School board's working budget is $21 million

By: Perlina Anderkin

Rockcastle Board of Education members were presented with the 2012-13 tentative working budget at a special meeting last Thursday.

Superintendent Larry Hammond commented to the board that the district is in "pretty good shape although it is a flat budget."

The budget shows total revenues of $21,387,165, the bulk of which will come from SEEK funding (the amount the state pays the system for each child) currently figured at $14,450,665. Other revenue expected includes $2,714,000 from general property tax, utility tax, motor vehicle tax, etc.

Finance officer Melanie Lyons told the board that the board's contingency fund is expected to be down to $1.7 million, 8% of the budget which is higher than the 5% recommended by the state and the 2% mandated.

Lyons also pointed out that several expenses have risen dramatically, including the student insurance on which the premium has risen from $44,000 to $195,000. "This is an across the state raise," Lyons said. She said that she was in the process of contacting other companies in an effort to get the premium reduced.

The board will be presented with another working budget in September when the numbers are expected to be more exact.

Police continue to investigate Brindle Ridge home invasion

By: Doug Ponder

Police are still searching for two people who broke into a home Tuesday night around 10 o'clock in the Chestnut Heights Subdivision on Brindle Ridge Road.

According to State Police reports, two white males entered the residence of James Mason, armed with a handgun. Both men restrained the residents in a bedroom while they stole jewelry and other items. The two suspects then fled the scene in an unidentified vehicle.

The two suspects were described as white males approximately five-foot-six with thin builds. One subject was wearing a red hoodie and the other a black hoodie. Both subjects were also said to be wearing bandanas to hide their identity.

The home invasion is still under investigation by the Kentucky State Police and Trooper Jason Vanhook is in charge of the investigation.

If you have any information regarding the home invasion please call the Kentucky State Police Post 11 in London at (606)-878-6622 or 1-800-222-5555.

Rockcastle remembers fallen heroes on Memorial Day

A memorial service to honor Rockcastle County's fallen soldiers was held on Memorial Day on the Courthouse Lawn.

The theme for this year's service was "Freedom is not Free" and honored the Rockcastle veterans who gave their life in the cause of freedom.

The ceremony was sponsored by the local chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5908 and American Legion Post 71.

County Judge Executive Buzz Carloftis was the master of ceremonies Carloftis opened the service and welcomed the crowd.

Last leg of Lambert Road bid let; first reading of '12-'13 county budget held

By: Perlina Anderkin
B&M Pipeline, Inc. was the successful bidder for widening of the last mile of Lambert Road in northern Rockcastle. Two bids were submitted, and opened at a special meeting of the fiscal court Tuesday, one by Carpenter Custom Bulldozing for $73,500 and B&M's of $46,000. Carpenter did the first two segments of the three mile project. County Judge/Executive Buzz Carloftis commended Carpenter for the "really good job" Carpenter did on the first two segments but noted that the court had to be fiscally responsible and take the low bid for the third segment.

The court also held the first reading of the 2012-13 fiscal court budget.

The budget, according to County Treasurer Joe Clontz, will have to be amended before the second reading primarily to include the $3 million expected for construction and equipping of the new emergency management center.

The budget, at present, shows total projected revenue of $5,979,135, $256,100 in carryover funds for a total of $6,235,235.

Expenses show $2,301,969 in the general fund, which includes

Local man involved in top-secret missile program during WWII

By: Doug Ponder
While thousands of young men were drafted to fight on the front lines during WWII, one local resident served his time in a special task force that is credited with producing the U.S. Military's first remote-guided missile.

Kenneth Hopkins, 91, of Mt. Vernon enlisted in the Navy in July of 1942 and would later become a member of the Special Task Air Group One (STAG-1).

Hopkins said that when the Navy learned about him working as a telephone lineman for Southern Bell before the war, they gave him several written exams to test his abilities and Hopkins scored high in all the electricity and frequencies sections.

"I always had a good general knowledge of electricity and frequencies," Hopkins said. "Once the Navy saw this, they decided to make an Aviation electrician out of me."

The Navy sent Hopkins to Purdue University in the fall semester of 1942 to study at an electrical school on campus. Hopkins was then sent to Chicago, Illinois to an aviation electrical school to study in the spring semester of 1943.

"I received a good education from Purdue and Chicago," Hopkins said. "They taught me how to constantly deal with new equipment and learn new technology all the time."

