Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet? Some things to think about...
 What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?
 Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
 A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains.
 B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.
 The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.
Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
 C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.
 D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.
 E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
 The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet.
 Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

Missing Manchester man found safe early Monday morning

A missing Manchester man was found alive and well Monday morning on Chestnut Ridge Road in Mt. Vernon.

Ricky Smith, 31, of Manchester was reported missing, in a wooded area near Chestnut Ridge Road, on Sunday night.

According to State Trooper Adam Childress, Smith, and some of his friends, were ginseng hunting around 1 p.m. Sunday in a wooded area off Chestnut Ridge Road when Smith became separated from the group. He said Smith didn't have a cell phone with him at the time of his disappearance.

Childress said Smith's friends searched for him for hours in the woods before calling Rockcastle 911.

crews scanned the woods where Smith was last seen for hours before finally ending the search around 3:30 a.m. Monday morning. Search crews continued their search and, around 8 a.m., they spotted Smith walking along Chestnut Ridge Road.

Mt. Vernon Fire Chief David Bales said that Smith told him when it got dark, he decided to crouch down and "bed up" for the night to conserve his energy and stay warm. Smith told Bales that once the sun came up, he started walking through the woods and eventually found the road.

Bales said that Smith didn't receive any injuries and refused medical treatment at the scene. Bales went on to say that he was glad that Smith was found alive and safe.

The Way I See it

By Doug Ponder

Earlier this week, I started reading our local historian David Owens' new book "Before Consolidation: The Golden Age of Rockcastle County Basketball." The book has been released and will be distributed to those who preordered on Saturday at the library. There will also be copies for sale on the same day.

The book provides the history of Rockcastle County basketball before the consolidation into Rockcastle County High School which gave us the Rockcastle County Rockets. Before the consolidation, each town in Rockcastle County had their own high school and their own sports teams, which primarily consisted of basketball. Those sports teams included the Mt. Vernon Red Devils, Brodhead Tigers and the Livingston Blue Devils.

Owens has spent six years gathering pictures, news articles and written excerpts from people who lived during that era. With these materials, Owens portrays how the love by the coaches, players and fans for these three individual teams was just as strong as the love UK basketball fans have for their beloved Wildcats.

During this time period, basketball was king in Rockcastle County and the three high schools in the county obviously became bitter rivals. Certain pictures in the book also show how the gymnasiums of the three teams would be packed during their home games and you can visually see how the atmosphere was comparable to a miniature Rupp Arena.

Personally, I am thankful that David Owens edited this book because any other editor without a Rockcastle County connection would have likely changed the sentence structure and reworded the sentences from the excerpts people had submitted. Changing how these excerpts were worded would have totally changed the personality of the book by removing the personal touches of each author.

This book has brought on a wide range of emotions for me in so many different ways. Reading my grandpa Dell Ponder's excerpt about Livingston basketball brought a smile to my face. When I started reading what he had written I immediately went back to my childhood memories when all of the grandkids would be sitting with him on his front porch as he told us stories about his childhood, such as his first basketball having a knot on one side and when he would dribble it he never knew which way it would bounce.

While I was reading my grandpa's excerpt, it was like he was in the room with me and I could audibly hear him saying those exact same words from stories I have heard numerous times that never grew old.

The same was true for my late grandmother Shirley (Cummins) Caudill who was a Mt. Vernon cheerleader from 1951-1954. She made a scrapbook of the newspaper issues that had her picture in it and she also saved the news articles from when the Red Devils went to the Sweet Sixteen tournament in 1953. She would lay the scrapbook on the kitchen table as she flipped through the pages and tell us her story of every picture and article as if those events happened yesterday.

This book was organized and created for people to reminisce on days gone by of an exciting time period in Rockcastle County's history. For those who had the luxury of living in this time period, it will bring back those memories and for those of us who have heard our parents and grandparents stories from this time period it will bring back memories as well.

