Mt. Vernon pharmacist murdered last Thursday

By: Doug Ponder

A Mt. Vernon pharmacist was murdered last Thursday morning while jogging on US 127 near Jamestown in Russell County.

According to Kentucky State Police Reports, Sarah B. Hart, 31, of Jamestown went jogging with her sister around 5:30 last Thursday morning when Hart said she wasn't feeling well and stated she was going back to her car.

Once Hart's sister completed her jog, she returned to the car to check on Hart and called police after she could not find her.

After a prolonged search, crews later discovered Hart's body about 11:15 am in a high weeded field off US 127.

Preliminary autopsy results from the Kentucky State Medical Examiner's office indicated that Hart was 10-11 weeks pregnant at the time of her death and died as a result of asphyxiation after being strangled.

State Police arrested Christopher W. Allman, 28, of Jamestown later the same day and charged him with Hart's murder. Authorities have also said the death of Hart's unborn fetus could lead to additional charges against Allman once the final autopsy is complete. (Cont. to pg. 11)

Kevin Fletcher named Mt. Vernon Police Chief

By: Perlina Anderkin

In a surprise move Monday night, the Mt. Vernon City Council approved the appointment by Mayor Mike Bryant of Patrolman Kevin Fletcher as Chief of Police.

Mayor Bryant told the council that he had arrived at his decision after much consideration and had originally planned to make the appointment at a later date.

However, Bryant said that a request by a council member to make the appointment now had "accelerated" his action.

The appointment was not approved by the council without some intense discussion. Councilmember Jamie Bryant, when asked, told the mayor that she was "not happy about this again." Bryant went on to say, "If you want approval from the council then I need some prior notification of more than 20 minutes."

Bryant was referring to her dissatisfaction with the fact that a significant increase in water rates was introduced for passage at a meeting earlier this year when she felt the council had not been given any time to become familiar with the need for the increase.

The mayor reminded Bryant that, by statute, he had the authority to appoint the city clerk and chief of police and was not required to talk to anyone on the council prior to making an appointment. He said he had done so only as a courtesy to which Bryant retorted that "so some get the courtesy and some don't."

The mayor went on to explain that his consideration had included the fact that Fletcher has a bachelor's degree which, while not in criminal justice, Bryant felt would help him with the administrative

Coguer, Cornelius named to district administrator positions

Rockcastle Middle School principal Jason Coguer and Mt. Vernon Elementary Assistant Principal Chris Cornelius have been promoted to positions at the central office of the Rockcastle County Board of Education.

Superintendent David Pensol announced the appointments on Monday and the two men will assume their new duties as of July 1st.

Coguer has been named Director of Instruction and Special Education and Cornelius will be the new Director of Transportation and Facilities, including overseeing special education transportation issues.

Coguer's position became vacant when Pensol was named Superintendent in May, replacing former Superintendent Larry Hammond. "Mr. Coguer will be bringing outstanding credentials and a wealth of experience as he assumes his new role," Pensol said.

Coguer began his career in 1994 as a special education teacher at the middle school. He then moved to the position of 21st Century Learning Center Coordinator for two years and has spent the past nine years as principal at the middle school, during which time the school was recognized several times for outstanding achievement.

"Leaving the middle school is going to be tough, yet I am excited about the opportunity to impact students across the district and to work with educators throughout our district that have made all of our schools successful," Coguer said upon his appointment.

Cornelius moves to the position of Director of Transportation and Facilities after completing 22 years as an educator.

Cornelius began his career as a math teacher at the high school in 1990. After two years of teach high school math, "Mr. C" (a name given him by elementary students) spent the next 20 years at Mt. Vernon Elementary, 17 years as teaching physical education and the past three as assistant principal. He also has 22 years of experience as a bus driver and has been a bus driver trainer since 1998.

The Way I See it

By Doug Ponder

Last week, one of our very own pharmacists here in Rockcastle County was murdered while returning to her car after her morning jog.

As the story developed over the weekend, it kept getting more upsetting as the autopsy showed that Sarah Hart was 10-11 weeks pregnant when she was strangled to death by her alleged attacker Chris Allman.

This really hit home for me and many others as well because even though Hart was from Russell County, it's like she was from Rockcastle County too.

When I describe Rockcastle County to people who have never been there, I always tell them we are a small tight-knit county similar to the town of Mayberry in the Andy Griffin Show.

When you work in any area of customer service in Rockcastle County, you see your co-workers and customers on a regular basis and become well acquainted with them as you go through the years.

It was no different with Sarah as she had many co-workers and customers at Mt. Vernon Drug who cared for her and who are now grieving over her passing.

A lot of attention in the media is now focused on Allman, who is going through the court system and will be learning his fate within the next few months.

But my primary concern isn't the fate of Allman, instead it's with Hart's husband and three young children who now have to go on without their wife/mother as a result of this tragedy.

I can't imagine what those four are going through after losing Sarah along with their unborn child who they will never get to meet here on Earth.

My thoughts and prayers go out to the immediate family as they work to continue their lives without Sarah being a part of it.

The only piece of news that puts my heart at ease is when I was told by a friend of Sarah's earlier this week that the family is at peace with the whole situation as they believe she is not actually dead because they know Sarah was a Born Again Christian.

It's things like this that gives people who have loved ones pass away, in these type of tragic situations, the strength to go on.

