Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet! Some things to think about...

What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?

Test results from Consumer Report, 2008. Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?

A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150* degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains. B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum. The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/ bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufactures recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.

Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?

C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.

D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.

E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet. The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

Contracting crews were busy this past week working to repair a water main break at the Rockcastle County Middle School that happened around 4 p.m. last Wednesday. All Rockcastle County Schools were dismissed last Thursday and Friday as crews worked to repair the break. School officials believe the break was caused by the settling of the building's foundation. No flooding damage was reported and the break was fixed last Saturday, allowing Rockcastle County students to return to class on Monday.

Mt. Vernon to proceed with needed sewer plant repair

The Mt. Vernon City Council voted Monday night to proceed with the installation of a new meter to record the intake of raw wastewater into the wastewater treatment plant (WWTP). The plant currently only measures the treated output. The cost to the city is expected to be around $37,000 and was necessitated by a Notice of Violation issued in September of 2011 by the Kentucky Department for Environmental Protection, Division of Water. The city has until December of 2013 to begin the project but decided to proceed immediately, following a presentation by Vernon Shanklin, senior project engineer with Kenvirons.

Shanklin said the information provided by the needed equipment would show the Division of Water that the plant, which has a 372,000 gallon daily capacity, was not taking in more raw wastewater than it could treat. City Superintendent Dennis McClure told the council that he did not expect any problem with the intake/outgo equation saying that he expected it to "be pretty close."

The storm started last Friday morning around 8 o'clock as freezing rain and sleet poured down causing problems on the roadways for many travelers in the county. The ice also remained on the roads after refreezing late Friday night and early Saturday morning.

Rockcastle County Sheriff Mike Peters said they were dispatched out to their first wreck around 8:30 Friday morning when a tractor trailer rolled over an embankment on southbound I-75 at the 70 mile marker.

"When I came into work early Friday morning, the roads were clear and it was only misting rain," Peters said. "But when I walked out of the office and got into my vehicle to head to the tractor trailer accident, my cruiser already had a thin sheet of ice on it and the roads were also beginning to get extremely slick. The Way I See it

Doug Ponder

Mother Nature was apparently having some mood swings this past week as the weather consisted of a severe ice storm last Friday all the way to severe thunderstorms on Wednesday.

But as we all know, last Friday's ice storm was one of the most horrific ice storms our county has seen in years. The storm wreaked havoc on the county's roadways and covered the majority of the roads with approximately a half-inch of ice, making travel extremely dangerous.

As reporters we always want to be the first on the scene of an accident so we can catch everything while it is happening. As the old saying goes "a picture is worth a thousand words." This is especially true at a weekly newspaper. Instead of simply writing about every event that happens in the county, we also want to provide pictures to attract our visual audience.

However, I also want to point out that I vow to never take pictures of the bodies of people who have died or are seriously injured as a result of an accident. For these cases, I always make sure they can't be seen in the pictures I use. Although it's legal for reporters to take such pictures, I personally believe it is morbid and unnecessary. I myself have lost loved ones in tragic accidents and I would have been furious if any news media outlet showed my loved ones dead bodies in their pictures or videos.

So on Thursday night, I paid close attention to the latest weather news and knew there might be some freezing rain in the morning that could possibly lead to slick roadways. Anytime this occurs, you can always count on an accident to happen so I kept my scanner on in order to catch it when it

When I woke up around 7:30 Friday morning, I noticed the scanner had remained silent all night and I was astonished to discover it was above 32 degrees and only misting rain. However, about an hour later everything changed.

Emergency responders were paged out to their first wreck around 8:30 last Friday morning when a tractor trailer rolled over an embankment on southbound I-75 at the 70 mile marker. After that wreck, the scanner rarely stopped for another 36 hours as wreck after wreck was called in by people who were driving on the county's icy roadways.

I had never seen anything like it and I immediately began to think of those people who had no choice but to travel on the icy roads. Some people were having medical emergencies while some people still had to travel to work because they couldn't take the day off.

Salt trucks with the Rockcastle County Highway Department and state highway department also kept sliding off the roads while trying to salt the roadways. I even learned that state highway worker Earl "Big Earl" Blanton had slid his salt truck off the roadway. This news floored me because if Big Earl can't keep a salt truck on the road then the roads are obviously extremely slick and impossible to drive on. With the fierce ice storm that covered our county. I know Rockcastle County EMS, road crews, police departments and volunteer fire departments were extremely busy during the ice storm. After talking to a lot of our emergency responders and highway workers this past week, I believe they did everything they could during the ice storm. Truth is no one can drive on ice. Good drivers can drive in snow but no one can drive on ice.

