Redistricting plan officially puts Rockcastle in 71st district

By: Doug Ponder
Governor Steve Beshear signed a redistricting bill last Friday that officially changed the legislative districts in both the Kentucky Senate and House of Representatives.

The new redistricting map for the senate still has Rockcastle County, along with Madison County and a southern portion of Fayette County, represented by Senator Jared Carpenter in District 34.

But the new redistricting map for the State House of Representatives has Rockcastle County moving from House District 80 to House District 71. Rockcastle County will now be with Garrard County and a western portion of Madison County.

However, a twist was added in the emergency clause of the redistricting bill that was signed by the governor last Friday. The former house district map had the 71st district in Menifee, Morgan, part of Rowan and part of Wolfe counties under Democrat Representative John Will Stacey. Until the 2014 general election, Rockcastle

County will be under Representative Stacey, who was elected to the district in 2012 and currently resides in Morgan County.

The clause was justified by the Kentucky Attorney General Jack Conway's Office that stated all senators and representatives represent the entire state once they are sworn in even though they do have an interest in serving their geographic districts.

In the 2014 fall general election, current Representative Jonathan Shell, who was elected in 2012 to the 36th District in Garrard and part of Madison county, plans on running to represent the newly-formed 71st district, which includes Rockcastle Garrard and part of Madison counties. Until the fall general election in 2014, Shell will be serving in his old 36th district which has now been moved to Louisville.

Amidst all the confusion, former Rockcastle Representative David Meade and future hopeful Representative Johnathan Shell were present for the monthly

Livingston man arrested for child abuse and bribery

By: Doug Ponder
A Livingston man was arrested for child abuse and bribery after police responded to some bizarre complaints last Thursday in Livingston.

Arrested was Earl Poynter, 41, of Livingston. According to the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department, Deputy Sheriff Matt Bryant and Casey McClure initially responded to Poynter's residence because they had an active warrant for Poynter's arrest for first degree disorderly conduct.

Once officers arrived at the residence, they advised Poynter that they had an active warrant for his arrest. However, Poynter refused to be arrested and told officers he was "not going to jail until they showed him some paperwork."

Poynter then told the officers that he was going back inside his house and that they "didn't need to come back until they had paperwork for his warrant." Bryant then threatened to use his Taser on Poynter if he went back inside his house. Poynter then com-

A large crowd attended Monday night's meeting of the Rockcastle County Republicans. Former State Representative David Meade (from Lincoln County), left in bottom photo and State Representative Jonathan Shell (from Garrard Co.) were present. Both men spoke at the meeting, along with State Senator Jared Carpenter and newly-appointed Family Court Judge Marcus Vanover of Somerset. County Republican Chairman Travis Burton chaired the meeting.

RCHS graduate studies at sea and visits 27 countries

A 2010 Rockcastle County High School graduate recently returned home after seeing 27 countries during a five and a half month trip around the world on board a ship with the Semester at Sea program.

Raj Patel, 21, of Mt. Vernon said he learned about the program during a family vacation to San Francisco in 2011. Patel said he spoke to some of the businessmen in the area who got him interested in the program.

"My interest in the program grew and before I knew it I was applying," Patel said. "I was accepted and quickly became excited to sail around the world."

The Semester at Sea program is open to students at any university or college in the United States. During the fall and spring semesters, the one hundred day program travels around the globe with approximately 720 undergraduate students as they study abroad on the program's ship the MV Explorer.

Patel, who is a Computer Information Technology major at Somerset Community College, took four classes while at sea that will count toward his degree. He also said the semester was very different for him as there was limited contact with the outside world.

"Ship life was absolutely amazing," Patel said. "There was no cell phone service and we were only allowed two hours of internet time for the entire semester. With the limited technology we would all talk to each other for hours during meals."

During his trip, Patel got to walk across the Great Wall of China, attend the World Sumo Championship in Japan, see the Vietnam War museum in Vietnam, stay at the tallest hotel in the world at the Ritz-Carlton in Hong Kong, learn about the Pol Pot Regime in Cambodia, tour a nunnery in Myanmar, dive and swim with great white sharks in south Africa and ride a mountain bike 150 miles across Ghana.

Patel plans to graduate from SCC in May 2014. He is currently planning his next overseas trip in January as he plans on traveling to Austria, New Zealand and Spoke with Gary Lane on the phone recently and it was very enlightening. Gary is a big advocate of the healing powers of a relationship with the equine race. After speaking with him for about 20 minutes, I was ready to go out and buy a horse and a farm to ride it on.

Gary is not only high on horses, he is high on Rockcastle County. He spent a good portion of our conversation extolling its beauty and the goodness of its people.

Gary came here as a state trooper many years ago and rode horses for pleasure. He has since evolved into a top "horse whisperer," known nationally, even internationally, and we decided to let our newest intern, Kelsey Mattingly, write a feature about his accomplishments which will appear in a later issue.

My experience with horses has been very limited. At one time, when we lived on a farm here, Jim bought two horses for the children. One turned out to be so ill-tempered that we were all, including Jim, afraid of him. The other was a big horse but very even-tempered and well trained. The only problem I had with him was that if you wanted him to turn, you laid the rein on the side of his neck you wanted to turn. No one told me that. The first time I got on him, realizing that he had a real novice on his back, Tony decided to go to our apple orchard which was on a small hill. I didn't want to go to the orchard on the hill and kept trying to get him to turn around by pulling the rein. We went to the orchard and stayed there while I had a meltdown. Jim thought it was funny but that was my last outing on a horse. Both of them got out one night while Jim and the older children were at a basketball game and I was home with the baby at the time. A kindly neighbor caught them and brought them back. I didn't know what else to do but have him tie them to our swingset until Jim got home. Jim thought that was funny, too, but, hey, it worked.