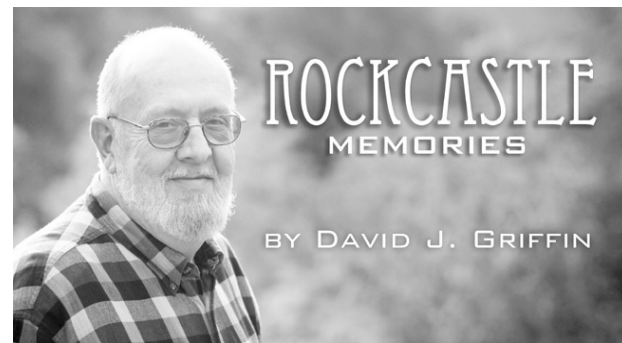

Now that Sarah has been laid to rest, discussion over Allman's fate is heating up more and more every day.

The capital punishment (death penalty) debate comes to a head every time someone is murdered and it is made known to the public through the media.

People who take a pro death penalty stance believe a murderer should be given a death sentence for the crimes they committed. People who are against the death penalty believe we should not justify someone's murder by killing the murderer who committed the crime.

Regardless of what happens to Allman, to me one thing is certain. The day will come when he will be judged by a power higher than any of us and have to answer for the crimes he has committed while here on Earth.

This is the ultimate retaliation. Even though Allman may escape what some believe is the appropriate punishment here on Earth, he won't be able to escape it in eternity.

American Jukeboxes – "Three plays for a quarter"

To many of us baby boomers, jukeboxes are pure Americana. Seeing and hearing them anywhere today always makes us feel less like old-timers and more like youngsters again. They give a cozy and comfortable ambiance regardless of where they might be found.

There were several restaurants and diners in Rockcastle County in the late 50's that had jukeboxes to entertain teenagers. Three plays for a quarter was inexpensive enough for most teens to amuse themselves while munching on burgers and fries. These were the good old days before boomboxes, iPods, and tape players. The jukebox allowed us to choose our own music and helped us to express who we were – teenagers who loved rock and roll.

When I first thought of writing about jukeboxes, I did some research to find out something about the history of these coin-operated music machines. What I discovered was very enlightening. First of all, the word "jook" is an old African-American term, meaning to dance; taverns with music machines were labeled as juke joints. And there was no doubt that juke joints were designed for dancing, with the jukebox providing the music.

Following the Depression, jukebox sales rose dramatically. Leading manufacturers Wurlitzer, Seeburg, and Rock-Ola, devised spectacular creations of wood, metal, glass, and plastic to set the scene in the establishments for which they were intended. Some of the most impressive jukeboxes even had "bubble lights" to show off their designs.

The first restaurant that I can recall with a jukebox was the Ideal Café on Main Street in Mt. Vernon (an establishment once owned by my mother and father). Even though I was very young at the time, but I remember my brother Al telling me that the man who was in charge of supplying and updating the records would sometimes give him the records that were being replaced.

When I became a teenager and began listening to rock and roll music, my friends and I gathered at Kelsey's Restaurant to feed the jukebox with our quarters so we could hear the likes of Chuck Berry, Carl Perkins, Jerry Lee Lewis, Bill Black, and especially Bill Haley and the Comets, as they sang their most recent hits. At that time, we could only listen to our favorite artists on the radio or on jukeboxes; otherwise, we had to purchase our own, and most of my friends did not even have a phonograph player.

The booths at Kelsey's were filled on most weekends with teenagers who gathered to chat, eat, and find out what new recordings had been added to the jukebox. Sometimes we would have six or seven of our friends crammed into a booth as we took turns feeding the "box" with our change. Most of the time, we sang right along with the artists.

When I started to drive, my friends and I found new

Points East

By Ike Adams

Loretta and I just pulled four days within the friendly confines of St. Joseph's hospital in Lexington.

But this time I was not the patient. I stayed with her and slept on a recliner beside her bed simply because that's where I wanted to be, whether I was needed or not.

Lo had to have her thyroid gland removed and the surgery turned out to be rather more involved and complicated than we or the doctors had anticipated. I will spare you the more precise details. Suffice to say that a nerve was in the way because it wasn't where it was supposed to be and there was a mass of scar tissue to contend with from surgery she'd undergone 30 years ago.

The end result was far more intense and lasting pain than usually happens with this sort of surgery and, for the last week, my wife has literally been rendered speechless. The good news is that they didn't find cancer which was our big worry going in. The other good news is that she can take synthroid, a medication that replaces all the stuff her thyroid produced naturally.

However, her vocal cords took a beating during the surgery and it may be weeks before she gets her voice back. It's like having the worse case of laryngitis imaginable. And if you know my wife, you also know that she does so love to do some talking.

For the first several days, post surgery, she was in such intense pain that she stayed pretty much knocked out with opiates. She would not have been coherent if she had been able to vocalize. But the pain has gradually subsided and/or she has adjusted to it to the point that she only needs strong medicine at bed time and she has absolutely no plans for getting the prescription refilled.

I'm not the least bit worried that Loretta will become addicted to pain killers. My wife is one of those people who stay so naturally high on life that she neither needs nor wants any artificial stimulation. I've never seen her even slightly inebriated on alcohol, for instance, and, to my knowledge, the stuff she's been taking for this go around with pain is the only thing she's ever ingested that made her loopy.

In the meantime, I am scared that she will become addicted to facebook. Loretta literally has to be communicating with someone, somehow, during most of the time she's awake. It's not uncommon for my buddy Ralph to call to ask me something and for Loretta to answer the phone, whereupon they spend 30 minutes in conversation.

A Childhood Remembered in Maretburg

As we grow older, our memory of growing up seems to gather closer to us and becomes more precious with each passing day. Memories seem to comfort us and take us to a time and place when we were young and carefree. They are like old friends who lend comfort, and are only a thought away.

