Rockcastle County was the scene of two fatal crashes this past Sunday within 14 hours of each other. In the top photo, Ashley Cross, 19, of Monticello, was killed at the intersection of Ky. 461 and Hwy. 150 early Sunday morning. Cross was a passenger in a Chevy Cobalt driven by Dipesh Soma, 27, of Albany when they collided with a Chevy S-10 driven by Ronald Klein, 19, of Berea. Klein and Soma were taken to Rockcastle Hospital for treatment. Klein's passenger, Jordan Hays, 24, of Berea, refused treatment at the scene. Mt. Vernon Fire Department and Police Department responded to the accident. In the middle photo, a seven vehicle pile-up on I-75 Sunday afternoon claimed the life of Keith Holbrook, 55, of Beaver Creek, Ohio. Holbrook's wife, Teresa Holbrook, 55, was flown from the scene to UK Medical Center. In the bottom photo, Mitch and Roberta Butler, of Hamilton, Ohio were also flown from the scene to the UK Medical Center. I-75 was closed for around three hours before one lane was re-opened to traffic. Along with police and EMS, Mount Vernon, Brodhead and Livingston Fire Departments all responded to the scene.

Sunday accidents claim the lives of two people

By: Doug Ponder
Two people are dead and five injured as a result of two fatal crashes this past weekend in Mt. Vernon that happened within fourteen hours of each other.

In the first accident, a collision at the intersection of Hwy 461 and Hwy 150 around 2 a.m. Sunday claimed the life of a Wayne County college student.

According to State Police records, a 2003 Chevy

S-10 driven by Ronald Klein, 19, of Berea was traveling east on Hwy 150 when it struck a 2007 Chevy Cobalt driven by Dipesh Soma, 27, of Albany who was traveling south on Hwy 461.

Ashley Cross, 19, of Monticello, was in the passenger seat of the Cobalt and was ejected from the vehicle. Cross was pronounced dead at the scene by Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell.

Jordan Hays, 24, of Berea, a passenger in the S-10, refused medical treatment at the scene while Soma and Klein were both

Saturday's "Trash Day" used by 446 countians

In what has apparently become one of the most popular and used programs, provided by the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court and PRIDE, the annual Free Trash and Bulk Goods Drop-Off Day was taken advantage of last Saturday by 446 residents.

The event is held each year at the Brodhead Fairgrounds and this year saw the biggest use ever.

According to James Renner, Solid Waste Coordinator

Lines formed at several precincts Tuesday as voters waited to cast their vote in the wet/dry issue. The proposition to allow alcohol sales in Rockcastle County failed 65% to 35%. The above photo was taken at the North Mt. Vernon precinct.

Voters give emphatic No to sale of alcohol in Rockcastle

By: Perlina Anderkin

Rockcastle Countians voiced their opinion on the sale of alcoholic beverages in the county with a resounding "No" in Tuesday's special election.

42% of the total 11,529 registered voters in the county turned out -- 1,712 gave their approval to the measure while 3,108 voted no, a 65% to 35% ratio. Ironically, in last year's governor's race, only 25% of registered voters deemed the state-wide races important enough to go to the polls.

The measure lost in every one of the county's 14 precincts, coming the closest in the Bullock precinct where the measure lost 59-65.

Reportedly, about $30,000 was spent on advertisements, mailers, yard signs, etc. was spent by anti forces and the campaign was obviously very effective.

David Sargent, pastor of Freedom Baptist Church and one of the leaders of the anti forces, said Wednesday, "Rockcastle Countians spoke loud and clear concerning alcohol sales on Tuesday. The majority showed they do not want the dangers alcohol sales would bring. We're all for economic development in Rockcastle but we understand that economic prosperity depends on a good work ethic, not selling alcohol. Our focus now shifts to eliminating the drug problem and bringing everyone together to make Rockcastle even greater than it is. I appreciate the efforts of everyone to keep Rockcastle dry and more secure."

The measure cannot be brought up again for three years when the very same procedure will have to be used. Steve

Police arrest two more in meth bust

By: Doug Ponder

Two people were arrested last Thursday night for manufacturing methamphetamine after officers from the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department and Mt. Vernon Police Department raided a home on Sweetwater Road in Brodhead.

Arrested at the scene were Joyce Hoover, 30 and Larry Tillery, 46 both of Berea.

The raid was instigated when Deputy Sheriff Matt Bryant received information from Mt. Vernon Asst. Police Chief Barry Adams after he used "MethCheck" to discover Hoover had purchased a large quantity of pseudoephedrine at a pharmacy in Berea earlier in the day.

Boswell was originally arrested for theft by unlawful taking on September 13, 2011.

by: perlina m. anderkin

It has been a stressful week -- the culmination of weeks of tension in the community over the wet/dry vote, Saturday's game between UK and arch rival Louisville and then the championship game Monday night, followed by the actual wet/dry vote on Tuesday.

I am glad the issue will be laid to rest, at least for three years on Tuesday, and of course you can see the results in this week's Signal.