I said all that to say that I appreciate hearing good comments about our county. It is a beautiful place and we, who live here, often fail to appreciate it or to take advantage of its beauty.

Do You Remember These

In 1955 a gospel group was forming in Staunton, Virginia, and little did they know that they would be singing for almost fifty years. The group was The Statler Brothers, and their gospel harmonies were heard on television, radio, records and in concerts before countless millions of fans. One of those fans was my mother, Bee. The Statler sound played for Bee, arising from her AM radio that was strategically placed in her kitchen on top of the refrigerator. When they began to sing, she stopped what she was doing, turned up the volume, and listened carefully to each verse.

Because I was only a small boy playing in the kitchen, I also acquired a taste for their music, especially the spiritual songs that were sung in the Mt. Vernon Baptist Church. It wasn't long until the group became so popular that they crossed over to the country music venue and found a new audience. Bass singer, Harold Reid explained, "We took gospel harmonies and put them over in country music." The group remained closely tied to their gospel roots, with a majority of their country records containing at least one gospel song. They continue to be the most awarded act in the history of country music.

Recently, my wife and I watched a re-run of their final concert which originally aired on October 26, 2002. The idea for a column was created instantly when they sang Do You Remember These. The song is a sometimes silly compilation of items that were popular as I grew from a child and into my teen years. You will remember many of these:

- Saturday morning serials, chapters 1 through 15*
- Fly paper, penny loafers, Lucky Strike Green*
- Flat tops, sock hops, Studebaker, Pepsi Please*
- Ahh do you remember these?*
- The Hit Parade, grape Tru-Aid, the Sadie Hawkins Dance*
- Pedal pushers, duck tail hair, and pegging your pants*
- Howdie-Doodie, Tutti-Frutti, the seam up the back of her hose*
- Ahh do you remember those?*
- James Dean he was keen, Sunday movies were taboo*
- The Senior Prom, Judy's mom, Rock and Roll was new*

- Cracker Jack Prize, stars in your eyes, ask Daddy for the keys*
- Ahh do you remember these?*
- The boogey man, lemonade stands, taking your tonsils out*
- Indian burn, and wait your turn, and 4 foul balls and you're out*
- Cigarette loads, and secret codes, and saving lucky stars*
- Can you remember back that far?*
- To boat-neck shirts and fender skirts and crinoline petticoats*
- Mum's the word and a dirty bird and a double root beer float*
- Moon hub-caps and loud-heel taps and he's a real gone cat*
- Ahh do you remember that? Dancing close, little moron jokes, and cooties in her hair*
- Captain Midnight, Ovaltine, and the Whip at the County Fair*
- Charles Atlas Course, Roy Rogers' Horse, and Only The Shadow Knows*
- Ahh do you remember those?*
- Gable's charm, Frog in your arm, loud mufflers, Pitching Woo*
- Going steady, Veronica and Betty, white bucks and Blue Suede Shoes*
- Knock-Knock jokes and Who's there, Dewey Dewey who*

Do we remember these?

After listening to the lyrics of the song, I was amazed at the number of items that the song lists and how perfectly they reflect my youth. Even in the first verse, I felt like I was transported back to my junior-high days at Mt. Vernon High School. The list sounds like it was designed for me - penny loafers, flat tops, sock hops, Saturday morning serials, Studebaker automobiles, Lucky Strike cigarettes. Was someone following me around listing all of my favorite things?

My life was chronicled in additional verses when it mentions The Hit Parade, pedal pushers, duck-tail hair, pegging of our pants, Howdie-Doodie, and seams going up the back of our mother's hose. Yes, my friends, I do remember those.

I was especially gratified when The Statlers reported that Rock and Roll was new in verse four. As I have said on countless occasions, I was thrilled to be alive when rock music was born, and I am still playing those old

Points East

By Ike Adams

Last Saturday evening about 8:45 when darkness was coming fast upon us, Loretta and I were hurriedly trying to get our flowers watered in the front yard and on the porch and then away off in the distance I heard the call. Whip-poor-Will, Whip-poor-Will. I said, turn that hose off Baby and listen" because I thought maybe my imagination was running wild or that maybe Mr. Parkinson was messing with my mind.

But sure enough, the song was repeated, and I pointed toward Paint Lick Creek, nearly a mile away out Gillespie Pike and excitedly whispered, "Did you hear that", and cold shivers were running up both my arms. Loretta said, "Yep I did." And I said " Oh wow, just listen to that little bird sing!"

There are few, if any, birds that size that can sing with louder volume than the eastern Whip-poor-Will.

She turned the hose back on anyway and irritably muttered, "Ike we have to get this job done because it's going to be pitch dark in ten minutes and the mosquitoes are eating me alive!" As far as Loretta is concerned, a night bird is a night bird, is a night bird and she saw no reason to get excited about this one just because it didn't sound like the screech owls in the woods across the road.

But I sure did because it was the first one I'd heard in the fifteen years we've lived in Paint Lick and it was a huge deal to me. So five minutes or so later after she'd turned off the hose and I'd gotten the dog in the house, I went back out and listened to it for another 30 minutes or so until the blasted skeeters also got the best of me. I even considered jumping in my truck and driving out the Pike to see if I could get closer to it and maybe hear it better but I decided I'd wait and see if it was still in the hood on Sunday night.

I woke up to answer nature's call at a little after 3:00 A.M. then stepped out on the porch to see if my bird was still up. I had just barely got the door closed when suddenly, no more than 200 feet across the way, it literally boomed, WHIP-POOR-WILL, WHIP-POOR-WILL, WHIP-POOR-WILL! And it repeated the call over and over for several minutes until the vampire mosquitoes ran me back into the house. They're bad enough when you are fully dressed but they are darn near lethal when you're standing out there with nothing on but your skivvies.

Strange... But True?