This was certainly evident when I continued my visit with Marguerite Hunt Poynter-Robinson and her family. As she spoke, you could almost see her traveling back in time to a different era, and we were bade to join her in the journey.

We traveled back to a time in 1925 where Marguerite was born to John and Sybil Weiderholt-Hunt, her mother being from Pennsylvania. Marguerite grew up in a much simpler era out in the country, with wide open fields of crops, dusty country roads, and small family farms scattered here and there, where all neighbors were either friends or family.

Her family, as most other families in Maretburg, were farmers who knew too well the laborious tasks of a farm, as well as the pride of ac-

There's not a day goes by that I don't think about you, Big Brother. It was so hard losing you but I still have the memories from growing up, playing with farm animals, building play houses and riding our skate boards down the hill past the little cemetery.

Now I come visit you every week in that little cemetery. As I stand by your grave, I can still see you coming down the hill, laughing and having such fun. I'll always hold those memories in my heart.

Three years have passed. We miss you so much. Our hearts still ache with sorrow. Time hasn't dulled the pain since the day God took you home to be with Him in Heaven.

If you could talk to us, you would say, "I'm ok, don't worry about me." You always thought of others first. Read this poem today and thought of you:

I Do Not Go Alone
If death should beckon me
With outstretched hand,
And whisper softly of an "unknown land,"
I shall not be afraid to go.
For though the path I do not know...
I take death's hand without a fear,
For He who safely brought me here
Will also take me safely back.
And though in many things I lack...
He will not let me go alone
Into the Valley that's "unknown."
So I reach out and take death's hand
And journey to the "Promised Land!"

We must not give up our efforts...

Dear Editor,
Mr. Bowman's letter last week touched on some important issues regarding the sports facilities here in Rockcastle County, and I appreciate his concern. His letter made it apparent to me, however, that there are obviously a great number of parents whose children play ball at the County's fields in Brodhead who are not aware of the support the fiscal court has given to the program over the years. We (the fiscal court) have given the program $5,000 cash support during each of the past several years in addition to providing the weekly and daily maintenance of the property, the purchase of blacktop, and the rehabilitation of the structures, etc., at the Brodhead fields. Having said this, I am very aware of the condition of our county's facilities compared to those of neighboring counties. While impressed with Lincoln County's fields, I was totally blown away by the sports complex in Whitley County. Comparing Whitley's complex to Lincoln's is like comparing the Brodhead fields to Lincoln's. There is just no comparison, and Whitley's is impressive by any measure anywhere - even to having an amphitheater for non-sports events. My brother who is a coach agrees: We have not seen anything like it anywhere.

I hope the parents understand that I made a tremendous effort last year to move forward with a new sports complex, but a number of citizens (including CCFPG members) fought the proposal, and the fiscal court defeated my proposal. Having said this, we must not give up our efforts to provide stellar facilities for the youth of our communities in Rockcastle at some point in the future. The young people in our county are no less deserving than those in our neighboring counties. And although the proposals I set forth were turned down, I do appreciate the fiscal court for permitting the County to provide assistance to the Brodhead ball fields.

Roberts Cemetery...

Dear Editor,
In the comfortable and contented life we live there are so many very important blessings we take for granted. Many of these are the result of someone else and their efforts and sacrifice. Sometimes we convince ourselves these are things we deserve or are entitled to. Recently I was forced to face one of these situations head on, that being the final resting place of our departed loved ones.

Several years ago, circumstances and situations and depression made me decide my life was basically over. So, I decided where I wished my body to lie from the time of death until the resurrection. Like most, I have family buried in different cemeteries within the county. I first thought of Roberts Cemetery (Old Freedom) where my ancestors dating back to the Civil War are buried. Upon visiting the cemetery I was immediately impressed by the beauty and well kept appearance of the place. As I viewed the spot where my great-great grandparents (he enlisted in the Union Army at the age of forty four - I would probably have been on the other side) are resting and observed space beside them, I thought this would be a safe place where I would be proud to lie.

I contacted Mr. John D. Cromer about the procedure for reserving a spot to place a stone. He was a great help to me. Mr. and Mrs. Cromer had been taking care of the cemetery for several years. Thank you, John D. and Rissie Cromer, for all the love and hard work you gave to the descendants of those buried there. After the death of her husband two years ago, Mrs. Cromer still hired someone to mow the cemetery. Her health has made it impossible for her continue. My sister talked to Mrs. Cromer and she told her there was no one and no funds to provide care this year (she had received only three donations last year in addition to her family's help). My sister, being the big hearted person she is, told Mrs. Cromer, "my brother and I will take on the responsibility." REALITY!

We found someone who mowed the first time for $150.00. Not very practical if there are no funds. Having never mowed a cemetery before, but always wanting to, I figured I was up to the task. Thanks to a few you have since given donations, we have been able to mow three times and have funds for two more. I am asking your help in the form of money or work! I am not one to want all the fun, so if you would like to mow, weed-eat, pick up twigs or pile brush, your help would be appreciated. I am not sure all of us can keep Roberts Cemetery as beautiful and neat as Mr. and Mrs. Cromer, but out of respect for and thanks for all those who rest there, surely we must try.

It would be good for a few to give or do much but better for many to give or do a little. You can mail a donation to me or make a deposit in the Roberts Cemetery account 2212684 at Citizens Bank.

Thank you,
Don Cummins

Let's get behind the Trail Town efforts...

