Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet? Some things to think about...
 What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?
 Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
 A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains.
 B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.
 The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.
Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
 C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.
 D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.
 E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
 The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet.
 Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

Bids awarded for emergency services center

At Monday's meeting of the Rockcastle County Industrial Authority, County Judge Executive Buzz Carloftis told the board that bids had been awarded for the new emergency services center in Rockcastle Business Park South.

Carloftis said that some of the successful bidders lowered their prices, for a savings of $60,500 to help bring the bids in line with the $1.8 million construction estimate. However, the main savings was from the county who agreed to pay Goff Excavating, successful low bidder for the site work. Goff's bid was $151,800 and will be paid from grant money the county received from the Department of Transportation. Paving and street lighting will also be paid from the $200,000 grant. The county will use their own workers and equipment to lay the water and sewer line.

Carloftis also told the board that he was "not happy" with the way the bidding process was conducted by Codell Construction, managers for the project. "We allowed Codell to set up the bidding process with instructions to make the

Man who makes death threat against Judge has his bond lowered from $100,000 to $5,000

A Livingston man, charged with intimidating a judicial officer, had his bond lowered from a $100,000 cash bond to a $5,000/10% bond during his arraignment last Wednesday.

Bradley Thomas Wesley, 28, was arrested last Tuesday and charged with intimidating a judicial officer after he said he would kill Family Court Judge Steve Hurt if he tried to take his children away from him. He also made similar death threats against family preservation workers and social service workers who were the first to report signs of abuse, which reportedly included cigarette burns on Wesley's 4-year-old son.

According to an audio tape of Wesley's arraignment last Wednesday, District Court Judge Jeff Lawless appointed a public defender for Wesley, who had not hired a lawyer. The public defender waived formal arraignment and entered a plea of not guilty for his client.

When Judge Lawless asked if both the prosecutor and defender had come to an agreement on a bond amount, Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Jeremy Bartley asked Wesley "how much can you make?" to which Wesley re-

A large crowd enjoyed the festivities and fireworks display at the annual Blast in the Valley on Sunday. The event was able to proceed without any rain. However, the fireworks display at the annual Freedom Celebration last Saturday night at the Brodhead Fairgrounds was cancelled due to heavy rains. Western Volunteer Fire Department said they were fortunate to set off their fireworks at their Quail Fire Station on Hwy 70 last Saturday night before the heavy rains came.

Severe rains wreak havoc on Fourth of July celebrations

Severe rains and high winds moved through the region last weekend putting a damper on some of the Fourth of July celebrations in the county.

Rockcastle Association of Kentucky Baptists assistant Virginia McKinney said they had to cancel their fireworks display, at the annual Freedom Celebration, due to heavy rains at the Brodhead Fairgrounds last Saturday.

McKinney said the event got off to a good start as they were able to make it through the live music and singing. However, when guest speaker Chuck McAlister was speaking, toward the end of the event, McKinney said the heavy rains began and the crowds started to scatter.

"Everything went fine until the heavy rains came while McAslister was speaking," McKinney said. "People scattered once it came and the majority of them left."

McKinney went on to say that they still set off about a third of their fireworks because they were already staged and ready to be deployed. She said event organizers have not decided whether to reschedule the firework display, at the time of publication. However, she said the door prize

by: perlina m. anderkin
 Attended Blast in the Valley Sunday night and it was time well spent. This is one of the biggest events in the area and has been compared to Red, White and Boom in Lexington. I've never seen the Lexington event but have been told by those who have that our local production is just as good.

Usually, we are on the fringe because we don't want to get too far into the crowd, estimated at around 15,000 this year, but this year we ventured to behind Heritage Inn and the difference was magnificent. The fireworks were actually bursting right overhead and, for once, we could see the ones set off on the ground.

The Tourist Commission, City of Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle Fiscal Court are to be commended. This has turned out to be the biggest event in the county and it's free. One magistrate noted that it was a way to give back to county residents for the occupational tax.

Of course, with the occupational tax, the county has been able to do so much more in the way of economic growth which leads to job growth and a more stable economy for everyone.

Got a notice today of another class reunion for alumni of Versailles High School. It's scheduled for August but I haven't decided whether to go or not. My defense to the children when I talk about not going is that I don't normally like to hang out with old people. Of course, by the time they have pointed out the obvious, I'm mad and not speaking to them so I don't think I will even apprise them of the upcoming event. I went to the last one and left early. Jim was always good enough to go with me and I missed him terribly and really didn't feel like socializing so I slipped away early.