Giles Corey and His Curse on Salem, Massachusetts

Many years ago, I toured Salem, Massachusetts and saw quite a bit of history firsthand. It was a very picturesque little town, even quaint to be exact, or at least those sections I visited. I had a very nice lunch at a little restaurant/inn known as The Copper Kettle. We had parked in front of the house that had inspired "The House of the Seven Gables" and I saw several museums and other points of interest, even the Witchcraft Museum.

Sadly enough, I was young and foolish, being in my early 20s and hadn't the sense to research all of the history and significance of what I was about to see. Had I done this, the tour would have been more complete. I've learned more about Salem since.

One of the more interesting characters of Salem was an elderly gentleman named Giles Corey. He was born in Northampton, England, prior to August 19, 1621. By 1640, records show that he was a resident of Salem. He was a wealthy farmer and landowner who lived about five miles out of Salem in what is now Peabody, and had at least three daughters.

Around 1692, there was an outbreak of people in Salem and surrounding communities accusing others of witchcraft, a crime punishable by death at the time. If you were tried and found guilty, the state or county could seize your property, even to your personal effects. As fate would have it, Giles Corey had a will stating that at his death, his property was to fall to his two sons-in-law.

Being a man of means, he, too, was accused of being a witch and was brought before the court. According to court records, a 19 year old girl named Mercy Lewis claimed she saw the apparition of Giles Corey beat her, almost breaking her back. She also stated that she believed that he was a wizard. When questioned about his guilt or innocence, he remained mute. According to the law of the day, a person who refused to plead could not be tried. However, the law also had ways of getting a plea from the accused, "pine forte et dure". It was a process of being stripped naked, being lain down, and having heavy boards placed on their body, then heavy stones were applied to the board.

On September 17, 1692, Sheriff George Corwin led Corey to a pit in an open field near the jail and proceeded, with the aid of six other men, to enact the prescribed method of extracting a plea. The elderly Giles Corey still didn't utter a plea nor even a sound. This endured for two long and agonizing days. All the poor man was offered in the way of comfort was a little bread and a few sips of water. From time to time, the sheriff would stand on the rocks looking down at the accused, questioning him about a plea. Corey's tongue was pressed out of his mouth by the pressure of the stones, and the sheriff would be so generous as to shove it back with his cane. Sometimes, when being questioned, Corey would say, "More weight." He was determined that his property would remain with his family.

Finally, the ordeal ended with Giles Corey being pressed to death at about noon on September 19, 1692, according to the diary of Samuel Sewall, who was a witness to the event. Just before his death, Giles Corey was said to have cursed the town of Salem and the office of the sheriff. Since Giles was in full possession of his property at the time of his death, the sons-in-law inherited his property. Giles' wife, Martha, died as a result of the mass hysteria of the trials.

Was Giles Corey a warlock? If so couldn't he have freed himself from his fate? If he wasn't a warlock, why is his curse still in existence in Salem today? Next week, we will explore the curse and the strange happenings in Salem.

songs on a daily basis. The last few verses made me remember the automobiles we either drove or wanted to drive. Can you remember these - fender skirts, moon hub caps, loud mufflers, and cruising?
Finally, the group recorded our dating styles - dancing close, crinoline petticoats, the County Fair, the senior prom, asking our dads for the keys, and movies with James Dean.

The song was released in 1972 and came from the album, Interview. It reached the number two spot on Billboard's Hot Country Singles chart. The Statlers captured three Grammy Awards, including one for another '72 hit called, The Class of '57.

The song "Do You Remember These?" is astonishingly accurate in depicting a time in our lives that is nearly impossible to fully define. It encompassed so many new and exciting avenues of life. It was a wonderful time to be alive. Yes, we do remember these - and are ever so grateful to be able to do so.

"Points East" (Cont. from A2)

I started to put my clothes on and then I raised the window. That was perfect. It was like having a personal, private serenade. I went back to bed and listened until the Whip-poor-Will literally sang me back to sleep.

So Sunday night I was all excited. I'd even found my digital Dictaphone hoping that maybe I could record it and smugly thinking wouldn't that sure be something to post on face book. But last night the bird was calling from way on up Lowell Branch and much higher on the hill. I'm assuming it was the same bird but maybe it's several and there's a migration going on. At any rate it was much too far away for my cheap little recorder to pick up.

There was a time when we could hear as many as 4 or 5 at the same time, all summer, in the hills surrounding our home but that was 25 or more years ago before coyotes moved to Garrard County in what sounded like packs. Coyotes prey on both quail and eastern Whip-poor-Wills as well as rabbits, but this year I've seldom heard the coyotes and for the first time in at least a decade we've had a small covey of quail hanging around and rabbits are thicker than the hair on a dog's back.

I've been told by more than one wildlife specialists that when there is a decline in the coyote population, the critters they dine on will return and I'll gladly put up with an over-abundance of pesky rabbits in my garden if it also means we can also get the quail and eastern Whip-poor-Wills to return.

Card of Thanks

When my Father passed away my family and I were devastated. Thankfully my father, being a very smart man as he was already had arrangements years in advance.

I called up Dowell & Martin funeral home and told them my father passed away. I spoke with Roy Martin and immediately felt relieved and knew I was in good hands. He explained the process and took care of everything. Since my dad was in another state when he passed away, Roy contacted the funeral home out here so my father could be transported to his final resting place. He did all the paper work and called me and kept me up to date on everything.

During this difficult time I really appreciated the fact of how professional and passionate they were about their business and people they work with. When my family and I arrived in Kentucky we went to the funeral home. My family and I went with Roy Martin into a conference room to discuss the arrangements. He explained everything and asked us what we wanted at the service. Preacher, names of the survivors... and everything else they would need to know. They had fresh coffee made for us and refreshments which we appreciated.

