Getting ready to take a week's vacation with daughter, Allison, her husband, Daniel and daughter, Celia. Although I'm not a big vacation person, I am looking forward to getting away -- the pressure of constant care of two dogs, and my stressful job, is getting to me, jk.

The main thing I stress out over is the logistics of getting ready. I'm not a good planner. I invariably go on vacation and find that I have packed too much of what I don't need, not enough of what I do and forgotten something essential.

I also find myself reminiscing about past vacations. We had some good (hectic) ones with our first five -- I was usually the one causing the hectic part by way of the aforementioned lousy logistics. But, in my defense, it was quite a challenge to get together enough clothing, etc. to last seven people for a week.

There were some scary times. Once in Georgia, I was carrying all our vacation money and we had stopped for breakfast. When we were leaving the parking lot, a man in another car started waving frantically to get Jim's attention. I was sitting there imploring Jim to ignore the "crazy man" who only wanted to kill us and take our children. Thank goodness, Jim was a little more sensible and pulled over whereupon the gentleman told us there was a purse sitting on top of our car. Needless to say, Jim and I then split up the vacation cash.

The same thing happened at Disney World on another vacation. The girls and I were waiting outside the ladies room for our turn. Jim and Rick had gone to the men's room. When we met afterwards, Jim's first question was "where's your purse?" Thank goodness, it was still sitting on the bench where I had left it when we went into the ladies room. God protects....

During that same trip, Jane rode the roller coaster which looped several times and her glasses, which we had picked up a week before we left, fell off and were never recovered from beneath the ride.

Jim had a great sense of direction while I have trouble finding Brodhead, especially with the new 150. But there were occasions when he would take a wrong turn and, with his refusal to ask directions, we would find ourselves in a parking lot, in the middle of the night, trying to figure out where we went wrong. The older children threatened to write their school paper on "How I spent my vacation" detailing our parking lot visits.

But, I will be glad to get away and do not intend to read one newspaper, listen to TV or check facebook. For one week I intend to forget about ISIS, the myriad problems facing our nation, the upcoming election anything that depresses me and enjoy Celia.

I grew it, over the last 9 weeks, and picked over 100 ears of bodacious sweet corn late last Sunday evening. Loretta worked it up and put about 3 gallons in the freezer. Over the last 25 years we have come to believe that it tastes as good for Christmas and Easter dinners as it did when it came out of the garden.

Normally I grow the main crop for harvest in July but last year we discovered that it grows much faster if you plant it about the same time as the first crop is coming in. It also seems to taste much better in late season.

The Trophy Generation
I had an intriguing conversation with a friend over the weekend about the amount of experience and quality of candidates during interviews for jobs.

Our conversation came down to a single scenario where there was two equally qualified candidates who were interviewed and being considered for a job. Both candidates had a related college degree for the job and both candidates didn't have any required work experience for the job (due to their being recent college graduates.)

The difference between the two candidates was "Candidate A" had just graduated from college in May. They had received a "full-ride" to college through scholarships and they had excelled academically throughout their col-

Although Candidate A had no work experience on their resume, they had an extensive list of school and career-related organizations where they held an office in almost every organization.

However, "Candidate B" graduated from college in May 2013 and has been unemployed since graduation, applying for numerous jobs without even getting a single interview. They received some small scholarships while they were a student in college and they struggled academically because of having to work full time to pay their tuition as they also had no financial support from their family.

Candidate B's resume wasn't "bedazzled" with memberships or offices held in any organizations simply because they had to spend their time away from school either working or studying. However, Candidate B had developed a large amount of work experience due to having to work throughout their college career to pay their tuition.

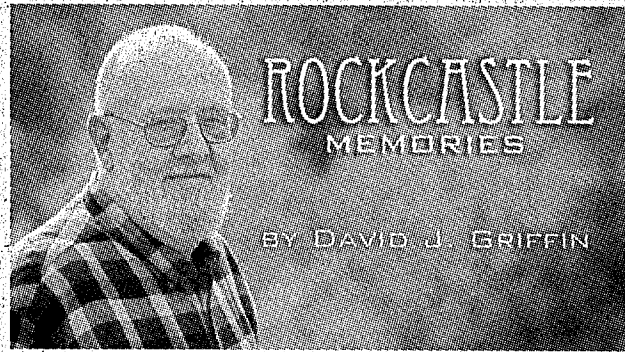

So after describing both candidates, my friend immediately said they would choose Candidate A for the job. Their reasoning was Candidate A had excelled academically, was heavily involved in several organizations and was also an officer in the majority of those organizations.