I have been gone from Versailles since 1966 and have lost touch with classmates. But, I am amazed the few times I have returned because they have all aged so much. I'm sure the same observation is made about me but, honestly, some of them are really old. If you notice, I have deliberately not mentioned which reunion it will be, that's no accident.

All of this not to mention that at the last one, I sat across from the most liberal classmate I had, at dinner, and had to physically restrain myself at times from reaching across the table and smacking her while she was extolling the virtues of the present administration. Now I know why I didn't like her in school.

Strange... But True?
by: Tonya J. Cook

It's Not a Bird, It's Not a Plane, It's Not Even Superman...It's the Spook Light!, Part III

In the past two columns of "Strange...But True?" a phenomenon known as "spook lights" was addressed. They appear as round or lantern shaped lights that appear at night. They may be a variety of colors such as orange, green, yellow, blue, etc. The light hovers about two or three

Just A Swangin'

My wife recently inquired as to whether we might consider an "old time" wooden porch swing for our back deck, to which I enthusiastically replied with a resounding, "Yes!" The very idea took me back to the days when my mother (Bee) and I lived with her parents (Pop and Mommie Katie) when I was a very young boy. During that time, the front porch swing was a central gathering spot in the warm months of the year.

Pop's swing was positioned on the corner of the front porch, which wrapped around two sides of his house. He specifically placed the swing in that position in order for the cool breezes to come from either direction so that the family could be as comfortable as possible.

Pop had trouble sleeping on those nights when the temperature was hot because we had no air conditioning. (No one we knew had AC at that time.) When he got too warm to sleep, he slipped outside while still in his underwear and slept on the swing. (Mommie Katie hated for him to do that because she was afraid that someone would see him dressed that way outdoors - which would have been an absolute horror.)

I can remember countless nights when the family congregated around the swing as soon as the sun dropped below the horizon. It was the perfect place to seek as the cooler night air began settling in. Accounts of the day's activities were discussed, and Mommie Katie usually had some icy treat for us to enjoy. I will never forget her southern sweet tea that was usually served on the porch. Somehow, to this day, I have never tasted any

Points East

By Ike Adams

My younger brothers, Keeter and Andy, came down from the mountains over the week end for a short visit and to help me get some motors running on stuff that's been nonfunctional for quite a while.

Both of my tillers were dead when I called them last week, begging for help but my fantastic neighbor and sourdough bread baker, Charlie Gruen, actually had my toy tiller running like an Elgin watch before they got here. In the meantime I had broken a tie rod end off the steering on my lawn mower. I told the boys that I'd done it on purpose in case they got bored with only having to fix one tiller.

I have two, very old, Troybilt tillers that have served me well over the last 20 years and both were old when I acquired them. One of them is the smallest, self propelled, rear-tine tiller the company ever made. I believe they called it a pony but the name has been rubbed off over the years. I call it my toy tiller. It's good for cultivating between rows but nobody is ever going to be breaking any new ground with it.

The second one is called a horse and it will do some serious digging when it's running. But it should have been called a mule because it can get very stubborn. In fact, until Keeter and Andy came down last Saturday, it hadn't even been out of the barn in nearly two years.

Two different small engine mechanics had previously told me that the problem was a bad ignition coil in the first breath. Then, in the second breath, they'd told me "good luck finding one that will fit that motor."

The motor is so old that the plate where the model number was stamped is long gone. I talked Charlie into pulling the ignition module off and I began shopping around to parts places and repair shops all over central Kentucky. Nobody had it in stock and the couple who said they could order it wanted more than the cost of a down payment on a feet from the ground, always a few yards ahead of those desiring to overcome the light and discover its mysterious source. The lights often lead the searchers astray and get them hopelessly lost.

Several legends make an attempt to explain the spook lights, depending on the country of origin. The American legends came with English and other European settlers as they migrated from the east coast expanding westward.

Some say the light generates sound. If you should encounter these lights, in an attempt to not be the victim, you are to turn your cap and coat inside-out, to confuse the light, I suppose. Also, you may stick a knife into the ground with the blade pointed upward. The spirit of the light will hurl itself on the blade, attempting to kill itself.

The spook light appears in many countries throughout the world. This week this column will focus on these countries.

In Asia the light is known as Aleya, or marsh ghost light. It is believed to be the ghost of dead fishermen. The lights cause the fishermen to lose their bearings and drown.

The Japanese know the lights as Hitodama or "human soul" as a ball of energy along with other names. They are usually associated with the graveyards, but occur all over Japan.

In South America, Brazil has the Boi-tata, a fiery serpent that survived a great flood. It feasted on the car-

An encouraging word:

Remember Our Precious Heritage
By Howard Coop

In preparation for Independence Day, one of our more significant national holidays, I read and mulled over the Declaration of Independence, as I have for many years. I wanted to understand, as clearly as possible, what the founding fathers of this nation were thinking when they wrote that tremendously important document.