The service was flawless and absolutely beautiful. Roy Martin and everybody did such an amazing job. They kept up informed, was professional and extremely fair with us. You couldn't have asked for a better person to work with during such a difficult time. The funeral home is so beautiful and everyone there is so kind, caring and professional. They are the best of the best. I will definitely go with this funeral home when I'm ready to make my arrangements. If you're considering this funeral home you absolutely CANNOT go wrong with them. They are as good as they come. They also buried my Grandma here several years ago.

They are consistently giving great service. Thank you so much Dowell & Martin for your flawless, professional and absolutely amazing work you do. If you are looking for a funeral home and trying to consider which one to go with, please take my advice. Go with Dowell & Martin. They will not disappoint you and will work with the family and be extremely fair with you. I can only say great things about them.

I know my Father is looking down and is very happy with how everything went. My father was the best dad in the entire world. He was the best a man could get. My father was so amazing, no man on this earth not even myself will be even near as amazing as he was. I love you dad, rest in peace and I will always love you and have you in my heart. My father deserved the very best. They are consistently good and we received excellent service. Thank you Roy Martin and everyone else at Dowell & Martin for a job very well done.

Madison Southern ends Rockets long winning streak with 41-13 win

By: Doug Ponder

The Rockcastle County Rockets football team's 18 game win streak, over the Madison Southern Eagles, came to an end last Friday night when the Rockets lost 41-13.

Madison Southern's triumphant win was largely due to their highly-touted running back junior Damien Harris .who had a total of 286 yards and scored all six touchdowns for the Eagles.

Harris is the number two running back in the nation for the 2015 graduating class, according to Scout.com. He recently committed to play college football for the Michigan Wolverines.

However, the Rockets defense stunned Harris in the first half as they held him to only 18 yards rushing on offense.

The first quarter proved to be a defensive battle between the two teams with neither offense putting any points on the board.

The Rockets were first to get on the scoreboard late in the second quarter with a 51 yard touchdown strike from senior quarterback Corey McPhetridge to junior receiver John Hughes. The extra point was good, giving the Rockets a 7-0 lead.

Harris answered the Rockets touchdown drive on the next play by returning a 65 yard kickoff for a touchdown and a 7-6 half-time score.

After halftime, the Rockets scored on their first offensive possession in the third quarter on a 60 yard touchdown pass from McPhetridge to senior receiver Tyler Harper. The two point conversion was no good making the score 13-6.

Following the Rockets touchdown, the Eagles coaching staff made adjustments on their first possession of the second half by switching to the Wildcat formation and snapping the ball directly to Harris.

On the first snap from the Wildcat formation, Harris rushed 16 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was good tying the game at 13-13.

The Rockets then fumbled the ball on their next offensive possession, giving it to the Eagles on their 58 yard line. Harris would then run the ball 42 yards on the next play to give the Eagles their first lead of the game at 19-13, after the missed extra point attempt.

The Rockets were forced to punt from their own goal line on their next possession late in the third quarter which gave the Eagles excellent field position on their own 31 yard line. On the next play, Harris ran the ball up the middle for a 31 yard touchdown. The two point conversion was good making it 27-13.

The Rockets would punt the ball on their next possession and Harris would score again on a 51 yard rushing touchdown with 17 seconds left in the third quarter making it 33-13 after a missed extra point attempt.

Harris would go on to score his sixth touchdown in the fourth quarter after a two yard rush. He also scored the two point conversion making the final score 41-13.

The Rockets offense was led by McPhetridge who finished the game 13 out of 28 passing for 184 yards and two touchdowns with one interception.

Junior Isaiah Adams led the ground attack with 55 yards on four carries. Senior Jacob Bussell rushed for 19 yards on six carries, senior Brandon Jones 4 yards on four carries, sophomore Dylan Rowe 3 yards on one carry and freshman Dalton Rowe 1 yard on one carry.

Senior Tyler Harper led the receiving corps, catching four passes for 78 yards and one touchdown. Junior John Hughes also had a big Senior defensive lineman Jared Lake is shown bringing down Madison Southern's highly-touted running back Damien Harris during last Friday night's 41-13 loss to Madison Southern.

Rumors spread like wildfire about the alleged vandalism that took place after Madison Southern's 41-13 win last Friday night. Hundreds of Madison Southern fans stormed the field to celebrate the end of the Rockets 18 game winning streak. School personnel and police confirmed that one Madison Southern fan came on the field with a sledgehammer and struck the ROCK painted emblem in the middle of the field. Police escorted the fan off the field and a Madison Southern coach took the sledgehammer, which is allegedly a team symbol, back to the sidelines. Although there was trash talking between the players and fans, authorities confirmed that no fights broke out during the celebration. The coaching staff from both teams escorted the players back to the locker room without shaking hands due to the Madison Southern fans storming the field. Several RCHS students and Rocket fans updated posts on social media websites claiming that a Madison Southern fan hit "The Rock" in the end zone and knocked a piece off the bottom right of the monument. Several Madison Southern students also updated social media websites saying one of their fans hit "The Rock" with a sledgehammer. Upon further investigation, police and school officials found no proof that anyone hit "The Rock" with a sledgehammer and they claim the monument hasn't changed from looking at previous photographs.

Senior quarterback Corey McPhetridge is shown throwing a pass during last Friday night's loss to Madison Southern. The Rockets offense was led by McPhetridge who finished the game 13 out of 28 in passing for 184 yards and two touchdowns with one interception.

Freshman Chayse McClure is shown attempting to grab a pass against a Southern defender. McClure made one catch for four yards and he led the Rockets defense with eight tackles.

Junior running back Isaiah Adams is shown picking up yardage during last Friday night's loss to Madison Southern. Adams led the ground attack for the Rockets with 55 yards on four carries.

