Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet? Some things to think about...
 What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?
 Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
 A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and beach to help dissolve stains.
 B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.
 The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.
Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
 C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.
 D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.
 E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
 The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again-Promoting the life of the carpet.
 Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

Local schools receive good report cards for 2012-2013 year

By: Doug Ponder

Every school in the Rockcastle County School District showed overall positive gains after statewide test results for the 2012-2013 school year were released last week. The district's rank went from 47th statewide to 84th. Last year they were listed as "needs improvement" and this year they are listed as "Proficient/Progressing" and a "High Progress District." The Rockcastle County School District received a 60.9 overall score out of 100 compared to the 54.7 overall score they received the previous year. The test scores are a result of students who are tested annually in a complex testing system called the Kentucky Performance Rating for Educational Progress. The two year old KPREP testing system reveals how well students are doing in all basic academic areas. The KPREP test also compares academically each school's students to students in other school districts. Besides academics, at the high school level, the test calculates graduation rates and college and career readiness. Brodhead Elementary School made the largest improvement in the district with a 21.4 gain from the previous year.

Mt. Vernon man arrested Monday for attempted murder

By: Doug Ponder

A Mt. Vernon man was arrested for attempted murder Monday afternoon after he assaulted a man and allegedly tried to drown him in the Kentucky River at Hazard. Arrested was Larry W. Yocum, 42. According to Hazard Police reports, a witness called police after he saw Yocum reportedly murder Jeffery Karr on the Kentucky River bank near the basketball courts on Main Street in Hazard. The witness said he saw Yocum beat Karr with his fists and then hit him in the head with a cinderblock. After assaulting Karr, the witness said he saw Yocum drag Karr's body into the water and place the cinderblock on top of him in an attempt to sink his body. However, when Karr's body would not sink, the witness said Yocum used his foot to push Karr's body down the river where he left him for dead. Police later found Karr's body on the opposite side of the river approximately 200 yards downstream from the scene of the attack. Karr was still alive and talking to police and confirmed the details about the attack. Officers noticed that he had severe cuts on his arms, a broken nose, and possible skull fragments in his hair. Karr was transported to Hazard ARH Medical Center and later flown to the UK Medical Center where he was later treated and released. Upon further investigation, police suspect that Yocum

Sheltowee Trace Association places headquarters in Livingston

By: Doug Ponder

A prominent Kentucky trail association will move its headquarters to Livingston in the summer of 2014. Sheltowee Trace Association Executive Director Steve Barbour recently announced that the association plans on moving their headquarters from Tollesboro to Livingston. The association plans on starting the transition in November and they hope to be finished with a fully functional office by June 2014. The Sheltowee Trace is a 302 mile trail that starts near Oneida, Tennessee and ends near Morehead, Kentucky. The trail was named after Daniel Boone who was given the name "Sheltowee" by Chief Blackfish when he was adopted into the Shawnee Tribe. The word Sheltowee translates to "Big Turtle" which is why a white turtle is used as a symbol to mark the trail. The trail goes through the Daniel Boone National Forest, Big South Fork National Park, Cumberland Falls State Resort Park, the Natural Bridge State Resort Park, Cave Run Lake and Laurel Lake. Hundreds of tourists travel the Sheltowee Trace each year by either hiking, bicycling or horseback riding. Livingston Mayor Jason Medley has offered two rooms inside the former Livingston Elementary School for the STA to use as their headquarters. A lease agreement is currently in discussion and should be drawn up in the near future for both parties to sign. Barbour said the STA became interested in moving their headquarters to Livingston after they officially became a Trail Town in the summer of 2013. He said having their headquarters in Livingston will help the STA as Livingston is located near the middle of their trail. "This is huge for us and huge for the City of

Two people arrested during drug deal within 1,000 feet of local school

By: Doug Ponder

Two people were arrested last Thursday night for participating in an alleged drug deal in a Mt. Vernon restaurant's parking lot that is within 1,000 feet of a school. Arrested at the scene was Christopher Scott Jones, 40, of Brodhead and Stephanie Kaye Chapman, 22, of Lancaster.

According to Mt. Vernon Police reports, officer Ryan Messinger responded after receiving a complaint of a possible drug deal taking place in Snack Shack's parking lot in Mt. Vernon. Once Messinger arrived, he observed Jones standing at the driver's side door of a red vehicle with a handful of dollar bills. After searching Jones, Messinger found a prescription bottle of Alprazolam (Xanax) that was filled with 90 pills on September 25th. However, Messinger noticed that there were only 32 Alprazolam pills left in the bottle. While searching Jones, Chapman was inside the restaurant ordering food and then came outside. Chapman told Messinger her name was Heather Jones and Jones told Messinger her name was Christy. Messinger also noticed that Chapman appeared intoxicated as she had slurred

Correction

In an article last week about the violent home invasion, the homeowner was incorrectly identified as the victim. The Signal regrets this error.

Local author and historian David Owens was at the Rockcastle County Library last Saturday to do a book signing for his new book "Before Consolidation: The Golden Age of Rockcastle County Basketball." Shown above with Owens is Freda Sturgill, who was once a cheerleader at Livingston High School, and widow of Paul Sturgill, the all time high scorer for Rockcastle County. Sturgill scored 3,047 points during his career at Livingston High School.

By Ike Adams

One of my most vivid memories is climbing up the hillside to his orchards with my grandpa, Mose Adams, who everybody in the family called "Pap".

I can close my eyes and visualize every tree and tell you the variety of each and every single one.

Without going into detail about the lay out, the upper orchard consisted of one each of Winesap, Rome Beauty, Fuji (that we called Jumbo), Starks Red and Golden Delicious, Black Ben Davis two Grimes Golden, three Horse Apples, two June Apples (one red striped and one yellow) and one tree that came up from seed but yielded bushels of late summer fruit.

The lower orchard, much closer to our house, had blighted and mostly died, but still had half a dozen trees that bore fruit until I was out of high school. I especially remember the two big Grimes Golden trees and a striped June Apple that stood just behind the family cemetery.

