sister-in-law Mary had the recipe, but George doesn't remember the chocolate cake either. Mom must have started baking it while the brothers were away at college or in the Army.

1 package (6 ounce) chocolate chips
 1/2 cup boiling water
 1 cup butter
 2 cups sugar
 4 egg yolks
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 2 1/2 cups flour
 1 teaspoon soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 cup buttermilk
 4 egg whites
 Preheat oven to 350°. Melt chocolate chips in boiling water; leave until cool. Cream together butter and sugar. Beat in egg yolks, stir in melted chocolate and vanilla. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Fold into batter. Pour into greased and floured tube pan. Bake at 350° for approximately 1 hour. Cool. Drizzle with following frosting.

CARAMEL FROSTING
 1/2 cup butter
 1 cup brown sugar
 1/4 cup milk
 2 cups confectioners' sugar
 Melt butter in a saucepan; add brown sugar and milk. Boil over low heat 2 minutes. Remove from heat; cool. Gradually add sugar until thick enough to spread. If icing becomes too stiff, add a little water or cream.

BLACKBERRY JUICE COBBLER
 This is one of Mom and Pop's specialties. The seeds were a problem for both of them, so they started making this with only the juice.
 2 tablespoons butter
 6 cups fresh berries, washed & drained
 3 cups water
 1 1/2 cups sugar
 1 unbaked pie shell, thawed
 Preheat oven to 350°. Lib-erally butter a 9 x 13 bak-ing pan with the 2 table-spoons butter. Bring berries, sugar, and water to a boil; reduce heat and simmer for 30 minutes. Run berries through a sieve to get out the seeds. Pour juice into prepared pan. Cut pie crust into strips and place over the juice. Bake at 350° until crust is browned and flakey, about 25 to 30 minutes.

tal residential exemption of $50,267,400. The farm exemptions for 65 and older and disability total $14,822,400 and $68,000 for commercial property. The valuation of commercial property deferred under the Agricultural Land Use Act is $54,829,900.

The amount deferred under the Agricultural Land Use Act is $81,923,609.

Meter Insurance who then contacted the Kentucky League of Cities whose representative came down and did a new property value assessment for the city.

The results of the findings were that the city was underinsured on their properties by a whopping $14 million dollars. Increasing the city's insurance from $2 million to $16 could not have happened at a better time due to last Saturday's lightning strike at the water plant. According to the Van Meter Insurance representative, if the city had not had the foresight to have their properties re-assessed, they would have been out approximately $70,000 to replace the two pumps that were destroyed by the lightning strike.

The city also received a check from Kentucky League of Cities in the amount of $1,154.30 for a 50/50 match for a safety grant.

The city accepted a bid of $1.9 million from Grants Excavating to begin work on the Rose Hill Water/Sewer project and a low bid of $62.50 a ton from Kay and Kay Construction for blacktop to repair and maintain city roads.

Police Chief Terry Jackson reported that his department had, in May, issued 46 citations; arrested 27 people; apprehended four DUIs; written 13 citations for traffic offenses; 3 speeding citations; made 20 arrests for other criminal charges; captured 4 wanted persons; investigated nine traffic accidents and opened 12 investigations and cleaned or closed six.

Fire Chief David Bales reported that the fire department had made 22 runs and used 52,000 gallons of water in May, including being paged to: five accidents with injury and possible entrapment; three investigations of controlled burns; six structure fires; two vehicle fires; two fire alarm activations; one smoke investigation; one EMS Assist; one set up of landing zone for helicopter and one mutual aid with Brodhead Fire Department for a farming accident.

state of emergency around 1 p.m. Saturday and the Health Department decided about 6:30 p.m. to shut down all the restaurants in the county, as well as car washes and laundromats, due to concerns over the safety of the water and also to conserve water. Although the businesses could have reopened about 2 1/2 hours after they closed, most had already sent their workers home and did not reopen until Sunday morning.

In a turn of good fortune, the city recently underwent a property value reassessment and raised their insured property value from two million to sixteen million. If the city had not completed this change before the lightning strike, their out-of-pockets costs to replace the two pumps could have been as high as $70,000.

An insurance adjuster was in Mt. Vernon Tuesday to assess the damage and replacement parts have been ordered. Both pumps should be back in operation by next week.

the three land commissioners appointed to appraise the properties named in the condemnation suits.