Either way, this book is guaranteed to bring back memories for every Rockcastle Countian in one way or another.

Life in the 50's was awfully good to me

I was having a conversation with a friend of mine who is considerably younger than I am, and he asked, "Were you all that much better off living in the 1950s?" My answer was a resounding yes, and I began to provide a few specific examples that I thought would illustrate my point. Some of you may agree; some may not. There are many perspectives from which to view such a question. But I believe that there are a few ways in which my generation had an advantage in those days of long ago.

My first thought was how much we made in the early 50's. The U.S. federal minimum wage was only $1 per hour. While in high school, I worked several jobs, taking home a whopping $8 per day - and I thought I was in "high cotton." I was able to drive my own automobile and to provide the fuel necessary to keep the streets of Mt. Vernon hot. I even had enough left to customize my own ride. (It is hard to believe but I am again able to drive one of those hot cars - my '54 Chevy!)

Speaking of driving, I reminded my friend that the cost of a gallon of gasoline when I was in high school was only 29 cents. Twenty nine cents per gallon! Today, that same gallon of fuel costs $4.39. In those days, if anyone had suggested to my dad, who owned the Standard Oil station behind the Rockcastle County Courthouse, that fuel would be $4.10 higher, he would have had a heart attack. For that meager 29 cents, he was able to provide air in your tires, water in your radiator, clean all of your auto's windows and check your oil. It was unheard of to forget to clean the windows or to ask if you wanted the oil checked. That was simply standard operating procedure. Today, you could never expect someone to check your oil or clean the windows, even at $4.39 a gallon. As a matter of fact, you really don't much expect there to be a person on hand at all!

When I was only eight-years' of age, I was allowed to walk about a mile to pick up a few grocery supplies. I remember being instructed to go get a loaf of bread. My mother gave me a quarter, and I could also get a RC Cola with the change. She did not worry about me being out of her sight. In those days, we rightly felt pretty safe. It was extremely rare to even hear a rumor about a child being accosted by an adult who might mean him harm.

As far as most of the groceries were concerned, we grew the majority of our own vegetables, and our yard was filled with chickens. And we had a hog lot.

In school, we were taught patriotism and Christian principles. We had prayer, pledged allegiance to the flag, and our teachers read to us from the Bible. When I began teaching in the early 60's, teachers worked for approximately $5,000 per year. My first job in education paid $5,800. I was able to purchase both a new home and a new Pontiac on that salary.

In my mother's home, we never had air conditioning. We just put screens in the windows and doors open to let the cool night air come through. When we went to bed, we simply latched the screen door to keep animals out of the house. We knew everyone in the neighborhood, and we trusted them completely.

When we were playing in a neighbor's yard, we were disciplined by our friend's parents. We played baseball, football, basketball, hide and seek, mumble peg, and read comic books. It was just good old clean fun. We did not fear for our lives. In those days, there was no Internet, and we certainly never heard of video games. We played in the yard, and kids from all over the neighborhood gathered at one of

On July 8, I planted a row of bodacious sweet corn just shy of being 100 feet long. Brothers Keeter and Andy had visited over the previous weekend and Keeter had convinced me that I could plant mountain-er half runners and corn at the same time without having the bean vines smother the corn.

I usually let my corn get nearly knee high before I plant beans in it but I figured what the heck and what's to lose because the flying rats, also known as starlings, had already destroyed over half of my early corn crop.

So at every foot or so of row, I dropped two bean seeds and I believe it's safe to say that every one of them came up. In a few places the vines are so thick that it looks like they may have come up twice. We've harvested all the corn and never saw a blackbird in it because, I believe, the bean vines had it camouflaged. We wound up with as much corn from the one row as we did off three of the early crop.

By the time the corn was ready, I'd already picked one five gallon bucket full of beans and over the course of three weeks I'd picked three more. As with corn, what beans we don't eat and squirrel away in the freezer we give to in-laws, out-laws, friends and neighbors.