Dear Editor:
Just another good reason for all of us who want Rockcastle County's residents to do well economically was on the Market Place Report this morning, and the report gave some very, very interesting economic statistics, giving further reason for all of us to get behind the Trail Town efforts of the local committee's and the state's tourism board's efforts to make Livingston (and Rockcastle County) Kentucky's first designated 'Trail Town'.

According to the report, more money is spent on outdoor recreation in America than on pharmaceuticals and automobile purchases. Sure, a lot of money is spent on backpacks, canoes, bikes, and hiking boots, but the lion's share of that large amount of money is spent on lodging, travel to out-of-the-way areas, and food service. Americans love the outdoors, and Rockcastle has a lot of just what the environmental and adventure tourists are seeking. And these are the tourists who, according to the report, spend more money on enjoying the outdoors than the rest of us spend on pharmaceuticals and the purchase of new cars every year. And that's a lot of money. Further, while the U.S. economy has slumped, this outdoor-loving group of Americans caused an increase of spending in adventure tourism of 6% each year since 2006.

As Rockcastle's residents, we really need to look around and take stock of what we actually have that God has already provided us and try to capitalize on these good things.

Cannot afford medications...

Dear Editor,
I need some suggestions. I was on Disability due to having mini strokes and some other medical problems. My husband got ill in 2007 and was approved for benefits, Social Security. Well, when he got approved, I lost my benefits and medical. I have not taken any meds since then because I cannot afford them.

I was having chest pains last year and was in the hospital for three days and I am paying one hundred dollars a month on an eight thousand dollar bill, you know that won't be paid up quickly, I figure it will take eight years to pay it off. I applied for assistance at the Rockcastle Hospital and I can go to the E.R. and it will be paid for, but, the doctors fee and any tests won't be covered. I can go to the doctor and the office fee will be paid but not the doctor or the meds she prescribes or any tests. I need to be send and get something done. I don't feel well. My sugar goes way above 500 at times, I have terrible headaches and a few other problems. If anyone knows of any place that offers help to those who need medical attention, please let me know I have a family to take care of and it is hard to not feel well because I can't afford to.

Thanks for your time and concern in this matter.

Loretta will finally yell to tell me Ralph is on the phone and when I pick up, he will say "I was gonna ask you something but I got to talking to your lovely wife and now I've completely forgot what I called you about. Seemed important at the time but it must not have been. Oh well-----"
Or one of my brothers will call and the same thing happens with them. Loretta will finally yell that Keeter's on the phone. When I pick up, Keith will say, "I just called to see how you're doing but Loretta has already filled me in. Glad to hear you're having regular bowel movements again." So, you might reasonably think that I'm pleased with the relative quiet in our home brought on by my wife's temporary inability to jabber. But the truth of the matter is that I miss it terribly and I can hardly wait for her to be yelling at me and restore the normalcy to our household.

If you have time on your hands, drop her a note or a get well card in the mail. I can't think of anybody who would appreciate it more. The address is 249 Charlie Brown Road, Paint Lick, KY 40461.

Rockcastle Regional Hospital receives 2012 Quality Award

Rockcastle Regional Hospital & Respiratory Care Center has received the 2012 Kentucky Hospital Association (KHA) Quality Award for hospitals with less than 100 beds. Rockcastle Regional previously won the prestigious award in 2006, 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2011. According to a press release from KHA, Rockcastle Regional was recognized for demonstrating not only a dedication to patient safety, but also their persistence to going above and beyond what is expected for providing quality care; particularly for community wellness and prevention education.

The KHA Quality Award is presented to honor hospital leadership and innovation in quality, safety and commitment to patient care. Rockcastle Regional's project for the Quality Award focused on community outreach projects focusing on wellness, prevention and education relating to the region's health issues. Issues such as cardiovascular disease, tobacco use, lack of physical exercise and obesity were addressed.

Rockcastle Regional sponsored wellness/prevention events including: stroke screenings, women's health events, men's health events, Dinner with the Doctors, child and mother safety events, smoking cessation classes, run/walk events, cholesterol screenings and opportunities for group fitness classes in the new Wellness Center at Rockcastle Regional.

"Our team of health professionals is willing to invest time and resources in our community. We hope to engage people, educate people and encourage healthy changes that can potentially save their life," said Tammy Brock, RN, Rockcastle Regional Hospital Quality Director. "We have safety-directed, quality-driven staff and we are proud to have received this award for our efforts."

"We are committed to making a difference in our region and continuously look for innovative outreach programs," said Stephen Estes, Rockcastle Regional President and CEO. "We set out on this endeavor to lead community change and support healthy lifestyle modifications. We are a team of dedicated and involved individuals working to decrease preventable disease prevalence. It is rewarding to receive the KHA Quality Award for a sixth time."

Rockcastle Regional was also the recipient of the KHA Circle of Friends Clarence C. Traum Award. The award is in honor of outstanding support of KHA's legislative and regulatory efforts to enhance patient care. This was the seventh time Rockcastle Regional has received this award.

places to listen to jukeboxes around Rockcastle County. One of our favorite hang-outs was Hamm's Drive-In on US 150 toward Brodhead. On many Saturday nights, the parking lot was filled with customized cars jammed full of our friends. The jukebox, which was located indoors with speakers attached to the outside walls, was often cranked up as loud as possible. Each time the music stopped, another teenager rolled out of one of the cars to fill the machine with a handful of quarters. Most of the time when one of us went inside, others would yell out to "play Elvis," or Dion, or one of their favorite artists. We loved to spend time at Hamm's because it had the combination of both good food and jukebox music.