Recognized as "the best known and noblest of American state papers," that short document, containing a mere 1,364 words, had a profound effect. When written and adopted, it threw off tyranny, broke relationship with England, and established a new nation that came to be known around the world as "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Although political leaders use Marxist terms to describe a class structure to pit one group against another for political advantage, we are a nation in which all citizens "are created equal." Therefore, there are neither lords nor commoners; we are one.

In recent years, we have become familiar with, and often talk about, entitlements, that is, rights we expect from the government. The founding fathers recognized that all "are endowed with" certain "unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness." These entitlements do not come from powerful governments; they come from the "Creator" of all things.

Governments "are instituted" among the citizens. Those governments are powerless; they derive "their just powers from the consent of the governed."

The fate of government rests in the hands of the people. The founding fathers declared that "whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive" of the ends for which it was created, it is "the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it."

At a time when there is pressure to replace all references to God in the public arena, we should remember that the founding father recognized that there is a Creator, known as "nature's God." When they wrote the Declaration of Independence, they acted "with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence."

As we observe Independence Day, we should remember our precious heritage given to us by those who prepared and adopted the foundational document of this nation.

Longest Day of Play thank you...

Dear Editor,
I would like to thank the enthusiastic crowd of over 490 community members who participated in the 2013 Longest Day of Play annual physical activity extravaganza and Community Health Fair last week at Rockcastle County Middle School Track. I am deeply grateful to the increasing number of community partners who embraced this event and gave their time and energy to assist with this year's evening of "play."

In an effort to increase activity among adults and youth and to promote a healthier Rockcastle County, each June the Rockcastle Healthy Communities hosts a "longest day of play" to celebrate summer solstice, the day with the longest amount of daylight. This year's event was packed with outdoor games and activities, including water play, bubbles, duck pond, hula hoops, jump rope, obstacle course, karate training course, pool noodle madness, bean bag toss, sponge races etc.

In addition to the play activities we had several educational activities some of which included: child and summer safety information, Cancer info, Cumberland River Victims services, good dental health, KY Safe Foods, Recycling, Hand hygiene, rethink your drink, Asthma education, poison prevention and many more.

On behalf of Rockcastle Healthy Communities, I would like to express appreciation and gratitude to the volunteers and staff who assisted during the event as well as those who participated in planning over the past months. While it is impossible to list each agency and individual who contributed to the success of Longest Day of Play, I want to publicly thank some key folks who made our event possible. Rockcastle County Middle School for opening its doors to us: Jesse McHaffey and Angie Payne were essential in facilitating the booths' setting-up and just being there for us throughout the event. Rhonda Childress with her HOSA group helped us tremendously with various activities. WRVK and the Mt. Vernon Signal were instrumental in getting the word out to the community and DJ Charlie Napier as our Emcee throughout the event. King Bottling gave us a generous supply of water for all participants. Shari Proctor and the Bittersweet Cloggers, Ginger Taylor with KY Romp and Stomp and Eric Bullock with the Rockcastle Shaolin Do provided entertainment. The Rockcastle Regional Hospital for hosted the Fit Family Fun Run which had an astounding 168 participants.

Overall, the event provided exercise for the "whole" person- mind, body and spirit, as well as education about available community services. The result was a wonderful evening of FREE fun and fellowship among community families and agencies. The Rockcastle Healthy Communities group is composed of individuals and agencies with a common commitment to making Rockcastle a healthier county.

With Thanks,
W. Anne Harris

nage remaining after the disaster, especially the eyes of the victims. Now it has the power to see all, even at night. Also, in Argentina, the light is known as Luz Mala or Fuego Fatuo, the "evil light". It is seen in rural areas and is greatly feared.

Mexico has its share of spook lights, known as the "mia-mia light". These are supposedly witches that were transformed into orbs of light.

The above photo was taken around 1946 or 1947 of the Owens Schoolhouse. It was located between Quail and Bee Lick and was a one room schoolhouse with no electricity, a pot belly stove and one teacher to teach eight grades. The school closed its doors in 1955. Students show above, front row from left: Johnny Taylor, Della Mae McLemore, Ruby Jean McLemore, ?, Bonnie McKinney, Joyce McKinney, Elva Bullock, Nina Lou Caldwell and Carl Blevins. Second row from left: Reba Bullock, Margaret Brown, Lucille Brown, Betsy Price, Roberta Elder, Ina Taylor, Mildred Taylor, Janet Thompson and Martha Blevins. Third row from left: Jackie Brown, Paul Blevins, Robert Elder, Charles Bullock, Sam Hayes, Annaleen Bullock and Irene Bullock. Fourth row from left: Donald Gentry, Elsie Hayes (teacher), Fern Weaver and Wanda Blevins.

