Court will ask for bids for new LVFD building

By: Perlina Anderkin

At Tuesday's regular meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court, the advertisement for bids for a new Livingston Fire Department was approved.

County Judge/Executive Buzz Carloftis said he hoped that local builders would bid on the project. The bid will be for labor only since the court will supply the materials.

The court has also agreed to build a new structure for the Climax Fire Department but the official survey of the property has to be in hand before those bids can be advertised for.

There was a bill on this month's agenda for the survey work on the property in the amount of $787.50.

During the meeting, County Attorney Billy Reynolds asked the court if they wanted to join a class-action lawsuit against Mercorp, Inc. and several others. The defendants are accused of acting as a private mortgage recording system, thereby assisting mortgage lenders in avoiding the need to record multiple mortgage assignments with county clerks when a mortgage is securitized.

According to Reynolds, this practice, which began in the 1990s, has cost Rockcastle County alone $126,360 in recording fees for 3,240 mortgages.

Reynolds said in his opinion this practice was illegal.

Brodhead Council discusses new city park

By: Doug Ponder

The status of a new city park was the main topic at the monthly Brodhead City Council meeting Monday night.

Councilman Ronnie Cash asked the council where they stood on the timeline of completing the new park, which will be located on Hwy 2250 in Brodhead across from Citizens Bank.

Brodhead Fire Chief Larry Taylor told the council that an extension had been given on the $40,000 matching land grant from Kentucky Land and Water Conservation. Originally the grant was supposed to be used by June 1, 2012 and now it's been extended to June 1, 2013.

"I got the extension for another year but told them it should be used way before that," Taylor said.

Brodhead Mayor Walter Cash said he is ready to see the property cleared off so they can start the building process.

"I would like to get the dead trees and underbrush cleaned off so we can see what land we've got to work with," Cash said.

Taylor said he had contacted Frankie Woodall about cutting the dead trees off the property and hauling them off. Taylor said Woodall is interested in cutting the trees up into wood chips for his own personal use.

Taylor said the problem the city will have is determining which trees are dead but he said a decision will have to be made by the

CAP President and CEO

Guy Adams said the closings are a result of the new strategic planning effort for CAP. Adams said they assessed all of their programs and determined to refocus CAP's efforts on the basic human needs of food, shelter and clothing.

Disappointed in Fiscal Court's lack of involvement...

Dear Editor,
This year marks the sixth year my children have participated in the Little League Baseball Program in our county. I truly appreciate all those involved to make this program available for our youth. However, I have to say that I'm disappointed in the fiscal court for their lack of involvement. Personally, I've never seen not even one member of the fiscal court at the ball fields in Brodhead. How can they represent their constituents without being informed of what is needed for our youth? We need to invest in our roads, but what about the most valuable resource our county has...our youth. During the past two years, my family and I have traveled throughout the area playing at different baseball facilities. I don't have to tell you that our fields are an embarrassment compared to other communities. Some say, "Other communities have corporate citizens that help fund these facilities and Rockcastle doesn't". Well I say, "Jackson County and Estill County have less corporate citizens than we do and their facilities are better than ours". One thing that frustrates me is, I've had gentlemen in their 40's tell me the Brodhead fields look the same as they did when they were young and playing Little League. This is such a tragedy! Why haven't progressive fiscal court members and community members attempted to make things better for our little league baseball facility? Could nobody write grant applications to obtain financial support? Could fundraisers not have been conducted? I realize that my two boys will never play on a new baseball field in our county, but hopefully my future grandchildren will. Please understand, I appreciate all those who volunteer their time to make the best of what we have available. However, somebody needs to "take the bull by the horns" and begin the process to make our little league baseball facilities up to standard. Has no one not realized the economic impact of hosting tournaments. Hotel rooms rented, Renfro Valley Shows attended, meals, gas and groceries purchased. Take it from a parent who travels nearly every weekend for his son to play baseball, money is spent. Finally, I must confess that my knowledge of our league's governance is very limited. For the most part, I don't even know who the board members are. I don't know how the board is selected or what if any, support the fiscal court provides. I do know something needs to be done to change the status quo. I recently said to my wife, "what does it matter, our boys only have three more years in little league baseball anyway". This is exactly the problem, to many parents feel this way and nothing ever gets changed. Thanks for allowing me to vent.

Best Regards,
Jim Bowman

An encouraging word:

An Appropriate Depiction of Life

By Howard Coop

Television commercials, as a general rule, are not very interesting. To me, some of them are downright boring and pointless. While some of them may be humorous and catch one's attention, there are times when one wants to, and sometime does, hit the mute button until they are finished. However, I saw one commercial recently that was different. It caught, and held, my attention, for it had a powerful message about real life, one so powerful that it caused me to failed to take note of the product or service that it was promoting.

In that commercial, a young man, casually dressed and apparently happy, was walking down a hallway toward a closed door. When he arrived at the door, he placed his hand on the doorknob, opened it and walked through it. When he came out on the opposite side of that door, he was wearing a tuxedo. With a radiant smile on his face, he looked down a hallway toward a lovely young lady dressed in a beautiful bridal gown. They met at the altar of the church, and after the ceremony, they walked arm in arm down the aisle toward another door. They were the epitome of happiness. As they approached the door, it opened, and they went through it. When they came out on the other side, they were casually dressed, and it was obvious that time had passed. Streaks of gray were visible in their hair, and the lady was in a wheelchair. The man was pushing it down the hallway toward another door.