I am glad the temperatures rose on Saturday and melted the sheets of ice off the roads. From now on I would rather have snow than see us all go through another severe ice storm.

With that being said, it's obvious that Mother Nature is definitely living up to the old saying of "If you don't like the weather in Kentucky, just wait five minutes and it will change." So after having weather ranging from ice storms to severe thunderstorms all in one week, I think it is now time for some clear sunshiny

The nostalgia of a wood-burning fire

Yesterday, Kathy and I decided to have dinner at the Cracker Barrel Restaurant in Mt. Sterling. As we were escorted to our seats, we passed by the huge fireplace that was roaring with a wood fire. I silently hoped we would be seated close to the fire so that I could smell the aroma and hear the logs popping as they burned. Sure enough, we were seated in front of the fire and that suited me just fine. The smell reminded me of the fires that my grandfather built each winter day in his Warm Morning stove.

When I was small, I loved following my grandfather (Pop) as he gathered kindling for his huge Warm Morning stove. Pop had a knack of creating a fire that would last the entire night even when the weather outside was frigid. We needed it, too, because the winds whipped around our small house atop a hill in the Pine Grove section of Rockcastle County. The task seemed to me to be an art form to him. I would watch closely. He explained what he was doing so that I would learn to build such a fire when I was

I will never forget the smell of Pop's Warm Morning Stove. That big old stove had a large window in the upper door through which Pop carefully placed his split wood. As the fire burned, the flames could be seen dancing inside the stove. You could watch the fire from all around the living room. He always pulled his cherry rocker up close to the stove, purportedly so that he could keep an eye on

My experience with fire building was put to use on many occasions when as a boy, joining my young friends in the woods near our home. Kenneth Hansel and I often took night walks, and we selected a rocky place in the woods near Big Fill Cave to build our campfires. I think he loved to sit around a fire as much as I did. For some reason, I recall one night when several other boys who lived in the area joined us. That time we were on a ridge near the Carter home, all of us watching as the dancing embers flew away into the night sky.

On another occasion, I remember being in the cave area with my older brother, Al, and lots of his friends from Mt. Vernon First Baptist Church. They built a huge fire and spent the evening telling ghost stories for the younger children who were also in attendance. I sat on a cold rock near the fire, listening to the eerie stories. I was proud of my big brother that night because he, too, could build an awesome fire. I suppose Pop must have also taught

Points East By Ike Adams

Since its start- up, early last autumn, The Paint Lick Community Arts Center has hosted a few events that its founders, Hal and Yvonne Davis call "An Evening With----".

Community members and out-of-town guests provide dessert plates instead of buying tickets. We sit around for half an hour or so and visit over coffee, tea and cookies and then we listen to an artisan talk about his or her work or we listen to local musicians do their

The center only has seating for 64 guests, but it can accommodate up to 75 if the overflow doesn't mind standing and leaning against the wall, or sitting on the floor. And that's what happened at both of the musical events Loretta and I have attended.

The first one featured my neighbors, Lewis and Donna Lamb, who are usually performing somewhere in Berea two or three times a week when they aren't the road someplace in Europe or Lewis Lamb is internationally famous for his unique, Appalachian fiddle style and his daughter, Donna, who accompanies him on guitar, has also gained international recognition for her magnificent vocal delivery of old time mountain ballads.

Needless to say, the "sellout" crowd that showed up for "An Evening with Lewis and Donna Lamb" came as no surprise. That Bell Jackson, one of the best clawhammer banjo pickers I've ever heard, was sitting in with them was icing on the cake.

However, a couple of weeks ago, Loretta commenced insisting that I confirm that our names were on the guest list for the coming Friday's "Evening with Sam Gleaves and Friends. Frankly, I'd never heard of Sam Gleaves and I was not particularly curious as to whom he kept company with, but the fact of the matter is that there's not a heck of a lot to do if you want to hang out in Paint Lick on a Friday night.

All Hal Davis had told me was that Sam was "an up and coming mountain musician" a student at Berea College and a member of the school's Bluegrass Ensemble. That was more than enough to pique my interest.