Senior receiver Brandon Jones looks for running room after making one of his four catches for 25 yards. The Rockets will play West Jessamine Colts at home this Friday night at 7:30.

Fans for both teams came in full support for their team last Friday night. RCHS Assistant Principal and Athletic Director Barry Noble said they believe the attendance for the game was more than 3,500. Noble said they have never kept attendance records for the home games in past seasons but he believes Last Friday night's crowd was the largest crowd to ever attend a game at the Rocket facility.

night catching three passes for 71 yards and one touchdown.

Other Rockets making receptions were senior Brandon Jones with four catches for 25 yards, Adams with one catch for 6 yards and freshman Chayse McClure with one catch for 4 yards.

Defensively, the Rockets were led by McClure with eight tackles. Adams also had a big night defensively with three tackles and one fumble recovery.

Other Rockets picking up tackles and assists were Bussell with 7, Hughes and senior Jared Lake with 6, Jones and senior R.C. Kirby had five each, junior Austin Collins and junior Kyle Denny with four each, senior Koty Bengue with three and junior Chance Ansardi got 2.

Head Coach Scott Parkey said that he was impressed with the performance of his players despite the loss but that he was still disheartened by the end of the 18 game winning streak.

“We are obviously disappointed with the end of the winning streak but the players know one game doesn't cost you an entire season,” Parkey said. “If we continue to improve each week and focus on one game at a time, we will be ready when October's district schedule begins.”

Parkey said he was proud of his defense for the way they played in the first half by holding Harris to only 18 yards rushing on offense. However, he said that they had problems with the adjustments the Eagles coaching staff made at halftime when they started using Harris at quarterback in the Wildcat formation.

“We forced them out of their original game plan in the first half but when they switched to the Wildcat formation it made it difficult to defend. That formation is difficult for any team to defend,” Parkey said. “Overall, I thought defensive coordinator Josh Martin had an excellent game plan and that the kids played with grit, determination and energy.”

Parkey went on to say that he was disappointed that the offense couldn't capitalize on the great field position they had in the first half, after the defense forced several Madison Southern punts and turnovers.

“We didn't connect on a lot of passes that would have kept the chains moving and given us some points in the first quarter,” Parkey said. “If we could have capitalized on that and got a few touchdowns, the team's momentum would have changed making a difference in the game.”

The Rockets will play the West Jessamine Colts at home this Friday night at 7:30.

Parkey said the Colts have a very talented team and that they will be another tough challenge for his Rockets.

“Their running back Devin Taylor had over 300 yards rushing last Friday night. We will have to neutralize his effectiveness by winning the line of scrimmage and putting pressure on their other players to make plays,” Parkey said. “We were so excited about our students and fans who came out to the Madison Southern game last Friday and we are hoping to have the same crowd against the Colts. We need that support this Friday as the players feed off the energy.”

Last week we kind of got off track a little talking about the mental fitness of a firefighter. This week I am getting back on track with talking about the gear of a firefighter. With that, the question posed last time was how many layers does a turnout coat have? The answer is three. There is an outer layer, a moisture barrier and a thermal barrier. The moisture and thermal barriers are sewn together for ease of cleaning. The outer shell is usually made from Kevlar or nomex material. Something that is fire resistant.

On Call

By:

A firefighter's turnout gear is comprised of a helmet, nomex hood, turnout coat, turnout pants, gloves and boots. During training a firefighter learns about each piece of their gear and what the limits are for each piece. A firefighter is also trained to put on their turnout gear in less than 60 seconds. This week I want to focus on the turnout coat.

Historically the turnout coat has evolved to provide better fire protection. In the earlier days the coats were made of canvas or leather and later were made of rubber. The coats stretched down to the firefighter's mid-thigh. The inside of the coat would be lined with wool or felt and this was really just to provide warmth in the winter. There were no pants worn with these coats, instead they were long boots. The boots were called three quarters boots and would go all the way up to firefighter's knees. With no pants worn a gap between the coat and boots left the firefighter unprotected. Firefighters wore this type of gear as early as the 1980's. New standards in the fire service prohibit the use of the long trench turnout coat and three quarter boots structural firefighting. The modern turnout coat provides much better protection against fire, but it also provides some protection against hot water and steam as well as cold temperatures. It also protects firefighters from direct flame contact. Now you may ask about how hot it can get before a turnout coat starts to fail. It can vary from manufacturer to manufacturer, but generally only a few hundred degrees and you will begin to feel the effects of the heat. Remember the turnout coat is fire resistant not fire proof. Eventually the gear will catch on fire and that would not be a good day.

Now you can imagine a firefighter in the middle of summer wearing this gear. We get hot and sweaty, really hot and sweaty. This is because the material traps our body heat in the gear and is not allowed to transfer away from our body. Since we are not able to cool down, this increases our heart rate, skin and core temperatures. You will often see firefighters sitting in the shade with our turnout coat of and steam coming from our heads. We call this rehab and if we are involved with a structure fire, firefighters are in and out of rehab several times in order not to over exert ourselves.

Turnout out coats have a collar to protect our neck and some coats have wristlets. Wristlets extend over the firefighters hand to the knuckles. They provide extra protection from heat and embers when using gloves, especially when your gloves are not on properly. Other features are a pocket on the chest for your radio and some also have a clip on the opposite side for holding a flashlight. On the outside of the coat is reflective striping for visibility at night. Also on the back fire departments will list the name of the firefighter and the department, Brodhead does this currently. Turnout coats usually have two pockets, some or oversized to hold extra equipment. The extra equipment can be cutters, extra hood or gloves. I keep in my coat an extra pair of gloves, extrication gloves, cutters and wooden door stops.