Pap crossed over to the other side in November of 1954 when I was just a few weeks shy of my sixth birthday. Pap was 86, but I remember going to the upper orchard with him early in October. Mom had given each of us a burlap feed sack and admonished both of us to not try and pack more than we could handle.

But the Black Bens, a small, round, deep purple fruit that Pap cherished above all others, were just commencing to get ripe and we wound up putting more apples in my sack than I could easily carry. Half way down the mountain, Pap tied the tops of our sacks together and slung them across his shoulder so that he had a peck of apples on his back and another on his chest.

Our intentions were to untie them in the hallway of the barn so that I could struggle in with my load and impress Mom. Unfortunately, she was gathering eggs and caught us in the act of making the switch. This was just one of hundreds of times that Pap talked me out of getting a whipping.

By the time I'd finished high school, the orchards were essentially too uncared for and too overgrown to be productive. The trees were old and already susceptible to disease and insects when Pap was still alive. Dad and some of my uncles and older cousins tended them for perhaps a dozen years, but they eventually became unworthy of the effort.

But while they were still living, they provided all the apples that several families could use.

In their prime, during the twenties and thirties, they had also provided an important cash crop to Pap's subsistence farm.

My mom and most of my aunts made apple butter, apple jelly, apple sauce and canned apples. Mom often spoke of making apple cider but the cider press was gone before I was born. Of all things apple, however, my favorite was, and still is, dried apples. Even into my college years, Mom was finding enough Grimes Golden every year to dry a couple or three bushels because I well recall taking some to share with my dormitory Yankee roommates and explaining how we made them.

When I was growing up, there was no better snack than a handful of dried apples and if you've never had a dried apple fried pie, you simply have not experienced one of the finer things that life on earth has to offer.

From mid-summer until early fall, if you were sitting around, with nothing else to do, Mom would put you to

Pop's Grape Arbor

My grandfather had a long line of trellises that were filled with vines that produced the most wonderful tasting grapes imaginable. He chose Concord grapes because they were vigorous, productive, tasty, and easy to train. He also selected them because they excelled in making fresh juice, jelly, and were delicious to eat raw. Pop's were the best grapes I have ever tasted. One of my most regrettable mistakes is not taking one of his grape vines and propagating it on my own land.

When I was a little boy, I stuck with Pop as he walked among his vineyard selecting the ripest and best grapes to eat straight from the vines. He and I spent many hours collecting small buckets of the fruit and then sitting under a shade tree devouring our bounty. You should have seen us spitting seeds as we consumed the awesome grapes. I doubt that there is another soul on earth who loved fresh grapes as much as he did.

My grandmother (Mommie Katie) also had a hand in the production of Pop's yearly grape harvest. When the grapes were just at the peak of their season, Pop filled buckets of the fruit and had her work her magic in the kitchen. Each year she canned large quantities of grape juice and jelly. Their cellar was filled with quarts of the juice and pints of jelly. Oh, the joy of opening one of those small containers of jelly to accompany her home-made biscuits for breakfast!

The production of grapes is both simple and mystifying. Yes, it is simple to keep vines alive - Kentucky has the right climate for grapes to thrive. But it is challenging to grow the fruit of sufficient quality to produce good juice, jelly, and especially wine. Even though Pop was a simple farmer, his grapes were the best in the neighborhood.

To receive the most nutrients from grapes, it's recommended that the seeds are also consumed. Grapes are very good sources of manganese, thiamin, vitamin B6, riboflavin, vitamin C, and potassium. They are an excellent source of health-promoting flavonoids. The nutritional benefits of grapes are similar to those found in other berries. Usually, the stronger the color of the grape, the higher the concentration of flavonoids.

Grape seed extracts are rich in flavonoids also and have been widely used in treating varicose veins and other venous disorders. These flavonoids are very powerful antioxidants and have been shown to reverse atherosclerosis.

The first commercial vineyard in the United States was located in Jessamine County, KY. It was started by Switzerland County, Ind., native John James Dufour. Dufour organized the Kentucky Vineyard Society.

I am not sure where Pop first acquired his grape vines but several of his friends started their own vineyards from his original stock. Pop always said, "When you bite into a grape that's warm from the sun and bursting with juice, you'll be hooked on growing grapes." He was absolutely correct.

When we think of growing grapes, we dream of green or purple table grapes (the kind you eat fresh), jams and jellies, or perhaps a good wine grape, just in case you want to make your own Cabernet.

Knowing how to grow grapes successfully means selecting the right variety for your region. Grapes will grow in almost any part of the country, but you need to choose one that suits your local conditions of summer heat and winter cold. Your local extension office can suggest a specific variety whether table or wine.

Grapes need full sun all day, whatever the region you live in, as well as well-drained soil that's free of weeds and grass - you don't want any competition for water and nutrients. Just think of all those pictures you've seen of the Italian hillside vineyards - that's the goal.

Pop's grape vines were in the direct sun, near his apple orchard. His trellises were tall enough that he could walk under the vines in order for him to prune the vines each season. The technique for growing grapes that is the most productive is good pruning practices. Pop was very talented in selecting which vines needed to be pruned in order for him to achieve the maximum harvest. I loved spending time with him as he sculpted his particular vineyard. I learned so much from watching him work his magic.

On Call

By: Rick Branham

Last week I started into the science of firefighting and how fire starts. At the end of the column I asked what BTU stands for and the answer is British Thermal Units. That is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of 1 pound of water 1 degree Fahrenheit. Last week I also talked about the four components needed for fire, the fire tetrahedron. The first component I am going to look at is heat.

Having an understanding of heat and temperature gives you a good working knowledge of fire behavior. I don't want to get to sciency with this, but heat is a form of energy and energy has two states; potential and kinetic. Temperature is a measurement of kinetic energy. Heat will move from objects of higher temperature to objects of lower temperature.

In my very first edition of this column I said that it's not the wood actually burning but instead it's the gases produced. This process is called pyrolysis which is caused by applying additional heat. As a material begins to heat up, it begins to release ignitable vapors or gases into the atmosphere. The process continues the production and ignition of the gases so that the combustion reaction is sustained. This has always intrigued me to the fact that it's the gases burning and not the wood. So applying water to a burning object cools the material down thus taking away the heat and allowing the fire to die out.