That, I thought, is an appropriate depiction of everyday life as we know it. Many mysteries are awaiting us, and uncertainty is a reality. Facing one door after another, we do not know for sure what's on the other side, but regardless of that uncertainty, we open that door and proceed through it. Along the way, we enjoy pleasant experiences and strive to overcome difficulties.

During the month of March, I spent a considerable amount of time in Lawrenceburg, a small, peaceful community nestled between Lexington and Frankfort. My mother, my sister and her family have lived there for more than twenty years.

While there I took time to catch up on local happenings in the Anderson County News, a weekly newspaper. The headlines were frightening: "Murder Suspect Charged in the Death of His Wife." "Timothy Branson allegedly shot his wife, Modena Branson, 50, during a domestic dispute, according to police reports. She was pronounced dead at the scene. He has also allegedly pointed a loaded gun at his wife's daughter and grandson." Branson's photograph was on page one of the paper. "With what appeared to be a self-inflicted bullet hole just above his left temple and wearing a hospital gown and handcuffs, the man indicted for shooting his wife to death was charged with murder last Thursday night."

One would think that this sad incident would be a once in a lifetime occurrence for a small town like Lawrenceburg. Unfortunately, it was not, as the following week's paper carried the headline: "Man Charged with Pistol-whipping Girlfriend." The victim did not die but the perpetrator, Benjamin Mobley, was charged with attempted murder. Here is the (almost) unbelievable part: Mobley's daughter Rene was murdered in Anderson County in September, 2010 by her intimate partner. Rene's killer is now serving time in the Kentucky State Penitentiary. Will her father soon be joining him there?

While most abusers do not kill their victims, there are too many who do. Last year thirty-six women in Kentucky were killed by their husbands or boy-friends. For the past several years that number has ranged from 20-35.

The most dangerous time for a victim is when she decides to leave the relationship. Abuse is all about power and control, and when the abuser is fearful of losing control, he may take desperate action. A victim is wise to make plans quietly for her escape rather than announcing it to the abuser.

The fear of being killed or seriously injured if she leaves is one reason that some victims stay with their abusers. He may have threatened her, "If you leave me, I will kill you," or he may have alluded to his intent rather than explicitly announcing it. If she has seen him be violent before (and she probably has), she knows what he is capable of doing and believes that he will carry out his threat.

With such threats and other control measures, the abuser makes it very difficult for his partner to leave. He may have taken her cellphone, disabled her car, scared off all her friends, or brainwashed her into believing she is the one at fault: "If you didn't say things like that, I wouldn't hit you." Brainwashed and afraid, she may find it very difficult to leave him.

Friends and family can help by letting her know that she is not alone. They can refer her to Family Life Abuse Center or one of fourteen other domestic violence shelters in the state. These shelters provide a safe place for the woman and her children to live and provide support for her as she plans for a life without abuse. All shelter services are free. Call FLAC at 800-755-5348. We can help.

Gear Up Essay Contest

Sarah Woodall and Bailey Lake were the first and second place, respectively, winners of the Gear Up Senior Essay Contest. Reprinted below are those winning essays.

By: Sarah Woodall
It is hard for me to fathom the changes that will take place in my life beginning in August. Starting college is something I am looking forward to beyond measure, yet it's strange to think that time has passed me by so quickly. I know this sounds ridiculously cliché, but I promise I do in fact have a point. I've moved from an awkward kindergarten, crying over the prospect of sitting by a fifth grader, to student council president of my senior class. I would be telling a blatant lie if I led you to believe that I found that confidence on my own. In reality, it has been the result of years and years of encouragement, amazing opportunities and people that I've met through various programs, one of those being Gear Up.

I would still be wallowing in my own pit of indecision concerning college, if not for the many campus visits I've had the privilege to attend during my middle and high school years. Not only did I begin the task of deciding on my future school but, along the way, I was able to have worlds of fun with my peers. As a girl who has a strong interest in everything, I deem it a blessing to have attended the various trips because I feel they showed me what the world has to offer outside my small community. I've visited the replica of the Parthenon in Nashville, hiked Natural Bridge with some of my best friends, solved an interactive murder mystery and learned the secrets to surviving college. If Gear Up has taught me one thing, it's how to seek out possibilities in life. Not many people can say they've watched We Are Marshall on the ceiling of a planetarium, but I am one of those lucky few.

I've always strived to be a good student and I knew that college was extremely important. I'm lucky enough to have parents who value education and they told me all the merits of furthering my learning, from the time I was a young whippersnapper. Once I had moved on from my dream of being a professional stunt double, I realized they were right. Though my parents work extremely hard, we don't have obnoxious amounts of money lying around, so scholarships were a must. I'm embarrassingly unathletic, so naturally I turned to something I'm actually decent at, which in this case was academics. The Gear Up Program has placed significance on maintaining academic progress and they've encouraged me to work through hard classes because I wanted to earn my place in any Gear Up activities. Finally, the program has sponsored numerous events that I have attended, which has lifted any financial burden from my parents, and this I am very thankful for.

This coming fall, I will be attending Morehead State University as an Honors Student. My classes will be more rigorous and time consuming than those of the average student but I look forward to this challenge. Upon meeting some of my fellow Honors Program peers, I know that I will be in the right place. Self-identified nerds who enjoy reading, classic films and learning about the world are my kind of people. At this point, I'm unofficially undecided on what I will be pursuing during my time at Morehead but I've considered library science. (Wait. What? Did I really come close to making a decision about my future career? Praise the powers that be!) However, when I really think about it, I've always had a fiendish love for books, beginning at age two and intensifying steadily from there. This, along with the fact that I've spent my entire senior year working in both an elementary and high school library, may be a sign that my obsession with reading may actually lead me to my future career. Being surrounded by books and working with people sounds like a dream come true to me.