ROCKCASTLE MEMORIES

BY DAVID J. GRIFFIN

The Miniature World of Plants

When I was young and living with my mother and grandparents, I had no idea how their influences in my childhood life would affect me when I became an adult. As an example, let me relate a story of how my grandmother, Mommie Katie, taught me a valuable lesson that became part of my teaching profession for more than thirty years.

One day when I was about eight years old, Mommie Katie was busy in her kitchen watering her house plants. I pulled her kitchen stool up to the sink so I that could watch her manipulate her tiny pots of African Violets. As she worked, she began to explain the steps involved in replanting her violets and how to determine when they needed watering. I can still see her wrinkled hands working with the dark soil that she had personally dug up in the woods behind our house. The dirt was mixed with tiny gravel to allow the roots to have room to spread through the pots.

Everyone in our neighborhood thought Mommie Katie's violets were exceptional. They were strategically placed in widow sills throughout her house in order to provide the correct amount of sunlight to make them flourish. She was a remarkable woman in many ways, and she truly was blessed with a "green thumb."

When I was in the fifth grade, my teacher asked each of us to come up with an idea for a science project. I had previously read in a magazine about how simple it was to grow plants in a closed container, called a terrarium. I had never actually seen one of these, but the article showed a photograph of tiny plants in a Mason jar. I decided to ask Mommie Katie's help with my project. I remember how pleased she was that I had selected to work with plants under her tutelage.

The next Saturday morning, Mommie gathered her small tools, a little bucket, and a basket and led me into the woods to collect the necessary ingredients to begin construction of my homemade terrarium. She was aware that I was going to show my project to my class at school, so she suggested that we use a large - gallon size - pickle jar with a screw-on lid for the container. In the woods we collected several small plants that she could name and some tiny ferns, tiny round stones, some moss, a couple of decayed pieces of wood, and enough of the black soil to complete my project.

We carried these components back to her kitchen, and she began the task of showing me how to combine them in order for the plants to thrive. I was surprised to see Mommie first spread the dark, rich soil in the bottom of a pan and place it in her oven. When I asked why, she explained, "We have to heat the soil so that all seeds and bacteria will be neutralized - otherwise, they will sprout in your terrarium." I was thoroughly impressed with her knowledge of how to only allow the plants we had chosen to actually grow and survive.

When the dirt was sufficiently sterilized, we began the process of placing each component into the large jar so that it would grow and be pleasing to the eye. Over and over, she carefully introduced each element into the container. I cannot explain how pleased I was as the class project began to take shape. The last item to go into the jar was a beautiful layer of green moss on the surface of the soil. I knew that my terrarium would be a hit with my teacher and that my classmates would be surprised at my idea.

Mommie Katie explained how we must select the right spot in our house so that the terrarium could receive the correct amount of sunlight for the plants to thrive. She also knew precisely how much water to put into the jar before we sealed the big, white lid on top. In the moist environment, moisture from the soil and leaves would condense on the glass jar and run back into the soil. Day after day, I watched the terrarium as it began to recycle the water in the jar; the plants were settling in to their new home.

When it was time to bring our projects to class, I was thrilled with how mine looked. I think Mommie Katie was also pleased with what she had taught me. I will never forget my teacher's reaction when I entered the classroom with my terrarium under my arm. She had me explain to the class how each part of the enclosed environment was selected, and how I had used scientific knowledge [that was stored in Mommie's head] to make the entire project become self-sustaining.

When I became a teacher of biology, I made it a yearly event for my students to produce a science project for demonstration to the class. Some of their projects included: insect collections, wood sample collections, leaf collections and (my favorite) simple terrariums. Each year, I explained to my students how I had first learned about these homemade, closed environments that become self-sufficient. Many of my students produced outstanding terrariums of their own. Some of them told me later that they had kept theirs for years and years.

Mommie Katie had a small legacy that she never even knew about, and it lasted for over thirty years in my classroom - and far beyond, I imagine. Mommie would have been so pleased and so very proud!

The Way I See it

By Doug Ponder

Each night this past week, I have been glued to the TV as I have become addicted to the History Channel's new three-day-series about the Hatfield and McCoy feud.

The new mini-series is about history's well-known feud between two families who basically became famous for killing each other.

To be able to watch a professionally made TV show, starring famous actors Kevin Costner and Bill Paxton, is a refreshing change from the typical reality TV shows that have overtaken our television sets in the past decade.

Reality TV is a genre of that portrays unscripted dialogue about ordinary people living their ordinary lives instead of professional actors who act out a scripted dialogue.