After the corn was picked the bean vines got so heavy that the corn stalks broke over everywhere an ear had been pulled so that now the corn is practically invisible and it looks more like a thick hedge row across the garden. Early last week, Loretta went out and picked a bushel basket heaped full and I got another bucketful. Lo has canned five quarts, frozen some and we've given both beans and corn to about everybody we know in three counties.

Well, actually, we took a mess down to Rufus and Phyllis Harrison in Laurel County last Saturday, so make that four counties.

Loretta had picked a lot of pods that were turning yellow thinking that I might save them for seed because she thinks they're not pretty enough to can but I don't save anything besides heirloom seeds that you can't find in the hardware or farm supply stores. The little handful of seed that I planted in July cost fifty cents and I had seed left over. It would take two hours of time and trouble to shell them out, dry them,

Strange... But True?

The Curse of the Kennedys, Part II
Last week, the subject of a curse that followed the Kennedys for a few generations, even until today, was noted. Some say it was due to some cursed gold coins Rose Fitzgerald-Kennedy's father found. Some say otherwise.

Others say that the curse comes from the other side of the family; the Kennedys, not the Fitzgeralds. The Kennedys were making illegal money from bootlegging. JFK's father, Joe Kennedy, ran an illegal bootleg operation for years. Some believe that the curse came from JFK's sister, Rosemary, that was given a lobotomy to help JFK's career. She died in a mental institution in 2005 after spending most of her life there.

Other than the four cursed Kennedy brothers, the curse touched those closely connected to them. In 1956, Jackie Kennedy, JFK's wife, gave birth to a stillborn daughter (to be named "Arabella").

In 1963, she gave birth to a son, Patrick, who lived two days.

JFK's sister, Kathleen, and a male companion were killed in a plane crash in 1948. In 1964, JFK's brother was in a plane crash but survived. In 1973, Joe Kennedy II was in a horrific auto wreck. The same year saw Edward Jr. losing a leg to cancer.

David Anthony Kennedy died from a drug overdose in 1984. William Kennedy-Smith was charged with rape, but acquitted. Michael Kennedy was killed in a skiing accident in 1997. JFK Jr. was killed in a plane crash along with all aboard the small plane he was piloting in 1999.

These are some of the

By:
Rick Branham

Last week I left off with this question, what three components make up the fire triangle. They are oxygen, fuel and heat. If you remove any one of these components a fire cannot start and if burning, it will be extinguished.

You may think firefighting is simple. You put the wet stuff on the red stuff and poof the fire is out. To a certain extent this is true; however there is a certain science involved. Fire can take many forms but all involve a heat-producing chemical reaction between some type of fuel and oxygen. This chemical reaction has been added to the triangle thus creating the fire tetrahedron.

The fire tetrahedron is comprised of the same components of the triangle, oxygen, fuel and heat. But when you add a self-sustained chemical reaction the fire tetrahedron is formed. This explains flaming combustion more accurately. Over the next few weeks I am going to go into detail on each component of the fire tetrahedron. I want you to understand how a fire starts through this tetrahedron, but for now I want to try to explain what fire is.

A fire is an exothermic heat reaction called combustion. Now, I need to explain two things in the previous sentence. First, an exothermic reaction is a chemical reaction between two or more materials that somehow changes the material and produces heat, flames and toxic smoke.

Secondly, combustion is a self-sustaining process of rapid oxidation of fuel that produces heat and light. Fire is a form of combustion.

With combustion you have two types, flaming and nonflaming. Flaming combustion is when both liquid and solid fuels are heated to a point where they give off vapors and mix with oxygen and can burn thus producing flames. Nonflaming combustion is when oxidation occurs on the surface of the fuel causing charring. A couple of examples of nonflaming combustion is burning charcoal or smoldering fabric.