I want to look at one other aspect of the heat component in the fire tetrahedron this week, and that is the sources of heat energy. There are four sources of heat energy in particular I want to discuss. First is the most common source of heat in combustion reactions, chemical heat energy. Chemical heat energy is when a combustible comes in contact with oxygen, a lighter a good example. Next we have self-heating or spontaneous heating. This is a form of chemical heat energy where a material increases temperature without external heat. The best example of this is a hay bale catching fire. The sun can initiate or accelerate the process but the conditions of heat are just right for this to occur. That is why we don't see every hay bale in the field catching fire. Oil soaked rags is another example of spontaneous heating.

Electrical heat energy is common in many household fires. Electrical heating can occur by arcing, overloading, sparking and resistance heating. Resistance heating occurs in electric coils on a stove or portable heaters. And lastly there is mechanical heat energy, which is generated by friction or compression. Friction is, of course, the movement of two surfaces against each other. For example, rubbing stones together to generate a spark to start a fire. Heat of compression is generated when gas is compressed. The ones who drive diesels probably know this. Diesel engines ignite fuel vapors without the use of a spark plug using this principle. It is also the reason why SCBA cylinders feel warm

MEDITERRANEAN VEGETABLE SOUP

1 can (15 ounce) cannellini (white navy) beans, drained
1 tablespoon olive oil
1/2 large onion, diced
1 medium carrot, peeled, sliced or diced
2 stalks celery, diced
1 medium zucchini, diced
1 to 2 cloves of garlic, minced
1 teaspoon dried thyme
1/2 teaspoon dried sage
1/2 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper
4 cups low-sodium chicken broth
1 can (14.5 ounce) no-salt added diced tomatoes,
2 ounces (about 4 loosely packed cups) baby spinach, washed, stems removed, cut-up
Grated Parmesan cheese
Mash half the beans and set aside. Heat oil in large soup pot over medium high heat. Add the onion, carrot, celery in first and let them cook a minute or two before adding the other ingredients because they take a little more time to soften.) Stir occasionally. Let cook until the veggies are tender, about 5 minutes or so. Add the broth and tomatoes with their juices. Bring to a boil. Add the mashed and whole beans and the spinach. Cook until heated through and the spinach has wilted, usually about 3 to 4 minutes. Ladle into soup bowls and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. You can, of course, use fresh herbs. I just don't usually have them on hand.

VEGETABLE SOUP

This soup is perfect for those cool nights when you want something hot and nutritious, that you can fix quickly. There is no fat in this soup, but it has plenty of flavors from the herbs and spices.
1 can (14 ounce) petite diced tomatoes
1/2 teaspoon dried celery
1 can (29 ounce) Veg-all®, drained
1 dash hot sauce
1 cup water
1/2 teaspoon sugar, optional
1/2 teaspoon each dried oregano and garlic
Salt and pepper, to taste
1 tablespoon dried chopped onion
Add all ingredients to large soup pot. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and gently boil for 30 minutes. Serve with warm cornbread or crackers.

Strange... But True?

Cursed Car Kills Actor, James Dean

On September 30, 1955, 58 years ago this very week, actor James Dean drove his "cursed" car to his death and into infamy. Could the car have been cursed? Are people, places, or even things cursed? In this series of this column, we'll take a look into the circumstances surrounding Dean, his accident, and the car that has apparently vanished into thin air.

James Byron Dean was born February 8, 1931, in Marion, Indiana to Winton and Mildred Wilson-Dean. The family moved to California when James was six. He had a close relationship with his mother, who died from cancer when he was only nine years old.

Being unable to care for this son, Winton sent him to live with his sister and her husband, Marcus and Ortense Winslow, in Fairmont, Indiana, where he was raised a Quaker.

It was said that James was sexually abused by a pastor by age 11 and had an "intimate relationship" that lasted several years with the pastor, even listing himself as a homosexual to avoid the draft. The United States government considered it a mental disorder at that time. After high school, James headed back to California to Santa Monica College, along with his beagle, Max. He majored in Pre-Law, but transferred to UCLA to major in Drama. The rest, as they say, is history.

James Dean's career took off and he is credited with only a handful of movies and TV appearances, but he has become an icon. His last movie, "Giant", had just been filmed when the accident occurred. He was the first actor to be nominated posthumously for an Academy Award.

There was a string of Hollywood actresses known to have dated Dean. One was Maila Nurmi, who starred in "Vampira".

Maila dabbled in the occult and got Dean interested in it, as well. They had a breakup, and Dean publicly denied the relationship. She didn't take the spurning well, and supposedly put a black magic spell on Dean. The curse was to include Dean and all that he was close to. The curse may have claimed Sal Mineo, Natalie Wood, and Nick Adams—all friends from "Rebel Without a Cause", who died young.

The source of the curse may never be known for sure. Some have theories as varied as Dean being involved in the occult, a flirtation with Satanism, or him being in a witches coven in Los Angeles. Or perhaps, as some say, the car has a malevolent spirit in it, such as the Plymouth Fury, "Christine".

Now that we have taken a look at the man and possible causes for the curse, we will take a break until next week and see the effects of the curse on Dean and others.

"On Call"

after they have been filled.

Next week I am going to finish up the topic of heat in the fire tetrahedron and move on to the fuel component. Heat plays a very important role in fire. That is why we use water. If we cool the material down, that eliminates heat and ultimately puts out the fire. The question this week deals with the transmission of heat. How many ways can to transfer heat from one body to another? Is it one, three, five or seven different ways; the answer next week.

peeling apples to dry. We put thinly sliced apples on feed-sack bed spreads atop every roof on the on the place as well as on the hoods, tops, and trunk doors of parked cars and the bed of Dad's pick-up. Take them in at night and spread them out again the next morning as soon as the dew was off.

Mom also kept large baking pans full of drying apples that she would pop into the oven when the cooking fire died down.