Another popular spot to listen was the Dinner Bell Restaurant on Richmond Avenue in Mt. Vernon. As I recall, the food was delicious, the jukebox had the latest hits, and the parking lot was large enough to accommodate all of our cars. Most of the time when we had enough food and music, we simply moved outside and sat on the hoods of our automobiles to watch our friends drive up and down the busy highway.

During the day when we were in high school, we took our breaks and visited Mom and Pop's lunch counter, where we could feed the jukebox as we sipped on Cokes and ate chips. Sometimes a few of us gathered enough courage to dance to the sounds of rock and roll. On a rare occasion even more dramatic events occurred in the back room of that quant little establishment. If you were there, I suspect that you recall precisely what I am talking about. Needless to say, it wasn't anything that one would place inside a community newspaper - even today.

The only other restaurant in Rockcastle County that had a jukebox that I can remember was the Renfro Valley Lodge. Usually, when I frequented that eating establishment, I was with my family. Of course, they did not have much appreciation for the sounds of rock and roll, so we chose more subdued tunes by the likes of Perry Como, Johnny Mathis, or Nat King Cole. I distinctly recollect my mother, Bee, giving me some quarters and telling me to play Nat King Cole for her.

During my youth, jukeboxes created the scene for jumpin' and jivin' at our hangouts, and we loved the atmosphere. It is hard to imagine America without them. The eye-popping allure of bubble lights, neon tubes, and chrome hypnotized us out of our spare change. The owners of these establishments were smart enough to keep the latest hits on their machines, and we bought into the craze. The magnetism of these music machines kept us coming back for more and more and more.

For many years it was a dream of mine to own a Wurlitzer to place in my home. That would have been quite a rush - but, alas it never came to be. And now, whenever I am somewhere that has an operating jukebox, I am still a sucker for feeding that baby to play my favorite tunes from yesteryear.

complishment. Many farms had been and would be passed on for generations to come.

We're now back in the days of the 1920s and 1930s. There were no phones, electricity, or paved roads. Marguerite remembers each of these coming to her corner of the world. She recalls the first electric appliances the family owned: a clothes washer and toaster. The toaster was thought to be a wonder! Imagine toast without an oven! This was around 1940. The family home was already wired and ready to go, anticipating the soon-coming electric. She remembers the poles going up, and the wires soon followed, connecting electric to the homes. What excitement the first night that was aglow with electric light bulbs!

Soon came the phones. Of course they were all "party lines", but nonetheless Mareburg was now connected to the outside world. The road soon was paved, which allowed the women of the area to wear heels. Prior to this, walking on the old, muddy, uneven roads was difficult. Mary Ida Hunt-Jones had the first television in the area that could be remembered. Progress had come.

Sometimes the most simple memories make a lasting impression. Marguerite could remember her mother making big country meals for the thrashers who would come and work in the fields. She remembers her mother mowing the yard with an old push mower that only had a few blades. Then, there were Mom's apple trees and many flowers bringing their yard to life.

The farm had vegetable gardens and wheat fields that supplied wheat for bread, and sheep. There was a dog, "Ole Pat", who did his share of work at the farm and kept up with Marguerite. He followed along wherever she went, even to the local Mareburg school.

Her relationship with God is very important to her, and was deeply-rooted from youth. There where Alfred and Sarah McGowan from Ireland who came as missionaries, and taught in local homes. These sessions were simply known as "meetings".

The neighbors would gather at the various homes to be taught from the Bible. Some of the "parishioners" were Wade, Julia, Frank, Virgil, and Mae Hunt. John and Sybil Hunt had a cabin built on their land for the traveling missionaries. Alfred and Sarah McGowan spent quite a bit of time in the area.

What truly fond memories to treasure, to keep a warm feeling in our heart and they're only a thought away, stored within the "Roots" of Rockcastle.

The third annual Rockcastle Regional Hospital Brodhead Hustle 2-mile run raised $829 for the community's annual homecoming festival. The significant amount was made possible by a huge turnout - 125 runners and walkers - for the event, which began in 2010 with 26 participants. Presenting the check on behalf of the hospital are Worth Anne Harris and Dwain Harris. Accepting the check is Dix River Festival Chairman Brian Bussell.

Don't pickup bed bugs during your vacation

Summer is in full swing and you may have summer vacation on your mind. Travel is much easier these days but so is the possibility of bringing home pests from your vacation, specifically bed bugs. You may have seen many of the recent headlines that bed bugs are making a comeback, especially in hotels around the country. For most people, bed bugs are only known because of a nursery rhyme. However, they are an increasing problem within the United States.

What is a bed bug?

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Environmental Protection Agency, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture all consider bed bugs to be a public health pest. Bed bugs are not known to transmit diseases but they can cause redness and swelling from their saliva during feeding. Bed bugs feed on blood and humans are their preferred food. Pets can also be hosts. Generally, bed bugs are nocturnal, meaning they come out at night.

Travel tips

With the increased problem, you may want to check your hotel room for signs of bed bugs. Here are some tips:

- Look at the sheets on the bed and the seams on the mattress and box spring. Do not forget to check the head of the bed.
- Look inside the dresser drawers, in the closet and along the baseboards for signs of bugs, shed skins or stains.
- Look for any rusty or reddish stains on the mattress or sheets.

If you find any signs of bed bugs:

- Request another room (far away from the current room).
- Keep suitcases off of the floor on a luggage stand, table or other hard surface.

When you get home, wash all clothing in the washing machine as soon as possible. Examine luggage for signs that you may have brought home bed bugs.