Also, my friend said Candidate A was successful in practically every one of their endeavors and they knew what it took to be successful in life. My friend went on to say that Candidate A would be the obvious choice for the job as they would bring their "success" mind set to the job.

However, I said I would choose Candidate B. My friend thought I was crazy and immediately asked me why I would want to pick Candidate B over Candidate A? My friend went on to say Candidate B wasn't a successful person.

My reason for hiring Candidate B over Candidate A was simple. Candidate B had experienced failure and overcome adversity to "earn" a degree despite many hardships experienced during their college career. Candidate A apparently had no failures in life and the only thing they knew about adversity was how to spell it or how to use

And Then It Was Winter

This week I received an email from Bobby Harper discussing the winter of our lives: how well we are aging? It touched a nerve, prompting me to think about the effect that this period is having on my life. (Thanks to Bobby and those of you who read my column weekly and let me know what you think. I appreciate every connection you make with me.)

I remember being quite a young boy when my grandfather (Pop) told me that he was about to turn 63, and I started to cry. He asked, "What is wrong, David Joe?" My reply made him chuckle. I said, "Pop, I don't want you to die!" With a smile on his face, he explained that being 63 was not a fatal stage in one's life, but just a period when a person is "slowing down." At that time, he may as well have told me that he was 100 -- it seemed all the same to me. He was extremely old.

Now that I am entering my 70's, Pop's age of 63 actually seems pretty young. Perspective can be everything.

Bobby's email begins as follows:

"It seems just yesterday that I was young, just married and embarking on my new life with my mate. Yet in a way, it seems like eons ago, and I wonder where all the years went. I know that I lived them all. I have glimpses of how it was back then and of all my hopes and dreams. But, here it is... the winter of my life and it catches me by surprise. How did I get here so fast? Where did the years go and where did my youth go?"

My wife, Kathy, and I have just celebrated our 35th wedding anniversary, and we remarked how quickly we have moved into retirement age. Kathy will retire from her position with the Kentucky Court of Appeals shortly, and we both are shocked at how quickly the past 21 years have flown by. She observed, "Do you realize that in two weeks we will no longer have to get up at a certain time? We can sleep as long as we like, and it will not matter to anyone."

Bobby's message touched on how we responded to seeing our parents and grandparents as they were making it through the aging process.

"I remember well seeing older people through the years and thinking that those older people were years away from me and that winter was so far off that I could not fathom it or imagine fully what it would be like. But, here it is...my friends are retired and getting grey...they move slower and I see an older person now. Some are in better and some worse shape than me...but, I see the great change...Not like the ones that I remember who were young and vibrant...but, like me, their age is beginning to show and we are now those older folks that we used to see and never thought we'd be."

I watched my own parents and grandparents as they gradually aged and began to have health issues. It was so hard to witness their moving into nursing homes and seeing how quickly they developed illnesses from which they could not recover. Mommie Katie lived to be 100 years old, and my mother (Bee) was 91 when she passed away. After my parents and grandparents were gone, my brother Al planted in late April and late May, respectively, required over 80 days from planting until harvesting in the heat of summer. This late crop, planted from the same 2-pound bag of seed that I purchased back in April, was ready to harvest in 65 days.

We also grew Ambrosia and Kandy Corn this year. We either purchased or had friends and family share 5 or 6 other varieties with us so that we could compare their taste and tenderness to bodacious when cooked and served at the same time.