They would dry into crisp but very tough flakes in two or three sunny days and then be stored in cloth feed sacks to munch on all winter.

So now I'm thinking that one day this week I'm going to head on over to Brummett's Orchard there on 39 just 3 or so crooked miles off 150, southwest of Crab Orchard because I hear they have #1 Golden Delicious for $20 a bushel and both Yukon Gold and Red Pontiac potatoes for $15 a bushel. I'm going to make my trip before this column hits the papers and by the time you read this I'm going to be drying apples on my garage roof.

If you plan on going, you might want to call first and make sure they haven't sold out. The number is 606-355-7526.

OLIVE FLORET SALAD

A long-time friend of Aunt Lillian's invited me and Willto her house for dinner a couple of months before we left California for Pennsylvania. She had prepared this salad for us, along with fried chicken and mashed potatoes.

1 med head cauliflower, small florets
1 bunch broccoli, small florets

2 cups grape or cherry tomatoes, halved
2 medium carrots, thinly sliced

1 can (6 ounce) pitted sliced ripe olives, drained
1 pack Italian salad dressing mix plus oil and vinegar listed on package

1 cup crumbled feta cheese
In a large bowl, combine the cauliflower, broccoli, tomatoes, carrots and olives.

Prepare the salad dressing according to package instructions; pour over vegetables and toss to coat. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Just before serving, toss again and sprinkle with feta cheese.

MAGNOLIA GRILL'S OLIVE SALAD

This recipe came from the chef at restaurant in West Chester, PA near where Will and I lived for eight years. If I'm making this to use as a garnishment on sandwiches, I like to put it in the food processor to make it a finer chop. The smaller the chop, the more the dressing is absorbed by the vegetables.

2 medium carrots peeled
1 small onion
1 large peperoncini
1 stalk celery

1/4 head cauliflower
1 small jar green olives with pimento
1 small can black olives

VINAIGRETTE
1 tablespoon oregano
1 teaspoon minced garlic
2/3 cup olive oil
2/3 cup red wine vinegar

Drain green olives and black olives. Cut into quarters. Chop carrots, cauliflower, celery, onions and peperoncini about the same size as the quartered olives or smaller. Mix vinaigrette ingredients and pour over vegetable mixture. Refrigerate for at least two hours—best if left overnight. It can be served on a bed of lettuce leaves for individual salads or in a bowl as a side dish as well as a garnishment for a sandwich.

NOTE: Instead of the fresh vegetables use a jar (25 ounce) of mild Italian giardiniera. You can find that in your local grocery store in the pickle/olive section.

Be aware of Kitchen Fires
Fire Prevention Week

It's time for Fire Prevention Week, and from October 6-12, local fire departments are joining forces with the nonprofit National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) to remind local residents to 'Prevent Kitchen Fires.' During this year's fire safety campaign, fire departments will be spreading the word about the dangers of kitchen fires—most of which result from unattended cooking—and teaching local residents how to prevent kitchen fires from starting in the first place.

According to the latest NFPA research, cooking is the leading cause of home fires. Two of every five home fires begin in the kitchen—more than any other place in the home. Cooking fires are also the leading cause of home fire-related injuries.

Often when we're called to a fire that started in the kitchen, the residents tell that they only left the kitchen for a few minutes. Sadly, that's all it takes for a dangerous fire to start.

Fire Prevention Week is aimed to reach folks in the community before they've suffered a damaging lesson.

Among the safety tips that firefighters and safety advocates will be emphasizing:
 Stay in the kitchen

when you are frying, grilling, broiling, or boiling food.

If you must leave the room, even for a short period of time, turn off the stove.

When you are simmering, baking, or roasting food, check it regularly, stay in the home, and use a timer to remind you.

If you have young children, use the stove's back burners whenever possible. Keep children and pets at least three away from the stove.

When you cook, wear clothing with tight-fitting sleeves.

Keep potholders, oven mitts, wooden utensils, paper and plastic bags, towels, and anything else that can burn, away from your stovetop.

Clean up food and grease from burners and stovetops.

Fire Prevention Week is actively supported by fire departments across the country. Fire Prevention Week is the longest running public health and safety observance on record.

A fourth quarter comeback, when the Rockets scored 16 points in the last two minutes of the game, was not enough and the Perry County Central Commodores won 47-37 last Friday night in Hazard.

The Commodores were first to get on the scoreboard early in the first quarter after a 54 yard run by quarterback Nathan Pray for a touchdown. The two point conversion was good giving them the early 8-0 lead.

The Rockets scored on their next drive with a 15 yard touchdown run by freshman Chayse McClure. The two point conversion was good tying the game at 8-8 late in the first quarter.

In the second quarter, the Commodores struck again with a 35 yard touchdown pass from Pray to receiver John Toomer. The extra point was no good making the score 14-8.

The Commodores scored again on their next offensive drive with a 56 yard touchdown run by Devan Brewer. The extra point was good extending the Colonels lead to 21-8.

The Rocket defense was the next to score late in the second quarter after freshman Austin Mills recovered a fumble and ran 7 yards for the touchdown. The extra point was good cutting the Colonels lead to 21-15.

Pray would connect with Toomer once again in the final minutes of the first half with a 14 yard touchdown pass. The two point conversion was no good making the score 27-15.

After halftime, the Commodores were first to score when Brewer punched the ball in from 3 yards out. The two point conversion was no good and the lead was 33-15.

The Rockets answered the Commodores on their next drive with a 2 yard run by McClure. The extra point attempt was no good cutting the lead to 33-21.

The Commodores scored again late in the third quarter when Brewer ran the ball in again for a 7 yard touchdown run. The two point conversion was good extending the lead 41-21.

The Commodores would attempt to put the game away on their next drive with a 24 yard touchdown run by Jordan Combs. The two point conversion was no good making it 47-21.

However, the Rockets scored on their next drive with a 30 yard touchdown pass from quarterback Corey McPhetridge to receiver Brandon Jones. The two point conversion was good cutting the lead to 47-29.