As to the two basketball games, I am glad that issue is also decided. I made it through Saturday's game because I just couldn't believe that UK would fall to Louisville. And then, on Monday, I made the pronouncement to family and friends that Monday night's game would be a breeze, compared to Saturday's. "Of course I want Kentucky to win but they won the important game on Saturday," was my mantra. I was wrong.

Monday night's game sent me into heart palpitations forcing me to hit record and turn to another channel with around three minutes left in the game. I switched back a couple of times but couldn't take the heat to the extent that when my phone rang and Travis was on the other end, it was over and I didn't know the score.

Travis was in disbelief, "You didn't watch the game Mom?" when I asked if they had won or lost. I, of course, pulled a guilt trip on him and told him that since I had watched it alone I was afraid I would have a heart attack and my body wouldn't be discovered until noon Tuesday. Of course, I then hit the play button and enjoyed the last three minutes in the sure knowledge that we had our first national championship in 14 years.

I know it doesn't matter in the grand scheme of things whether or not Kentucky won but -- it matters.

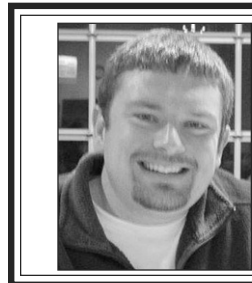

It matters because from a very little girl, my older brother, who was attending UK at the time and whom I idolized, got me interested in the sport and that interest has never waned.

It matters because it is reflected glory, something we do have much of in this state.

It matters because through the season, you get acquainted with the players and know the trials and tribulations that some have experienced in their personal life and you admire the work ethic and dedication it takes to be able for them to stay the course and win this honor.

And, finally, it matters because -- everyone loves a winner -- particularly a winner over Louisville. Arena envy my foot. It doesn't matter what kind of arena you have -- and Rupp Arena is not exactly a hut in the woods -- it matters where your heart is and the majority of this state's hearts belong to the Big Blue.

The Way I See it

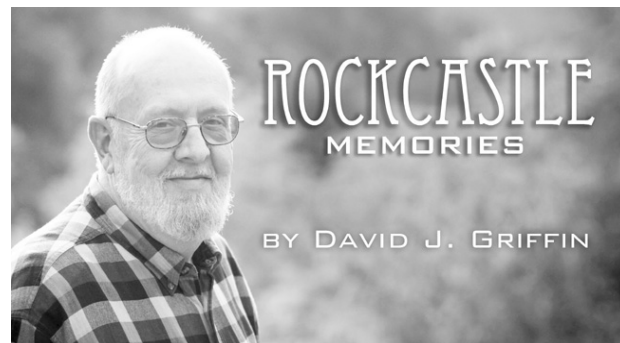

By Doug Ponder

The Kentucky Wildcats men's basketball program returned to the top as the Wildcats were crowned 2012 NCAA National Champions on Monday night.

One of the first things I did when I sat down at the computer Tuesday morning was go online and start reading all the news articles about UK winning the national championship.

I avoided all the predictable negative articles from other ignorant and jealous sports writers from around the country. Instead I focused on articles that portrayed the championship night and the celebration of it by the team and fans.

Darius Miller, who played in the NIT his freshman year, is said to have admitted to reporters that during that time he thought he would never have the chance to play in the national title game. Now, as a senior, he has returned to Lexington as the only player to be named his state's Mr. Basketball and also be a part of a team who won a high school state championship, conference championship and NCAA national championship.

Wing Vent Windows

I am sure most of you can remember the cars of our youth which had the small-triangle vent windows in the corner of each front door. All three of the cars that I drove in high school and college had these wonderful air vents that allowed fresh air to circulate throughout the automobile when they were open. Those cars were: a 1954 Chevrolet Bel-Air, a 1958 Chevy, and a 1963 Chevy Impala Super Sport. Of course, those were the days when almost no cars had air conditioning, and the vents could be adjusted so cool air would be directed toward the driver or passengers.

As a child, I remember riding with my grandfather as he drove around the five-county area selling groceries for Louisville Grocery Company and Aubrey's Red A Feed in Louisville. At that time, we were driving his '54 Chevy and it did not have air conditioning. When it was extremely hot, Pop rolled the wings open so the air would blow directly on us, and I remember how it felt to have that fresh air rushing onto my face as we rode along on US25.

How many times did you hear someone say, "Open the vents!" They were also used, when only slightly opened, to allow stale air or cigarette smoke to exit the vehicle. In those days, most of us smoked, and that smoke went flying out through the vents as we drove along. (In the late '50s, a full 42 percent of the population were smokers. Today, that figure has dropped to only 20 percent.)

The air blast from vented windows when they were wide open was usually sufficient, even on a warm summer day, to keep everyone cool even though we had no air-conditioning. I remember driving a few of my friends to Somerset to the swimming pool, and on our return, two of us had our swimming trunks hanging on the winged vents blowing in the wind. By the time we reached Mt. Vernon, our trunks were completely dry.