Imagine my complete surprise when we walked in and found 60 of the 64 seats already taken, with Lewis and Donna Lamb sitting in the middle of the front row. Loretta scurried to get us two of the remaining seats near the very back of the room while I grabbed our drinks and snacks.

An Old-Time Witch Tale: The Historic Bell Witch?

by: Tonya J. Cook

An Old-Time Witch Tale: The Historic Bell Witch?

Many years ago in 1782, John Bell married Lucy Williams. They were from North Carolina but moved to the Red River area of Robertson County, Tennessee. Robertson County is in the north-central portion of the state and borders Kentucky. They had a thousandacre farm where they built a house. They lived there with their children: Jesse, John Jr., Drewry, Benjamin, Ester, Zadoc, Elizabeth, Richard William, and Joel Egbert. The family grew and prospered in spite of "our family trouble", as they called it. The "trouble" was they were tormented by a witch. The true origin has been lost to history but it is said to have begun like this, in the words of the witch: "I am a spirit; I once was very happy, but I've been disturbed and made unhappy. I am a spirit of a person who was buried in the woods nearby and the grave was disturbed, by bones disinterred and scattered, and one of my teeth was lost under this house. I am here looking for that tooth." Yet another account is that the spirit claims to be "a spirit from everywhere: heaven, hell, the earth; am in the air, the houses, any place, any time; have been created millions of years." These accounts can't be verified but there are a number of native tribal burial grounds in the

The first of the unusual disturbances was an episode when John Bell fired a shot at a strange dog-like creature which vanished. The children soon began to see strange creatures. Sounds soon followed; unseen knocking, flapping wings on the ceilings, gnawing like rats, chains dragging, and heavy objects hitting the door. The source of the sounds couldn't be found. The spirit physically abused some of the children by hitting, pinching, and pulling their hair. It had a great compassion for their mother, Lucy, saying she was the "most perfect woman living" and even cared for her and sang to her while she was sick.

Evidently, the witch despised her husband, John. The witch always referred to him as "Old Jack Bell" and blasted him with curses,

Our Readers Write

Impressed with Rockcastle Regional...

Dear Editor,

Although our home in Rockcastle is much closer to London's hospital, I know exactly why my mother insisted upon me taking her to Rockcastle Regional. Instead of writing directly to the Rockcastle Hospital, I think it is good to let everyone know how impressed our family is of our local Our Mother had a very unexpected visit and twoday stay there this week. Everyone - the cooks in the cafeteria, janitors, nurses, doctors, aides, assistants, and all staff in the hospital and ER - made us feel as if we were being treated by extended family members showing us great hospitality when we just dropped by unexpectedly. I also know why so many of my friends in Laurel County are so high in Rockcastle Regional Hospital. They live up to their mission statement and treat everyone as family. And I greatly appreciated the warm blanket and pillows they brought me in the night as I tried to sleep on the chair in the patient room, trying to keep me as comfortable as possible.

There is no wonder why Rockcastle Regional Hospital wins so many awards and accolades from patients and visitors alike. It is very im-

Dear Editor,

When my brother, Billy Gentry of Brodhead, sent me a copy of the December 20, 2012 Signal, I was surprised and pleased to see my photo with the 1951 Livingston Blue Devils. It brought back many memories to see all those team members and read about that championship game. I really enjoyed coaching basketball with that team!

My wife, Hannah, and I started our careers in education at Livingston and the students there have always held a special place in our hearts. We have kept in touch with many of them through the years. We enjoyed going to the Livingston reunions when we were able to get out and I have got him this time; he will never get up from that bed again!" John Bell died the next day. The witch disrupted the funeral by singing crude drinking songs.

The witch also had other abilities. It once quoted two different sermons given verbatim at two separate churches at least twelve miles apart. Strange but nounced it was time for the show to start, it was elbow room only.

Twenty year-old Sam Gleaves walked out front and center with his banjo, surrounded by Jordan Engle on an upright bass taller than he was, Cory Shenk with a flat-top guitar, and Ethan Hamblin with his arms crossed standing to one side and grinning as though he was going to pounce on something. Sam and Friends, it turns out, are all students at Berea College.

Thirty seconds later I knew that we were in for an evening of entertainment we'd never forget.

Suddenly I realized that the music of my youth, the timeless celebration of our culture, through tunes and verses, had found an incredibly strong new voice.

Before the evening was over, Sam had demonstrated an intimate, easy and comfortable proficiency with the claw-hammer banjo, mountain fiddle, flat-top guitar and an amazing auto-harp that he, himself, had built from scratch. There was not a minute during the two-set performance that I didn't have shivers going up my arms and spine.