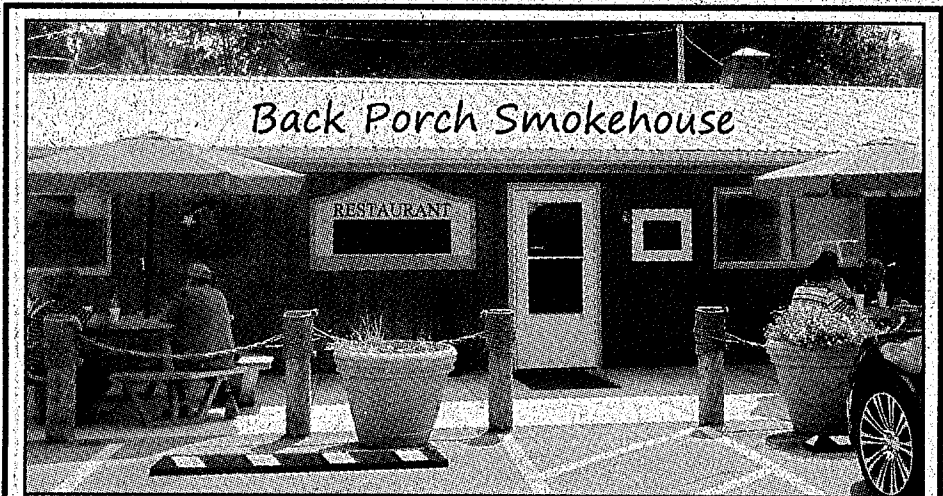

As far as Loretta and the rest of my immediate family is concerned, all other varieties are better than having no sweet corn at all, but nothing else comes close to bodacious in meeting our personal standards for the perfect sweet corn.

My brother, Keeter, says sweet corn should either be golden yellow or snow white. He swears by Kandy Corn and super sweet silver queen. Bodacious is neither golden yellow nor white and Keeter says it just doesn't look like corn oughta look to him.

I suppose you could call it cream colored or maybe it looks like a lemon that is about half ripe. As far as I'm concerned the color, itself, should be called bodacious because it is unique to the corn. At least I have never seen anything else quite that same color.

So I told my kid brother

Dear Editor,

We have collected several coats and a few hats to take to the Homeless Shelters in Lexington in mid-December. We have less than three months, and still need donations of coats, gloves, scarves, hats, socks and blankets to give to the less fortunate. You can already feel the difference in the weather as we get closer to winter. Please help us with this project by donating one or more items listed. We are ONLY accepting clean and gently worn items. We may not be able to keep everyone warm in the cold months but we want to give to as many as we can. If you want to donate, you may call 758-0277. All donations can be picked up for your convenience. We cannot do this without you, won't you please be a part of this much needed project?

Betsy wants all her friends to call with at least one donated item. She said she will be waiting for your calls. Thanks to all for sharing a little to make someone else a little more comfortable. I will update monthly on the progress as we get closer to our distribution date. Thanks to all.

Paint Rockcastle Pink...

Dear Editor,

Breast Cancer Awareness Month is just a few weeks away, and the GRANDTAZZTICS are once again encouraging everyone to "Paint Rockcastle Pink!" during the month of October! Let's join together as a united community to show our pink! We are selling our annual tee shirt, and the money raised stays in our county to help our people!! It is distributed to the Hope Fund (Rockcastle Regional), Hope Ministry (Kaye Rader Heseltine), and the Grandmas for Awareness.

You can help by purchasing and wearing our beautiful lime "Paint Rockcastle Pink!" shirts. Sizes Small through XLarge are only $12.00; larger sizes are only a few dollars more. Shirts can be purchased from any of the "grandmas" or at the following places: A Cut Above, Limestone Grille, Main Street Pharmacy, Sabrina's Hair Design, and Sparks Flowers and More.

We would like to thank this year's "PINK PARTNERS" who have been so generous to help:

A&J Nicely Insulation, Brodhead Equipment, Brodhead Pharmacy, Cedar Rapids Recreation Center, Citizens Bank, City of Livingston, Collins' Respiratory Care, Community Trust Bank, D & S Design, Debra Lambert Law Office, EconLodge, Ford Realty, His Heart Quartet, John Hamm Auto Sales, Limestone Grille, McDonald's, Main Street Pharmacy, Mt Vernon Drug, Mt Vernon Signal, PBK Bank, People's Bank, Richmond Street Eye Care, Rockcastle Pharmacy, Rockcastle Regional Hospital, Rocket Storage.

Some of these businesses may plan to showcase "Pink Specials" during the month of October.

We appreciate them so much, and we appreciate you for your annual support.

Best blessings,
The Grandmas for Awareness

PS Let's not forget those mammograms!

To the coaches of Rockcastle Co. girls basketball teams...

This letter is to thank all of you who have put your time, effort and, sometimes, resources into the coaching of these remarkable girls.