These shows are still riding the tide of their explosion of popularity in the late 90's when MTV first introduced "The Real World", which is credited with making modern reality TV what it is known as today.

In a nutshell, the show that started the trend was about a group of teenagers who were chosen by producers to live together in a house for several months as cameras videotaped them behind the scenes with the intention of showcasing their immature and irresponsible behavior for the American public to enjoy.

Surprisingly enough, the show was a huge success and is now getting ready to start filming its 27th season by the end of this month.

The success also prompted MTV to practically quit playing music videos and air only Reality TV shows like Jersey Shore, Teen Mom, 16 and pregnant, etc.

Truth be told, I could go to my friend's house and watch his younger teenage siblings argue with each other over a lot of the same issues portrayed on the reality shows and be just as entertained, or in my case, annoyed.

Unfortunately, I know that as long as reality shows continue to garner attention and receive decent ratings they will always be around because they are cheap to produce and usually make a decent profit.

However, many of the long-running reality TV shows have begun to show a steep decline in ratings across the board. Maybe Hollywood should take this as a sign that the American public is tired of these ordinary reality shows and are seeking something more creative and professionally done.

This is welcome news to me as we just might finally see TV return to where it belongs with professionally made TV shows.

But I have a sneaky suspicion that there is probably some cheesy producer in Hollywood working on reuniting descendants from the Hatfield and McCoy families by putting them in a house together to live for several months while being videoed as they fight and argue with each other.

I can see it now as they lead into the show playing the Charlie Daniels song "Long Haired Country Boy" and having the cast talk with a redneck accent and chew Red Man tobacco as well.

But there is still hope and promise in the future as long as companies like the History Channel continues to air shows that are professionally done, creative and entertaining to watch.

Points East

By Ike Adams

I'll be getting up early come Saturday morning. I have to be at Keeneland before 7:30 a.m. where I will join grandson, Tyler Kane Ochs, his big brother, Braden and their parents, Jennifer and Kevin Ochs along with 10 or so other folks from Richmond to register Team TKO.

Daughter Jennifer is Captain and organizer of our team that will be gathering donations and joining more than 130,000 walkers across the country in this year's Step Out: Walk to Stop Diabetes.

Many, if not most of you readers already know that my son Christopher and I are diabetics. Most of you probably don't know that my three-year-old grandson, Tyler, is also afflicted with this terrible disease.

It's easy enough for Chris and I to cope, mostly because we are adults. Chris does have to take daily insulin injections. I control mine with oral Metformin and by simply not eating or drinking anything that contains processed sugar.

Tyler, on the other hand, is not quite sure why he has to undergo at least six blood tests every day nor why his mommy has to write down every single thing he injects and how much of it so that she can count carbohydrates to gauge how much insulin he needs after every meal and snack.

Try explaining that to a three-year-old along with why he can't have what everybody else is eating and why he has to wear an insulin pump 24-7.

So I'm asking for your help. By making a donation on behalf of Team TKO to the American Diabetes Association you will be helping provided community education programs, protect the rights of people with disabilities and funding critical research for a cure. You will also be helping fund the development of products and devices that make treatment easier, more affordable and less painful which is especially important to kids like Tyler who is not only my grandson but my personal hero as well.

Why help us stop diabetes? There are 25.8 million Americans currently living with diabetes, a disease that is outpacing heart disease, cancer and AIDS. If we don't act now, one in every three children born in the year 2000 will develop diabetes in their lifetimes.

I believe that my participation in this year's Step

Relay for Life raises over $38,000...

Dear Editor,
I would like to take this opportunity to thank the citizens of Rockcastle County for your unwavering support of Relay For Life. Together we raised $38,798.18 to support the American Cancer Society's many great works.

Each community's Relay For Life event is special in so very many ways as it is truly a community-owned event guided and directed by local volunteers right here in Rockcastle—but its greater power lies in the synergy created from more than 5,200 Relay events taking place everywhere nationwide.

Through community events like this we are able to mobilize the world's largest movement to defeat cancer and raise funds for much needed patient support services, advocacy initiatives, cancer education and top notch cancer research to find a cure. And not only are we working together to raise funds, but we're also working together to raise awareness of the importance of healthy life styles, the importance of preventive measures to avoid cancer and to educate others of the importance of early detection through appropriate screenings. We are also building a support network for those patients and families battling cancer. As I walk the track each year and talk to our community's survivors, caregivers, and the families of those lost to cancer, I am amazed and inspired by how positive they are and how much support they provide to one another.