Though my love of reading is a good thing, and may be the basis of my future career, it is presenting a potential spatial problem in the amount of square footage in the "standard issue" dorm room. Now I must decide which treasured books will triumphantly earn a coveted spot in my dorm and which will remain behind at home. This snafu could be solved however with the aid of cutting edge technology. And by "cutting edge technology," I mean a Kindle. What would normally take up half my dorm room could be compressed into a slim, sleek instrument that can hold hundreds of books. Not only could I use a Kindle to read for my leisure but I could use it to download textbooks and other educational resources. I'm sure my roommates would appreciate the extra space a Kindle would provide, i.e., they wouldn't have to climb over my many stacks of books. Not to mention the money I would save in chiropractic bills that could be incurred if I were required to carry weighty backpack across campus each day.

Once again, I would like to acknowledge all the positive experiences the Gear Up program has provided me. The program and advisors have helped me prepare for post secondary education and I appreciate the opportunity to compete for technology which, if awarded to me, would provide me with educational, as well as recreational benefits.

By: Bailey Lake
Gear Up has been a major factor in my college search and education for the last six year of my life. Through Gear Up's programs and grants, my family and I attended a week end seminar, I went on countless field trips and I formed an extremely helpful knowledge base that has been invaluable in my college search. I am so thankful for the advantages and opportunities provided me by this great program. Gear Up has greatly assisted my college search. It has opened my eyes to the many career opportunities and options I have for my future and an upgrade in technology would be invaluable as I pursue my educational goals.

I always knew that I wanted to attend college but frankly had no idea how to begin. I was, in a word, clueless. The numerous college visits I experienced gave me a clear picture of what college could offer me. I learned what I valued most in a college campus. I learned that I wanted to attend a smaller school and get a liberal arts education and I knew, as I made my decision that Gear Up would be there with me every step of the way. I even gained the opportunity to attend a week end retreat with my family that provided my parents with an incredible amount of helpful information. So much information, in fact, that they were rather dazed and spoke very quietly as we returned to our car and headed home. Gear Up didn't allow us to fall by the wayside, however. I would truly have been lost and drowning my entire senior year had I not had such a solid foundation of knowledge given to me and my family by these seminars and other college fairs and educational events I attended. My Gear Up advisor, Nancy Hale, has also been an amazing resource in my college search. Sometimes I wonder if there is any subject that woman knows nothing about. I also know that she will do anything to help any of her students succeed. In addition, Carol Davey, my college coach, has been an invaluable help to me this year, giving me accurate and honest advice when I needed it to providing a laugh when I was stressed or even telling me to take a break and relax with my family for an evening rather than worrying about college all night. Carol was constantly there for me this year. These two fabulous individuals are just one example of how Gear Up threw me a life preserver in this sea of uncertainty and scholarship applications.

At present, I am undecided as to the specifics of and the county would stand a good chance of recouping the $126,360, less attorney fees.

Judge Carloftis made the motion to join the other 14 counties in the suit, Magistrate Billy McKinney seconded the motion and it was passed unanimously.

Carloftis gave the court an update on the clean-up in progress at Anchor Packaging. The Judge/Executive said that Mark Hopkins, who is overseeing the project, has said that he expects the clean-up to be completed within 10 days. However, Carloftis said he thought it might be the end of the month.

He also pointed out that the 30 inmates, who have been working at the facility for over two months, have saved the county over $140,000 in labor costs and they have “done a tremendous job.” Work-release inmates are paid 63c a day by the state plus the county has furnished them with two meals a day.

The new roof for the building is 70% complete, Carloftis said.

The court held off on approving a Resolution/Agreement with the State Highway Department for resurfacing of two miles of the Lambert Road. Bids will be taken for the project and financing will come from funds set aside by the state’s Department of Rural and Municipal Aid. Construction, removal/replacement of water and utility lines, etc. have all been paid from county funds.

The project does not have to be bid. $231,094 has been approved for the project. Carloftis said the last time these funds were used by the county was in 2008 and approximately $500,000 has built up in the fund. Projects have to be submitted to and approved by the state.

The court held off on approval of the Resolution/Agreement because of the absence of Magistrate Gary Burdette who represents the district encompassing Lambert Road.

The court also approved advertising for bids for the replacement of the Cass Road Bridge over Little Negro Creek. The bridge is one of the last two wooden bridges in the county and replacement costs will be an 80/20 split with the state with the county paying the 20%. The bridge is located directly across from EST Tool.

In their final item of business, the court had to transfer $175,000 from the occupational tax fund to the general fund. From there, $30,000 will be transferred to the jail and $60,000 to the road fund with the remaining amount left in the general fund.

Adams came home from fishing to find the front door of his trailer kicked in but found nothing missing from his home.

Barron was arrested and charged with burglary, second degree and remains lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center on a $5,000 cash/property bond.

Two people were arrested Monday night for burglary after breaking the home of Brandon Cameron on 690 Richmond Street in Mt. Vernon.

Those arrested were Jacob Logan Bustle, 20, of Mt. Vernon and Michael Lee Price, 34, of Brodhead.