By opening the wings and opening the oval-shaped vents in the kick panels under the dashboard, the circulation of air in our cars was often enough to keep our cars pleasantly cool even in hot weather -- if you were driving at a rapid rate of speed.

Girls loved these small windows because they could remain cool without having their hair-spray-coated locks blown into disarray. When the larger windows were rolled completely down, a girl's hair would go flying every-which-away -- unless the wings were open. By the way, this was the main reason that girls carried scarves. Those scarves were worn to tie-down their hairdos from windy conditions -- whatever the source.

Another cool thing about having vented windows was that they allowed us to use our trusty pocket knives to

The column, this week, may be sort but, hopefully, it will be sweet. My secretary has declared a strike so, stroke be hanged, I aim to see what I can turn out with one finger and thumb my nose at uppity women. Actually, I've pretty much milked this stroke out and I'm determined to do anything and everything I can without any assistance while hoping and praying I may eventually regain use of my left arm and hand.

It's going to be slow going but I am convinced that the possibility is real. For instance, I wonder how many of you readers have ever raised a sweat while tying your shoes? I did just that this morning.

It took me thirty minutes and I muttered a lot of language that can't be quoted in a family newspaper but, by golly, I gottaer done and I'm so proud of myself that I may sleep with my shoes on tonight.

Besides that, I'm still on a very high cloud as a result of a most wonderful experience with which Loretta and I were gifted last Sunday Evening.

I have a close friend, Sean Coleman, in Massachusetts, with whom I swap email nearly every day. Perhaps the most amazing thing about this friendship is that Sean and I have never laid eyes on each other. We simply have a gaggle of mutual friends who do socialize with both of us. It's a much longer and more complicated story than I have space for here in the column but I believe that Sean and I are of the same mind in the notion that it's impossible to have too many friends. So, in the spirit of that attitude, it was only natural that our relationship would evolve.

Beyond mutual friends, what we have in common, more-so than anything else, is profound love of music, be it Beethoven or Bill Monroe; The Beatles or Buck Owens; the low down blues or the church choir down the street. Neither of us are all that picky. Sean could be playing music professionally but that is yet another story.

He is also deeply religious and a devout believer in the power of prayer, especially when it comes to healing. One day last week, he emailed to ask if I'd like for his church choir to sing for me and offer up a prayer come Sunday evening. Not only that, but Lo and I were invited to listen in and participate by telephone. Sean asked me to rattle off a couple of my favorite hymns and I immediately requested "How Great Thou Art" and "In The Garden" also known as The Andy Song.

(A little girl was once asked in Church to name her favorite hymn and she promptly said, "The one about Andy." The youth minister was stumped and said he wasn't sure which one that was. The little one told him that we sang it all the time and commenced belting out, "Andy walks with me. Andy talks with me. Andy tells me I am his

Rockcastle County
Circuit Clerk

My administrative experience with Rockcastle County Schools has prepared me to serve as Circuit Clerk. The Rockcastle County School System was well respected when I began the role of Superintendent in 1995. During my years as leader of the District, the system has continued to improve both academically and athletically. The District has been recognized in our state's top 10 based upon student performance as well as other indicators. Although the system was good when I began as Superintendent, it is even better 17 years later.

Teresa Vanzant has done an exceptional job during her tenure as Clerk and running the office both efficiently and professionally. She can leave the position knowing she provided quality service to the citizenry. My goal as Clerk would be to continue the high quality services to Rockcastle Citizens and implement change as needs dictate with the intent of leaving that position even better upon my exit.

My desire is to continue to serve the people of Rockcastle County. After a tenure of 23 years as an administrator for Rockcastle County Schools, I have established a relationship with the people of Rockcastle County that I would like to continue. Your support for me as Circuit Clerk will ensure leadership in this office that will be professional and progressive for all citizens.

Your vote and support May 22nd is greatly appreciated!

Thank you...

Dear RCHS UNITE Club Members,
Thank you for initiating the collection of numerous eye glasses for our medical mission trip to Honduras! There were 260 glasses given out to patients and we were so pleased to tell our team about our very special group of friends at Rockcastle County High School who supported us with their donations. An 89-year-old lady received glasses for the first time in her life. She was so excited! Thank you for touching the lives of the people in Honduras.

In search of Stiggal's Tavern location...

Dear Editor,
Marty Wyatt, a local resident at Brodhead is in search of the historic location of Stiggal's Tavern and is giving what information he has on it in hopes some local resident may remember something.

Brodhead began as Stiggal's Station in 1794 and became a safe house for early settlers coming along the Wilderness Trail headed to Louisville and Lexington.

George Stiggal was the owner and was a member of the Virginia Militia receiving property at Brodhead for his service. His wife was Ann Wilkerson Stiggal. Ann was the daughter of John Wilkerson. John Wilkerson was one of the original settlers at Boonesborough. Stiggal's Station became a grover's station where livestock was put up during the drives to market. It was also a Tavern where weary travelers stopped to sleep for the night and were fed also restocking themselves with basic essentials for their trip such as cornmeal, meat and other food items.