In the final seconds of the game, McPhetridge connected with receiver Dylan Rowe for a 10 yard touchdown pass. The two point conversion was good making the final score 47-37.

Offensively, the Rockets were led by McPhetridge who was 20 out of 38 pass attempts for 198 yards and two touchdowns.

McClure had a big night on offense leading the Rockets in rushing with 61 yards on 13 carries and two touchdowns.

Other Rockets picking up rushing yards were junior Chance Ansardi with 27 yards on six carries, freshman Devon Robinson with 26 yards on two carries and freshman Dalton Rowe with 10 yards on two carries.

Senior Brandon Jones led the receiving corps with six receptions for 83 yards and one touchdown.

Other Rockets making receptions were senior John Hughes with six catches for 59 yards, senior Tyler Harper with three for 24 yards, Rowe with two for 17 yards, McClure with two for 8 yards and senior Kyle Denney with one for 7 yards.

Defensively, the Rockets were led by Mills with eight tackles, one sack and one fumble recovery for a touchdown. Senior Jared Lake also had a big night on defense with nine tackles.

Senior Brandon Jones dives to tackle Perry Central running back Devan Brewer during last Friday night's loss. Jones tackled Brewer after two missed tackles in the background. Head Coach Scott Parkey said missed tackles hurt them in the game and that was an area they were going to focus on in their bye week.

Rockets R.C. Kirby and Austin Mills sacked Perry Central's quarterback Nathan Pray during last Friday night's loss. The Rockets have an off week this Friday night before starting district play next Friday night when they take on the Russell County Lakers at home. Kick-off is at 7:30 p.m.

Rocket defenders Austin Saylor and John Hughes trap Perry Central quarterback Austin Pray during last Friday night's game. The Rockets lost the game 47-37.

Sam Pensol fought through a tough day of golf to finish for a score of 77 at the regionals. Pensol just missed qualifying for state by 2 shots. The Rockets will look to Pensol for his leadership heading into next season.

Although the Rockets did not play well at Region, finishing 6th, they still had a great year and made great strides in the right direction. The Rockets will lose no players for next season and look to make a run at the regional title. Pictured are from left: Sam Pensol, Carson Noble, Thomas Burdette, Cade Burdette and John Cornelius.

Kentucky FitMan Competition comes to Berea this Saturday

Regional athletes vie to win $1,000 in prizes at Kentucky's first annual Fit Man Competition held at 24/7 Fitness, Friends and Fun, a locally owned gym in Berea. The contest will take place October 5th at the Fitness Center along with vendors, food and a FREE Rock Concert featuring Joker's Wild with rock music from the 70s 80s and 90s. Vendor booths will be set up throughout the day and Anthony's Ribs will be there to serve up his infamous barbecue while athletes compete for the coveted prize money! Winners will be announced during the FREE Rock Concert held from 6-7:30 at the gym. All communities are invited to enjoy the event and free concert. What is Fit Man, you ask? There are 7 competition events: Tire Flip, Sled Push, Monkey Bar Travers, Pull Ups, One-Arm Dumbbell Snatch, Toes to Bar, Box Jumps and the tie-breaker...Rope Climb. There will only be 25 female athletes and 25 male athletes competing...so the odds of winning are pretty good. Each competition event is 1 minute with 1 minute of rest in-between each competition. Contestants are given one point for each completed rep. The point leader at the end of the day wins.

In the event of a tie, the tie-breaking competition event will be a rope climb. There will be a first, second and third place winner for both men and women. First place prize for both men and women is $250, 2nd place is $150, and 3rd place is $100. The winning gym represented gets to take home the coveted trophy. And the trophy will travel from location to location each year as the athletes come back to defend their title. Athletes are traveling from as far north as Louisville, from Crossfit in the Ville to as far south as Williamsburg representing Baptist Family Fitness in Corbin. Also represented are athletes from Power House Gym in London, 24/7 Fitness, Friends and Fun in Berea and Anytime Fitness in Richmond Athletes who want to compete need to register online at www.fitmancompetition.com or stop in the gym at 501 Mount Vernon Road in Berea. The cost to compete is $25 and each athlete will receive a t-shirt commemorating their participation. Vendors/Exhibitors wishing to participate can download a vendor application at www.fitmancompetition.com or call the gym at 859-985-2584 or email veronica@fitnessfriendsandfun.com each. Head Coach Scott Parkey said he thought the team played well despite missing several players in the game due to injury. "Isaiah Adams and Koty Bengé were out the entire game because of injuries and Austin Embry and Austin Collins were out part of the game," Parkey said. "Their absences caused us problems on offense with Perry Central's blitz pickup which forced McPhetridge out of the pocket and out of rhythm on some of his throws." Parkey said that he believed the offense was getting better overall in both the running game and passing game. "Chayse McClure did a good job running behind Ansardi," Parkey said. "Our running game is continuing to get better and our ability to hit quick passes kept us moving the chains for first downs." However, Parkey said missed tackles on defense hurt them in the game and that it was unacceptable as he believed the players were in position to make plays. "Our guys were in the right position defensively to make plays and stops. But several missed tackles hurt us," Parkey said. "Jared Lake had another outstanding game on defense. He is playing on a higher level right now and is becoming a leader in the locker room as well." Parkey went on to say that penalties and injuries were what really hurt them in the game and that those two things should improve during the bye week. "The penalties really hurt us especially when the game was close," Parkey said. "The off week will allow us to get 100% healthy again and address the penalty issues. We should be full strength heading into our first district game against Russell County." The Rockets next game will be Friday, October 11th when they host Russell County at home. Kick-off is at 7:30 p.m.