According to Mt. Vernon Police records, Cameron came home from work Monday to find the front door of his residence prised open and various items missing from his home, including a 42” LG flat screen TV, 30/30 caliber rifle, 9 mm handgun, .410 gauge shotgun, 12 gauge pump shotgun and a .22 caliber rifle.

Cameron told officers he believed Bustle broke into his home and Bustle was also suspected of being involved in a burglary earlier Monday morning at a residence on Chestnut Ridge Road in Mt. Vernon.

Mt. Vernon Police made a traffic stop on Sand Springs Road in Mt. Vernon after observing a Blue 2002 Buick occupied by both Bustle and Price.

Upon receiving consent to search the vehicle, officers found a screw driver in the middle console with white paint on the tip. The screw driver also appeared to match the prize marks on Cameron’s front door.

After further questioning, Price told officers that he dropped off Bustle at Cameron’s residence while he waited inside the vehicle at the intersection of Sally J Road and Richmond Street.

Once Bustle broke into the residence, Price told officers they loaded the TV and guns into the vehicle and took them to Bustle’s residence at 310 Paul Street.

Upon searching Bustle’s residence, officers found three guns hidden in a honeysuckle thicket behind Bustle’s home. Officers also found the two other guns under a mattress in Bustle’s bedroom. The TV still has not been located.

Both men were charged with burglary, first degree and theft by unlawful taking of firearms. Bustle was also separately charged with possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Both men remain lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center on a $30,000 cash/property bond.

Department, officers found Barnett asleep in the back bedroom of the residence. Once officers aroused Barnett, he attempted to hide a bottle containing thirteen diazepam tablets, one and a half Xanax tablets and two morphine tablets.

Officers also found three insulin syringes on Barnett at the time of his arrest.

Barnett was charged with two counts of possession of a controlled substance, drug paraphernalia and criminal trespassing.

Barnett was lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center and later released on a $5,000 10% bond.

council soon.

“You can’t tell if they’re worth a dime or not but the trees are going to have to go and a decision will have to be made eventually,” Taylor said.

The council agreed to contact Woodall and meet with him on the property to pick out which trees they want him to remove.

Taylor also told the council that the benefit of their grant is they can use the city backhoe and city employees to clean the underbrush off the property once the trees are removed and write the costs down as in-kind funds on their share of the grant. The council agreed to the idea.

Mayor Cash said he would like to have one shelter building and one restroom built on the property.

Councilman Cash brought up the concern of vandalism at the new park if they were to build the two buildings and wanted to know who was going to take care of the restrooms and keep them clean.

Taylor said those concerns are something the council needs to think about as they get closer to completion of the park. He said the City of Mt. Vernon used their police to monitor their parks 24/7.

Mayor Cash said that since they don’t have a city cop and that they will have to work out a schedule for the park to try to prevent vandalism from happening.

“They don’t have to be open 24/7,” Mayor Cash said. “You can lock them down at night when no one is around.”

Councilman Cash said that not having a city cop on duty could possibly lead to vandalism. He also reminded everyone of the vandalism that occurred at the park they built on the corner of Albright and Tyree Street in Brodhead.

“We had nine picnic tables when it was first built and they eventually tore every one of them down,” he said. “I would hate to see a similar thing happen at this park as well.”

The council agreed to look into possible ways to monitor the new park to prevent vandalism from happening and agreed to present the new ideas to everyone at their next council meeting.

The new park is set to be completed by June 2013.

If the customer wishes to receive the "In God We Trust Plate", they should bring their current plate to the County Clerk’s office at time of renewal.

If a customer wishes to change plates prior to their renewal deadline they may bring their current plate and trade it for the new plate for a $6.00 charge.

"In God We Trust" plates may also be personalized. The $25.00 personalization charge will apply.

plicating services provided by other groups.

The CEO said they decided to close Rainbow Respite because the number of clients had been declining the past few years. However, he said the program will be replaced with an in-home respite program.

“It will be replaced with an in-home program where workers go into homes of people with disabilities and provide respite care for them and their family,” Adams said.

Adams said CAP decided to close Healing Rain because it duplicates services provided by other drug rehabilitation centers near Rockcastle County.

“When Healing Rain was opened six years ago, women needing recovery services in this area were not being served,” he said. “Today there are other alternatives and much larger programs in the area that better fit their needs.”

Only 19 employees will be affected by the closings. Adams said fifteen employees have chosen to participate in a voluntary severance program and that four new positions will be created in Mt. Vernon as a result of their strategic planning program.

Adams said he is looking for a smooth transition as they reshift CAP’s mission of meeting people’s basic needs by using a self-help approach.

Michael Loiacono, Assistant Director of Human Services for the Cumberland Valley Region, said he is pleased to see their facilities help a higher percentage of people who are in need.

“We will be losing some good programs, but we will also be opening up new facilities that will help a larger amount of people meet their basic needs,” Loiacono said.

Card of Thanks

Sinnie Lois Noe

In the fight for our dear Lois' life, we are heartbroken, exhausted, and desolate. There were so many prayers going up for her and she was such a fighter, we had high hopes she would make it.

Now that she is with the Lord, and loved ones gone on, we are left here with the emptiness she left behind.

We have so many to thank, Bro. Eddie Mation who came to pray with her often, at Mt. Vernon and in Lexington, Bro. Buford and Sis. Nancy Parkerson, and Pastor Mark Harrell, Bro. Harry Harmon, nurses at Mt. Vernon, and her many friends and their churches, she always thought so much of you. Also for the kind words from Pastor Eddie Nation and Pastor Mark Sarver. For the beautiful flowers and gifts, and everyone who came long distances, we thank you. Special thanks to all the pallbearers and our friends at Cox Funeral Home, the delicious dinner provided by the First Baptist Church, that was served with love and compassion, and Freedom Church for opening their doors to us.