Two cross-claims were filed to intervene in the condemnation suits, Reynolds said. These claims are by financial institutions who have an interest in two properties condemned and ask that they receive any money the property owners receive for their easement. Reynolds said he would be before the court this Friday asking for interlocutory judgments which, if granted, will allow the county to proceed with repairs to the road.

The court plans to begin work on the road at the far end from U.S. 25 and, in October of 2010, took bids for that area. Carpenter's Custom Bulldozing of Orlando was the successful bidder for grade and drain work, shoulder repair, etc. at $45,900. The bid was not awarded at that time since it was contingent on easements being obtained.

ance between the populations in the five districts with Bill McKinney's District #3 being the largest with 3,952 and Ralph Allen's the smallest with 2,592. The report's recommendation for reapportionment gives McKinney the smallest in population at 3,310 and Gary Burdette - District 4 - the largest with 3,480 (3693). Populations in other districts are: Lee Earl Adams with 3,447 (2888); William Denny, 3,393 (3931) and Ralph Allen 3,426.

Some of the major changes to the topography of the districts include McKinney no longer representing Brodhead which was put into Lee Earl Adams' district and Ralph Allen acquiring a larger part of Mt. Vernon and all of Livingston.

Hamilton told the court that the commissioners had to use the official census figures for their reapportionment even though they knew there were errors in the figures such as one resident on Chestnut Ridge Road and several streets in Mt. Vernon with zero population.

If the report is accepted by the fiscal court, and the general consensus seemed to be that it would be, the reapportionment will have to be sent to Frankfort by July 19th for approval. Once that approval is given, Allen will then have to meet with the election commissioners to see if any present precincts cross magisterial district lines and adjustments made there. There is a variance allowed between precincts but "it is a much bigger variance than the 10% allowed for magisterial districts," Allen said.

Allen said once the precincts are established, that information will be sent to Frankfort for approval and then the whole process will be on hold until the state legislature makes any changes in district lines necessary. However, Allen said there would not be any precinct changes in place before this year's November General Election.

At some point, an ordinance will be drawn up, and published, by the commissioners and Allen detailing the boundary lines for each new magisterial district.

Local judges participate in HB 463 training

Judges Kathryn G. Wood and Jeffrey Scott Lawless who serve Rockcastle and Pulaski counties, participated in a District Judges Seminar on June 3 about how district judges are to handle pretrial release and bond determinations based on House Bill 463, which took effect June 8, 2011. The AOC offered the seminar in Frankfort for all district judges and trial commissioners and circuit judges who share on-call rotations with district judges.

HB 463 is the most concentrated overhaul of Kentucky's penal code in more than 30 years and was supported by all three branches of government. The legislation is designed to curb the cost of incarceration without compromising public safety.

"House Bill 463 directly affects how district judges do their jobs, especially in the areas of pre-trial release and bond," said Campbell County District Court Judge Karen A. Thomas, who also serves as president of the Kentucky District Judges Association, chair of the District Judges Education Committee and chief regional district judge for the Northern Region. "The seminar was helpful in preparing the judges for the significant changes that come with the new law. These changes require judges to set lower bonds and authorize substantial credit for days served in jail in lieu of requiring defendants to pay costs and fines."

The three-hour seminar included an introduction to HB 463 and in-depth training on the tool that pretrial officers use to assess risk among pretrial defendants. Pretrial officers use the results of the risk assessment to help judges determine whether to grant pretrial release to defendants. The Administrative Office of the Courts operates the statewide pretrial services program.

Under HB 463, judges are required to consider the pretrial risk assessment when setting bonds and to grant pretrial release to low- and moderate-risk defendants, which are those who pose a low risk of flight, are likely to appear for trial and are not likely to be a danger to others. The legislation limits bond amounts for misdemeanor offenses and mandates that defendants receive credit of $100 per day toward bond and $50 to $100 a day in jail credit toward any fines owed except in certain circumstances. HB 463 calls for law enforcement officers to cite individuals for most misdemeanor offenses rather than arrest them.