Elk season underway; positive outlook this year

Kentucky's elk seasons opened Sept. 21st with bull elk archery season. Biologists with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources hold a positive outlook for the upcoming elk seasons. "We think it will be a productive elk hunting season," said Tina Brunjes, deer and elk coordinator for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "Our elk hunters have excellent success rates." Last season, elk hunters in Kentucky took 595 elk comprised of 39.5 percent male and 60.5 percent female. There were 900 permits awarded for the elk quota hunts in 2012.

is the harvest of cow elk, the reason Kentucky Fish and Wildlife issues 750 cow elk tags and 250 bull elk tags. Bull elk, however, are the draw for most hunters. "Kentucky bull elk hunters have a success rate of about 90 percent for harvesting bull elk with a firearm," Brunjes said. "Most of our hunters are taking mature bulls." The typical bulls taken are 3 1/2 years to 5 1/2 years old. A 3 - year-old bull has already grown a 4 x 4 antler rack and a 5 1/2 year-old bull usually has 6 x 6 antler rack that scores about 280 inches in the Boone and Crockett scoring system.

The number of elk hunting permits increased to 1,000 for the 2013-2014 elk season. The first Kentucky elk hunts began in 2001 when Kentucky Fish and Wildlife issued 12 permits. The herd goal is 10,000 elk. "We have the new system in place that we think hunters will find better distributes hunting pressure and maximizes hunter opportunity," Brunjes said. "A hunter with an At-Large tag now has eight counties to search for a place to hunt. Although we have a lot of public access where our elk herds are most numerous, we are excited to see the number of elk harvested from private lands continues to increase." Hunters may now choose between the At-Large North and At-Large South hunting areas or three limited entry areas (LEAs). Kentucky's elk restoration area encompasses 16 counties and roughly 4.2 million acres. The key to a healthy herd

Minimum entry into the Boone and Crockett record for an elk with typical antlers is 360 inches. So far, three bull elk with typical antlers harvested in Kentucky qualified for entry into the Boone and Crockett record books. Terrell Royalty set the record with a typical bull elk taken in Knott County in 2007 with a modern gun that scored 371 inches on the Boone and Crockett system. The bull elk archery season debuted in 2011. Hunters enjoy an extraordinarily high success rate for these hunts since, averaging about 60 percent. Brunjes explained the reason bull elk archery hunters are so successful is partly based on the timing of the season. "The bull elk archery season opens at the beginning of the bull elk rut and runs throughout the rut," she said. She also said the limited number of bull ar-

Money Tips for Students

Plan may help repaying federal student loans

Kentuckians who are having trouble repaying their federal student loans may want to check into the Pay As You Earn plan, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

The Pay As You Earn plan generally has the lowest monthly payments of all the repayment plans offered by the U.S. Department of Education (ED). It can be used by borrowers who have what ED calls a partial financial hardship. That means that the amount borrowers would pay under the standard 10-year repayment program is higher than what the borrower would pay under the Pay As You Earn plan.

Not everyone will qualify. Only three types of federal student loans are eligible:

- Federal Direct Stafford Loans.
- Federal Direct PLUS Loans made to graduate or professional students.
- Federal Direct Consolidation Loans that do not include a Federal PLUS Loan made to a parent.

In addition, borrowers must have received one of those loans after Sept. 30, 2011. Borrowers who are repaying loans received before Oct. 1, 2007, are not eligible.

Loans received through the Federal Family Education Loan Program cannot be repaid under the Pay As You Earn plan. However, they will be used to decide if borrowers have a partial financial hardship.

Borrowers who make 20 years of payments under the Pay As You Earn plan will have the rest of their eligible loans forgiven. They may be required to pay taxes on the amount that is forgiven.

For more information about Pay As You Earn, visit www.ed.gov and click on "Student loans, forgiveness" under the "How Do I Find ...?" link in the menu at right.

It is important to honor those who died on September 11th and to thank those first responders -- police officers, firefighters and emergency Medical Service Technicians who continue to protect our communities. Every year, since that tragic day in 2001, employees of Cash Express across the nation have visited first responders in early September to make a simple, yet thoughtful, gesture -- they deliver cakes to police and fire stations and EMS personnel. Cash Express is simply doing what many Americans feel on 9/11, a sense of thanks and respect for first responders. The tragic events on this day, unfortunately, remind us that life can be too short so we must say thanks and express gratitude every chance we get. They received an overall score of 76.2 compared to 54.8 in 2012. BES also made the fourth largest gain in the state and is labeled a "School of Distinction" as well as a "high progress school." They now have a 98% ranking up from 39th last year.

Roundstone Elementary School had an overall score of 70.7 compared to 62.5 the previous year. The school rating went from Proficient to "Distinguished/Progressing" and are now labeled a "high performing school." Their percentile rank went from 70th to 91st.

Mt. Vernon Elementary School had an overall score of 53 compared to 49.9 the previous year, and are now labeled "needs improvement/progressing." They increased their percentile ranking from 22nd to 32nd.

The Rockcastle County Middle School made a small improvement with an overall score of 56.6 compared to their previous year's score of 54.8. They are labeled a "needs improvement/progressing" school and have a 60% ranking, up from 53rd.

Rockcastle County High School also made a moderate gain with an overall score of 62.9 compared to 54.5 in 2011-2012. The test results showed that 93 students were going to college, 50 working, 14 working and going to college part-time, 6 receiving vocational/technical training, and 2 joining the military. Only 20 students were listed as "not successful" by not working, joining the military, or achieving higher education. They moved from a "needs improvement" school to "Proficient/Progressing" and raised their percentile ranking from 49th to 86th.

Director of Student Services Rebecca Isaacs said they are pleased with the significant increase in the state assessment scores.

"Our scores indicate an increase in student achievement and that we are doing a better job of making sure all students graduate high school either college or career ready," Isaacs said. "This accomplishment validates the work of our teachers and students in critical areas that are essential in the classroom and after they graduate."

ment is needed.

State law requires that all dogs, cats and ferrets, at least four months old, be vaccinated against rabies. Any mammal can get rabies including dogs, cats, horses, cows and humans. The virus is usually spread by wild animals such as skunks, foxes, raccoons and bats.

In Kentucky, ten animals have already tested positive for rabies in 2013. Rockcastle County has sent several specimens for testing, but none have tested positive for rabies.

Rabies is caused by a virus and is spread by contact with the saliva of the animal that has the disease. Symptoms of rabies in animals include: change in behavior, sickness, unable to eat or swallow, increased drooling or salivation and aggression.