With Love and Gratitude from the Heart,
James, Jamie, Perry, Cindy Lou, Heather, Cody Drake, Conner, Doris, Ruth, Mary and Leroy, nieces, nephews, cousins and her many friends

Special thanks to Glenda and employees of Snack Shack

When Lois first became ill and couldn't eat, the only thing that made her feel better was Glenda's special soup. Mary went down from the hospital, even though it was summer and shortly had a pan, especially made for her, at no charge, and that wasn't the only time. Glenda has walked in our shoes and we love her and thank her for her compassion and sympathy for us.

Yards to Paradise

*By Max Phelps
Springtime: Planting Time*

Spring is planting time. This is almost universally the case worldwide. Certainly in cold or moderate climates you want to plant annuals and tender plantings in the spring when freeze damage threats are past. But even in Louisiana for example more azaleas are planted in springtime than at any other (for such a warm place, November to February would be better). Tradition is a powerful thing, and generally spring is indeed a good time to plant.

Why spring planting? Well, for perennials (especially woody perennials — which is to say trees and shrubs) planting time can be almost any time of the year for containerized and b&b planting material. But for bare-root plants, and for most all annual vegetable and flower plants, spring is the right time to plant.

The growing of crops by a farmer is an annual thing, usually. Gardeners follow a similar calendar. Plant in spring, harvest in warm season, save seeds for the following year. (Well, seed saving is what grandma did, but today we typically think of a trip to the garden center or hardware store for some tomato or marigold plants.)

From petunias to marigolds to coleus to zinnias, spring is planting time. Literally, you can plant these seeds and get growth to maturity with summer and fall blooming and fall harvest. Most gardeners choose to buy greenhouse-grown plants, thereby getting a quick start on the growing season once threat of frost is past. Certainly that shortens the time between transplanting and harvest.

When children were raised on a farm, having to do garden and other chores, these things were known by almost all. Sadly, today so many think flowers come from a garden center or a florist, and food from the grocery or a restaurant.

Perennials, which come back to life each spring after a dormant period, can be planted any time the ground is not frozen. Still, spring is the favorite planting time. This is by habit or choice, not of necessity. Fall is as good a time as spring for tree planting (transplanting, actually) wherever the ground does not freeze deeper than just on the surface.

This year spring plantings have been happening at a fast pace. Gardens have been growing in backyards ever since the recession kicked in, but this year it seems tree and shrub plantings are also on the rise again.

Just as the mule or ox is no longer used, often the tiller and the sack of 10-10-10 is no longer used either.

Plantings in flower beds with potting mixes, plantings in raised beds, plantings in large containers are some modern gardening practices. So are the weed kill/no till methods of gardening.

Be it tomatoes or squash, nasturtiums or potatoes, apple or cherry trees, springtime is once again planting time.

For some more adventurous folks, grapes, hops, kiwi, melons or popcorn may be worth a try. Perhaps a nut tree or some peanuts.

I might also suggest the Jerusalem artichoke, which has flowers like a sunflower and tubers in the ground like a potato. Kill two birds with one stone; have flowers and veggies on the same plant.

Spring is planting time, so what are you waiting for?

Your source of drinking water is surface water withdrawn from Lake Linville.
 A source water assessment has been performed to identify land use which may impact the water supply. The primary sources of contamination are agriculture, onsite septic systems, and roadways. Activities and land uses upstream of Mt Vernon Water Work's source of water can pose potential risks to your drinking water. Under certain circumstances contaminants could be released that would pose challenges to water treatment, or even get into your drinking water. These activities, and how they are conducted, are of interest to the entire community because they potentially affect your health and cost of treating your water. Activities immediately upstream of your water supply intake are of special concern because they provide little response time to the water system operators. An analysis of the susceptibility of the Mt. Vernon water supply to contamination indicates that this susceptibility is generally moderate.

Below are the Management Recommendations for land and coverage: (1) Monitor to ensure compliance with Forestry Conservation Act; (2) Require BMP (Best Management Practices) implementation per the Forest Landowners Handbook. Agriculture: (1) Monitor annually to ensure compliance with Agriculture Water Quality Act (AWQA); (2) Encourage implementation of voluntary BMPs above the minimum required by the AWQA. BMP manuals for specific types of operations are available; (3) monitor annually to ensure implementation of Nutrient Management System (NMS); (4) Encourage development and implementation of Resource Management Plans (RMS) on agriculture operations per USDS-Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS) Specifications; and (5) No storage or use of pesticides. Highways maintenance and runoff/Railways: (1) require the adoption and application of highways maintenance and runoff BMP; (2) Limit highway construction or avoid waterways. Modify designs to limit runoff, especially drain-spouts on bridges to minimize salt deicing runoff to waterways; and

(3) encourage posting of signs indicating presence of source water protection area on major roads.
 Onsite/Decentralized/Septic Systems, Straight Pipes: (1) Eliminate and prevent new straight pipes and failing septic systems; (2) Prepare and implement Groundwater Protection plan; conduct monitoring activities to assess effectiveness; (3) connect proper maintenance of system; (5) Replace failing onsite systems (6) reduce generation of wastewater; (7) conduct education and training for local officials and general public regarding onsite wastewater issues; (8) Adopt region planning and management wastewater.
 This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities). In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health. Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:
Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.
Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.
Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/L). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.
Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.
Picouries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.
Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.
Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.
Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.
Variations & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.
Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.
Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Information About Lead: If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Your local public water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

This report will not be mailed out, unless requested, or you can get a copy at City Hall.