Turnout coats can be secured a couple of ways. One way is by using a zipper with a Velcro flap that closes over the zipper. Another way is called hook and D's. It is simply a d-shaped ring down one side and on the other is a hook that will clip into the ring; this is also enforced with buttons that snap together. A Velcro flap is also used for added protection.

Finally, a new addition to the turnout coat is the Drag Rescue Device or DRD. The DRD is located on the back at the neck. This device is essentially a built in harness used exclusively to rescue a down firefighter. Once you grab the DRD and pull, the harness cinches down on the firefighter and you are now able to drag them out to safety. Very important addition to the turnout coat has been used to save several firefighters lives.

Next week we will continue with the gear of firefighters and their capabilities. The question I leave you with is this; station uniforms follow a firefighter standard for heat exposure. The standard says that no garment components will ignite, melt, drip or separate when exposed to heat at this temperature for 5 minutes. How high do you think the temperature is? Is it 100 degrees, 150 degrees, 250 degrees or 500 degrees? The answer next week.

John Cornelius was on fire, shooting a 32, to set the tone for the Rockets in their win over Danville. The Rockets are undefeated in conference play with wins over Lincoln, Casey, East Jessamine, Danville, and Boyle County. The Rockets are led by Cornelius, Sam Pensol, Cade Burdette, Carson Noble, and Lucas Gentry.

Sam Pensol has helped lead the Rockets to an undefeated conference record on the year. Pensol has placed in the top 10 in four tournaments this year.

“For anyone that wishes to travel but constantly thinks they don’t have the money for it, they should definitely reconsider their priorities and do whatever it takes to go out and experience the world,” Patel said. “There is so much to see outside the United States let alone Kentucky. Of Law and began practicing law in 2000. He practiced in Corbin, Somerset and Whitely City before opening his own law office in Somerset in 2004. He also served as the Assistant Pulaski County Attorney from 2005 to his recent appointment as Family Court Judge.

During his tenure as a lawyer and Assistant Pulaski County Attorney, Vanover has handled numerous child endangerment, status offenders and child support enforcement cases in Family Court. He has also handled adult guardianship and juvenile public defender cases in District Court as well as divorce and adoptions cases through his own private practice.

Vanover said that he knows the new job will be challenging as the 28th Judicial Circuit Family Court has one of the heaviest family court dockets in Kentucky.

“I’m honored to be selected as the new Family Court Judge for Lincoln, Pulaski and Rockcastle counties,” Vanover said. “I know it will be challenging but I am confident that I am well suited for the task. I look forward to serving the citizens as their new Family Court Judge.”

Vanover went on to say that one of the most pressing issues facing family courts is the substance abuse problems. He said he will be dealing with this problem regularly and that he will focus on correcting the problem for the good of the family as well as the community.

“The substance abuse problem is tearing our families apart and ruining the lives of a lot of children before they have a chance to make it on their own,” Vanover said. “This problem is seen in divorces and child endangerment cases as well as people failing to pay child support for their children’s basic needs. For these reasons I believe a strong Family Court is imperative to addressing this issue and helping our families. That is what makes this job so important to me.”

Vanover grew up in the Eagle Community of McCreary County. His father, Archie, worked for Kingsford Charcoal in Burnside and his mother, Fontella Vanover was an elementary teacher. He and his wife, Krista, have lived in Somerset since 2002 and have two children, Riley, 5 and Hayden, 1.

Vanover and his family have attended the same church for the past eleven years. He has also been active in the Somerset Kiwanis Club for several years, serving terms as president, member of the board of directors and co-chair of the radio auction committee.

“Districts”

Rockcastle County Republican Party meeting held on the third floor of the courthouse Monday night. Approximately 70 county residents also attended the meeting, hoping for some clarification about the redistricting.

Meade started the meeting by giving his farewell speech to the crowd. He said he has enjoyed serving Rockcastle County and that he values the friendships he has made in the county.

“It’s a sad time for me because I had really become a part of this community I had been elected to and grown to love everyone here,” Meade said. “I’m looking forward to continue working with everyone in Rockcastle County in the future even though I may not be the representative.”

Meade will remain in the 80th District. However, he will now serve Lincoln and part of Pulaski counties instead of Lincoln, Rockcastle and part of Pulaski counties. Meade said that everything about redistricting was political and that he wasn’t happy with the results.

“The sad thing about redistricting is it is purely political, that’s all it boils down to,” Meade said. “There has got to be a better way for us to do redistricting in the future. We owe it to the people and we should do better.”

Meade said that while all the lawmakers were hashing out the new district lines in the special session last week, it became impossible for Rockcastle County to stay in the 80th District due to the population changes in eastern Kentucky.

“The bill passed the house purely on partisan lines. A lot of pressure was put on Speaker of the House Greg Stumbo in the past redistricting maps and there were some lawsuits filed,” Meade said. “The democrat seats were protected by house leaders so they shifted the population this way and it all spilled over in Madison County.”

Meade went on to say that he will help in the transition between he and Shell.

After Meade spoke, Shell introduced himself to the crowd. He was elected in 2012 and is currently the youngest member in the Kentucky House of Representatives.

Shell said the reason why he entered politics was his “burning desire” to change his community for the better. He said that he wishes to see the United States and Kentucky return to their principals.

“When I was little I used to sit on my grandpa’s knee and listen to him talk about what America and Kentucky used to be,” Shell said. “The backbone and foundation of our country is gone. We were a country founded on Christian beliefs, free enterprise and entrepreneurship. Over my lifetime I see those things slipping away more and more.”

Shell said that a group in the State House of Representatives are committed to building a platform designed to return the United States of America to its founding.

“Anymore, people are asking what can the government do for me or how can I game the system for this or that. As a result, a lot of people have lost their independence as individuals,” Shell said. “We want to really question if the government knows what is best for your time and money as opposed to individuals knowing what to do with their own time and money.”