Church St. Studio hosts seniors for painting classes

Since the end of May, a class of 10-16 members from the Rockcastle County Adult Day Care Center have enjoyed weekly painting instruction provided by Joanne Guilfoilat the Church Street Art Gallery and Studio. Thanks to transportation provided by RTEC and supervision by Sherry Holbrook, these active seniors have met once a week at the gallery to see paintings, learn about mixing colors, and paint with acrylic paints.

Later this summer these same seniors will participate in a mosaic tile course taught by Janine Norman. They will each complete actual ceramic tile projects with her instruction. At the close of each course, selected works completed by the seniors will be displayed at the gallery.

Summer Art Camp Scholarships

As summer break rolls on, all middle and high school students are reminded of the first ever Art Camp at the gallery July 19-29. Some very generous scholarship money has been provided by the Rockcastle Board of Education. Just last week, Mr. H. Allen Penschol hand-delivered a check to gallery owners Janine Norman and Joanne Guilfoilat to fund in-part the summer art camp for Rockcastle County school students. Parents of interested middle and high school students should stop by the gallery during business hours (T-F 10-3) to register and pay a small deposit to secure their child's participation. Registration will continue until early July or until the classes are full. See the Community Bulletin Board for contact numbers and more information on the art camp. Register soon as seating is limited.

This class above is creating tints and shades of colors for a painting of saltwater fish. They will soon be painting on canvas. From left: John McCormick, Bonnie Decker and Jean Albright.

Over 60 attend Healthy Joe Expo...

Dick talked about his battle with prostate cancer and his hobby of competing in triathlons. Above, Ray Hensley, pictured with Rockcastle Regional Community Relations Director Arielle Reese, won the grip strength and casting contests at the expo. Over 60 men attended the fair to take advantage of the health screenings and other activities. The expo is a yearly event.

Local band, Medley Boys, to release original album

By: Sara Coguer

Rockcastle's very own Medley Boys band has a new album to be released soon, with nine original tracks and one from Nashville songwriter Keith Brown.

Members Jason and Anthony Medley, Josh Bray and newcomer Jon Kerns have been busy this past year, performing over 50 shows throughout Kentucky and neighboring states.

Currently, the band has two singles from their new album getting air-time on local radio stations. You can hear the Medley Boys on 107.5 & 107.9 Real Country; WCTT Radio; and 100.7 WCYO The Coyote.

You can call any of the local radio stations mentioned and request to hear the Medley Boys songs.

If you enjoy listening to the Eagles, Lynyrd Skynyrd, Jason Aldean, Gary Allan and Lonestar, all of which are influences for the band, then the Medley Boys should appeal to you.

While all the band members sing, Jason Medley plays the guitar, Anthony Medley plays the keyboard and guitar, Josh Bray can be heard on the drums and Jon Kerns plays the bass.

The band could not operate without Joey Napier and Jay "Outlaw" Anderson. Napier is the band's sound and lighting technician and Anderson is the equipment manager.

According to Josh Bray, "We are glad to have this album finished for our fans sake. We apologize for the delay, but we have been working hard to put together something that we can all be proud of. Our show schedule has also been a delay in the completion of this project."

You can see the Medley Boys live at four upcoming events including June 24th at Somernite Cruise in Somerset; July 3rd at Blast in the Valley and July 8 at the New Barn, both in Renfro Valley; and July 9th at Levi Jackson State Park in London.

High blood pressure and ways to treat it

Family and Consumer Sciences
Hazel Jackson
Rockcastle County Extension Office

Blood pressure is the force of blood through the body in arteries. High blood pressure often has no signs or symptoms. The only way to find out if you have high blood pressure is to be tested for it. Many Americans do not fully understand the value of the information held in these numbers. Blood pressure is recorded as two numbers—the systolic pressure (as the heart beats) over the diastolic pressure (as the heart relaxes between beats). The systolic number is on top and the diastolic number is on the bottom. For example, normal blood pressure is written as 120/80 mmHg (millimeters of mercury) and expressed verbally as “120 over 80.”