POTATO AND HAM QUICHE

- 1/4 cup butter, melted
- 3 cups frozen shredded hash browns, thawed
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup half and half or whole milk
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese,
- 1 cup cooked city or country ham, chopped
- Salt and pepper

Preheat oven to 425°. Place butter in pie plate in the oven as it heats. When butter has melted, remove from oven. Press hash browns between paper towels to remove excess moisture. Pour melted butter over hash browns and mix. Press into bottom and up the sides buttered pie plate. Bake uncovered at 425° for 20 to 25 minutes or until edges are browned.

Beat the eggs with the half and half or whole milk. Stir in the cheeses and ham. Season to your liking. Pour over potatoes. Reduce heat to 350° and bake for 20 to 25 minutes longer. When knife inserted near the middle comes out clean, it is done. Let sit 10 to 15 minutes before slicing.

GRITS CASSEROLE

Before the days of home air conditioning, Will was standing in the door of his Aunt Margaret's kitchen, with the screen door open. "Get in or out one," she told him. "Look—you already let one of my flies out!" Margaret was a super cook. She gave me this recipe for grits casserole in 1982 after I told her I didn't like grits. She told me I hadn't had them fixed the correct way. She was right.
 2 cups water
 1/2 cups grits (uncooked)
 1/4 cup butter
 1 tablespoon garlic powder
 2 cups shredded American cheese
 3 eggs
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Preheat oven to 350°. Boil water; add grits. Cook until thick. Blend in butter, garlic powder and cheese. Separate eggs. Break up yellows with fork. Add a small amount of hot grit mixture to the yellows. Blend well. Add to rest of grits mixture. Stir until completely mixed. Beat whites and salt until peaks form. Gently fold into grits mixture. Pour into greased casserole. Bake for 1 hour. Serve immediately.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

	Allowable Levels	Highest Single Measurement	Lowest Monthly %	Violation	Likely Source

Mt. Vernon Water had one Notice of Violations (NOV). The NOV occurred when Mt Vernon Water failed to submit the Alkalinity sample date to the Division of Water (DOW) in June 2011. Alkalinity is needed to calculate the treatment technique for total organic carbon (TOC) removal. TOC does not put the public in any danger. If there was a danger, Mt Vernon Water would have notified the public when the violation occurred. This was an oversight, Mt Vernon has made adjustments sending reports into DOW, so this matter will not happen again.

Secondary contaminants do not have a direct impact on the health of consumers and are not required in the Consumer Confidence Report. They are being included to provide addition information about the quality of the water.

my career. I plan to attend a small liberal arts college while I decide on the career for me. Gear Up has opened my eyes to the large number of professions available in today's society. Who knew that the occupation of broom crafting even existed! Yep, I learned that on a Gear Up field trip. During the summer after my freshman year, I attended the Gear Up sponsored science camp. We got to watch astounding shows in the Planetarium, stay at beautiful Jenny Wiley State Park and meet people with interesting and diverse occupations. This is just one perfect example of the wonderful experiences I have had thanks to Gear Up. I even have two impending trips made possible exclusively by this great program. Next week, I will be participating in the first of these two remaining trips. This three day session at Western Kentucky University will give seniors tips on how to survive the first year of college. Not only has Gear Up helped me thus far, but this program continues to take measures to be sure I will be successful even when I am on my own. I was also one of sixteen individuals selected to attend the prestigious science symposium in Washington, D.C. this spring. Trips like these have helped me become more goal-oriented, more focused and more confident of my abilities and of the fact that I can do anything I set my mind to. I know this adage sounds cliché but Gear Up has made me believe it. It has also made me believe that I will succeed if I ever need to battle a gladiator because I totally already did that when I "took the hard classes early" and passed Algebra II.

In our current society, it is imperative to have access to the latest technologies to remain competitive and prepared for education. Without cutting edge technology students will get behind. College requires students who wish to be successful to be constantly in the know. Use of current technology has many benefits. It can make textbooks more affordable, studying easier and class discussion more convenient. Online textbooks are much less expensive than regular textbooks. It is also much easier for students to carry around one lightweight device like a Kindle or e-reader rather than multiple textbooks. Electronic textbooks are also more environmentally friendly. Studying is much more convenient when students carry their textbooks everywhere they go. Students will carry their e-readers with them for simple entertainment purposes but will, as an added bonus, always have easy access to the texts they want to study. Class discussions can also be conducted quite simply via the internet. Blackboard and other school websites are becoming increasingly popular because students can access these websites to participate in class discussions from anywhere in the world. There are really countless advantages to having the latest technology in a college-setting.

Upgrades in technology greatly assist today's student in receiving their reeducation. Gear Up has made my college search infinitely less complicated than it could have been and has also demonstrated to me the various professions I can strive for. Gear Up has made my education much broader and more extensive than I ever could have imagined. I have many amazing experiences to reflect upon when I consider my school career and, most of those experiences, were made possible by Gear Up. This program made such a positive difference in my education and college search. I cannot imagine my education without it. In fact, I am so proud and impressed by the effectiveness of my experience, perhaps in a few years I will find the Gear Up program to hold the perfect occupation for me!