On behalf of the American Cancer Society, I would like to thank the army of community volunteers that assisted with this year's event. This event would not be possible without our dedicated teams, generous corporate sponsors, community leaders and the event planning committee who has so faithfully brought the event to fruition.

There are far too many participants and volunteers to name them all, but I would like to take this opportunity to publicly recognize and express my gratitude to the members of the 2012 Planning Committee for their hard work and dedication all year; Jeff Smithern, Lisa Smithern, Brandy Bullock, Jason Brock, Gayle Deborde, Arielle Reese, Susan Brown, Kayla Rowe, Betty Purcell, Worth Anne Harris, Amanda Bradley and Cindy Wesley.

We had a total of 14 teams participating this year—those included: Bittersweet Cloggers, Citizens Bank, Community Trust Bank, PBK Bank, Signature Health Care's Rockcastle Health & Rehab Center, Pizza Hut's Dream Team, Freedom Baptist Church, Hickory Grove Church, Conway Baptist Church, McDonald's, Mt. Vernon IGA, Rockcastle Family Wellness, Rockcastle Regional Hospital and Snack Shack. I would like to thank each of their team captains as they have worked very hard this year organizing their campsites and volunteering their time and talents for various fundraisers throughout the season. Our 2012 team captains were: Shari Proctor, Cindy Wesley, Ashley Reynolds, Tracy King, Rachel Martin, Gail Price, Angie Bullock, Vickie Bradley, Kathy Baldwin, Connie Chambers, Julie Marks, Abby Dull and Glenda Jo McFerron.

Many thanks to our 2012 corporate sponsors for their tremendous support and commitment to the American Cancer Society's mission year after year. The local corporate sponsors make it possible for all donations collected to go directly toward fighting cancer through cancer research, advocacy, education and patient support services. The 2012 Corporate Sponsors include: Rockcastle Regional Hospital and Respiratory Care Center, Citizens Bank and Community Trust Bank. Other essential event sponsors this year include: McDonald's, Dowell & Martin, Sparks Flowers and More, WRVK and the Mt. Vernon Signal.

We are also fortunate enough to have tremendous support from many others in the community including the City of Mount Vernon and Mayor Mike Bryant, Robert Lawson and the folks at the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame, Rockcastle County High School HOSA club, Bible Baptist Church, Rockcastle Regional Hospital Dietary and Maintenance staff, Roundstone Baptist Church, Sunrise Baptist Church, Conway Baptist Church, Corey Craig, Chief Circuit Judge Jeffrey T. Burdette, Dwan Harris, Dr. David Bullock, Rockcastle County Schools, Jason Couger, Lonnie Hall, Vanessa Bullock, Leshia Cromer and the Leadership students at Rockcastle County Middle School, Danny Ford, Danetta Ford-Allan, Ford Brothers Realty, Marvin E. Owens Home for Funerals, Richmond Eye Care, McHaffey's Quick Lube and the host of businesses and individuals that donated items for the auction.

Fighting cancer is a team effort. The strength of people coming together in our community for a common cause is greater than the strength of any one of us. Thank you for your continued support of the American Cancer Society's mission and vision—its volunteers and businesses like you that can make a difference in the fight against cancer and create a cancer-free world.

With many thanks,
Melissa Brock,
Relay Chair

"Points East"

Out: Walk to Stop Diabetes can and will make a difference. With your help, the Association can raise over $20 million to help stop diabetes on Saturday.

My personal goal is to hit two miles. I actually wobble more than walk due to Parkinson's Disease and the lingering effects of the stroke I had ten weeks ago, but I intend to be holding Tyler's hand or helping carry him come rain or shine as we stroll around Keeneland on Saturday morning.

The easiest and most convenient way to help Team TKO reach it's goal of $1,500 in outside donations is to go to: www.diabetes.org/stepout and make a secure, 100% tax deductible donation. On the web page, click donate and enter Team TKO. If you do not want to donate online, make your check payable to: American Diabetes Association, put Team TKO on the memo line and mail it to me: Ike Adams, 249 Charlie Brown Road, Paint Lick, KY 40461.

You can help stop diabetes, one step, or in my case, one week at a time.

"I See It"

So I tip my hat to the History Channel for being brave enough to pay attention to the ratings and for also having the courage to venture out of the "reality show realm" to run a professionally made TV mini-series like "Hatfields&McCoys."