I have always felt that the more adult role models, who show love and support for our children and grandchildren, the better they will succeed in life.

You coaches must be so proud of the tremendous results you see each time these girls take the floor. To those of you who have not seen a Rockcastle County girls basketball game - you don't know what you're missing!

In my opinion, these girls also realize that without their teammates fulfilling their respective roles, the individuals they are would not be able to perform as they do.

And, to each and every-one fortunate enough to see some of these games, please remember that some of the games are being played by 5 to 13-year-olds.

Sincerely,
Deborah Newland

"I See It"

Truth is, everyone experiences some type of hardships and failures in the workplace, especially when they are "learning the ropes" of a new job. That is why I chose Candidate B for the job because when they experienced hardships and failures, they simply didn't give up and overcame adversity. Therefore, I know Candidate B has what it takes to work through hardships or failures and not let them affect their overall job performance.

However, when Candidate A experiences hardships or failures in their new job, they will likely be devastated and feel like a total failure in life. Unfortunately, a lot of people who fit the Candidate A description simply give up when they experience serious hardships or failures for the first time.

Therefore, not only would Candidate A's meltdown over failing for the first time be bad for them, it would be bad for the company too as it would affect their job performance which also affects the company.

I know someone I met in college who fits the Candidate A persona to a tee and she landed her dream job right after graduation. However, she immediately started experiencing numerous failures and hardships in several of her job duties.

She ended up getting fired from her job as a result of her downward performance. After being unemployed for a while, she ended up settling for a mediocre job instead of her dream job.

So what happened? This girl was on the dean's list every semester in college, an officer in several organizations and was more than qualified for her dream job. How could someone like this end up getting fired from their first job after graduating college?

My generation and all younger generations have been termed as the "trophy generations." I first heard this term from a professor I had in college who said he is seeing more students each year in his classes that feel like they are "entitled" and believe they don't have to work hard to be successful.

It doesn't take much research to realize a negative and devastating pattern developing with people that are growing up in the trophy generations.

We have children getting trophies for just participating on a sports team, sports games are being played without scores, children are getting ribbons for just participating in a contest, etc.

Simply put, children are being awarded for just participating and even though they may fail to win the game or contest, the experience of failure is hidden with everyone receiving the same trophy or ribbon.

When I look back on my childhood and teenage years, I remember being told things like "you can be anything you want to be when you grow up. If you work hard, you can accomplish anything you set out to do in life." But I never remember anyone telling me things like "sometimes you will experience failure and hardships no matter how hard you work or how much time you put into what you want to accomplish."

Luckily, I had experienced failures and hardships before. I graduated high school. If there is one thing I am good at in life it's giving my 110% and still failing. But through my experiences, I learned at an early age to overcome adversity and not let my failures or hardships define who I am as a person.

There are some sports programs, organizations that compete in contests and several other things of this nature that do a great job of teaching young people to overcome adversity. But there are still a large number of young people who are "falling through the cracks" and joining the ranks of the trophy generation.

Our society does a great job of encouraging and building up the confidence in young people. But on the flip side, our society does a poor job of informing young people about failure and teaching them how to overcome adversity.

I believe failure is an important lesson in life that is better learned during childhood than during adulthood like Candidate A. Failure gives people the valuable experience they need to overcome adversity in order to be successful in the end.

As you can probably tell, I am not a big believer in sheltering children from experiencing failures or hardships because I have seen what that kind of sheltering has done for a lot of my peers as they grew older. They all end up the same or similar to candidate A.

As a society, we need to throw children into the fire (figuratively not literally), let them experience failure, let them experience hardships and teach them how to overcome those things in order to be successful. We need to simply quit giving trophies or ribbons for participation and start keeping score on the scoreboards.

If we can quit hiding failure from people when they are children, they will be thankful when they grow into adults.

“Points East”

that he should just close his eyes when he gnawed down on the cob and Keeter said he doesn't eat anything without looking at it.

Keeter said, “You know that old Keith Whitley song called Don't close your Eyes where he's complaining that his girl friend is closing her eyes and thinking about somebody else when they're making whoopee?” Keeter said, “Wonder why it never crossed his mind that maybe he was just too ugly to look at while that was going on and she wasn't thinking about somebody else after all?”