For the many children who could not otherwise afford the opportunity to attend a summer camp, located in the mountains of eastern Kentucky, Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) offers two summer camp programs; Camp Andrew Jackson and Camp Shawnee. Both camps provide life-changing Christian summer camp experiences for over 1,000 children.

Offered June through August, kids experience the feeling of being accepted and safe, in addition to making new friends while swimming, hiking in the beautiful mountains, praise and worship and field games. This is where memories are made that will last campers a lifetime.

CAP's primary purpose is to serve low-income children and give them a summer camp experience in the great outdoors. While the activities are fun for the children, they also provide the opportunity to learn important life skills such as leadership, safety, team building, self-esteem and respect for others.

Took a tour of the former Plasticware facility on Tuesday and came away totally impressed.

The place is huge and was in terrible shape when the clean-up began but with 67 days and counting on the effort, the results are astounding.

30 work-release prisoners have provided the elbow grease, under the capable leadership of Mark Hopkins, project manager, and they have done an excellent job.

Anchor is reportedly very pleased with the county's efforts, as they should be, and their acquisition is a big plus for the county.

While taking the tour, which at my age, or because of my age I thought would never end, I was struck with how productive and industrious the work-release prisoners are and how much talent is being wasted sitting in jail because of bad life choices.

If these people will work as hard as they do for 63c a day and two meals, why can't they see how much they could accomplish if they could get out in the "real world" and contribute to their own welfare and society as a whole?

I, personally, don't think the answer to a person's addiction is to sit in jail but, at the same time, you cannot let them be abroad among the general populace doing whatever they deem necessary to acquire what they need to feed their addiction.

I live alone, with my two dogs, and I would hate to have to hurt someone with my late husband's 16 gauge because someone with garbled thinking decides I am an easy mark for robbery. I also shouldn't have to worry for my safety on the highway because someone makes the bad choice to drive impaired. Of course, my children will tell you that I drive impaired and don't need any help from alcohol/drugs, but you must remember that these are children who all think they missed their calling for the Indy 500.

But, back to my original thoughts. The new roof and clean-up of the Anchor building is expensive but an excellent use of our occupational tax money. These funds must be used, primarily, to keep our county on a sound financial footing and to provide a future for our workforce.

We are not a Lexington, Richmond or even Berea with myriad positives for relocation here by industries. We don't have natural gas or top-of-the-line restaurants or many leisure activities for people. We do have beautiful country, friendly people, an excellent school system, great health facilities but we have to woe industries harder than most.

Bottom line is that the Fiscal Court and the Rockcastle County Industrial Authority are to be commended for their gargantuan efforts in getting Anchor and their continued efforts to lure other manufacturing facilities here.

Rockcastle is a wonderful place to live and raise a family but we just have to work a little harder than most to convince the right people of those facts.

30 work-release inmates have been busy for over two months cleaning and painting the former Plasticware facility in the industrial park in order to ready the building for occupation by Anchor Packaging. In addition to the inmate labor, which has saved the county approximately $140,000 in labor costs, the county has also rented a number of cleaning machines and equipment, such as the scissor-lift shown in the top photo. Over 1500 lbs. of cleaning rags have been used in the effort. Completion of the clean-up is expected in the next 10 days to two weeks, County Judge Buzz Carloftis said. Carloftis also commented, "I am very pleased with our inmates, and their supervisors. Their very hard work and dedication have turned the facility completely around."

Mt. Vernon native starts challenge in South Africa

Peace Corps volunteers Chris Ames of Chicago, Ill., and Genna Cummins of Mt. Vernon, have organized a math competition for students in six South African schools. Modeled after the American "Mathletes" competition, sixth grade students earn points for their school when they correctly solve problems in three different rounds of competition.

"One of the many reasons that math skills are so poor in rural South Africa is the amount of intimidation and anxiety it induces in learners," said Ames, who

South Africa since July 2011. "In order to make math fun and ease some of these anxieties, Genna and I have introduced Mathletes, which is a type of Math competition already well established in the United States."

Each school sends six sixth grade students to play in three distinct rounds. In the first round, all of the players attempt to answer a multiplication question. The first student to answer the question correctly gains the point. In round two, the students answer questions with varying difficulty and point values. In the third round, each team has five minutes to answer to one final problem.

Ames and Cummins have organized two rounds with six schools and hope that teachers will continue to contribute to the challenge. The volunteers have provided the schools with a template to create their own games and a list of topics they should expect to be addressed in each game. They will help teachers write their own math problems to keep the challenge sustainable.

Rockcastle Regional Hospital Oncology Services Line Manager Melissa Brock, right, accepts a donation for $3,145 for the cancer patient assistance "Hope" Fund from Jennifer Price. Price represented the Woodstock Community Center and organized a skin cancer awareness walk on April 30, 2012. The event called "Woodstock Cares for a Cure" had 125 participants and raised awareness about skin cancer and helped local cancer patients.

Local students learn PRIDE

Nature came to life in classrooms in southern and eastern Kentucky — including Rockcastle County — during the past school year, thanks to the PRIDE Environmental Education Outreach Program.

The program sent 15 environmental education liaisons into schools in 22 counties, reaching a total of 36,825 students between September 2011 and May 2012.

In Rockcastle County, liaison Wonda Hammons worked with 920 students during that time period.

"Her activities and lessons brought student awareness to solid waste and energy challenges and guided students to problem-solve in creative ways to address those areas in their homes and schools," said PRIDE's Tammie Wilson.

Like all liaisons, Hammons' goal was to help students prepare for state science tests and develop life-long environmental stewardship skills.