John Woodyard, born in 1801, came to Brodhead sometime between 1840 and 1850 and would be instrumental in developing Brodhead. He donated property in the 1870s for the first school at Brodhead. He also donated the property for Brodhead Baptist Church, giving 1.75 acres for the Masonic Lodge, church and a graveyard in 1872. He also donated the property for the Christian Church and graveyard on Main Street across from the Post Office. John Woodyard is buried behind the Christian Church.

In 1912, the Stiggal's Tavern was by a James "Jim" Owens Sr. according to a newspaper article of that time printed in Lancaster. The 1920 census records show James Owens as being 60 years and his wife, Martha as 74 years old. James Owens's son, James W. Owens was a neighbor or lived in the tavern with his father as a renter. If anyone can remember anything about this time, I would love to hear from you.

Some historical importance related to Brodhead; Mr. Stiggal's son was G.W. Stiggal and was the jailer in Carthage Illinois when Joseph Smith of the Mormon Church was lynched at the jailhouse there in 1846.

Ball is now in the "No voters" court...

Dear Editor,
Now all votes have been cast and the dust has settled, and the "No" vote won by a vast majority.

An outcome that I think we all expected.

However, here is not where the buck should end. The battle may be won, but the war rages on. It is time for those that voted "No" to prove their vote and fix the issue that the "Yes" vote was going to ensure.

It's time for the "No" vote to fix the economy. Come up with a plan that will increase the county's income.

It's time for the "No" vote to eliminate the black market trade of the bootlegger's, and to stop the children from having easy access to alcohol.

It's time for those that voted "No" to lower DUI offenses in the county as well as lower other crime rates such as illicit drug manufacturing and use, and robbery.

The "No" voter's are also responsible for bringing jobs into the area.

If these issues have not been rectified in three years, the vote is due to come up again, and if these issues have not been resolved it is time to give alcohol sales a chance.

So, all those that voted "No", be aware that the ball is now in your court when it comes to the improvement of this city.

For those that operated the "No" campaign, congratulations, but you now have your work cut out for you. I have complete confidence in you to come up with a plan to improve our city and gain much needed income and jobs as well as lowering crime statistics. You put a lot of work into campaigning for a dry county and you have succeeded. I hope that you put the same effort into fixing this county and that it's not just a campaign to deny others of their civil liberties.

If there is a better way than the legalization of alcohol sales it is time to prove it within the next three years.... and a lot can be accomplished within three years.

Also remember that the "Yes" campaign starts today for three years time.

I look forward to seeing the progress you make.

Sincerely,
Christopher Longhurst

So, just before 6:00 p.m. last Sunday, the phone rang and first Loretta and then I spent some time chatting with Sean and catching up. (I'm at the point now that when any one calls to ask about my health, I put Lo on the phone. It has gotten to the point that even I ask, "How am I doing Honey?")

Then we turned the volume up as loud as it would go on the speaker phones and listened while the Healing Choir of Bethel Church of the Nazarene in Quincy, Massachusetts sang to us. I promise you faithfully that there was not a dry eye in our house as we whispered along. And I can tell you for sure that we experienced much healing in our spirits and in our souls.

I have seldom ever felt so richly blessed.

to get this trophy and it finally paid off. You all enjoy it as much as we do!"

The Big Blue Nation has come a long way from where we were the last time UK won the NCAA National Championship in 1998. We have experienced a fourteen year National Championship drought.

But I guess it's like the old saying goes, you have to experience the bad before you can fully appreciate the good. Even though it has been painful for us all, I believe it makes this year's NCAA National Championship even more memorable.

"Memories"

flip the lock open on the small vents. We could then reach through and unlock our doors if we inadvertently locked our keys in the ignition. I can remember countless times when I had to use this trick to get to my keys. Even if you could not unlock the vents, they were much less expensive to replace if you actually had to break out a window to gain access to your car.

The demise of wings began in the late '60s when the Corvettes and Camaros did away with the small windows in 1967. Mustangs, GTOs, and the Cutlass 442 eliminated the wings by 1969. From that point on, the only way you could purchase a vehicle with winged vents was to order a Ford F150 pickup truck. That too ended in 1998.

I recently read a commentary about wings that suggested that the makers of air conditioners teamed up to make vents disappear so that more buyers would cough up the funds to purchase air conditioning for their automobiles. Although I have my doubts about there being an actual conspiracy, I do miss the small windows in my present automobiles. Today, there is nary a vented window to be found in the automobile industry. If you accidentally lock your keys inside your car, you might as well cough up the $50 to hire a locksmith to be able to open it for entry.

Those car vents are now only a memory of our early teen years. Like black-and-white television sets, poodle skirts, white buck shoes, flat-top haircuts, and hoola hoops, they have drifted into the past. And once again, the memory of items such as these makes me long to return, if only briefly, to the golden days of my youth.