Sam's "mountain tenor" voice is sweet and pure and never seems strained. As Appalachian Author, Silas House, has already said, "To think that someone so young can understand the ancient tones of this music with such a deep and profound sense of honor makes me have a whole new kind of hope for the future. When Sam sings, we hear the generations before him: the joys, the sorrows, the strength and defeats. When Sam plays, we hear the land that has informed this music, the jagged, dark mountains, the meandering creeks, the even-rowed fields. '

And I say, "Amen, Brother Silas. You've hit that nail most squarely on the head."

I'm out of space here in your paper, but let me encourage you to get on your computer sometime soon and visit Sam Gleaves' address website www.samgleaves.com

On the site you will find contact information, much more biographical background and be able to listen to samples of his music. You will also find out how to order his new CD entitled "A Little Time in the Wilderness" and, before you ask, the answer is no, you can't borrow mine.

Finally, please believe me, this column may be the first but is certainly not the last time you'll be hearing about Sam Gleaves.

I still love to build camp fires in our woods on Furnace Mountain.

As a matter of fact, Kathy and I have two fire rings built out of stone in our yard. One of them is on the edge of the woods that we own next to our house. Throughout the year, we pick up sticks that have fallen off the trees in our yard and carefully fill the fire rings. We have approximately twelve very large oak, maple, and poplar trees that are strategically situated around our house so we have an ample supply of kindling. We love building a small fire in our yard so that we can take in the aroma and listen to the crackle of the wood burning. When it is really frigid, we take one of our blankets to cover our legs and sit very close to each other to ward off the cold air on our mountain top.

My wife and I were camping once on Laurel Lake, and I took a short walk into the woods, found a hollow log, and used Pop's instructions to lay a foundation of embers, placing the hollow log on top. As the fire began to blaze sparks, smoke and embers passed up through the hollow log and created a fireworks show second to none. We both were spellbound for a long time, quietly watching the dazzling flames before us. It was still glowing the following morning.

The first time I lived in a house with an actual fireplace was when Kathy and I lived in Lexington in a townhouse. It was a small, wood-burning fireplace, but each winter we created as many fires as the weather would accommodate. There is just something special about watching a fire as it crackles and pops while consuming the logs. I have no idea how many nights I fell asleep just watching and smelling the fire.

We now have a small fireplace in our home where we like to sit in the morning, drinking our coffee and Ale 8's while reading the morning paper. Our little house fills with warmth quickly. I am older now but I still love to watch the

I am so glad that Pop taught me the simple things of life – such as the pleasure of sitting before a fire. It really doesn't matter if it is an open fire ring outside, a big Warm Morning Stove, or a fireplace inside our house, watching a fire is another one of my most favorite things to do.

Local artist to demonstrate folk art painting, Feb. 9th

On Saturday, Feb. 9, Janice Harding Owens, of Mount Vernon, will demonstrate folk art painting from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea.

A native of Rockcastle County, Owens comes from a family of creative quilters and painters. In the 1980s she began painting a variety of wooden works created by her husband, Ron. Eventually Owens began to paint on boards and in 1989, painted her first canvas with acrylics. When folk art collector John Irvin saw Owens' work, he arranged to have her first exhibition of paintings at Central Bank in Lexington in 1991. She has since had painting exhibitions in numerous states, including Connecticut and

With children in her household, Owens chose to work with water-based acrylic paints to avoid the harsh smell of turpentine and to achieve a faster drying process. Kentuckians now have the option to have an organ donor heart printed on their license. Marcia Olinger is shown above helping John McElroy with his license renewal and organ donor imprint on his license. Looking on is Steve Weaver.

Circuit Clerk's office launches new organ donor heart on license

Effective January 23rd, a symbol that stands for hope and generosity on something you carry with you everywhere could be added to your driver's license. Like Indiana, Ohio, and several other states, Kentuckians now have the option to have an organ donor heart printed on their license.

'For more than 20 years, the Circuit Clerks of Kentucky have been educating communities about the lifesaving mission of organ donation. Thousands of kids and adults are waiting for an organ transplant today. Now, Kentuckians can proudly show their support for these patients in need," explained Rockcastle County Circuit Court Clerk Eliza Jane York.