I am going to stop here because I have thrown a lot at you this week. Believe it or not, I have just scratched the surface. Moving forward I am going to talk about the fire tetrahedron and how fire forms. Next week we will start with the heat component. And with that, your question is this. What do the initials BTU stand for?

I wanted to mention this week that starting on Monday September 30th five members, myself included, of the Brodhead Volunteer Fire Department will take part in a grueling eight day training course consisting of ten hour days on Structural Collapse in Lexington. These members are giving up their time with no pay to take part in this training to better serve our community in a time of emergency. This training goes along with the structural collapse equipment we received a few months ago through a grant.

our houses and spent most of the day running and playing. We stayed in good physical shape because of the exercise provided by our physical activity.

In the 50's, Elvis Presley arrived on the scene and changed music for all time. Most of the girls loved him; the boys wanted to be like him; and our parents generally considered him to be a terrible influence on the younger generation. Little did they know that he would become known as The King of Rock and Roll or that his popularity would continue for the next sixty years. We learned that he was a very generous, helpful, and caring role model. He even served in the Army and earned an honorable discharge.

Several other things also made living in the 50's a positive experience. You could go to the Vernon Theater, enjoy a Coke and popcorn for only 25 cents. We never ran out of country ham. Our teachers cared about us, and our parents were thankful for those teachers and the efforts that they made to educate their children. We went to school every day and never worried about someone having a gun.

As far as I am concerned those are many of the features of living during the 50's that made life better. A few conventions from that time might improve our current home life situations. Things such as having sit-down dinners with our families. And as I have mentioned before, it would be a wonderful idea to bring family board games back into our homes.

It is my hope that the younger generation will at least give some consideration to slowing down at bit. The speed of life today has become much too fast, and families don't get to spend much close time together – to the detriment of our society. It is worth it in more ways than words can say. I know, because that's how it was in the 50's.

bag them up and find a place in the freezer to stash them. On the other hand, I am beyond thankful for the opportunity to save Bufford Caudill and Black Satin Fall beans and Bertha McQueery's goose bean seed.

So anyway, I decided to save a bucketful of shuckey beans which I grew up calling leather britches.

Shuckey beans are dried and later eaten with the pods intact. It is a lot of trouble because it usually takes 5 or 6 sunny days to get them thoroughly dried, but once you do, they'll keep for years in the freezer or even in a cloth sack.

When I was growing up, Shuckey beans were on the menu at least once a week from Thanksgiving until the first of June. We dried several bushels every year. Mom had very large sewing needles that were only used for the purpose of stringing up leather britches.

The needles were threaded with stout nylon twine that had been used to sew and seal the tops of hundred pound live stock feed sacks. The string would unravel to six or eight feet lengths with one smooth motion when you got it started.

We tied a big green bean to the end of the twine, then poked the needle through green bean pods and slid them down until the string was full, whereupon we tied another pod to that end and they were ready to dry. During the day, they were hung on clothes lines and at night they were brought into the house and hung behind the cook stove to dry.

Once dry, Mom put them in a white feed sack, doused them with black pepper to keep bugs out and stored them in the pantry. We also dried several cushaws every year by first cutting them into rounds about an inch wide, peeling off the rind and hanging the rounds on a mop handle to dry behind the stove.

There was way more in a cushaw than one family could eat at a single meal. We ate the necks while they were still fresh and dried the main body to eat when all the green ones were gone. My brothers and I much preferred dried cushaw than fresh.

I'm gonna buy a cushaw in a week or two to dry and have with my leather britches when the snow's a' blowing and the cold wind's a howling come the middle of next January.

We all love you very much.
Your children, grandchildren and great grandchildren

Card of Thanks

James Kidwell

The family of James Kidwell would like to take this time to thank each and everyone who helped in any way during his sickness and passing.

He would have been so proud to know that so many people cared. He was a very loved person and will be truly missed.