It's Important You Know Where I Stand

- ★ Pro-Life - I am unashamedly pro-life when it comes to defending the defenseless and innocent among us. I believe that our nation forfeited the moral high ground when we declared unborn children to be disposable. Since 1974, over 40 million babies have been killed for the false god of choice.
- ★ Pro-Family - God instituted the family before He instituted the government. The family is the basic building block of all of society. I support the traditional definition of marriage of "one man and one woman."
- ★ Pro-2nd Amendment - The Constitution undeniably gives every citizen in this country the "right to bear arms" and protect themselves. Our Founding Fathers knew what oppressive government and domestic enemies could do. Is it any wonder it was the second most important amendment they created? I support their decision then and now.
- ★ No Gambling - I believe in the old-fashioned American work ethic that built this country. A family is provided for by working and earning, not taking chances. It's not morally right to profit knowingly from another person's irresponsible behavior either. Gambling always produces social and economic hardships.
- ★ Pro-Capitalism - The Free Market has developed America into the most powerful country in the world. Socialism, regulations, and more legislation will not create jobs. Creating an environment in the marketplace that allows for small businesses and industry to start and to grow easily will lead to job creation. Let the Free Market work!

When it comes to your heart, image is everything.

Saint Joseph Berea implements high-tech camera for evaluation of heart conditions.

Saint Joseph Berea is proud to now offer the CIPhoton Cardiac SPECT. This state-of-the-art nuclear stress test camera not only provides superior imaging quality, but enhanced patient comfort with its upright platform. Instead of lying flat on their back, the chair design insures patients a comfortable scanning position while they watch a DVD. This technology is an excellent choice for those needing wheelchair accessibility, those with breathing issues (asthmatic, CHF and COPD patients), and obese patients. The images take an average of five to six minutes.

A nuclear stress test measures blood flow to your heart muscle both at rest and during stress on the heart. It's performed similarly to a routine exercise stress test, but provides images that can show areas of decreased blood flow to the heart as well as areas of damaged heart muscle.

YOUR DOCTOR MAY ORDER A NUCLEAR STRESS TEST:

- if your doctor suspects you have coronary artery disease or another heart problem
- for evaluation of physical indications, such as myocardial infarction (heart attack), chest pain, shortness of breath or family history of heart disease
- when an exercise stress test alone wasn't enough to pinpoint the cause of symptoms
- for evaluation of heart due to abnormal results on related studies, such as an abnormal ECG
- in order to guide your treatment if you've already been diagnosed with a heart disorder such as coronary artery disease or arrhythmia

Alcohol, or No Alcohol, That Is The Question... Part II

The history of Prohibition (the national ban on the manufacture, sales, transportation, etc. of alcoholic beverages) was examined last week. To review, we had learned that originally it was intended to be only temporary due to the demand of grain going to the war effort (World War I) in 1917. The ban began in 1919. However, by this time the war had ended and Prohibition had become a moot point as far as I'm concerned. We also learned that in only ten short years of not receiving the revenue from the alcohol tax (among other factors), the Great Depression ravaged the United States. We also saw that when one group tries to enforce their idea of morals on others through countrywide laws, it results in failure, in the end. In 1933, only fourteen years after it began, the experiment ended in failure, and sales of alcohol became legal again in the United States, except in some areas where it was felt better to remain "dry", where some believed that they knew better than what had been learned nationally.

This week, I will look farther into the real beginnings of Prohibition. "In 1657, the General Court of Massachusetts made the sale of strong liquor...illegal." However, they stated that "Drink itself was not looked upon as culpable, anymore than food deserved the blame for the sin of gluttony. Excess was a personal indiscretion."

In 1784 a popular physician, Benjamin Rush, wrote in "The Inquiry into the Effects of Ardent Spirits upon the Human Body and Mind" that "...the excessive use of alcohol is injurious to physical and psychological health..." This led to a Temperance Association being formed in Connecticut in 1789, with Virginia to follow in 1800, and New York in 1808. Women in particular "jumped on the wagon" and embraced the idea of "true motherhood", electing themselves as "moral authorities". By 1835, the American Temperance Society had been formed, and reached 1.5 million in membership, of which up to 60% were female.

In 1873, the Women's Christian Temperance Union, led by Garrard County's own Carrie Nation, was formed and advocated Prohibition as a method of avoiding abuse from alcoholic husbands. One of its chief methods of achieving its goal was in education. They wanted to "get to the children" to create a sentiment that alcohol was evil. They wanted to organize a "union of women of all denominations for the purpose of educating the young, forming a better public sentiment...and removing the dram-shops from our streets by law." Here we have the vehicle of how alcohol became "evil" through the generations and saturated itself into religion. This was particularly enacted in the South. Will Rogers often joked, "The South is dry and will vote dry. This is, if everybody is sober enough to stagger to the polls."

Two other amendments to the Constitution were championed by the "drys" to help their cause. The Federal Income Tax replaced the alcohol sales tax that funded federal government. Prohibition has ended but the tax still remains.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr. was initially pro-Prohibition, but later had a change of mind, stating "...drinking has generally increased, the speakeasy has replaced the saloon; a vast army of law-breakers have appeared, many of our best citizens have openly ignored Prohibition; respect for the law has been greatly lessened and crime has increased to a level never seen before."