Shell went on to say that he looks forward to the opportunity to get to know the people of Rockcastle County and that he intends to gain their trust and confidence.

“I look forward to meeting the people of Rockcastle County and I hope to one day get the opportunity to meet and serve your needs in the house,” Shell said. “I want to gain Rockcastle County’s trust so we can share the same vision for this community and move forward in the best manner possible.”

plied with the officers and quit resisting arrest.

Upon further investigation, officers later discovered that Poynter had two more warrants for his arrest for fourth degree assault (child abuse) and second degree stalking. The warrants were recently issued after Poynter allegedly slapped a nine-year-old girl who was riding her bicycle on Main Street in Livingston.

After slapping the girl, Poynter screamed profanities at her before getting back in his vehicle and driving away. The girl’s face was reportedly swollen and she also later identified Poynter as the man who slapped her. Officers are not sure what Poynter’s motives were for slapping the girl.

After arriving at the Rockcastle County Detention Center, Poynter told officers “give me some money, and we will sweep this under the rug and forget about it” allegedly implying that if the officers gave him some money and let him go, that he would forget that the officers arrested him.

Poynter is charged with fourth degree assault (child abuse), second degree stalking, bribery of a public servant, resisting arrest, criminal littering and first degree disorderly conduct.

Poynter remains lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center on a $5,000 cash/property bond with the conditions that he is not allowed within the city limits of Livingston and that he is not allowed to have any contact with the nine-year-old girl or her family.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet! Some things to think about...
 What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?
 Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
 A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains.
 B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.
 The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.
Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
 C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.
 D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.
 E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
 The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet.
 Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

Dove season promising despite the weather

Few Kentuckians can remember a weirder summer, weather wise. Early mornings in mid-August so cool you could almost see your breath. Grass as lush and green as it is in late April lasting all summer long.

Flooding conditions in July coupled with just a few days of actual Kentucky summer heat. This weather puzzles humans, but the doves don't mind. They are plentiful statewide and will provide plenty of opportunity for the opening of dove season on Sept. 1.

"I think it is going to be a good season, despite all the wet weather," said Rocky Pritchert, migratory bird coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "Doves are abundant this year. I am seeing a lot of them."

The first segment of dove season closes Oct. 24. The season opens again Nov. 28 and closes Dec. 6. The third segment of dove season opens Dec. 28, 2013 and closes Jan. 3, 2014. The daily bag limit remains 15 doves.

"Our public dove hunting fields on our wildlife management areas are overall in good shape," Pritchert said. "Some of our fields came in a little late and we had to switch our grains from sunflowers to millet. Millet has a shorter growing period than sunflowers. There is a lot of variance across Kentucky this year."

The first two weeks of dove season see the highest participation from hunters, but not necessarily the best hunting.

"Traditionally, dove season was the first thing to come in," Pritchert said. "Hunters will hunt hard for the first couple of weeks; then other seasons come in such as deer or early wood duck."

Dove hunters who want the fields for themselves should continue to hunt after the initial rush, especially this year. Those who can gain permission to hunt silage fields just after their harvest may see more doves than on opening day.

"The silage is going to be late," Pritchert said. "It is not browning at all from what I've seen. I saw some browning silage in west Kentucky, but overall it is still green and healthy."

When farmers cut those silage fields to fill their silos, they leave waste grains on the fields. Doves flock to them.

Dove hunting is a social tradition in Kentucky. That aspect makes it a perfect venue to introduce a child, family member or friend to hunting.

"Dove hunting offers great opportunity for social hunting with friends and family and that aspect makes it great for new hunters," said Jamie Cook, mentor hunting coordinator for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "It is always good for new hunters to go with more people."

The nature of dove hunting also makes it great for kids. "Kids don't have to sit still all of the time like in a tree stand for deer hunting," Cook said. "There is a lot of action and kids can get up and move around. It is hard for a youngster to sit around and remain quiet for long periods of time."

Cook also recommended a single shot 20-gauge shotgun for a kid learning dove hunting. "The single shot teaches more about hitting that first bird than just quick, repetitive shooting," he said. "It instills shot discipline and a single shot is much more affordable."

Dove hunters must have a valid Kentucky hunting li

An encouraging word:

All Beneficial Work Is Important

By Howard Coop

Earlier this year, I was admitted to the hospital. Hospital experiences never are pleasant, but from one perspective, that experience began in an interesting way. When I was taken to the room, it was not ready. So, I was told to wait for a few moments while final preparations were made.

At once, things began to happen. While I waited, a physician came to the room, and, after asking a few questions, he made an examination. A little later, a nurse came to the room. After introducing herself, she performed her task professionally and well. When she left, another lady came and said, "I'm the tech. I've come to take your vitals," and she proceeded to take my temperature, blood pressure, and pulse rate. It wasn't long until someone came from the lab, took a blood sample, and took it to the lab for analysis. While all of that was being done, a lady with a mop and everything necessary worked hard to clean and sanitize the room. After I had been in bed for a while, the door opened, and a young lady brought my evening meal.

Later, while resting upon that hospital bed, I thought: Since I arrived, a number of persons have been performing various tasks, and each of them have performed a necessary task. Who among them performed the most important task?

As I pondered that question, I remembered a statement many centuries old: "The body is a unit, though it is made up of many parts; and though all its parts are many, they form one body." Then, I realized that one body of workers, each performing a different task, were working as a team for a common good, and I was the beneficiary.

Throughout this land, we will observe Labor Day on the first Monday in September. The day is more than a holiday with a day away from work to mark the unofficial end of summer. It's a day to recognize that all beneficial work is important.

Join Arbor Day Foundation and receive 10 free trees

Everyone from Kentucky who joins the Arbor Day Foundation in September will receive 10 free trees as part of the Foundation's Trees for America program.