As of right now, they are our only hope of returning TV shows to what they used to be before Reality TV took over.

Discovery Day is Saturday

Recycling Center Is Open!!!

Rockcastle County is offering a recycling drop-off program. Recyclables may be dropped off at the Rockcastle County Recycling Center on US 25 South (2528 South Wilderness Rd.) during the hours of 7 a.m. until 3 p.m. Monday thru Friday (closed major holidays).

The following items may be recycled:
Newspapers w/inserts, magazines, books & catalogs, office paper, junk mail, phone books, plastic bottles & jugs (#1-7) (any size soda and water bottles, laundry detergent jugs, bleach and fabric softener jugs, milk and water jugs, cooking oil bottles and jugs, shampoo bottles, dish liquid and alcohol bottles (please rinse out jugs), metal cans (rinsed), empty aerosol cans, aluminum cans, glass bottles and jars, sheet glass, ceramics, computers, radios, phones, vacuum cleaners, clocks, cameras, camcorders, vcr/dvd players and satellite boxes.

Rechargeable batteries such as those found in: cordless power tools, cellular phones (the whole phone can be recycled), cordless phones, laptop computers, digital cameras, two-way radios, camcorders and remote control toys. If its says rechargeable on it, then it's recyclable!

Clean used motor oil may also be dropped off at the Rockcastle County Road Department during regular business hours.

Recycling trailers are also available at the following locations: City of Brodhead (gravel lot across from Citizens Bank), City of Livingston (gravel lot across from old Livingston Gymnasium), Brindle Ridge Volunteer Fire Department (at Conway) and at the Pongo Volunteer Fire Department. The trailers will only be pulled out to empty them and will then be taken back to the same location. Please help us make this a successful venture by being clean and/or neat with our recycling habits. Do not put anything in the individual bins except what is labeled on them. Do not leave recyclables on the ground! If you drop something on the ground, pick it up. Absolutely no trash is to be put into the bins! Remember, camera surveillance is utilized in Rockcastle County and it is illegal to improperly to dispose of trash.

If additional information is needed, you can call the Rockcastle County Solid Waste Office at 606-256-1902

Some Memorial Day History

By David Owens

Traditional observance of Memorial Day has diminished over the years as many Americans have forgotten the meaning and traditions of Memorial Day.

At many cemeteries, the graves of the fallen are increasingly ignored and neglected. Most people no longer remember the proper flag etiquette for the day. While there are towns and cities that still hold Memorial Day parades, many have not held a parade in decades. Some people also think the day is for honoring any and all dead, and not just those fallen in service to our country.

For many people here in Rockcastle County, Memorial Day brings to mind images of a trip to the family cemetery, picnics, barbecues and baseball games. What's sometimes forgotten are the true reasons for the holiday.

Memorial Day was created to honor the sacrifices made by American soldiers and sailors in times of conflict. As the United States' death toll passes 2,000 in Afghanistan, Memorial Day takes on an especially poignant meaning this year.

Here's a brief look at how the holiday got its start and how people are searching for ways to honor the brave men and women who have lost their lives in the cause of freedom.

Originally the holiday was known as "Decoration Day." It was started by a Civil War general John Logan who was the Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR.)

The GAR post in Mt. Vernon was the M.M. Frazier Post 127 which was named in memory of Dr. Milton Frazier, who was a captain in the 4th Kentucky Infantry and lost his life in the Civil War.

General Logan sought a way to help the country come together after the horrors and division of the Civil War. The holiday was first observed on May 30, 1868.

Logan chose the date for two very important reasons. First, the day did not mark the anniversary of a Civil War battle and second "flowers would likely be in bloom all over the United States." Indeed, many took flowers to Arlington National Cemetery, an activity that still occurs every year.

General Logan left a tremendous legacy that goes well beyond his efforts to honor fallen soldiers. According to a museum dedicated to his memory, Logan led an inspired life and enjoyed a tremendous career. At different times in his life he was a United States congressman, senator and also a candidate for the vice presidency. He and his running mate, James G. Blane, lost their bid, but "Logan's popularity with veterans contributed to the narrowness of the defeat."

This may come as a bit of a surprise, but Memorial Day, despite having been around for over 100 years in one form or another, didn't become an official federal holiday until 1971 when Congress passed the National Holiday Act and asked all Americans to fly the National Colors at half-mast from dawn to 12 a.m.

This created a three-day weekend at the end of May. Prior to this, different states observed the holiday on different days.