At one time, prior to Prohibition, Rockcastle had its share of drinking establishments. Evidently, when Prohibition was repealed and counties were given the choice of being either "wet" or "dry", Rockcastle remained "dry". However, I've been told by reliable sources, for whatever reason, that there is a small area of Livingston that was exempt and remains "wet" to this day. (And yes, I've been told the exact location) During the Prohibition days, there was a man, a Mr. Goff, who ran a floating saloon on the Rockcastle River near Livingston. When neighboring Laurel and Rockcastle were "dry", he kept in business by staying on the river in order to avoid prosecution by either county. I understand the saloon thrived quite a while.

I've concluded my study into the history of alcohol and Prohibition in the U.S. and Rockcastle County. I've learned quite a bit, and hope you have, too. I do realize that this is a source of debate and it hasn't been my intent to anger anyone.

In late May, 1975 I flew to Travis Air Force Base from Okinawa where I served for a year as a Hospital Corpsman with units of the Ninth Marine Regiment occasionally deploying to forward areas. There was a bus waiting for us near the plane and, as we boarded it, the driver warned us to keep all the windows closed until we were well away from Travis. As we left the base, a handful of demonstrators were gathered to welcome us home—they threw things at our bus: rocks, bags of excrement and held up signs proclaiming us baby killers and murderers and shouted foul names.

I was confused and saddened at the time. I am a Corpsman, I thought. My job is to save lives. In the field, I treated everyone—Marines, civilians, and even enemy troops without regard to who they were or what their beliefs were. If they were wounded, I believed it was my duty to help them. In April of 1975, I participated in Operation Baby Lift evacuating more than 3,000 orphans from Vietnam while the Viet Cong shelled Tan Son Nhut. About forty eight hours before I landed at Travis, I was in combat on Koh Tang Island involved in an intense 14 hour firefight to free the crew of an American merchant ship taken over by the Khmer Rouge. Through all those times, my only weapon was a .45 caliber pistol and I had never fired it except to protect myself or a patient. Much later in life, I met two people who were part of my life that April-May, though none of us knew it at the time.

The first person's name was Kim. When I met her, she was a Lieutenant (junior grade) in the Navy who had grown up in Wisconsin, graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, and was one of those orphans airlifted out of Saigon that April. Kim now works with the Wounded Warrior Project in Washington taking care of our troops who are suffering today from the horrible wounds that it seems only wars can inflict.

The second person was a vehement anti-war protestor named Lori. She now works for the U.S. State Department as a diplomat and is extremely effective at her job. Lori and I disagreed on many issues but she was very bright and capable and I enjoyed working with her. I underestimated her when I first met her because she freely discussed demonstrating against "The War."

Meeting those two people reinforced in me two valuable life lessons.

First: People have convictions. They believe in them and their beliefs and convictions should be respected, whether or not we agree with them. The most profound and fundamental disagreements can be overcome if one has genuine respect of another person's beliefs.

Second: and perhaps more importantly, every life counts.

The Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department, Mt. Vernon Police Department and Brindle Ridge Fire Department responded to the finding of a meth lab on Sweetwater Road last Thursday night. Shown above are the two HCL generators along with three one-step meth labs that were all neutralized by UNITE Detective Joe Cunagin.

After arriving at the residence, officers knocked on the door and then heard banging and crashing coming from inside the home. Bryant then proceeded to kick the door before Hoover eventually opened it.

Once inside the house, officers noticed a strong chemical odor as well as visible smoke throughout the home. According to Bryant, the odor and smoke was indicative of an HCL gas generator, which can be used in the production of methamphetamine.

Bryant observed Tillery in the closet of the master bedroom, along with a coffee grinder on the floor with what appeared to still have pill residue in it. According to Bryant, coffee grinders are commonly used to grind up pseudoephedrine pills so they can be used to manufacture methamphetamine.

Inside the bathroom, officers found an active one-step meth lab, along with an active HCL gas generator with attached tubing coming out of the top of the cabinet. Officers also found a second HCL gas generator on the back porch of the residence.

Near the rear of the home, officers found two more active one-step meth labs inside a black plastic garbage bag.

Officers also found two small plastic bags containing suspected methamphet-amine inside Hoover's change purse.

Hoover and Tillery were both charged with manufacturing methamphetamine and conspiracy to manufacture methamphetamine.

Both Hoover and Tillery remain lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center on a $25,000 cash/property bond.

transported to the Rockcastle Regional Hospital. Klein was treated and released with minor injuries and Soma was transported to University of Kentucky Medical Center and, according to WLEX-18, is listed in serious condition.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation by the Kentucky State Police.

In the second accident, a seven-vehicle crash on I-75 northbound at exit 62 around 4 p.m. Sunday afternoon claimed the life of an Ohio man.

According to state police records, three tractor trailers and four cars all collided with each other as traffic was starting to slow down due to the heavy rain.