He said, “I don't think it would help the taste a bit if I closed my eyes when I ate an ear of your corn because I don't think that would make it taste a bit like Kandy corn or silver queen.”

It's taken me a lifetime to realize that there is no deader waste of time than arguing with Keeter.

In other gardening news, we just had a big kettle of goose beans, the seed of which I got from Bertha McQuerry more than a decade back. We only got one mess this year because the bean bugs almost beat me to them but I was able to save enough seed to get a planting next year.

Ditto for the Babe beans that I got from Tannie Cornett in Letcher County a few years back. We only had three good kettles full this year before the Japanese beetles swarmed and devoured them overnight. I did manage to save a cup of seed from them, as well, and Loretta says she wonders why I grow any other bean. The Babe Bean has, indeed, become our unrivaled favorite, main-season bean until the Bufford Caudill fall beans come on.

The fall beans are just now blooming and they are looking good. I have been faithfully spraying them with Neem oil, a non-toxic, organic, plant-based insect repellent that really works until rain washes it off, which means that all I have to do to make black clouds roll in is pull out a sprayer. So far I've been able to keep the bugs at bay but I've had to spray the vines at least a dozen times.

In the meantime, Loretta and I are planning to get up to Letcher County for Blackey Days the week of October 12. I don't know the exact dates right now but I do know that it is like one huge family reunion for folks who grew up in the lower end of the county.

If all goes as planned, we will be taking the night with Keeter and Nancy.

A couple of weeks after I first planted the bodacious, I went back through it and replanted a few dozen hills that the rabbits had eaten off before the corn had a chance to much more than sprout. The replanting is just now silking out good. Both it and the Bufford Caudill fall beans should be in perfect shape to take home with me, if we don't get an early frost before then.

I know, for sure, that Keeter's fall beans are already long gone and that he hasn't had any fresh sweet corn since mid August. I intend to try, yet again, to change his mind about bodacious.

and I noted that we were now the eldest of our family. It seemed so strange.

Consider the last passage of Bobby's message:

“Life goes by quickly. So, do what you can today, as you can never be sure whether this is your winter or not! You have no promise that you will see all the seasons of your life...so, live for today and say all the things that you want your loved ones to remember...and hope that they appreciate and love you for all the things that you have done for them in all the years past!”

I am very thankful that as I enter my 70th decade, my health is good and I am not required to take any prescription medications. Yes, I have some aches and pains, but all in all, I am able to accomplish almost any task that I need to achieve. Because I spend a large portion of my time on my laptop discussing the joys of my youth in my columns and in my books, I do have to take over-the-counter pain medications for my arthritis. I also need some Pepcid AC for my acid reflux, but I can eat almost anything I desire.

I am extremely thankful that I have likely inherited some of the genes for longevity from my mother and my grandmother. I thank the Lord above that I have good health, and my mind is still as sharp as it needs to be.

Kathy and I are looking forward to the next stage of our lives as we retire in our little mountain-top A-frame on Furnace Mountain in Powell County. We look forward to walking in our woods and spending time next to a fire - whether outdoors or indoors.

I have a life that has been blessed, and if this is the winter of that life, I look forward to sharing it with my mate. We still have time to create a few more of those blessed memories.

(You can reach me at theminnan@att.net or you can drop me a line at 2167 Furnace Road - Stanton, KY 40380. I appreciate your comments and suggestions.)

Fall landscape care

Farm and Home News

Tom Mills

Rockcastle County Extension Office

So often we hear that fall or winter is a particularly good time to do certain things in the landscape. This is usually due to the fact that plants have entered into winter dormancy.

You can compare dormancy to an extended period of "rest" for plants, when they are relatively inactive in terms of metabolic processes (photosynthesis, respiration and transpiration, for example). It's relatively inactive, because although these processes slow during dormancy, they do not cease altogether. Most temperate perennial plants will enter dormancy in autumn as daylight shortens, temperatures (including soil temperatures) become cooler, terminal buds are set, and perhaps as a result of drier conditions during late summer and fall.

Going dormant is the way these plants survive the cold of winter. It is important that landscape maintenance activities not interfere with the plant's natural process of becoming dormant. Let's use pruning and fertilization practices as examples.