If you have Internet access, it may be worth reading hotel reviews to see if anyone has previously reported bed bugs at the hotels you are considering.

Agricultural News

By: Warden Alexander, FSA Director

Acreage Certification

Time is nearing for producers to certify their 2012 acreage. Filing an accurate acreage report for all crops and land uses, including failed acreage and prevented planting acreage, can prevent the loss of benefits for a variety of programs.

Failed acreage must be reported within 15 days of the disaster event and before disposition of the crop. Prevented planting must be reported no later than 15 days after the final planting date.

Crop acreage reports are required for many FSA programs and NAP. Reports are due in the county office by July 15 for crops.

2012 County Committee Election

The election of agricultural producers to the Farm Service Agency (FSA) county committees is important to all farmers and ranchers, whether beginning or long-established, large or small operation. It is crucial that every eligible producer participate in these elections because FSA county committees are a link between the agricultural community and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

County Committee (COC) members are a critical component of FSA operations. The intent is to have the COC reflect the makeup of the producers and to represent all constituents. This means wherever possible, minorities, women or lower income producers need to be on the committee to speak for these underrepresented groups.

County Committee members provide local input for FSA programs, and operate within official regulations designed to carry out federal laws. County committee members apply their judgment and knowledge to make local decisions.

On June 15, 2012 - Nomination period begins for the 2012 COC Election.

To become a nominee, eligible individuals must sign nomination form FSA-669A. The form includes a statement that the nominee agrees to serve if elected. This form is available at USDA http://www.fsa.usda.gov/Internet/FSA_File/fsa0669a_committeelectform.pdf

Nomination forms for the 2012 election must be postmarked or received in the local USDA Service Center by close of business on Aug. 1, 2012. Agricultural producers who participate or cooperate in an FSA program may be nominated for candidacy for the county committee. Individuals may nominate themselves or others as a candidate. Additionally, organizations representing minority and women farmers or ranchers may nominate candidates. Nomination forms are filed for the county committee of the office that administers a producer's farm records.

Office Closure

The Mt. Vernon USDA Service Center (FSA, NRCS and Rockcastle Co. Conservation District) will be closed Wednesday, July 4th in observance of Independence Day. The offices will re-open Tuesday, July 5th.

Financial Aid Tip of the Month

Don't be taken by something that sounds too good to be true

Parents of college-bound students often hear sales pitches from companies that promise to help them find financial aid to pay for college. There's no need to pay for this kind of information, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA). Financial aid information can be obtained free by working with your school counselor, checking out sources in the library, doing free online scholarship searches or contacting the financial aid office of the college you plan to attend. If you decide to use a company to help you find financial aid, make sure you're dealing with a reputable one. The Federal Trade Commission cautions students to be especially skeptical about scholarship search companies and websites that make these claims. "You've been selected by a national foundation to receive a scholarship." Check with a guidance counselor to find out if the foundation is legitimate. Be especially wary if you're notified that you're a finalist in a scholarship contest you didn't enter. "We'll do all the work." It's highly unlikely that the company will fill out all the applications for all the financial aid sources it sends you. "I just need your credit card or bank account number to hold this scholarship." Never give these numbers to a person or company you're not sure about. You could find your credit card maxed out and your bank account cleaned out. "You're guaranteed to get money for college or your money back." Read the fine print. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is. KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's student aid programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). Learn to be credit smart

Students should be smart when it comes to managing their credit, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA). Once you start paying bills, you start building a credit score. If you have a history of paying bills late, it will be reported to credit rating agencies and affect the interest rate you pay on credit cards and loans. It may also affect how much you pay for insurance and whether you are approved for renting an apartment. A credit score is based on your payment history. Credit scores are used by lenders to help determine if applicants qualify for a credit card, loan, insurance or other services. Most credit scores estimate the risk a company incurs by lending money or providing a person with a service — specifically, the likelihood that the person will make payments on time in the next two to three years. Generally, the higher your credit score, the less risk you represent. Some people think you need a credit card to build a credit score. But if you open your utility accounts in your name instead of your parent's name, you can work toward building a credit score in six months. A late or missed payment stays on your credit report for seven years, even if the creditor has been paid in full. It is better to start off on the right foot by establishing checking and savings accounts, using your credit cards sparingly and paying all of your bills on time. KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's grant and scholarship programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). A wreath was placed on the door of Mt. Vernon Drug on Richmond Street after a pharmacist who worked there, Sarah Hart, was murdered last Thursday when she returned to her car from jogging in Jamestown. Hart had been a pharmacist at Mt. Vernon Drug for almost five years where she worked three days a week and every other Saturday.

results are received and the case is presented to a grand jury.

Allman pleaded not guilty during his arraignment on Monday after previously admitting to officers, during questioning, that he had killed Hart for the purpose of taking her money.

Allman is charged with murder, robbery, kidnapping and tampering with physical evidence. He currently remains lodged at the Russell County Detention Center without bond.

Hart had been a pharmacist at Mt. Vernon Drug for almost five years and worked three days a week and every other Saturday.

Kendall Kilbourne, Mt. Vernon Drug owner/pharmacist, said everyone was shocked when they first heard the news of her death.

"It was an absolute shock when we first heard the news," Kilbourne said. "She was a super person and a strong Christian lady."

Kilbourne said she will be greatly missed by all her co-workers and customers at the pharmacy.

Christopher W. Allman, 28, of Jamestown is charged with Hart's murder.

needs of the department, leaving Asst. Chief Barry Adams free to concentrate on the crime and drug problem in the community. Adams will also have the added designation of Detective under the new structure.