Keith Holbrook, 55, of Beaver Creek Ohio, was pronounced dead at the scene by Dowell. Holbrook's passenger, Teresa Holbrook, 55, also of Beaver Creek, Ohio, was airlifted to the UK Medical Center where she was treated and released with minor injuries.

Roberta Butler, 76 and Mitch Butler, 75 both of Hamilton Ohio, were also airlifted to the UK Medical Center. Both were treated and released with minor injuries.

Heavy rain and wet roads were reported to be contributing factors in the collision. The accident is still under investigation by the Kentucky State Police and no drugs or alcohol are suspected at this time.

“Trash”

for the county, twenty-five 30 and 40 cubic yard roll-off dumpsters were required to carry off the trash that Rockcastle Countians dropped off during the seven hour event. Last year, 18 dumpsters were needed for the same event and the 20 dumpsters originally provided by Bee Garbage this year were not enough with the last loads having to be dumped on the ground until five additional containers could be brought in to finish the haul.

PRIDE (Personal Responsibility in a Desirable Environment) pays a portion of the cost of this event. However, this year their part was reduced from $7,500 to $4,750, bringing the county's share to an estimated $8,000 as opposed to last year's less than $2,000.

County Judge/Executive Buzz Carloftis said after the event, "participation in this event by the county is voluntary and I am glad for the participation and that the county had funds to support this program." Carloftis went on to say that this program is an example of why ever household in the county needs garbage pick-up service. "This is only a fraction of what the county, and of course taxpayers, have to pay to clean up illegal dumps in the county."

However, the county did save some money since a couple of entrepreneurs were on hand to take anything metal off the hands of participants, before it hit the trash heap, saving the cost of dumping those articles.

“Vote”

Taylor, owner of EST Tools and Machines in Brodhead and chairman of the Rockcastle County Industrial Authority, a proponent of the measure, said Wednesday that he was "really glad that the voters of Rockcastle County got to voice their opinion in this election. I would like to see this same enthusiasm put toward combating other problems our county faces, such as the methamphetamine problem."

Votes on similar issues were held in Berea, Pulaski and Laurel on Tuesday.

In Berea, the East Berea precinct went 2-to-1 to allow restaurant sales of mixed drinks, beer and wine. According to Teresa Scenters, publisher of The Berea Citizen the vote was allowed under a law passed by the state legislature and having to do with alcohol sales in precincts containing historic sites. The East Berea precinct contains historic Boone Tavern. However, Scenters said there will not be immediate drink sales at Boone Tavern since final approval rests with their board of trustees.

In a precinct vote in Pulaski County which contains Eagles Nest Country Club, the no vote narrowly won and, in London which is "moist" voters turned down a proposition which would have allowed package liquor sales in London.

Concerning the local election, County Judge/Executive Buzz Carloftis said Wednesday, "I think this was the first time, since 1939, that this issue has been brought up for a vote. The fiscal court, which represents everyone, remained neutral and never took a stand. I am surprised that the court was never approached by either side and personal preferences of individual members of the court were never voiced at a fiscal court meeting."

NATIONAL CHILD ABUSE PREVENTION

Today's children are Kentucky's future leaders, parents and workers. Our state's future prosperity depends on their healthy development and growth. With the support of engaged communities and nurturing families, all of Kentucky's children can thrive and have the opportunity to grow into caring, contributing and healthy adults. Community Collaboration for Children reminds Kentuckians that helping our communities and families create healthy, nurturing environments for children is one of the best investments Kentucky can make.

Preventing child abuse and neglect will take all of our efforts -- from policy-makers to parents -- to ensure our children have the foundation to become tomorrow's leaders. Community Collaboration for Children provides prevention based in-home services to the community.

Together, we act as educators working to heighten public awareness of the need for caring communities to promote healthy child development and what Kentuckians can do for our next generation; partners organizing concerned citizens and groups to join forces and leverage resources to prevent child maltreatment; catalysts advocating for important programs and policies that help communities support parents and help parents raise healthy children; and trainers providing professionals and volunteers with the essential skills and knowledge to help parents and communities prevent child abuse and neglect.

Together, with the support of Kentucky citizens, professionals and decision-makers, we are working to ensure Kentucky's youngest citizens grow up in nurturing homes and responsive communities.

"...the best benefit of this program is that it literally cut our electric use in half!"

Rita Chrisman was so impressed with the impact her Jackson Energy Prepay Meter had on her energy bill that she sat down and wrote a letter!

In her letter, Rita explains that previously her winter electric bills would run above $500, but with the new Prepay Meter, bills dropped to just above $200...who wouldn't be excited with savings like that! She does such a great job of explaining how it works that we have posted her letter on our MyJacksonEnergy.com website for all members to read.

Thanks for sharing, Rita! Because of your experience we're sure many others will check out this energy-saving service!

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet!

Some things to think about...

What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?

Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.

Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?

A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and bleach to help dissolve stains.
B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.

The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.

Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?

C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.

D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.