Australian folklore dates the lights prior to the settlement of Europeans. However, along with the increasing population, the lights increased, too. The lights approached people and when fired upon would disappear, only to reappear later. These are only a few of the countries to play host to the mysterious spook lights.

In an attempt to explain the lights, the scientific community, going back to 1776, has determined the cause to be methane gas sparked by lightning or spontaneous combustion. Others believe the light is a reflection from another light source a distance away, a fungus, fireflies, or reflections of barn owls.

The spook lights or "will-o-the-wisp" has been noted in literature, music, and art. They may be seen in Missouri, Texas, North Carolina, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Florida, Michigan, and Utah. There are postings of them on "YouTube", as well. Sources: As earlier noted in previous columns.

"Memories"

iced tea that could match hers. That delicious beverage was one of the comforts that I missed most when I left Mt. Vernon for UK in the summer of 1962.

On some nights when the adults were "swingin," my friends and I were playing in the big yard in front of the house. We occupied our time with playing hide and seek, lying on our backs watching the stars, or catching lightening bugs. Countless Mason jars were filled with those lit-up insects. It was a challenge to see who could catch the most fireflies. That time of day has some sort of magical quality all its own, with the darkness truly setting in and the lightening bugs just piercing the air in quick flutters—until you suddenly realize that it really is dark. By that time, their glow seemed to be a reasonable night light to lead you where you must go – most often, to bed.

Another memory I have of porch swings revolves around a girl whom I dated in high school. Her name was Joyce, and her parents released her to date in cars at about the same time that I got my driver's license. Joyce had to be home at a reasonable time, but we usually took a seat in her front porch swing as soon as I pulled into her driveway. As long as she was at home, she was permitted to sit on her porch for long periods. That was just fine with me, because I was occasionally able to steal a few kisses while we were "swingin." Joyce and her family moved to Denton, Texas when we were juniors in high school. I really missed her, and for a long time after that I would notice that swing every time I drove by her vacated home.

I also have fond memories of Bee and Mommie Katie sitting on the swing while breaking white half-runner green beans. Pop loved these beans so much that he always planted several rows in his big garden. When the beans were ready, Pop gathered buckets full and simply placed them on the porch. Then it was time for the ladies of the house to take to the swing and break beans. This went on for days each summer. Mommie Katie canned the half-runners and carefully placed them in the cellar so that we would be able to have them all winter long.

About the time that I started driving, Mommie Katie sometimes asked me to join her on the porch so she could give me some Godly advice. I actually loved these personal chats because it quickly became clear that she had been thinking about a potential problem that I was about to encounter. Even though she was not highly educated, she had a world of common sense, and she often shared special thoughts with me while we were sitting on that wooden swing. Once she had finished her task and believed that I had understood her advice, she usually placed her wrinkled hand into her apron and handed me a "wad" of crumpled cash. She was one of the most generous women I ever knew.

So the very idea of a front porch swing holds a special place in my heart because of my own background. My family members were drawn to that spot, and year after year we kept coming back – even though some of us moved away. On our visits home, that big old swing drew us back to the front porch where it felt like we would just pick up where we left off the last time we gathered there. That swing greeted us like a lifelong trusted friend.

Oh, how I cherish those memories of the times when we were just swangin!

I took photos of the part and sent them to a small engine place in Minnesota. To make a long story short, they sent me the module for $30.00 and that included shipping. However, taking a coil off is pretty much a piece of cake. Putting one back on is not so easy because it has to be lined up precisely right.

And it turned out that the mule had a host of other issues that had developed because it had been sitting too long and the fuel system had become terribly corroded. But Keeter can fix anything and Andy is almost as good. He just has two years less experience.

But they got the tiller going and the garden perfectly ready for summer planting before they headed back to the hills early Sunday afternoon. The lawn mower is also running like it has power steering even though we had to make one trip to Berea and two to Richmond and put 95 miles on Andy's car before we found the right tie-rod end.

We didn't eat supper Saturday night until after it got too dark to work in the garden.

Jimmy Robinson, who owns and runs Robinson Premium Meats (formerly known as Robinson Sausage) there in East Bernstadt, had send us a big box of stuff to grill on The 4th but I figured Jimmy wouldn't mind if I fed my brothers a little early because they won't be here for the holiday.

So Loretta steamed up a big kettle of snow peas we'd just picked, a big bowl of tater salad and a skillet full of bodacious sweet corn from last's years garden that tasted like it had just been picked to serve up with a dozen big Robinson Polish Sausages.