Councilman Cliff Mullins asked Adams how he felt about this action and Adams said that the decision was "basically up to the mayor" and, while surprised with the short notice of the appointment, he was okay with the decision. Adams went on to say that he had known Fletcher, who joined the city police force in late September of 2011 for his third stint with the department, for some time, had worked previously with him in the 90s and it was a good working relationship. "I am not good at people skills but we can carry each other in certain situation and if there are any problems I'll be here just as I have always been for anyone 24/7."

The appointment was approved on a motion by Shelley Lewis, seconded by Adam Bales.

In other action, the council voted to set a final discounted hookup date for the five remaining properties on Rose Hill, that have not signed up to be hooked to the new sewer line, of June 29th.

Mayor Bryant said the 1/2 price hook-up of $117.50 also included 50 feet of free sewer line to the property owner.

The project is 96% complete and is expected to be completely finished within a week, Bryant said.

The council also approved Kenvirons Engineers for the water tank project.

Adams presented the council with the May activity report for the police department.

According to the report: there were 384 total calls for service; 8 non-injury accidents; 5 injury accidents; 17 total arrests; 4 DUI arrests; 3 drug charges; 48 traffic violations cited; 25 total criminal charges lodged and one assist with a meth lab bust.

Fire Chief David Bales also gave his May report which showed:

someone using her card at Wal-Mart and Speedway in Winchester last Monday night.

Deputy Sheriff Matt Bryant viewed the surveillance videos at both stores and observed a heavy/tall man wearing a black John Deere t-shirt and ball cap using Settles' credit card at both locations.

Bryant received an anonymous tip that Baker was the man shown in the surveillance videos using Settles' credit card. Bryant also received information that Baker drove a black SUV and had been staying at the Mountain View Hotel in Mt. Vernon.

After arriving at the hotel, officers found Baker in room 134 and observed that he matched the description of the man in the surveillance videos.

Upon receiving consent from Baker to search the hotel room, officers found a plastic bag containing a small baggie of marijuana, two glass tubes for smoking meth and numerous small syringes with needles still attached.

officers to search his black Dodge Durango where they found a John Deere t-shirt and ball cap inside the console of the vehicle. Both the t-shirt and ball cap matched those worn by Baker in the surveillance videos.

After Baker's vehicle was towed from the hotel, employees from Thoroughtruck contacted Bryant after finding Settles' credit card inside a DVD case along with a piece of paper with Settles' Social Security number and date of birth.

Bryant has confirmed Baker attempted to use Settles' credit card in Laurel, Pulaski and Clark counties. It's also believed Baker tried to use the credit card in other counties as well and that is still under investigation.

Baker was arrested and charged with two counts of burglary, second degree. Baker was also separately charged with possession of marijuana, drug paraphernalia, identity theft and criminal possession of a forged instrument.

Baker remains lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center on an $80,000 cash bond.

The Cost of Drug Addiction

Second in a series of articles concerning the scourge of drug addiction in our county. This series is being printed with the support of Cumberland River Mental Health; County Judge Exec. Buzz Carloftis, UNITE and Mayors Walter Cash, Mike Bryant and J.C. Griffin Yesterday, as a couple of us made our rounds, i.e., walking through the neighborhood, stopping and talking, gathering the news and enjoying refreshments, a father called me into his garage to his work bench. He proceeded to show me a plastic container with an assortment of syringes in it. Then in a halting voice, "These were found along the roadside between here and the traffic light" -- some two blocks away. "My children walk this route nearly every day." Inquiring what they were, I already suspected them to be illicit drug purveyors. "Not only do these needles deliver illegal dangerous brain cell destroying drugs, they might well be contaminated with viruses including aids -- possibly a secondary death sentence from the same container. My children might have picked them up not recognizing the danger," he continued. "What can I do? How can I protect our little ones?" His shoulders shook as he sobbed at this last inquiry. I had to say that I didn't know. Most of us live above the scourge, occasionally observing the broken lives.

We hear the parental reports of thousands of dollars spent on rehabilitation, often to no avail. Reports circulate of children in jail because parents can no longer support them and their addiction. Parents have had to take out mortgages to cover bad checks. Reports of drug related emergency room visits are often circulated -- one near death, one crippled, another dead. But where does this begin?

We have long had marijuana, LSD and a limited selection of these destructive agents. Now heroin, cocaine and any other so-called hard drug are available at most crossroads. Routes running from Rockcastle County to Mexico, to Florida, to eastern cities, even to the Near East are clearly established. Terrorists fund their operations with funds from these sales. Cartels of the darkest nature funnel drugs in one direction, money in the other. These are the guys who reportedly leave adversaries hanging from bridge overpasses just across the Mexican border.

No one in their right mind would support such people. To what personal end does such support lead: loss of friends, family, health, employment and interest in enjoying sports, music, literature, movies, concerts and the list goes on. Each individual might do well to look down, see the needles and filth that oozes among our people, to see the misery spreading like a fog around every household threatening every family in the land.

What are we to tell the acquaintance down the block with the dirty syringes? Who do we go to for advice? At what juncture does this destructive pendulum begin to swing the other way? How can the abuser be halted before the slide has reached addiction? How can the individual be armed to resist ever trying the deadly stuff? It is obvious that pushing the pendulum will require a significant change in behavior and behavior is governed by attitude.

Note: Rockcastle ranks in the second highest use area in the state for use of cocaine.