Also worth noting is the "national moment of remembrance." This moment takes place at 3 p.m. local time on Memorial Day and lasts one minute. According to Remember.gov, "the Moment does not replace traditional Memorial Day events; rather it is an act of national unity in which all Americans, alone or with family and friends, honor those who died for our freedom. It will help to reclaim Memorial Day as the sacred and noble holiday it was meant to be. In this shared remembrance, we connect as Americans."

This year as you go to cemeteries to decorate the graves of loved ones, take time to look around and note the veterans also buried there and maybe place a flower there to honor their service.

"We cherish too, the poppy red. That grows on fields where valor led. It seems to signal to the skies. That blood of heroes never dies."

"Hopkins"

tion in Clinton, Oklahoma where he would become a member of the newly organized Special Task Air Group One.

Hopkins would serve with STAG-1 in the South Pacific and Solomon Islands during WWII.

Their operations were considered top secret missions by the Department of Defense and everyone who was a part of the unit was not allowed to share their location with anyone or tell them any information about the program.

"They kept us informed constantly and we were told to keep our mouths shut," Hopkins said.

Hopkins said his officers would always look at what they wrote in their letters they sent home to make sure they weren't giving out any information.

When Hopkins was stationed on the Russell Islands, in the central province of the Solomon Islands, he said his mom wrote him a letter wanting to know where he was and that he had to come up with a clever way of letting her know where he was stationed and that he was safe.

Hopkins said he used Russell Childress, a childhood friend's name, to try and secretly write to his mom about where he was stationed on the Russell Islands.

"I told her I was sorry to hear about Russell and his leg," Hopkins said. "And in her next letter she wrote me saying there was nothing wrong with Russell's leg."

Hopkins said he then tried to write to his mom in code a second time before he finally had to give up on the idea.

"In my next letter I told her I was sorry to hear about Russell breaking his arm." Hopkins said. "She then wrote back saying I don't know where you are getting your information from but Russell is doing fine."

Hopkins said his mom never figured out where he was during the time he served until he came home after the war.

The primary reason why members of STAG-1 had to be confidential was because of the work they were doing on the design and assembly of the first unmanned missile airplane, the TDR-1 Assault Drone.

The TDR-1 was an unmanned remote control air plane that was equipped with a camera in the nose of the plane which allowed pilots to aim the weapon directly at the target. The TDR-1 was armed with a 2000 pound bomb and was driven by a control plane that could follow the plane from eight miles away.

A controller from the ground would take the TDR-1 off from the runway and once it was in the air it was then controlled by the control plane following behind it. The control plane included a crew of four pilots who controlled the flight of the TDR-1 by transmitting radio signals and using radar to guide it to the area of the target.

Hopkins said his job was to maintain the TDR-1 Drones and control planes and make sure they were ready to fly.

46 TDR-1 Drones were used in the South Pacific during WWII from August 1943 to October 1944. However, only 22 of them would successfully hit their targets due to frequency problems and the Japanese shooting them down.

Despite the success of the TDR-1 Drones, the STAG-1 unit was deactivated in October of 1944 and all development on TDR-1 Drones was terminated. Hopkins said the real reason why they were deactivated was because they lost control of one of the TDR-1 Drones and it hit an American building in the South Pacific.

Although no one was killed in the explosion of the building, the Defense Department didn't want to take any chances of another accident happening since it making national headlines in the news back home.

"Once something like that happens, they don't want it to get out," Hopkins said. "We were told that this is something of the future, but we can win this war without you."

After the war, Hopkins returned home where he would work for Southern Bell and BellSouth for 42 more years before retiring.

Hopkins retired as the Insulation and Maintenance Supervisor for the regional BellSouth branch in Danville. Hopkins said he moved back to Mt. Vernon after he retired because he wanted to live where he was born and grew up.

Hopkins has attended almost every reunion since the first STAG-1 reunion in 1981. He said only 19 were still living when he went to his last reunion in November 2008.

Hopkins said the reason why the history of STAG-1 is not taught in schools is because of the secrecy and quick deactivation of the unit during WWII. However, Hopkins and his STAG-1 comrades still credit themselves with the creation of the first remote guided missile.

"We all feel like we are the true grandfathers of the missile program, regardless of what the history books say," Hopkins said.