Thanks to the ambulance service crew, the Rockcastle Hospital and UK Hospital for doing what they could. Special thanks to Cox Funeral Home for such a good job and letting him take his ride in the '59 hearse. Thanks to Bro. Dwayne Carpenter and Bro. Thomas Adkins. You both knew his heart. Thanks to Bro. Terry and Melissa for the beautiful songs he loved. To Tonya Prewitt for the beautiful spray. You went above and beyond. We are truly grateful to the pallbearers he loved dearly. Also to James Miller and my work family at RCDC, I love you all.

We can't thank everyone personally but for each and everyone, always know you are loved for whatever you did to make this time a little easier for us. We know, as time goes on and with God's help, we will be okay.

May God bless each and everyone of you.

Rockets lose to Pulaski

By: Doug Ponder

The Rockcastle County Rockets dropped to 1-4 on the season following a 54-14 loss to the Pulaski County Maroons at home last Friday night.

The Rocket loss was largely due to the amount of stalled drives on offense as they had a total of 6 turnovers and 3 punts on the night. The Rockets offense produced only 282 total yards with 124 yards rushing and 158 yards passing yards.

Unfortunately, The Rockets weren't able to stop the bleeding on defense as the Maroons amassed a total of 444 yards on offense with 256 yards on the ground and 188 yards through the air.

In the first quarter, the Rockets offense was first to take the field in the game. After two plays on offense, senior quarterback Corey McPhetridge threw an interception on the Rockets 27 yard line. The Maroons then scored on one play, following the interception, with an 18 yard passing touchdown. The extra point was good giving the Maroons the early 7-0 lead.

The Maroons would score again on their next offensive drive after another passing touchdown for 56 yards. However, the Rockets blocked the extra point attempt making the score 13-0.

McPhetridge finally got the Rockets into the scoring column late in the first quarter with a 47 yard touchdown strike to senior receiver Tyler Harper. The two point conversion was good cutting the Maroons lead to 13-8.

The Maroons then put up an unanswered 20 points until late in the second quarter when junior running back Isaiah Adams scored on a 17 yard touchdown run. The two point conversion failed making the score 33-14 at the end of the first half.

After halftime, the Rockets would never see the end zone again as the Maroons put the game away with three unanswered touchdowns for the final score of 54-14.

The Rockets were led on offense by McPhetridge who was 15 out of 26 passing attempts for 149 yards and one touchdown with four interceptions. Freshman Chayse McClure also saw some time at the quarterback position and was 1 for 1 passing for 9 yards.

McPhetridge also led the Rockets in rushing with 37 yards on eight carries. Junior fullback Chance Ansardi also had a big night on the ground with 33 yards on 10 carries.

Other Rockets picking up rushing yards were freshman Devon Robinson with 25 yards on 6 carries, Adams 20 yards on four carries and one touchdown, senior Brandon Jones 4 yards on three carries, McClure 3 yards on one carry and junior Steven Rector with 2 yards on one carry.

Harper led the receiving corps with two catches for 61 yards and one touchdown. Other Rockets catching passes were McClure with 5 catches for 35 yards, sophomore Dylan Rowe two for 21 yards, freshman Dalton Rowe one for 18 yards, senior John Hughes one for 10 yards, junior Tyler Langford one for 9 yards and Jones two for two yards.

The Rocket defense was led by senior Jared Lake who had 7 tackles, a sack assist and one fumble recovery.

Other Rockets credited with tackles were Ansardi with 7, Adams with 5 and an assisted sack, freshman Austin Mills with 5, Jones and junior Kyle Denney with 4 each, Dalton Rowe and junior Justin Hughes with 3 each, and senior R.C. Kirby with one. McClure, Robinson and freshman Lucas Jones were all cred-lor also admitted to Pennington that he had smoked marijuana prior to his arrest.

Taylor was charged with possession of a controlled substance, possession of marijuana, DUI, drug paraphernalia and tampering with physical evidence. He was lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center and later released on a $5,000 unsecured bond.