The sausages are laced with sharp cheddar cheese and a variety of herbs. One of the 4-packs had also been laced with halapeno' peppers but she forgot which was which and you couldn't tell without tasting.

I happen to love hot peppers in meat dishes if the cook doesn't get carried away and I already knew that these were perfect, because I figured Jimmy wouldn't mind if I sampled them before I tried them out on other people. So, the week before the boys showed up I'd been eating one a day for four days just to be absolutely sure.

I looked across the table and Keeter was sweating like a race horse even though it was cool in our kitchen but he was literally stuffing that sausage away and I knew he'd latched onto one of the hot sausages.

received numerous tips that Kidwell was trafficking Oxycodone

When Adams approached Kidwell's vehicle, he saw Collins reach for his wallet in his right back pants pocket but when he noticed Adams he turned loose of his wallet. Adams also noticed Kidwell trying to place something in her right front pants pocket. When Adams asked her what she was doing she replied "nothing."

Adams then asked Kidwell to step out of her vehicle and to not touch her pockets. As she exited the vehicle, Adams noticed that she had something in her left hand. Adams asked her to give him the object and when she did not comply he pried it from her hand and found that Kidwell was holding a zip-lock bag that contained three Oxycodone tablets.

After receiving consent from Kidwell to search her vehicle, Adams found $300 in cash, various business cards for a pharmacy in West Virginia and a pain clinic in Rome, Georgia. Adams also found two envelopes with pill counts marked on them.

Upon receiving consent to search Collins' vehicle, Adams found two Oxycodone tablets. Collins told Adams that he had purchased the two Oxycodone tablets from Kidwell for $40.

Kidwell was charged with trafficking a controlled substance and tampering with physical evidence. Collins was charged with possession of a controlled substance.

Both Kidwell and Collins were lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center. Collins remains lodged on a $5,000 unsecured bond and Kidwell was later released on a $5,000 unsecured bond.

Bible Talk

In our study this month we would like to look at John's exhortation in 1 John 2:15-17. "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever."

The World? - What does John mean here about the world? Does he mean the people? No, for God loves the world of people, Jn.3:16. Does he mean the planet itself? No, for the world (planet) is very good, Gen.1:31. The world that we are not to love is the realm of iniquity the domain of darkness, which Satan is king of, John 12:31, "Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out." Now let us consider the 3 avenues of enticement that the Devil uses to draw us into his realm, the world of sin and iniquity.

The Lust of the Flesh - Satan appeals to the desires of the flesh, seeking to get us to find fulfillment in an unlawful way: a short cut to satisfaction. Satan has used the same 3 avenues of enticement since the beginning of time as with mother Eve, in Gen.3:1-6.

The Lust of the Eyes - He appeals the lust, or desires of the eyes. The problem with all his allurements is the bondage of sin that comes with temptation that is partaken of. It is like when you go fishing, you have to put some bait on the hook to get the fish to bite the hook. It is the hook that Mr. Fish is not considering in the allurements. Even so, when Satan is luring us to commit sin, it is the pleasures of sin that is luring us to do wrong.

The Pride of Life - Satan lures us at times with the pride of life. Appealing to our ego and pride to do that which is wrong. Jesus was tempted by the same 3 avenues of temptation in Matt.4 and Luke 4. Temptation is common to all humanity, "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it." 1Cor.10:13. Let us look to Jesus and his word to see that sin wears a mask, and Satan is wanting to devour us as a roaring lion. Let us love God and what is right.

We invite you to study and worship with us at the Providence church of Christ.

Owens wins spot in USGA Tournament

Hannabeth Owens recently secured a spot in the 2013 U.S. Girl's Junior Championship to be held at Fort Wayne, Indiana later this month. Once all of the scores were in, Owens found herself in a tie for third place with Elsa Moberly of Science Hill and Chakansim Khamborn of Thailand. The three headed to the 10th tee for a sudden death playoff for two spots in the championship. After only one hole, Owens and Moberly defeated Khamborn to receive their spots in the biggest girl's junior tournament in the world.

Jackson Energy holds 75th Annual Meeting

Fireworks filled the night sky along KY HWY 290 last Friday as Jackson Energy's 75th Annual Meeting concluded with a bang. A crowd of more than 5,000 onlookers lined the roadsides, parking lots and fields for the pyrotechnic finale to an evening of entertainment and cooperative business. Entertainer Ronnie McDowell performed his own country music and also a Tribute to Elvis show, which included help from the audience as he serenaded the crowd with his renditions of Elvis Presley's hits. The evening's business meeting began with Jackson Energy employee Renita Fox singing the national anthem, and also included the results of director elections. In the District 1 election for the Eastern Jackson County area, Gordon Phillips defeated incumbent Sally Brewer by a vote of 408 to 394. Directors who ran unopposed and were re-elected were District 3 Northern Laurel County, Steve Patton, Jr., and District 5 Rockcastle County, Phil Thompson.