When renewing a license, deputy clerks ask all Kentuckians if they would like to be a registered organ donor. Everyone who says "Yes" will have the option to have a small, blue heart with the words "Organ Donor" printed on his or her license. The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has worked hard with the Kentucky Circuit Court Clerks and the Trust for Life to get the heart symbol added to driver's license and ID cards.

vancement in Kentucky. The organ donor heart will emphasize that it's not about signing the back of your license anymore, it's about saying "Yes" and joining the Kentucky Organ Donor Registry," explained Shelley Snyder, Executive Director of the Kentucky Circuit Court Clerks' Trust for Life. Each day, 18 patients die waiting for a life-saving organ transplant. Every 10 minutes, a new name is added to the waiting list. Only 36 percent of Kentuckians are registered organ donors.

"Everyone who comes in my office for a driver's license or ID can add his or her name to the confidential registry and receive the Organ Donor Heart. Every heart we print gives hope to patient and families in need," explained York.

All Kentucky residents can join the Kentucky Organ Donor Registry at their Circuit Court Clerk's office www.donatelifeky.org.

$20,000 in the 2013 budget but will have to find additional funds in the budget to pay for the project. City Clerk Jeanette Robinson told the council that there was $72,000 budgeted in the sewer department for meters and software which could be used. Shanklin said that his firm could have bid packets ready to go out in 48 hours from the time of the council's approval so the project could be completed

Shanklin also told the council that a new facilities plan, required about every 20 years by the Division of Water, had been sent to them for review and approval. He also told the council that, probably at their next meeting, he would be present to go over the plan with them.

On the subject of annexation of several businesses and industries into the city limits, Mayor Mike Bryant told the council that he had asked for a legal opinion as to what constituted an industry and that he might even have to contact the attorney general's office for their opinion. "The annexation of an industry calls for a different approach than the annexation of a business, you can't automatically annex them," Bryant said. He also told the council that he felt the city would be able to proceed with the annexation but the approach to industries might have to be refined to better reflect the advantages of the annexation, such as increased fire and police protection, cheaper water rates, etc.

The mayor also told the council that there would be a presentation made about the water tank project at February's meeting.

All seven Rockcastle County volunteer fire departments, Kentucky State Police and Mt. Vernon Police Department also worked numerous wrecks throughout the county last Friday and Saturday. All volunteer fire departments and police departments also reported that they were not involved in any accidents themselves.

However, a Rockcastle County ambulance reportedly slid off the roadway on Copper Creek Road in Brodhead while trying to respond to a medical emergency at a residence in the area. The ambulance received minor damage to its undercarriage and is currently in a body shop for re-

With all the wrecks that were called in, authorities say they were fortunate that there were no serious injuries or fatalities reported.

County Judge Executive Buzz Carloftis said the Rockcastle County Road Department also had a difficult time trying to salt roadways during the ice storm. He said six county salt trucks slid off the roadways while trying to clear the county roads.

"It was so bad that I decided to stop them at 5 p.m. on Friday for the safety of the workers," Carloftis said. "We knew it was going to refreeze Friday night so we decided to call it off and try again Saturday morning.'

The state highway department also reported that they had four trucks run off the road during the ice storm while trying to clear state highways in the county. Fortunately, no major damage or injuries was reported after the county and state salt trucks slid off the roadways.

Carloftis said that he appreciated those Rockcastle County who stayed off the roads during the ice storm and that he is hoping the county never experiences another ice storm like this ever again.

"It was the slickest we have ever seen before. I would have rather seen a foot of snow then have to deal with that ice," Carloftis said. "I hope we never see another ice storm like that

The Rockcastle County High School cheerleaders were in full spirt during the Lady Rockets Monday night home game against Madison Central.

Rockets lose to McCreary Central

By: Doug Ponder The Rockcastle Rockets varsity basketball team is now 6-16 on the season after suffering a 70-61 loss at McCreary Central Tuesday night.

The Rockets managed to keep the game close in the first quarter with a score of 18-17. However, the McCreary Central Raiders extended their one point lead in the second quarter as they went into the locker room with a 35-27 lead.

After halftime, the Raiders momentum continued as they led 51-38 at the end of the third quarter. They would retain the lead in the fourth quarter with a final score of 70-61.

The Rockets were led in scoring by junior guard Corey McPhetridge with 15 points, junior forward Josh Mason was next with 13, senior center Ben Allen scored 10, sophomore guard Sam Pensol 9, sophomore guard Dakota Hasty 8 and senior guard Jon Curtis Wilson 6.