The Joint National Committee on Prevention, Detection, Evaluation, and Treatment of High Blood Pressure has classified blood pressure measurements into several categories:
“Normal” blood pressure – Systolic pressure less than 120 and diastolic pressure less than 80 mmHg
“Prehypertension” – Systolic pressure of 120 to 139 and/or diastolic pressure of 80 to 89 mmHg
Stage 1 Hypertension – Blood pressure greater than systolic pressure of 140 to 159 and/or diastolic pressure of 90 to 99 mmHg or greater Stage 2 Hypertension – Systolic pressure of 160 or greater and/or diastolic pressure of 100 mmHg or greater Most doctors will diagnose a person with high blood pressure based on two or more elevated readings that are taken on several occasions. A consistent blood pressure reading of 140/90 mmHg or higher is considered high blood pressure, another term for hypertension.

and controlling high blood pressure. If lifestyle changes alone are not effective in keeping your pressure controlled, it may be necessary to add blood pressure medications. Your healthcare provider may prescribe more than one medication to get your blood pressure controlled. It is important that you take the medication as prescribed and tell the provider of any and all other medications you may already take. Once high blood pressure develops, it usually lasts a lifetime. The good news is treatment can control high blood pressure.

Lifestyle changes can prevent and control high blood pressure. You can prevent and control high blood pressure by taking action. These include:

- Losing weight if overweight (losing even 10 pounds can help)
 - Increasing physical activity (walking 30 to 60 minutes each day)
 - Following a healthy eating plan that emphasizes fruits, vegetables, and low-fat dairy foods
 - Choosing and preparing foods with less salt and sodium
 - Stopping the use of tobacco products, especially smok ing cigarettes
 - Limiting the use of alcoholic beverages.
- Reduce your risk with physical activity. Regular physical activity can also reduce your risk of developing or dying from heart disease, diabetes, and colon cancer. Physical activity doesn't have to be difficult or take up too much time. A 10-minute walk once a day will put you on the path to better health.

Concert Gallery Night is Friday

Join us this Friday, June 24th from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Rockcastle Courthouse and Church Street Gallery. The gallery will display photos from the Capture Your County photo contest and Southern Strings will perform bluegrass music on the steps of the courthouse.

There were many photos to review, since local photographer enthusiasts met the challenge to take photos of the beauty, history and spirit of Rockcastle County. After hours of review by the judges at the Teaching and Learning Center, a first, second and third place winner was determined. The County Judge Exec Buzz Carloftis and the Fiscal Court sponsored this contest and will award $100.00, $75.00 and $50.00 to these photographers who will be announced at 6pm. Twenty residents submitted CD's and the process of narrowing down hundreds of photos down to twenty to be displayed was no easy task. The photos were judged on creativity, content, composition and clarity.

Southern Strings, a local bluegrass band, will perform from 5 to 7 p.m. so bring a lawn chair and make yourself comfortable in front of the courthouse steps. Southern Strings recently performed at the Music From The Heart concert which was a fundraiser for Hospice Care. This is a free, Vitalize Mt. Vernon (a City of Mt. Vernon program) concert.

Ginger Taylor of Mt. Vernon recently completed the class sessions of the Certified Clogging Instructors Training in Walnut Ridge, Arkansas. Taylor will be tested in Sweetwater Texas in November. She is shown receiving her certificate from Kathey Wilson, co-chairperson of the CCI. Taylor is the leader of the newest clogging group the Kentucky Romp and Stomp. For more information on the group call 256-1891.

Hunts offered at the depot include a dove mentor hunt on Sept. 3; an all-ages dove hunt on Sept. 17; deer

If you're looking for money to help pay for college, you may want to attend the Jackson Energy Annual Meeting on Thursday, June 30.

Jackson Energy will be giving away 7 $750 scholarships at the event. The Annual Meeting will be held at the Jackson Energy Farm on KY HWY 290, near McKee.

"We will be drawing for a $750 scholarship for each of the seven primary counties we serve," said Jackson Energy President & CEO Don Schaefer. "The scholarship prizes are open to students who will be enrolled in college in the fall, and all ages are eligible to win." Jackson Energy's primary service counties are Clay, Estill, Laurel, Lee, Jackson, Owsley and Rockcastle.

Students can register throughout the day at Jackson Energy's four customer offices - Beattyville, London, McKee and Manchester, or at the Annual Meeting that evening. Students or their family must be Jackson Energy customers and when registering, students need to provide the name of the person under which the account is billed. Students are not required to be present to win. All winners will be notified.