Bianca Abner, Jackson County High School; Shelby Madden, Jackson County High School; and Zack Grigsby, Clay County High School. Youth tour students not present at the meeting were Angie Roberts of Owsley County and Andrew Worley of Laurel County.

The winner of the grand prize, a 2007 Chevrolet Impala, was Gwen Watts of Laurel County.

process 'friendly' to local bidders." Carloftis said instead Codell grouped different phases of the project into categories which, for example, kept local brick layers from bidding on just that portion of the project. "They didn't do what they said they would do."

The project totals $3,000,000 for everything, including furnishing the building and is being paid for by federal funds. Construction is expected to be completed in June of 2014.

In other business, RCIDA Executive Director Holly Hopkins told the board that she had received a draft of an amended lease from SourceHOV and would present the lease to the board when it was received in its final form.

Hopkins said that SourceHOV had changed the lease to reflect a consistent payment each month, instead of the lease amount being affected by the number of employees. "This was the only lease of its type in SourceHOV's entire company and they do not want the number of employees to affect their lease payment." The director said the change would probably result in an increase in Source's monthly lease payment of $25,395 and that the company intended to pay the amount owing from when the company did not have 300 employees.

She also told the board that a hiring freeze had been lifted by the Veterans Administration. The freeze was brought on by the VA changing the way they submit information to Source and the sub-contractors located in the same building. "Source HOV is in the process of clearing up a backlog of applications and are still not taking new applications," Hopkins said.

ASPI representatives were on hand to give the board an overview of their community garden project and to discuss future events. The community garden is located on land owned by RCIDA on Richmond Street and three families are currently involved with the project. ASPI plans to expand this number.

A dedication event is tentatively scheduled for July 18th, featuring entertainment by Drew Davidson and Beverly Sexton.

plied "I might can make $1,000. I would be lucky if I could make that." Wesley later admitted that he had been unemployed for nine months.

Bartley recommended that Judge Lawless set the bond at $5,000/10%, which means he would only have to post $500 to make bail. However, Bartley recommended conditions to the bond which would place Wesley on house arrest with an ankle monitor and no movement from his home. He also recommended that Wesley have no contact or communication with the victims of his threats.

Wesley's public defender was also in agreement with Bartley's recommendations. Bartley could not be reached via phone to respond to why he made the recommendations to have Wesley's bond lowered to such an extent.

Judge Lawless ruled in favor of Bartley's recommendations for Wesley's bond amount and bond conditions. Lawless also listed Wesley as a "flight risk" and a "danger to self or others."

Wesley currently remains lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center on the $5,000/10% bond. His preliminary hearing will be on Monday, August 12th in Rockcastle County District Court at 9 a.m.

“Rains”

winner's names will be drawn and announced at a later date.

Western Rockcastle Volunteer Fire Department Chief Johnny Bengé said they were fortunate to complete their annual Fourth of July Celebration without any rain delays last Saturday at the Quail Fire Station on Hwy 70.

Bengé said it only came a light shower before the event started at 6 p.m. and they made it through the entire event before the heavy rains came later that night.

“We were fortunate to make it through the event without any rain,” Bengé said. “But about 15 minutes after we shot off the last firework, it started pouring so we just simply got lucky.”

Mt. Vernon Fire Department Chief David Bales said there was no rain during the “Blast in the Valley” Sunday and that they were able to shoot off all their fireworks as well without any problems.

“We were more fortunate than the other celebrations in the county as we had fair weather and clear skies for the most part,” Bales said. “It’s all just luck of the draw as we can’t control the weather. It’s liable to flood us out next year and not rain at all in Brodhead or Quail.”

“Market”

A new location in Mt. Vernon will be on Richmond Street between the Health Department and school board learning center from 12:20 p.m. until 4 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Farmers Market members started this new location to better serve those working public jobs. Customer’s supported the new site and marketing hours in a great way allowing for expansion to a second day.

Everyone is encouraged to help your family eat healthy locally grown fresh vegetables this summer by supporting the local Farmer’s Market.