Fall is considered a poor time to prune most woody perennials. Pruning will remove terminal buds that help to maintain dormancy in many species. The presence of the terminal bud, even in a seemingly inactive state, suppresses the growth of lower buds through a process called apical dominance, a type of dormancy imposed on the lateral buds. If you remove the apical bud, it may encourage lateral buds to initiate growth in a plant that has not yet fully entered a dormant state. Once lateral bud growth is initiated, dormancy will be hard to achieve, even with the advent of shortening day length and cooler temperatures. So pruning in the fall may trigger new growth that delays dormancy and predisposes the plant to winter injury.

It is better to prune plants in late winter, around mid-February to mid-March. This also allows you to evaluate and remove winter-damaged limbs. Pruning in late winter will occur just before one of the most active times of plant growth, bud break, when the plant is re-directing stored nutrients from the root system out to the branches. This would be the most rapid time for the plant to heal wounds (in our case the pruned surface), while fall would be the slowest time for wound healing. An exception is if you are removing dead or severely damaged limbs due to breakage, insects or disease. In that case, it is best for you to remove them as soon as possible at any time of the year. If the plant you are pruning is spring-blooming (generally flowering before early June), it would be better from a flowering display perspective to wait until after flowering to prune since the pruning process will remove preexisting flower buds.

What about fertilization of woody plants? Fall and winter are considered the best times to apply fertilizer, but you should only do this once woody plants are fully dormant. Otherwise, applying fertilizer might trigger new growth and predispose the plant to winter injury.

How can you tell if plant is dormant? If leaves are falling, the plant has probably entered dormancy sufficiently to allow fertilization. To be doubly safe, wait until temperatures are unlikely to climb into the 70-degree range. In Kentucky this could occur anytime from mid-October to mid-November, so to be absolutely safe this probably means mid-November or later. It's best to get the fertilizer down before the soil has frozen so it won't remain on the soil surface and won't be subject to runoff with any additional precipitation.

If you don't fertilize between Thanksgiving and Christmas, wait until the ground thaws in late February or early March to apply fertilizer. However, you must realize that February and March are not the best times for applying fertilizer to lawns composed of cool-season grasses (fescues, bluegrass and perennial ryegrass). If you are regularly applying fertilizer to your lawn, woody plants growing nearby are likely getting sufficient nutrients from these applications and probably don't need additional fertilizer.

Hannabeth Owens claimed her fourth individual tournament win of the high school season this past Saturday at the Lady Titan Invitational held at Danville Country Club. Hannabeth fired a 1 under par back nine to finish with a score of 75 (+2) and a one shot victory. In 7 regular season tournaments this fall Hannabeth had 4 wins, 1 runner-up, 1 third, and 1 top ten finish.

A former local high school student athlete will be playing in a college football game nearby when Washington University in St. Louis visits Centre College in Danville, this coming Saturday September 27th. Junior Ben Lake, a 2012 graduate of Rockcastle County High School, will be visiting the Centre College campus as his WUSTL Bears take on the Centre College Colonels at Farris Stadium. His freshman brother, Jared Lake, may also make the trip. Game time is set for 1:30 pm EST.

Livestock Producers Urged to Enroll in Disaster Assistance Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is encouraging producers who have suffered eligible disaster-related losses to act to secure assistance by Sept. 30, 2014, as congressionally mandated payment reductions will take place for producers who have not acted before that date. Livestock producers that have experienced grazing losses since October 2011 and may be eligible for benefits but have not yet contacted their local Farm Service Agency (FSA) office should do so as soon as possible.

The Budget Control Act passed by Congress in 2011 requires USDA to implement reductions of 7.3 percent to the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP) in the new fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1, 2014. However, producers seeking LFP support who have scheduled appointments with their local FSA office before Oct. 1, even if the appointment occurs after Oct. 1, will not see reductions in the amount of disaster relief they receive.

Rockets fall to tough Pulaski team, 61-14

By: Doug Ponder

The Rockcastle County Rockets are now 3-2 on the season following a 61-14 loss to the Pulaski County Maroons last Friday night.

The Rockets loss was largely due to a number of stalled drives on offense and their inability to get the ball into the end zone against a Pulaski County team that is ranked 672 in the nation and 12th in the state.