“Rockets”

ited with two each.

Head Coach Scott Parkey said that Pulaski County was the best team the Rockets had faced all year and that what makes the Maroons even better is their lack of mistakes on offense.

"They didn't make physical or mental mistakes on offense that stalled their drives," Parkey said. "They also didn't make any mistakes on defense that led to big plays. When you don't make mistakes you win games."

Parkey also said that the Maroons play with confidence, which is something the Rockets lacked throughout the game.

"We struggle playing with confidence. The feeling of doubt creeps in when something doesn't go as planned," Parkey said. "This always leads to another mistake or a play where we try so hard not to mess up that we are not physically free to fly around and make a great play."

Parkey went on to say that at every practice, the coaching staff constantly preaches "winning," "success" and "confidence." He said he wants the team to recognize they can achieve these things even through adversity.

"We want the team to believe they can win every time they step onto the field. They also have to keep that belief throughout each game," Parkey said. "When they play loose and free, I believe we can beat anyone on our remaining schedule. Our goal is to win district and it can be done when our players play with confidence."

The Rockets will travel to Hazard on Friday night to take on the Perry Central Commodores. Kick-off is at 7:30 p.m.

Parkey said the Commodores lost a lot of their star players last season to graduation but that their young players are starting to settle in to their new roles on offense and defense.

"This will be a tough game for us as we play them at their new stadium on their new turf field," Parkey said. "This is a must win for us heading into our bye week and preparing for district play."

An injured four month old pig was rescued Tuesday afternoon from the busy roadway of I-75 near the 59 exit in Mt. Vernon. Deputy Sheriff Matt Bryant responded to a call to 911 about a pig allegedly falling off a truck and hitting the blacktop and then bouncing into the median. When Bryant arrived, he noticed the pig didn't seem to be in pain but had a broken leg. Justice for Abused Animals, an animal rescue organization from Corbin, learned about the injured pig and sent representatives to pick up the animal. While waiting on JFAA representatives to arrive, Bryant researched the nearest pig rescue facility and discovered The Pig Preserve in Jamestown, Tennessee. JFAA transported the pig named "Lucky" to The Pig Preserve from where they took "Lucky" to the University of Tennessee Hospital for animals. UT veterinarians say Lucky has a broken left elbow and that they are giving him pain medicine but that he is eating and drinking. You can follow Lucky's progress on JFAA Facebook website at <https://www.facebook.com/justiceforabusedanimals>.

Hospital offers free cholesterol screenings

Children, young adults and older Americans can have high cholesterol. Learn how to prevent high cholesterol and know what your cholesterol levels mean.

September is National Cholesterol Education Month, a good time to get your blood cholesterol checked and take steps to lower it if it is high. National Cholesterol Education Month is also a good time to learn about lipid profiles and about food and lifestyle choices that help you reach personal cholesterol goals.

2013, Rockcastle Regional Hospital is offering free cholesterol screenings from 7 a.m. until 10 a.m. No appointment is necessary. Please fast 12 hours prior to screening. Registration for the free screening will be in the second floor lobby of the Outpatient Services Center. For more information, contact Arielle Estes at 256-7880 or a.estes@rhrcc.org.

Cholesterol is a waxy, fat-like substance found in your body and many foods. Your body needs cholesterol to function normally and makes all that you need. Too much cholesterol can build up in your arteries. After a while, these deposits narrow your arteries, putting you at risk for heart disease and stroke.

High cholesterol usually doesn't have any symptoms. As a result, many people do not know that their cholesterol levels are too high. However, doctors can do a simple blood test to check your cholesterol. High cholesterol can be controlled through lifestyle changes or if it is not enough, through medications.

It's important to check your cholesterol levels. High cholesterol is a major risk factor for heart disease, the leading cause of death in the United States. Source: CDC

Team attends Brushy Fork Institute

The Rockcastle County Development Board organized a team to attend the 2013 Brushy Fork Annual Institute at Berea College September 18, 19, and 20th. The team was selected to represent Rockcastle's three cities: Lynn Tatum - Mt. Vernon, Mayor Jason Medley - Livingston and Courtney Hale - Brodhead.