Mamaw's Kitchen

By Regina Poynter Hoskins

GERMAN CHOCOLATE FROSTING
 1 cup evaporated milk
 3 egg yolks • 1 cup sugar
 1/4 pound butter or margarine
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 cup chopped pecans
 1 and 1/3 cup Baker's® coconut, shredded
 Combine milk, sugar, egg yolks, and butter. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened, about 12 minutes. Remove from heat. Add vanilla, coconut and pecans. Beat until thick enough to spread. Frost cooled cake.

1 teaspoon vanilla
 Prepare cake mix according to package directions and bake in two round cake pans. Let cool. Combine sugar, water, a spoon cream of tartar and salt in saucepan. Bring to boil, stirring until sugar dissolves; making a sugar syrup. Very slowly add syrup to 2 unbeaten egg whites in mixing bowl, beating constantly with electric mixer until stiff peaks form, about 7 minutes. Beat in 1 teaspoon vanilla. This is enough to frost tops and sides of two (8 or 9 inch) layers.

MINUTE PENCUCHE FROSTING
 1 cup brown sugar
 1/4 cup milk • 1/4 shortening
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Mix all ingredients in small saucepan. Over low heat, slowly bring to a full boil, stirring constantly. Boil one minute. Add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and beat until thick enough to spread.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE WITH BOILED FROSTING
 When Aunt Lillian died, the preacher's wife Laura asked me what my favorite cake was. This was the first one that popped into my head except I couldn't remember the name. I told her "the mean chocolate cake with the fluffy white frosting." Most of the church women didn't know what kind of frosting I was talking about, but Laura knew. She also knew I needed some comfort food and this cake was perfect.
 1 box devil's food cake mix
 1 cup sugar • 1/3 cup water
 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
 Dash of salt • 2 egg whites

Card of Thanks

Robert Phelps
 The family of Robert R.E. Phelps would like to thank everyone for their kind thoughts and prayer during the loss of our Dad.
 We want to thank everyone for their condolences, support, flowers, those who brought food, sent cards, called, visited. The Rockcastle Health and Rehab, Rockcastle Hospital, Dr. Tony Arvin, James and Peachie Boone for taking Dad to Church all those years and their continued friendship, Bro. Marcus Reppert for the wonderful words he spoke at the funeral, Bro. Brodhead Christian Church for the meal prepared after the services - those ladies worked so hard, Marvin and Judy Owens at the funeral home - they were so kind and Dad's special housekeeper, Phyllis, who was so kind to him. Thank you so much everyone.

Old Fashion Tradin' Days, sponsored by Save A Lot, kicked off last Friday morning with a special ribbon cutting ceremony to honor service men and women and first responders. Local responders participated as Rockcastle County Judge-Executive Buzz Carloftis and Mt. Vernon Mayor Mike Bryant did the honors.

Ceremony

Alliance.

Central Baptist Church Pastor Mark Eaton led the crowd in a very emotional opening prayer that gave thanks to the men of Rockcastle County who spilled their blood for our civil liberty and God's Son who spilled his blood for our spiritual liberty.

Mt. Vernon Mayor Mike Bryant was the keynote speaker and delivered a heartfelt speech that praised our county's fallen soldiers for their courage and sacrifice as they paid the ultimate price for our freedom.

The names of Fallen Rockcastle soldiers and sailors were read by American Legion Post 71 members Bobby Kendrick (WWI), Rick & Kathy Bobo (WWII), Russell Coleman (Korean War) and Coy French (Vietnam War).

The Daughters of the American Revolution honored those who lost their lives in the cause of freedom by laying a Memorial Wreath. The DAR Wreath Team was composed of Betty Lindblom, Norma Mullins, Laura Durham, Debra Brown and Iris Young.

This was followed by Becky McNew who led the audience in the singing of America the Beautiful. Jack Lewis, in full ceremonial dress, piped Amazing Grace on the bag pipes followed by bugler David Harris who blew the mournful notes of Taps.

The ceremony was concluded with a closing prayer led by Brother Bruce Ross who remembered the blood that was shed for America's Freedom and the one who shed His blood for our eternal freedom.

Mt. Vernon Lions Club also provided cold water for the audience during the ceremony.

The following is a list of Rockcastle County Veterans who were killed in battle.

Court

$782,062 for transfers to the road fund ($184,677); $525,091 to the jail fund; $38,244 to LGEA; $185 to Forestry and $33,865 to the fairgrounds fund.

The road fund shows expected expenses of $1,616,492 and expenditures of $1,370,281 in the jail fund.