The Rockets offense produced 267 yards on offense with 238 yards rushing and 29 yards passing. The two touchdowns for the Rockets came on a 57 yard touchdown run by sophomore tailback Chayse McClure in the second quarter and a 4 yard scramble for a touchdown by sophomore quarterback Dakota Bishop in the third quarter.

The Maroons highly-touted junior quarterback Riley Hall was almost perfect on the night, completing 8 of 9 passes for 253 yards and five touchdowns. Hall and the other Maroon starters were benched in the third quarter.

The Rockets were led on offense by McClure with 9 carries for 106 yards and one touchdown. Other Rockets picking up rushing yardage were Dalton Rowe with 10 carries for 32 yards, senior fullback Chance Ansardi with 8 for 32 yards, junior fullback Dalton Cole had 5 carries for 20 yards, senior fullback Isaiah Adams with 4 for 15 yards, sophomore running back Devon Robinson had 5 for 13 yards, sophomore wide receiver Tommy Bengé with one carry for 12 yards and Lovell with 4 carries for 4 yards.

Bishop was 1 of 2 passing for 29 yards. He also had one carry for 4 yards and a touchdown.

Sophomore tailback Isaiah Mercer caught the Rockets only pass on offense for 2 yards.

The Rockets defense was led by senior defensive backs Kyle Denny and Tyler Langford who both had 3 tackles each.

Other Rockets picking up tackles and assists were Ansardi, Lovell, Robinson, sophomore defensive back Isaac McClure, sophomore defensive end Lucas Jones and sophomore defensive lineman Logan Coffey who were all credited with 2 tackles each. Chayse McClure and senior defensive lineman both had one tackle each.

Head Coach Scott Parkey said the Maroons had too many weapons on both sides of the ball which made it difficult for the Rockets throughout the game.

"They were just too good for us last Friday night. What you want to see in a game like that is kids playing with heart and as a team," Parkey said. "I feel like those things were evident throughout the game. The entire team celebrates wins together and suffers losses together."

However, Parkey said what hurts worse than losing is the injuries the Rockets suffered in last Friday night's game. Sophomore tailback Dalton Rowe came out of the game with a broken collarbone after a routine tackle, sophomore linebacker Austin Mills hyperextended his knee while attempting to make a tackle and freshman tailback Brent Lovell was limited due to a severe muscle contusion.

"Rowe will likely be out for the remainder of the season. We don't know the extent of Mills injury but will know more toward the end of the week. Lovell will be back on the field this Friday," Parkey said. "Hunter Hines and Jacob Blair are within a couple of weeks of returning from their injuries. On the bright side, Chayse McClure returned to action last Friday night."

Parkey went on to say that if the Rockets are going to be a good team and make a run in the district, they must show signs of growth this week in practice.

"Players need to step up their own game to take the place of the injured players and backups must be ready to enter the game at any time," Parkey said. "There might be players on the field this week who haven't been out there much this season."

The Rockets next game is this Friday night at home against the Perry County Central Commodores. Kick-off is at 7:30 p.m. This Friday night's game is also homecoming for the Rockets with homecoming festivities taking place at halftime.

Parkey said this Friday night's game is crucial for his team before they head into district play.

"The Commodores have a new coaching staff that has implemented the air raid offense which makes them difficult to defend," Parkey said. "We really need to play well heading into our open week so we can gain momentum before we start district play in October."

Kentucky Afield Outdoors Scouting for a successful deer hunt

Work, family and school commitments can leave little free time in a day, but hunters can help themselves by carving out some time to scout an area.

Kentucky's archery season for deer is underway with the crossbow, youth-only firearm, muzzleloader and modern gun deer seasons still to come. So there's time to find a place to hunt and scout it.

"I think it increases your odds of success and your chances for a big deer," said Chad Miles, an avid deer hunter and executive director of the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Foundation.

Studying topographical maps and satellite imagery is a good first step to learning the lay of the land and scouting more efficiently. But there's no substitute for personal experience; walking the terrain; seeing where the deer bed, what's available for them to eat and what routes they travel.

"If you can spend enough time at the property, know how deer move through it," said David Yancy, deer biologist with Kentucky Department of Fish and Wild-

Senior defensive back Kyle Denny zeros in on a Pulaski County Maroon receiver during last Friday night's 61-14 loss. The Rockets next game is this Friday at home when they play Perry County Central at 7:30 p.m.