Each year Brushy Fork Institute offers training for community leaders. In addition, scholarships are offered to distressed counties and teams qualify to apply and receive ARC grants (Appalachian Regional Commission) to create community capacity. This year the Rockcastle County Development Board will apply for an ARC grant to revise the 2009 County Strategic Plan in 2014. Typically, plans are revised every five years so it can remain current. Many of the suggested projects identified in the 2009 plan have been completed and new visions need to be identified to continue progress over the next five years.

DAR Rockcastle Chapter commemorates September patriotic events

September is filled with patriotic events in which the Rockcastle Chapter DAR participated. Chapter members assembled display boards and informational pamphlets (above) about the writing of the U.S. Constitution to be displayed in the local school libraries during Constitution Week (September 17th-23rd).

In honor of Patriot Day, Amanda McNew, representative of the Woodmen of the World, presented the chapter with the 9/11 Flag of Honor (below) at their September meeting. The flag was created by John Michelotti and it contains the names of all those that perished in the World Trade Towers, the Pentagon, United Flights 175 and 93 and American Flights 11 and 77 during the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001.

Blast From The Past...

One of this week's Blast From the Past comes from Bobbie Ann Durham who taught at Sowder School in 1958-59. This was Ms. Durham's, who was 19 at the time, second school to teach. She was able to identify all the children in the photo and said they "were the sweetest and best children in the world. I'll always cherish the time I spent with them." In the photo are, front row, from left: Floyd Bradley, Garner Mink, Gordon Mink, Jerry Moore, Barbara Wheat and Lavonia Wheat. Second row: John Fletcher, Carter Mink, Bob Bradley, Joann Moore, Willene Mink and Wathalene, holding Ms. Durham's baby (Sherry Lynn Durham, 9 months old). Back row: Bill Fletcher, Jack Bradley, Darlene Cromer, Lorene Hasty and Maudie Fletcher.

10 local students named Sen. Jeff Green Scholars

Ten 2013 graduates of Rockcastle County High School have been named Senator Jeff Green Scholars by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) for outstanding academic performance in high school. Students earn this designation by achieving a 4.0 grade point average each year of high school and scoring at least a 28 composite on the ACT.

Local students who earned this prestigious designation are Charity Adams, Aaron Adkisson, Jessica Bentley, Hannah Bullock, Logan Durham, James Hasty, Virginia Johnson, Austin Jordison, Angel Spurlock and Alexis Young.

These students have also earned $2,500 a year in Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES) awards. Their awards may be renewed each year of college if they continue to earn high grades, making the total value of their KEES worth $10,000.

The title honors the late state Sen. Jeff Green of Mayfield, who served in the Kentucky General Assembly from 1992 to 1997.

KEES and other Kentucky student aid programs are administered by KHEAA. KEES awards are funded by net Kentucky lottery proceeds and may be used at most colleges and universities in Kentucky. In some cases, the award may be used at out-of-state schools if the major the student is pursuing is not available in Kentucky. No application is necessary for KEES awards, and students may access their KEES account information on www.kheaa.com by setting up a MyKHEAA account.

To learn how to plan and prepare for higher education, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov. For more information about Kentucky scholarships and grants, visit www.kheaa.com; write KHEAA, P.O. Box 798, Frankfort, KY 40602; or call 800-928-8926, ext. 6-7372.

Mrs. Linda Clontz's second grade class at MVES recently walked to the Courthouse and Judge Katie Wood did a lesson about abandonment with the class. The class would like to thank Judge Katie and Eliza York.

Clontz's class also elected their class president and vice president. Landon Reppert, above, was elected president. Raychel Carpenter, below, was elected vice president. Congratulations.