Orlando native lands leading role in "The Music Man"

The Oldham County Arts Center presented famed Broadway musical, The Music Man, for three performances on June 14th-15th, starting local singers, dancers, and actors. Among them Orlando native, Teresa (Renner) Boling, who lives in Crestwood, and Oldham County with four children, Brooke 17, Jon Thomas 15, Janae 14, Ethan 8, and husband Jeff. Cast along with the entire Boling family of dancers and singers, Teresa Boling played brilliantly the lead role of Marian the Librarian, who threatens to expose confidence man, Harold Hill, masterfully played by Gregg Jackson.

Professor Harold Hill has his work cut out for him to bamboozle the townspeople of River City, Iowa because the town librarian and piano teacher, Marian Paroo (Teresa Boling), is quite smart and will expose him instantly. Harold takes that as a challenge, both professionally and romantically. Eventually, Harold's crooning love songs convince the 26 year old Marian to dance the Shipoopee and meet him at the footbridge during the Ice-Cream social, a place she has never ventured before with any boy.

The Music Man is a musical, based on a story by Meredith Willson and Franklin Lacey. The plot concerns con man, Harold Hill, who poses as a leader and sells band instruments and uniforms to naive townsfolk before skipping town with the cash. In River City, Iowa, prim librarian and piano teacher Marian Paroo (Teresa Boling) sees through him, but when Hill helps her younger brother, Winthrop, overcome his fear of social interactions due to his lisp, Marian begins to fall in love with Harold. In the end, Harold, in turn, falling for Marian, risks being caught by Constable Locke (husband Jeff Boling) to win her heart and become her "White Knight". In the end, Harold exclaims that he didn't expect to get his foot caught in the door [of Marian's heart].

The Oldham County Arts Center production was well attended by hundreds of opening night with all audiences enjoying the many songs from Marian Paroo (Teresa Boling) including Goodnight My Someone Goodnight, My White Knight, and 'Till There Was You.

Stars of Duck Dynasty to be at KY State Fair

Willie, Korie, Si and Kay Robertson, stars of A&E's Duck Dynasty, will entertain fans of the reality show and outdoor enthusiasts alike on the last day of the 2013 Kentucky State Fair. "A Conversation with the Robertsons" will be a part of the Main Stage Concert Series in Freedom Hall on Sunday, August 25 at 3:00 p.m.

Duck Dynasty, A&E's most-watched series, features a Louisiana bayou family living the American dream as they operate a thriving family business.

"We are thrilled to have the Robertsons bring a new type of entertainment to the fair this year," said Kentucky State Fair Board CEO Clifford "Rip" Rippetoe. "They have a large fan base who watch and follow them for their values, lifestyles and hobbies."

The Robertson family operates West Monroe, Louisiana-based companies Duck Commander and Buck Commander. They sell their famous handmade duck calls and decoys out of salvaged swamp wood, along with other duck hunting and deer hunting merchandise. The family-operated business is the basis of the A&E Duck Dynasty television show.

Willie Robertson, CEO of Duck Commander and Buck Commander, grew up with the family business and has been in and around hunting his entire life. As executive producer of the show, he has a passion for inspiring future hunters by showing the outdoor lifestyle in an entertaining way.

Korie Robertson, Willie's wife, serves as the office manager of Duck Commander. Alongside Willie, she has helped to expand their enterprise.

Si Robertson is most recognizable on the show for his blue cup and ability to never stay on task. He makes all of the reeds for the Duck Commander calls while sharing stories and offering his advice to the others.

Kay Robertson is the revered matriarch of the family. Known as Miss Kay, her cooking is recognizable with show fans for bringing the family together. Her most famous dishes being banana pudding, fried deer steak, crawfish pie and sticky frog legs. Family cookbook, "Miss Kay's Duck Commander Kitchen: Faith, Family, and Food," will be published November 5, 2013.

The 2012 Christmas episode ended season two as the most watched A&E episode at the time, only to be surpassed by the season three finale which totaled 9.6 million viewers.

Tickets to see "A Conversation with the Robertsons" began Monday, July 1 and are $48 and $38 which include Kentucky State Fair gate admission. ## KHESLC lowers interest rates on college loans

Kentucky students and parents who need help paying for college can now get lower interest rates on Advantage Education Loans from the Kentucky Higher Education Student Loan Corporation (KHESLC).

On July 1, interest rates dropped to as low as 5.29 percent. The exact rate will depend on creditworthiness, choice of payment plan and if payment is made by auto debit. The interest rate is fixed for the life of the loan.

The low-cost loans fill the gap between other financial aid a student receives and the total cost of education. Students should apply for all free aid, such as grants and scholarships, then for Federal Stafford Loans before applying for a private loan.

To qualify for a student Advantage Loan, the student must:

- Be enrolled in an approved school.
- Be 18 by the date of application.
- Be a U.S. citizen or a non-citizen with a proof of residency card.