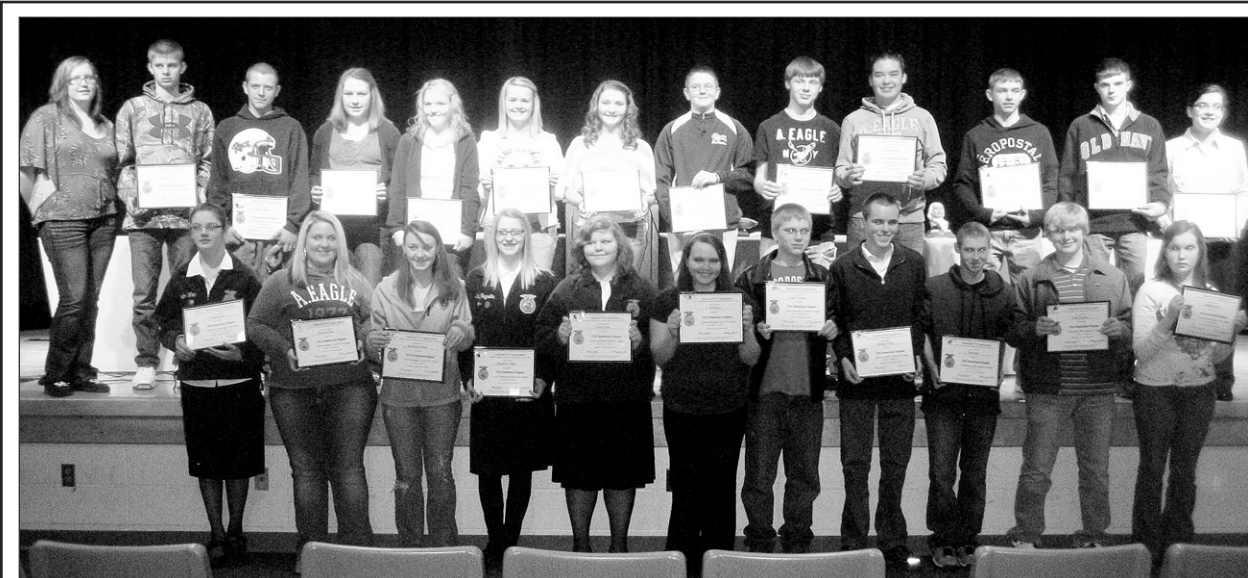

E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet.

Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

FFA hosts Spring Greenhand Ceremony

"Leaders establish the vision for the future and set the strategy for getting there; they cause change. They motivate and inspire others to go in the right direction and they, along with everyone else, sacrifice to get there."

-John Kotter-

On February 13, the RCHS auditorium was, once again, filled with many extraordinary people. People who have gone the extra mile to prove their capabilities to their peers. People who have chosen to be involved with something bigger than themselves. People who have decided that they want to be a leader. These fine people that I am referring to are none other than the Spring FFA Greenhand recipients.

During the ceremony, there were two competitions that were held; Creed Speaking and Quiz Contest. In Creed Speaking, Cheyenne Gilliam was the Spring Semester winner, and Avery Bradshaw was the Fall Semester and overall winner.

In the Quiz Contest, the Spring Semester winner was Krystal Smith, and the Fall Semester and overall winner was Sharla Kidwell.

Kentucky River Region State Vice-President, Jessica Gambrel, was in attendance, and served as our guest speaker and Creed Speaking Contest judge.

After the ceremony concluded, FFA members were encouraged to participate in our "Activities Night". Those who attended could partake in various games such as Ping-Pong, karaoke, basketball, volleyball, corn hole, board games, and Wii Dance. This gave members the chance to get active, hang out with friends, eat pizza, win prizes, and just have some fun.

We would like to congratulate every freshman FFA member that has received their Greenhand Degrees! We hope that you will continue on in your agricultural pursuits, and always hold a place in your heart for this amazing organization.

Local students accept scholarships to ECU

Hundreds of incoming freshmen and transfer students already have accepted merit-based scholarships to attend Eastern Kentucky University.

- Rockcastle County recipients include:
- Samantha Adams, Brodhead, Rockcastle County High School, Founders Scholarship
 - Jarrett Hamm, Mount Vernon, Rockcastle County High School, Founders Scholarship
 - Constance Irvin, Brodhead, Rockcastle County High School, Colonel Scholarship

"These students have found programs here at ECU that meet their needs academically, therefore Eastern is doing all it can to help them achieve their dreams financially through our merit-based scholarship program," said Brett Morris, interim director of admissions at the university. "The process is much easier now because students are granted these scholarships automatically if they qualify. There's no need for a separate application."

Students who qualify for merit-based scholarships have until May 1 to accept them, Morris said. (Additional scholarship recipients will be announced later.)

The Excellence Award, Founders Award, Regents Scholarship, Presidential Scholarship and Merit Scholarship are for incoming high school freshmen. The Colonel, Colonel Plus, Maroon and Maroon Plus scholarships are for incoming transfer students.

For more information about all the scholarships available to ECU students, visit scholarships.eku.edu or call the university's Scholarship Office at 859-622-8032.

The Signal office will close at noon this Friday