The LGEA fund, with expected revenues of $133,600, is funded by coal impact funds ($84,500) and mineral tax ($48,500). This year's projected revenue is less than half of last year's total of $281,000. The state also mandates that $84,500 of the $133,600 be used for road materials. The fund also covers expenses of the coroner's office, $38,000 to fire departments for gas, parts and insurance and program support for the development board and CVADD. In order to meet all the expenses of the account, $38,244 will have to be transferred in from the general fund.

Carloftis noted that the fire departments will not be receiving coal severance funds this year since the state has reallocated the funds to include $4 million for scholarships to students from 9 eastern Kentucky counties which does not include Rockcastle. For the past two years, each department has received $6,500.

The fire departments will also be seeing an adjustment in the supplement of 90% of their utility bills each department receives from the general fund. Carloftis said the supplement would probably be adjusted to a set amount before the second reading of the budget. Some departments reportedly have high speed internet which the court feels is not a necessity for the departments' operations.

In last year's budget, $26,000 was appropriated from the general fund for the 90% utility payments besides the $38,000 allocated from the LGEA fund. The court also recently paid off the balance owed on the Pongo Fire Department building and has agreed to finance new buildings for the Livingston department and the new department in the Climax area.

Steve Taylor, chairman of the Rockcastle County Industrial Authority and members of the committee were before the court for the first reading of their 2012-13 budget.

Their budget shows expected revenue of $883,965, made up of $418,140 still due from a Department of Transportation grant, $159,992 from the occupational tax, $304,750 SourceCorp rent and $1,083 from interest earned, plus $321,231 of carryover from the 2011-12 fiscal year for a total budget of $1,205,196.

Expenses show $97,902 for personnel, $55,900 for operations, $747,454 for administration and reserve and $304,750 for debt service on the SourceCorp building.

The $747,454 appropriation includes transfer of the $418,140 DOT grant to the fiscal court and $322,314 for reserve.

During the meeting, the court asked that the $35,000 RCIDA received for the lot in the industrial park, purchased by Welltrans be transferred to the court so that it could be applied to the $2.5 million KACo loan used to develop the industrial park. The county currently pays over $11,000 a month principal and interest on the loan and has also applied over $700,000 against the principal in proceeds received from a grant to the RCIDA and an additional $100,000 from occupational tax proceeds.

Taylor, and Corey Craig, RCIDA member, also gave the court an update on the repairs and renovations going on at the former Plasticware building. Craig said that work on the roof was expected to be completed within 3-4 weeks and that work inside the building was keeping pace and should be completed within the same time frame.

Craig also said that over 500 applications for employment with Anchor Packaging had been submitted through the Adult Education Center.

The court voted to extend the contract of Mark Hopkins, project manager, for up to 30 more days at a cost of $12,500.

SourceCorp was also discussed at the meeting and Craig acknowledged that only a very few jobs remain at the facility mainly because of the lack of a federal budget which has kept NOAA (National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration) from being funded. Record-keeping for NOAA was the main source of jobs at the facility.

Craig reiterated to the court that the seven-year lease with SourceCorp will have to be honored by the corporation even if the facility is shut down completely.

Arrested

of Richmond and Chastity Lynn Henderson, 33, of Berea.

According to Deputy Sheriff Matt Bryant, officers received an anonymous tip about recent drug trafficking activity on Buffalo Hollow Road and had stopped the vehicle after officers noticed it had Scott County tags and it did not appear to be local.

Upon receiving consent to search the vehicle, officers found a Marlboro cigarette pack containing 38 hydrocodone tablets between the passenger seat and console.

Sanchez and Henderson were charged with trafficking in a controlled substance, 2nd degree and were both later released on a $5,000 surety bond.

Visitors toured the "Echo Auditorium" inside the Great Saltpetre Cave during the Rockcastle Karst Conservancy Open House recently. The auditorium was named by Renfro Valley founder John Lair after he purchased the cave in 1940 in hopes of turning it into a major Kentucky tourist attraction. The cave scenes for the 1997 movie "Fire Down Below" starring Steven Segal, were also filmed inside the auditorium.

Replicas from Saltpetre Cave's mining days can still be seen today throughout the cave. The cave was mainly mined for commercial use during the War of 1812 and would only be mined for personal use after the war. Saltpetre was extracted in large amounts during the war due to the shortage of gunpowder for American troops.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet!

Some things to think about...
What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?
Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains.
B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.
The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufactures recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.
Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.
D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-
Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.
E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet.
Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.