Wild animals may also appear to be tame or sick if they have the rabies virus. However, some animals appear to be normal, especially in the early stages of the disease. There is no cure or treatment for rabies after it has been contracted by the animal and death will usually occur within ten days of the symptoms.

People are also at risk to contract rabies if a rabid animal bites a person. If you are bitten, wash the wound with soap and water for at least five minutes then seek medical assistance for additional treatment.

If you have been bitten by an animal you believe has the rabies virus, report the incident to the local health department. Officials will quarantine the animal for ten days or order the animal to be tested for rabies. If the animal cannot be found, then seek immediate treatment from a medical doctor. Your physician will determine if you should be treated to prevent rabies.

Rabies in people and pets is preventable by having pets vaccinated for rabies. People should avoid contact with stray dogs, cats or other animals. Report stray animals to the Rockcastle County Animal Shelter at 606-256-1833.

For more information about the clinic call Clara Patton at 606-256-2242 ext. 129. Additional rabies information can be found at chfs.ky.gov/dph/epi/rabies.htm.

Solar pathway lights project in Livingston

The Leadership Rockcastle program, sponsored by the Rockcastle County Development Board, will graduate nine participants this year on October 17th. Participants are asked to do a community project during the eight month span of the program.

This year, class member Greta Tompkins has organized a project that will bring solar pathway lights and solar lighting for the "Welcome" sign to Livingston Trail Town. Greta, an employee of MACED (Mountain Association for Community Economic Development) in Berea, applied for a solar light grant and was awarded $3,000.00.

Greta and Josh Bills of MACED, are working with the City of Livingston to locate the primary points within the city that require pathway lights. Cedar posts with the Trail Town logo will be capped with a solar light. These posts will help identify connector trails and mark future in-town campground sites.

Greta Tompkins and Josh Bills of MACED check amount of sunlight available for solar lights.

The More Acceptable Way

By Howard Coop

A new day, the first of a new week, began as a beautiful summer morning with just a hint of fall in the air. Anticipating a busy day, I looked at my to-do list, and I was not surprised; it was far longer and much more detailed than I expected it to be. Clearly, I understood what that meant, and at once, I began the work of the day.

The first thing on my to-do list was: There is a problem; call the plumber. I made the call, and when I finished, I looked at the list again. It reminded me to pay some bills, do some necessary laundry, check my desk for, and attend to, any accumulated clutter and prepare a work schedule for the week. At 11:00 AM, there was an appointment to see the doctor. Then, I was to go to the drug store to secure some needed medical supplies and run necessary errands. At that point, I realized that I had not reached the place on the list where I was to do the routine work of the day.

For a moment, I was overcome with "the busyness" of the day. Then, a thought came to my mind: This is not an extraordinary day; it is a usual day. For most folk, every day has numerous activities and events that intrude into the normal routine of life and upset plans that have been made. It may be irritating, but that's just something with which one has to deal on a regular basis.

As I contemplated my situation and what I should do that morning, a thought came to mind: Just organize and prioritize your work. In most cases organizing and prioritizing maybe helpful, but there is more. There is no real reason to quibble. For at least twenty-five hundred years it has been proverbial that the "more acceptable" way is "to do what is right and just" in a given situation and move on from there.

Yards to Paradise

By Max Phelps

Planting a Tree Can Make Such a Difference

Nothing affects the pleasantness of a yard and home for the size of the investment any more than does the careful selection and planting of just one tree.

One evergreen tree, such as a big southern magnolia, an Atlas or deodar cedar, or a stately spruce or fragrant fir tree, can be the glory not just of your yard but the glory of the whole neighborhood when most yard trees are bare. A lovely or unusual evergreen looks great at all times, but especially in winter.

One maple tree can color the yard one cool fall weekend almost as if a fairy had passed by at night with a can of brilliant spray paint.

One black gum or sourwood tree can set a yard ablaze if there's a backdrop of green trees. In no way can the Bradford pears with springtime clouds of white compete with these blood or carmine red trees.

One flowering cherry tree, one saucer magnolia with its huge pink blossoms, or one flowering crabapple can appear so royally in a landscape of budding maples, bare oaks and bright daffodils in springtime.

Just one majestic oak can make a grand statement. From pin oaks, burr oaks to live oaks, these trees offer a permanence to a landscape few trees can. For color, try white oaks (for purple fall color), scarlet oaks for lingering deep scarlet after most trees have shed their leaves, or the mighty burr oak.

One ginkgo or Kentucky coffee tree can almost take up the whole yard in old age, (and grass will still grow under their branches).

So many now live in developments created by large building contractors, called subdivisions. You know, the flat places where all the big trees were dozed, the topsoil was sold, and a little dirt and grass cover a bunch of clay, broken bricks and rocks—the kind with a few dollars worth of "generic" shrubbery that will allow them to be advertised as "new home with landscaping for sale".

A big bold or unusual tree that gets attention can make your house stand out proudly in such a neighborhood. Not so many people plant rows of trees or a pair of matching trees across the front yard anymore. One well placed tree can do so much good. A specimen, one big lovely or unusual tree, can make a tremendous statement. One grouping of trees can be combined for even more of a good thing.

When doing just one tree, it is smart to go ahead and go overboard a bit, get a truly unique or lovely tree. Get one that will be noticed, remembered, or will be talked about. "You know, the yard with that big tree that blooms in the middle of summer."

For those with big yards, planting lots of single trees, groups of trees, trees with an understory of shrubs or perennials, you can do a lot with smaller sized trees and shrubs, plus maybe one big special tree and still not break the bank. In a few years, if selected and planted wisely, even small cheap trees from the big box store will look great in your landscape.

Both spring and fall are great times to plant a tree. For planting bare-root trees or moving trees from one place to another, it's really the only times that will work. Containerized and some b&b stock can be planted at most any time of the year, except when the ground is frozen. If it seldom dips below zero where you live, fall is actually the best time to plant most trees and woody perennials.