Head Coach Benny Blanton said his team missed a lot of open shots and that he believed it made the difference in the

"Their defense forced us to shoot outside the paint and we were 8 for 24 at the three point line so we couldn't make anything there either," Blanton said. "We just need to make more shots and bring down more rebounds, it's as simple as that."

The Rockets were scheduled to travel to Somerset to take on the Pulaski County Maroons last Friday. However, the game was postponed, because of the ice storm, to Thursday, January 31st with tip-off for the jayvee game at 6 p.m. with the varsity game at 7:30 p.m.

Blanton said Pulaski County is one of the toughest teams his squad has played all year and that they will have to play at 110% if they want to stay in the game.

"If we can just hang around and stay within a few points, you never know what will happen," Blanton said. "They are going to score a high percentage of their shots so we need to take care of the ball and keep the ball out of their hands as much as we can."

Lake Cumberland water level to increase 20 feet

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers announced today that it plans to raise the level of Lake Cumberland this summer by 20 feet, a year ahead of schedule as it nears completion of repairs on Wolf Creek Dam.

"This is great news for tourists, boaters, fishermen and the marinas and other businesses in the Lake Cumberland area," said Gov. Steve Beshear. "The early completion of the work at Wolf Creek Dam will help bring back muchneeded jobs in this area."

The corps said it planned to raise the level of the lake by about 20 feet this summer to a range of 700-705 feet above sea level, Lt. Col. James A. DeLapp, the Nashville District commander, said in a news release. Before raising the level, a safety team must conduct a review of a new barrier wall that is near completion to ensure it meets safety standards.

In 2007, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers lowered the level of Lake Cumberland by 40 feet to ease pressure on the structure. The corps said the dam needed repairs because a failure of the nearly milelong dam would flood communities along Cumberland River. It has remained at a level of about 680 feet above sea level.

The lowering of the water level resulted in fewer visitors to the lake and hurt local marinas and other tourism-related businesses. Even at the lower water level, the lake is the third largest lake in Kentucky. News reports said visitation to the lake dropped by 11 percent from 2006 to 2007. "I think this is the best news we could have received," said Carolyn Mounce, executive director of the Somerset-Pulaski County Convention and Visitors Bureau. "The fishermen are going to be in fishing heaven. It's going to make fishing on Lake Cumberland a premium."

Gerry Buynak, assistant fisheries director for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, said adding water atop the lake's overgrown banks will boost fish populations in Lake Cumberland for the next three to five

"This will result in a 'new lake' fish population boom, with very good spawns of fish such as bass and crappie expected," he said. "This vegetation will also provide cover for young fish so survival should increase resulting in the production of very strong year classes."

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife will stock 150,000 more walleyes and 150,000 more striped bass than normal this year. Altogether, the department will add 1 million walleye and striped bass to the lake this year to give fishing a boost.

Buynak said the department also plans to jumpstart the trophy trout fishery in the Lake Cumberland tailwater by stocking 10,000 trout larger than 15 inches next winter. "This will bring the fishery back quicker as the abundance of the larger rainbow trout in the tailwater has declined drastically due to poor water conditions," Buynak said.

Lady Rockets fall to Madison Central

By: Doug Ponder

The Rockcastle County Lady Rockets varsity basketball team is now 13-9 on the season after a 66-44 loss to Madison Central Monday night at

The Madison Central Lady Indians are 19-3 on the season and are ranked first in the 11th region and fifth in the state.

The Lady Indians came out strong and never let up on the Lady Rockets as they led 20-5 at the end of the first quarter and 27-13 at halftime. Their momentum continued in the second half as they led 44-31 at the end of the third quar-In the fourth quarter, tensions ran high as Madison Central's star forward Ashton Feldhaus received a technical foul for reportedly disrespecting one of the referees because she wouldn't pick up an "out of play" ball for him. After picking up the ball, Feldhaus reportedly rolled the ball on the ground to the referee instead of handing it to him which resulted in the referee giving her a technical foul. Feldhaus's father was thrown out of the game by the same referee for reportedly screaming profanities at him after his daughter received the technical foul.

Regardless of the technical foul, the Lady Indians would end up putting the game away in the fourth quarter for a final score of 63-44.

The Lady Rockets were led by senior guard Michaela Hunter with 19 points, senior guard Sara Adams was next with 15 and senior forward Emily Miller scored 6. Sophomore forward Amelia Eversole and junior forward Kayla Reynolds were both credited with 2 points each.