Through Trees for America, everyone is encouraged to plant trees for the benefit of the environment and quality-of-life. With one million members, the Arbor Day Foundation is the nation's largest nonprofit organization dedicated to planting trees.

Everyone joining this month will receive an eastern red-bud, white pine, sugar maple, white flowering dogwood, pin oak, red maple, river birch, silver maple, northern red oak and Colorado blue spruce.

"This group of trees was carefully selected to yield year-round benefits in Kentucky, including beautiful spring flowers, cool summer shade, spectacular autumn colors and winter berries and nesting sites for songbirds," said John Rosenow, founder and chief executive of the Arbor Day Foundation.

"For the last 36 years, Tree City USA has supported effective urban forest management across Kentucky, and planting these trees will enhance the state's tree-planting tradition," Rosenow continued.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between October 15 and December 10. The 6- to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge. Easy-to-follow planting instructions are enclosed with each shipment of trees. New members of the Arbor Day Foundation will also receive The Tree Book, which includes information about tree planting and care.

To receive the 10 free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Ten Trees, Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, NE 68410, by September 30, 2013, or join online at arborday.org/september.

RCHS leaders work together in recent GEAR UP challenge

Blindfolded and instructed to rob a bank without touching any laser sensors, Frankie Woodall was out of ideas. "Without my partners, I probably wouldn't have made it," said the 9th-grader from Rockcastle County High School. But, with the help of 19 other freshmen, he made it through the lasers, which were really ropes, and all the way to the end of the Asbury University Challenge Course's low ropes activities.

"I gained the knowledge of how to lead a little bit better," he said, "but also, it was really fun in the process."

The 20 9th-graders started the day by dividing into teams and playing games that required cooperation, creative thinking, and even frenzied gestures when talking was not allowed. The students then followed their challenge course guides into the ropes area, where they balanced the entire group on a large seesawing platform, helped each other walk along ropes suspended above the ground, and even made it through the crisscrossing ropes that represented laser security at a bank.

The visit to the challenge course was part of an ongoing leadership training program run by Berea College's GEAR UP partnership with Rockcastle County schools. The students were selected by teachers, administrators and community members because they showed promise as future leaders. Last spring, the group met leaders from other schools participating in Berea College's GEAR UP Partnership on the college's campus. There, they defined leadership and began the process of forming their team at the local level, but also found themselves part of a bigger, regional group of young leaders.

Linda Stone, the GEAR UP service coordinator for Rockcastle County, said that the training was part of a plan to get the students working together. "This would give us an opportunity to give these kids an experience where maybe they weren't always comfortable," she said. "Blindfolding a student who is very comfortable taking control and always being in charge, and then they have to be led, is instrumental in helping them see that everybody has a voice and has the opportunity to lead in that group."

Juliann Kirby saw her fellow 9th-graders change from her competitors to her teammates over the course of the day. "At first everybody just assumed it was part of a competition, since there were two teams," she said. "But later on you realized that you had to depend upon each other to get by."

Kirby said she even appreciated being asked to do something she would not normally do. "It got everybody out of their comfort zone, having to be with others," she said. "And when you'd open your mouth and say something, then you'd always find a way to get some kind of positive feedback."

Stone says that the leadership training will be integral in helping meet GEAR UP's objectives of increasing high school graduation rates and preparing students for college and career success. "We know that students have a voice. And they listen to their peers," she said. "Their goal will really be to make college something that every student is going to strive for. Not just the students that everybody thinks will go to college, but all students will be focused on 'What am I doing when I get out of here?' 'Where am I going when I graduate high school?'"

Woodall feels ready for his new role as a student leader. "I learned here that it's okay to speak your mind as a leader, and that it's easy once you get to know the people around you." He has come a long way since he was blindfolded and trapped by lasers. "I really didn't think I would be cut out to be a leader, but it's really not that hard, when you think about it."

Mt. Vernon Message

School News

Welcome Back to school. This is the beginning of an exciting year for MVES. There have been a few changes in our school for this year. The biggest change, is that we have a new principal. Mr. J.D. Bussell comes to us from RCCHS. We are looking forward to an exciting and fun-filled year of learning as he guides us through 2013-2014. A couple other changes include our self-contained classrooms and uninterrupted reading time. Self-contained classes allow students and teachers to stay together for the entire day, with the exception of arts block classes. There will be less interruptions and allow relationship building time between teacher and student. The uninterrupted reading time will have the first 90 minutes of the day devoted entirely to reading groups and instruction.

We've been here for a couple weeks and already a break is approaching. Students will not be in school on Monday and Tuesday, September 2 and 3.

Picture day has been scheduled for Wednesday, September 4. Wear your brightest smile.

Our FRC is sponsoring a Soup Bean Supper for Grandparents on September 6 from 4:00 until 6:00. Flyers have been sent home. If you have any questions, please contact our FRC at 606-256-5173.

Adoptable Shelter Dogs

Hey everybody! We are American Bulldog mix puppies and we are so excited about being placed in new families since our owner surrendered us to RCAS. We are about 8 weeks old and we already weigh in at approx. 18-20 lbs.!! We will make VERY LARGE dogs as we reach adulthood so be prepared to give us plenty of love, room and food and in return we will give you loyalty and companionship for the rest of our lives. If you could open your heart to one or all of us then give the shelter a call @ 256-1833. (kennel 13)

Hello, Mount Vernon Signal readers! We are the newest puppies to be brought in to RCAS. We are 1/2 Jack Russell and 1/2 Chihuahua. We are about 7-8 weeks old and we love to run and play! There are 4 of us, 2 males and 2 females and we would love to be a part of your family. We would make great companions for anyone who is looking for a dog that will stay small. Better hurry though, I suspect we won't have any trouble being placed into loving homes! If you are interested in one or all of us then please call the shelter @ 256-1833. (kennel 15)