Liaisons taught lessons and led hands-on activities that covered a span of environmental topics including energy, botany, ecosystems, wildlife concepts, solid waste and water quality. They partnered with teachers to complement their classroom instruction.

The liaisons focused on third, fourth and fifth-grade classes. They also worked with all grade levels involved in PRIDE Clubs, which explore environmental issues and perform community service.

"Students really turn on when PRIDE liaisons lead hands-on activities that bring to life lessons they've been learning in class," Wilson said. "Environmental education is a great tool for practicing a variety of skills, from math to problem-solving."

"Teacher evaluations of the liaisons were excellent and showed great interest in continuing the program," Wilson said. "I want to thank our liaisons, who are so creative and enthusiastic. They enjoy interacting with students and teaming with teachers."

"We are grateful to the local governments, school boards, utility companies and others who partnered with us to bring the program to their counties, as well as the superintendents, principals and teachers who welcomed PRIDE into their schools this year," Wilson added. "You are to be commended for investing in your students and our environment."

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court, Rockcastle County School System and Appalachia Science in the Public Interest were the local partners that enrolled the school system in the program for the 2011/2012 school year.

PRIDE offers the Environmental Education Outreach Program in 38 counties of southern and eastern Kentucky. In each county, local leaders pay a fee, based on student population, to enroll their schools.

The Rockcastle Adult Healthcare recently participated in Woodstock Cares for a Cure Skin Cancer Awareness Walk. Proceeds benefitted the "Hope Fund" for local cancer patients of the Markey Cancer Center Chemotherapy Clinic at Rockcastle Regional Hospital.

Part of Longest Day of Play Fitness events promote family fitness and help fight hunger

Rockcastle Regional Hospital is sponsoring "Fit Family Run" as a part of the Longest Day of Play and Community Health Fair on Wednesday, June 20, 2012 at the Rockcastle Middle School Track. The race schedule kicks off with the Fastest Kid in Town Race at 5 p.m. There will be 2 races of 1/4 mile each (once around the track) one for kids age 7 and under, and one for kids age 8 - 10. Prizes to all participants (while supplies last), awards to the fastest female and male in each division. Next on the agenda is a Family Fun Relay Race at 5:30 p.m. We're looking for groups of four to come out for this fun relay race. You can be male or female, old or young. We simply ask that you all be related, somehow, someway (we'll accept in-laws if you will). You'll each run a quarter mile, passing a baton to the next runner. The fastest family to complete the mile will win a prize. Prizes to all participants (while supplies last).

At 6 p.m. will be a self-timed 1, 2 or 3 mile run/walk. This honor system event invites you to come out and walk or run 1, 2 or 3 miles around the track. If you'd like to be eligible for awards, you'll time yourself. We have stopwatches if you don't. The flat, comfortable surface of the track is ideal for benchmarking yourself for the distance of your choice. Please be warmed up and ready to run at 6 p.m. We'll stagger the start, and for those of you timing yourselves, we will see you back at registration. There you'll report your time, which we hope is a personal best! We'll give 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place awards, male and female, for each distance.

FFA Banquet held

Submitted by
Bethany McKinney,
Chapter Reporter

On April 27th 2012, the auditorium of RCHS was packed with many excited FFA members, parents ready to take pictures of their children receiving awards, and many past FFA members or just members of the community coming to see the accomplishments that the Rockcastle County FFA Chapter made this year.

For many years, the chapter banquet has been one of the biggest events for the Rockcastle FFA. It has always been a time to celebrate accomplishments made throughout the year, have a good meal, and share many memories, laughter and tears. A few things that make banquet special are the special awards that some members receive for working extra hard, the Appreciation Award that people in the community receive for helping FFA, the Honorary Degree that parents of senior officers receive, a tribute to the senior members, installing the new officer team, and of course the meal!

Before the program kicks off, a meal is always prepared by our local extension agent Tom Mills and served by our local FFA Alumni in the Cafeteria. Afterwards we go on to the Auditorium and start the awards program.

Throughout the year there are FFA members that are working hard behind the scenes to make sure everything goes smoothly. At banquet we make sure that they get the recognition they deserve. The awards were presented as listed. Star Greenhand-Will Martin, Star in Ag. Placement-BB Cameron, Outstanding Assistant Officer-Bethany McKinney & Kyle Peacock, Outstanding Officer-Megan Martin, Outstanding Leader-Sarah Pigg & BB Cameron, DeKalb Award-BB Cameron, Outstanding Committee Chair-Amie Hale, Star in Ag. Production-Sarah Saylor, Outstanding Service-Elizabeth Lawrence, and 110% Award-Charity Adams.

There are also people in the community that help the FFA a lot who we like to recognize. This year's Appreciation Award went to Rockcastle's retiring Superintendent Larry Hammond. We also recognize the parents of our senior officers with the Honorary Degree. This year the Honorary Degree went to Grant & April Martin-parents of Megan Martin, and Billy & Kaye Cameron-parents of BB Cameron.

Near the end of the program, the Ag. Communications class always puts on a slide show that consists of pictures of senior FFA members throughout their high school career. This slide show is known as Senior Tribute.

To close the program, the current officer team installs, or escorts the new officer team to their positions. After the new team is escorted to their positions they close the program with closing ceremonies. We would like to thank Tom Mills for cooking the meal and our Alumni for serving it. We would also like to thank all of our sponsors and everyone that attended.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet!

Some things to think about...
What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?
Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains.
B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.
The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufactures recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.
Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.
D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-
Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.
E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet.
Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.