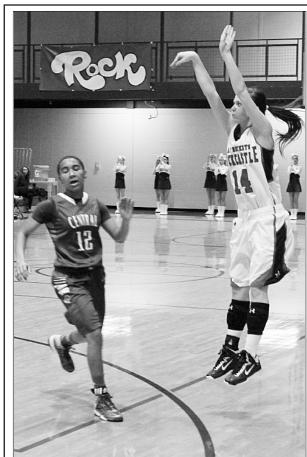

Head Coach Chrysti Noble said that her squad was simply outmatched against the highly-talented Madison Central team.

"It was hard to match their size and speed," Noble said. "If we had made shots in the paint and made our free throws, it would have been a better ball game." The Lady Rockets were scheduled to travel to Somerset to take on the Pulaski County Lady Maroons last Friday. However, the game was postponed to a later date as a result of the major ice storm that moved across the state this past weekend. The make-up game has been scheduledd for next Wednesday, Feb. 6th with the Lady Maroons. Tip-off for the jayvee game is 6 p.m. with the varsity game following.

Noble said that Pulaski County is another district game and a must win for

"We need to win the rest of our district games so we can get a high seed in the district tournament," "With Noble said. Chasteen out with her knee injury, we need other players to step up by getting more rebounds and points each game. If we don't do this, our chances of making the regional tournament will be very slim."

Senior guard Sara Adams shoots a three pointer during Monday night's home loss against Madison Central. Adams scored 15 points in the contest and kept the Lady Rockets close in the first half by draining three three-pointers.

Senior guard Michaela Hunter attempts a jumpshot during Monday night's 66-44 loss to the Madison Central Indians. The Lady Rockets were led by Hunter with 19 points.

Farm Service Agency Announces Important Program Update

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farm Service Agency (FSA) reminds producers that the American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012 extended the authorization of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 (the 2008 Farm Bill) for many Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) commodity, disaster, and conservation programs through 2013. FSA administers these programs.

The extended programs include, among others: the Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment Program (DCP), the Average Crop Revenue Election Program (ACRE), and the Milk Income Loss Contract Program (MILC). FSA is preparing the following actions:

FSA will begin sign-ups for DCP and ACRE for the 2013 crops on Feb. 19, 2013. The DCP sign-up period will end on Aug. 2, 2013; the ACRE sign-up period will end on June 3,

The 2013 DCP and ACRE program provisions are unchanged from 2012, except that all eligible participants in 2013 may choose to enroll in either DCP or ACRE for the 2013 crop year. This means that eligible producers who were enrolled in ACRE in 2012 may elect to enroll in DCP in 2013 or may re-enroll in ACRE in 2013 (and vice

All dairy producers' MILC contracts are automatically extended to Sept. 30, 2013. Eligible producers therefore do not need to re-enroll in MILC. Specific details regarding certain modifications to MILC will be released soon. FSA will provide producers with information on program requirements, updates and signups as the information becomes available. Any additional details will be posted on FSA's website. For more information on

Kentucky Soil Erosin and Water Quality Cost Share

The Rockcastle County Conservation District is now accepting Kentucky Soil Erosion and Water Quality Cost Share Applications on a continuous basis. This continual sign-up is designed to make the program more "landowner friendly" and help address the needs of a landowner at any time during the year. As landowners plan conservation projects with the assistance of their local conservation district, they will be able to apply for financial assistance for those projects without having to wait for a designated sign up period.

Thousands of Kentucky landowners have received state assistance through the Kentucky Soil Erosion and Water Quality Cost Share program. Known informally as state cost share, the program was created in 1994 and helps landowners implement best management practices to protect soil and water resources on their property. Since program's inception, more than $129 million has been approved for use in implementing best management practices through more than 15,000 submitted applications. This money has assisted landowners in all of Kentucky's 120 counties.

Many state cost share practices are offered through the state cost share program. Some examples are: agriculture and animal waste control facilities, streambank stabilization, animal waste utilization, vegetative filter strips, integrated crop management, pesticide containment, sinkhole protection, pasture and hay land forage quality and heavy use area protection. A list of all practices is available at http:// conservation.ky.gov/Pages/ StateCostShare.aspx.

The Kentucky Soil Erosion and Water Quality Cost Share program is funded through the Tobacco Settlement Funds and the Kentucky Department of Agriculture. For the 2013 program year, $2.5 million will be available to landowners across the state.