Your yard may be bare, or it may have a number of trees. Adding one more, especially a special one, will make a difference. One evergreen if you don't have any, one shade tree of you have no shade, one fruit tree if you'd like to try growing something you can eat. Make a difference at your place as you select and install a new tree this planting season.

For second year, FCCLA named Outstanding Chapter of the Year

On Thursday, September 19th, the Rockcastle County FCCLA traveled to Whitley County for the Fall Regional Meeting. For the second year in a row, Rockcastle County FCCLA was able to bring home the traveling trophy for Outstanding Chapter of the Year. Twenty local FCCLA members and their adviser, Mrs. Tammy Camel were in attendance. Two of our local members are representing the organization at the Regional Level, Samantha Young (senior), 1st Vice President, and Tabitha Tompkins (junior), V. P. of Parliamentary Procedure.

Rockcastle County FCCLA was recognized for their efforts in the "Texting and Driving...It Can Wait" campaign. Over 76% of the RCHS student body took the pledge to make our roads safer by being responsible drivers and passengers. On September 19th the majority of high school was wearing blue with pride to show their commitment to refrain from texting and driving.

This month FCCLA is focusing their efforts on Domestic Violence Awareness in our school and community. They are partnering with the Family Life Abuse Center to host the Annual Candlelight Vigil on Wednesday, October 16th, at 7:30 p.m. Stay tuned for more information about the upcoming events.

Rockcastle eligible for PRIDE education funds

Teachers in Rockcastle County can apply for environmental education funds, thanks to a grant awarded by the Appalachian Regional Commission to Eastern Kentucky PRIDE, Inc. The PRIDE Environmental Education Contract program is open to schools, nonformal educators and nonprofit organizations from designated counties of southern and eastern Kentucky.

Applicants can receive up to $1,500 for environmental education projects, plus an additional $250 to operate a service-oriented PRIDE Club.

The funds will pay for a variety of activities that promote awareness of the importance of a clean environment, personal responsibility and community pride. For example, a school could use its contract to build an outdoor classroom, train teachers or stock an aquaculture program.

"We are pleased to offer this opportunity to educators, and we appreciate the confidence shown by the ARC in this PRIDE program," said Tammie Wilson, President/Chief Executive Officer of Eastern Kentucky PRIDE, Inc.

"PRIDE has been supporting teachers as they teach good stewardship for 16 years now," Wilson said. "We have funded projects — from greenhouses to recycling programs — that served more than 650,000 students over the years. Those students are becoming the leaders of our communities, and they are well prepared to care for our natural resources."

Eastern Kentucky PRIDE, Inc., agrees and warrants that 66 percent of the program will be financed by federal funding with the remaining 34 percent financed by state and local resources. Total project cost is $266,501, of which $175,000 will be funded by ARC.

The deadline to submit an application is Oct. 4, 2013.

The application and program information can be requested by calling the PRIDE office, toll free, at 888-577-4339.

The application and program information also are available online at <http://kypride.org/?p=1178>.

The Rockcastle County High School FCCLA chapter plans to focus on bringing awareness to the issue of domestic violence to RCHS and Rockcastle County during October as they signed a proclamation with community leaders at the RCHS Library Tuesday afternoon. RCHS FCCLA is partnering with the Family Life Abuse Shelter on combating domestic violence on a daily basis. FLAS advocate, Dana Brown met with the FCCLA club last week to plan a variety of activities that will take place during the month of October including the National Clothesline Project and a Candlelight Vigil to honor victims and survivors. The FCCLA met with other community leaders to sign a proclamation for domestic violence awareness. Financial Aid Tip of the Month

Financial aid has a language of its own

As high school seniors and their parents begin the college financial aid process, they may find themselves faced with unfamiliar terms. This short glossary from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) may help.

•Conversion scholarship/loan. This type of financial aid requires recipients to provide certain services or pay back the funds with interest.

•Expected family contribution (EFC). This is the amount the student and family are expected to pay toward yearly college costs.

•FAFSA. The Free Application for Federal Student Aid is the form all students must complete when applying for federal and state student aid. The best way to file is online.

•Financial need. This term refers to the difference between the student's EFC and the total cost of attending a college.

•Grant. Grants are usually based on financial need and generally do not have to be repaid.

•Institutional aid. This term refers to the scholarships, grants and other financial aid programs provided by the college.

•Need analysis. The answers provided on the FAFSA are analyzed to determine a student's EFC and financial need.

•Student Aid Report (SAR). This report is based on the information provided on the FAFSA and lets students know their EFC and eligibility for aid.

•Waiver. A waiver lets a student attend college without having to pay tuition and certain fees.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's student aid programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES).

ADAM H. EDELEN
AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

The Honorable Buzz Carloftis, Rockcastle County Judge/Executive
The Honorable Michael Peters, Rockcastle County Sheriff
Members of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

Report on the Financial Statement
We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the County Sheriff of Rockcastle County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2012, and the related notes to the financial statement.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statement
Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in accordance with accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting as described in Note 1. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility
Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statement based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Governmental Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statement, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statement. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles
As described in Note 1 of the financial statement, the financial statement is prepared by the County Sheriff on the basis of the accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky's regulatory basis of accounting, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

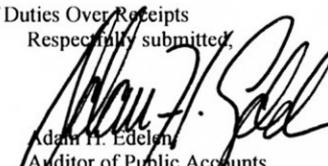

The effects on the financial statement of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1 and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles
In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles paragraph, the financial statement referred to above does not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of each fund of the County Sheriff, as of December 31, 2012, or changes in financial position or cash flows thereof for the year then ended.

Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting
In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the County Sheriff for the year ended December 31, 2012, in accordance with the basis of accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the Commonwealth of Kentucky as described in Note 1.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards
In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated July 3, 2013 on our consideration of the Rockcastle County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the Rockcastle County Sheriff's internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the entity's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

Based on the results of our audit, we have presented the accompanying comment and recommendation, included herein, which discusses the following report comment:
2012-01 The Sheriff's Office Lacks Adequate Segregation Of Duties Over Receipts
Respectfully submitted,

Adam H. Edelen