•Have an acceptable credit history or an approved cosigner.

To qualify for a parent Advantage Loan, the borrower must:

•Be the parent or stepparent of an undergraduate or graduate student, as determined by the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

•Be a U.S. citizen or a non-citizen with a proof of residency card.

•Have an acceptable credit history or an approved cosigner.

The loans are available to students attending eligible colleges and universities. Applications may be submitted online at kheslc.com. For more information, call 888-678-4625.

KHESLC is a public, nonprofit corporation that provides education loans for students and parents. It was established by the Kentucky General Assembly in 1978.

Modern Conveniences Are Not Always Convenient

The modern world is tremendously different from the world of fifty years ago. For those of us who remember back that far, we remember those days when modern conveniences did not exist. Many of these are things we now take for granted. They are so much a part of our lives that I wonder how we got along without them.

1. When I was a child, we did not have air conditioning in our house. All we had were a few shade trees, and yet I do not remember fretting about the heat. Perhaps this was because kids just do not notice these sorts of things or perhaps I just did not know any different. It may be true that "you can't miss what you never had." Today, I would give up a lot of things before I would part with my air conditioner.

2. Computers are a daily part of many people's lives in the modern world. I can remember learning to type on a manual typewriter. (For you youngsters, that's the kind of thing you see in movies made in the forties and fifties.) It took a firm keystroke just to make the key strike the paper. In my high school typing class we even had one electric typewriter! Yes, we were up-town! Students took turns typing on it, just so we would know what it felt like.

3. And what about copy machines? We continually run to the copy machine these days. If the copy machine breaks, whole offices come to a standstill. In the old days we used carbon paper. If you missed the experience of making five carbon copies on a manual typewriter, be thankful. Making a mistake meant that you had to stop and individually erase the mistake on each page before you could continue. It took awhile.

4. We had never heard of video cassette recorders, CDs or DVDs. Records were played on the stereo with the old LP record albums. These gradually wore out and would skip and hiss as they aged. If you wanted to watch a movie, you had to wait until it came to the local movie theater.

There were no DVDs to rent.

5. How many storage buildings are in your town these days? Where I live it seems there are thousands – and almost all of them are rented. In the old days only businesses had warehouses. Now individual families rent warehouse space. What did we do before storage buildings? Did we have more room at home to store stuff then? Do we have more stuff now?

6. Does your car have air conditioning? Can you imagine traveling without it? When I was a child, my grandparents lived in the southern part of Georgia. My dad always got his vacation in July. Do you know how hot it is in an un-air conditioned car in Georgia in July? In the days before I-75, the drive took sixteen hours. My sister and I barely avoided doing bodily harm to each other. I can only imagine my parent's misery.

7. Talked to anyone on your cell phone lately? Cell phones have both advantages and disadvantages. You can call from anywhere, anytime, which is especially helpful if your car breaks down or you are lost. The disadvantage is that you never have a moment's peace. Anyone who carries a cell phone is always at someone's beck and call. If you younger folks can imagine this, when I was a child, we had no phone at all! We walked to the neighbors to use the phone. That was quite a chore but, on the positive side, no telemarketers ever called us either.

BEFORE CONSOLIDATION

The Golden Age of Rockcastle County Basketball

David Owens and M.T. Publishing Company, Inc. are joining forces to bring you Before Consolidation: The Golden Age of Rockcastle County Basketball. This history/pictorial book will explore times before consolidation, when the county had three high schools, Mt. Vernon, Livingston and Brodhead.

The 1950s was known as the Golden Age of Basketball throughout Kentucky, which was probably when the county rivalry was at its height. This extraordinary book will take you through intense rivalries, when 36 players instead of 12 represented Rockcastle County or when passion was so strong that local police had to come to prevent hostilities from breaking out between Red Devil, Blue Devil or Tiger fans!

Only a limited number of books will be printed, therefore it is necessary to take all orders in advance. The pre-publication price is $37.50* for the deluxe standard edition and $64.95* for the genuine bonded leather edition if ordered by the pre-order deadline of July 31, 2013.

This 8 1/2" x 11" hardbound book will have a full color dust jacket and contain a minimum of 128 pages. You may have your copy personalized with a name stamping on the cover for a nominal charge. All pre-ordered books will contain the wording "Commemorative Edition" on the cover and a printed personal note from the author. These commemorative edition books are numbered as they are sold.

Complete the order form below and remit with payment no later than July 31, 2013. To order with credit card, go online to www.mtpublishing.com or call toll free 1-888-263-4702. Credit card orders will be kept on file and charged 30-60 days before shipping.