Pensol said that he originally thought about dismissing only the middle school and having the rest of the county's schools in session. However, he said that he quickly rethought the situation and decided to dismiss all Rockcastle County

'The middle school has a lot of students enrolled and we believed it would have caused too much confusion throughout the county if we only dismissed them," Pensol said. "There were also a lot of students being absent due to sickness throughout our schools. So, I finally came to the conclusion that this would allow enough time for the water main break to be repaired and for the students to have a chance to get well."

Pensol went on to say that they were lucky the water main break happened whe it did. "We are lucky that school had already been dismissed for the day and that the faculty was still in the building to catch it when it first happened," Pensol said. "If the water main break had happened over the weekend, we would have been dealing with some serious flooding is-

Weight loss diets

Family and Consumer Sciences

Hazel Jackson

Rockcastle County Extension Office

The holidays have passed, a new year has begun, and swim suit season is just around the corner. Many Kentuckians no doubt have made New Year's resolutions to lose weight. With weight loss aspirations come questions about the newest diets and best ways to lose weight in time for spring weddings or summer vacation. The number of fad diets and quick trick weight loss schemes circulating on the internet, television and in magazines is enough to boggle the mind. While some of these diet approaches may help an individual lose weight, they do not necessarily leave the person well-nourished and healthier. How does one recognize a fad diet? Remember the acronym fad

promise that the consumption of a certain food or group of foods will help

The problem: No known food burns calories. The only way to burn calories is through physical activity or body processes.

Anything You Want to Eat

These diets allow an individual to eat as much as they want of all their favorite foods but require them to cut out a certain food group. An example of this would be the diet that allows a person to eat everything except carbohydrates. Some diets also do the opposite of this, requiring dieters to cut out all foods except one specific food group. An example of this is a diet which restricts

The problem: These types of dietchanges can leave an individual deficient

These are the diets that an individual finds themselves restarting every few months because they have regained the weight they lost.

The problem: Fad diets are well known for quick weight loss that is very hard to maintain because of the low number of calories allowed per day and boredom associated with very limited food choices.

Disease States Not Addressed

Most fad diets do not take into account the needs and limitations of those suffering from chronic diseases, such as diabetes or cardiovascular disease.

The problem: Chronic diseases can be profoundly affected by diets that alter nutrients such as fat, sodium and carbohydrates. For example, some diets promote consumption of prepared meals or supplements which may be high in sodium. This could cause serious problems for a dieter with high blood pressure. Diets which severely limit or eliminate carbohydrates would interfere with a diabetic's ability to regulate their blood glu-

Inflexible Menu

Some diets set strict guidelines for certain foods that must be eaten at specific times throughout the day.

The problem: These diets can only be maintained for a short time, as most people's work and social schedules do not permit such rigid eating plans.

Exercise Is Optional Many diets promise that weight loss can be achieved by making a few easy adjustments in diet or taking a particular supplement. The problem: In order to lose weight, calories used must exceed calories eaten. Physical activity uses up calories, promoting weight loss. It also speeds up metabolism, so that body processes use more calories. Other benefits of physical activity include regulation of cholesterol, blood pressure and blood glucose, toning of muscles, and stress reduction.

Too Good to Be True If a diet seems too good to be true, it probably is. The problem: Before and after weight loss pictures in advertisements most likely are not representative of most dieters' results. Even if the pictures are accurate representations of an individual using that diet, it is impossible to know if the weight loss was sustained. A diet which achieves rapid loss of large amounts of weight most likely does not supply the nutrients needed for good health and will be difficult to maintain.

Speedy Weight Loss These diets promise incredible results in a matter of a few weeks.

The problem: Weight loss in excess of two pounds per week is difficult to maintain. Very low calorie diets can be dangerous and should only be attempted when prescribed and monitored by a physician to address urgent health con-

Although the promises of fad diets can be enticing, the safest and most effective way to lose weight and maintain weight loss is through a balanced diet and physical activity. Visit www.ChooseMyPlate.gov to determine an eating pattern that is best for your gender, age and activity level. An individual can lose one pound per week by using 500 more calories per day than he eats. Thus, weight loss may be achieved by eating fewer calories, burning more calories, or using a combination of both approaches. Simple lifestyle changes, sustained over time, allow for gradual loss of weight and improved health that is easy to maintain for years to come.