A Community Mission Team, from a coalition of churches in the county, held a one-day Backyard Vacation Bible School at the Livingston Playground Saturday. More than 50 children attended the event where Tony Renner and friends provided gospel music and the children enjoyed free food and inflatables. In the top photo, the children are shown in a Prayer Circle before the start of the event. In the photo at left, participants enjoy the free inflatables provided.

The Family Room

By: Dr. Roy Don Whitehead

Several years ago when she was in her mid-50s, I asked my sister if she thought life had been unfair to her -- if she had gotten a "raw deal." She quickly replied, "No. I have had a good life."

In 1998 she was diagnosed with breast cancer which necessitated radical surgery and chemotherapy. In 2001 her husband died suddenly in his early fifties, leaving her with a child in college and one in high school. In 2005 the cancer returned in her liver and bones, and she began chemotherapy again. In 2008 the cancer spread to her brain. She received chemotherapy, radiation and multiple gamma knife surgeries on her brain. On March 13, 2012 she breathed her last in the Hospice Unit at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lexington. She was free from pain and both her children were at her side. Mary Alice Whitehead was 59.

While I and others might think she had been unfairly treated by life, she did not see it that way. She chose to focus on the good things that she had. She had a loving husband for more than 20 years. She had two children of whom she was extremely proud, and a new son-in-law about whom she felt the same. She had a career as a social worker and counselor that allowed her to use her gift for helping people. She had a rich network of friends and a church family whom she loved and who loved her. She definitely believed the glass was half full.

One of her mottos was "Accept the diagnosis; defy the prognosis." While she accepted that she had cancer, she did not accept the bleak assessment that she would live only a few months or years. She fought to live so that she could see her daughter married and her son receive his Ph.D. and she was present for both those occasions.

Another of her mottos was, "I will live until I die," or as she put it, "I'm not dying from cancer -- I am living with cancer." She lived a full life with friends and family as long as she was able. It was only in the last year that the physical symptoms began to overwhelm her, but even then she told me, "I am still happy to be here."

Perhaps her ability to see the positive and not dwell on the negative was what attracted so many people to her. Before and after her memorial service, I heard from her friends and co-workers how devoted they were to her and how much they had benefited from having her in their lives.

Her strong will allowed her to defy the prognosis and live longer than anyone predicted. The care that she received also prolonged her life. Her children lovingly provided for her needs. My mother at age 91 moved in with my sister to take care of her. Dr. Romond, Dr. Young and the staff at the University of Kentucky Hospital provided compassionate, cutting edge care that extended her life. Her friends, family and church family kept her well fed and well loved.

After her disability forced her to retire, she took on a new role as my confidante and advisor. I spent weekends with her doing what we Whiteheads love to do: eating, reading, talking and watching sports on TV. Her insights helped me in my personal and professional life. Mary Alice, I will miss you. I hope I can retain just a little bit of your positive spirit. And I am sorry that you weren't here to see it, but the Cats won it all.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet!
Some things to think about...
What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?
Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains.
B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.
The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufactures recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.
Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.
D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.
E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet.
Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

Five local students graduate from 2012 Rogers Explorers

Five students from Rockcastle County have graduated from the first two summer sessions of The Center for Rural Development's 2012 Rogers Explorers youth leadership program.

Sara Clark and Alex Spragens, representing Rockcastle County Middle School; and Julianna Singleton of Singleton Homeschools attended the opening session of the Rogers Explorers program from June 3-5 on the campus of Lindsey Wilson College in Columbia.

Later that same week, James Clay Ballinger and Brad Taylor of Rockcastle County Middle School participated in the second session of the Rogers Explorers program held on the campus of the University of the Cumberlands in Williamsburg.

Lonnie Lawson, president and CEO of The Center, and Delaney Stephens, youth programs coordinator and community liaison, presented each student with a certificate of appreciation acknowledging their completion in this year's Rogers Explorers program.

"These students are the region's future business leaders and entrepreneurs," Lawson said. "The Rogers Explorers program gives students hands-on experience in a college environment and lets them see the value of higher education while preparing them for success."

The program provides leadership opportunities and unique learning experiences for rising ninth-grade students in Southern and Eastern Kentucky to move forward on building a career in some of today's leading in-demand career fields.

"It is inspirational to work with such a bright group of young leaders from Southern and Eastern Kentucky," Stephens said. "What engaging sessions of the 2012 Rogers Explorers at Lindsey Wilson College and the University of the Cumberlands."

Other sessions of the Rogers Explorers program will be held on July 18-20 at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond and July 22-24 on the campus of Morehead State University in Morehead.

Later this year the town of Livingston will officially be confirmed the first "Trail Town" in Kentucky. The town has a series of hiking, biking, and horseback riding trails to offer, as well as canoeing and airboat rides on the Rockcastle River.

On Saturday, July 7, from 11:00 AM-6:00 PM, the Livingston Revitalization Committee will be hosting a day of celebrating the pioneer spirit in all of us. The streets will be filled with activity, entertainment, concessions, games, crafts, a Lions Club yard sale, a parade, music and much more.

Tug of War teams are needed. Businesses, churches, youth groups, and neighborhoods are invited to form teams to meet the challenge. Prizes will be awarded. There will be a small entry fee for this event.

Also, there is an invitation for church groups, school groups, civic organizations, etc., to open concessions along the street and earn money for all their upcoming events. A 10% donation of the earnings is to be given to the Livingston Community Lions' Club. If you are interested in participating in any of these events, please contact Lynn Tatum with the Development Board at 256-8007 or Stanley and Tonya Cook at 453-2218.