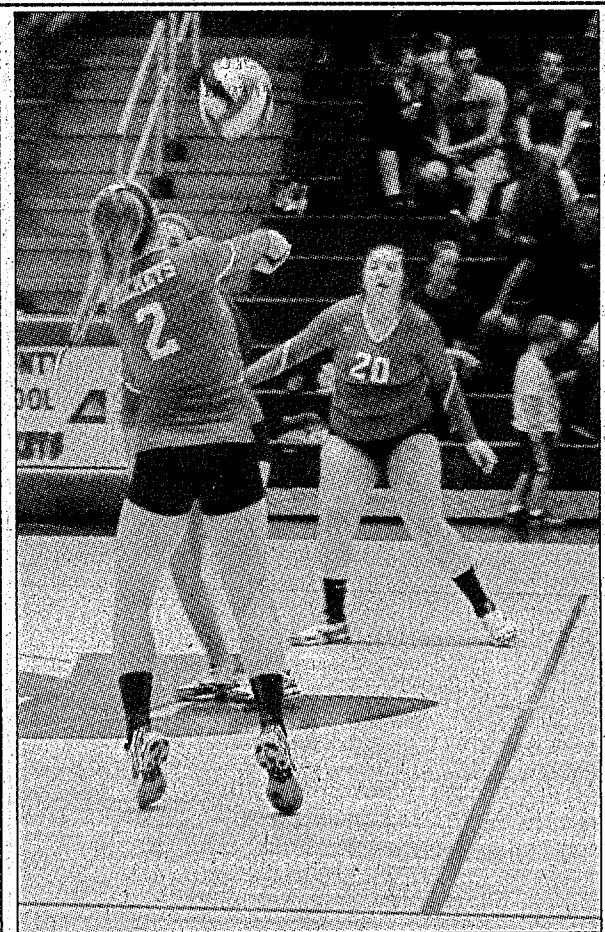

Sophomore tailback Dalton Rowe prepares to stiff-arm a Pulaski County defender during last Friday night's 61-14 loss. Rowe came out of the game with a broken collarbone after a routine tackle went awry. The extent of his injury is unknown, but the coaching staff believes he will likely be out for the remainder of the season.

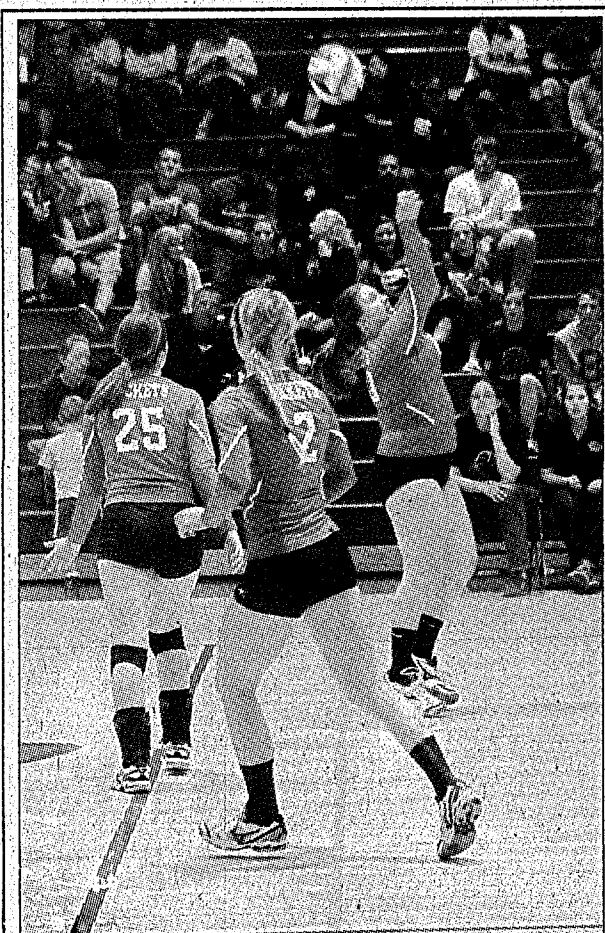

Freshman defensive back Brent Lovell plays chicken with a Pulaski County receiver during last Friday night's game. Lovell saw limited action due to a severe muscle contusion. Head Coach Scott Parkey said he will be back on the field for this Friday night's game.

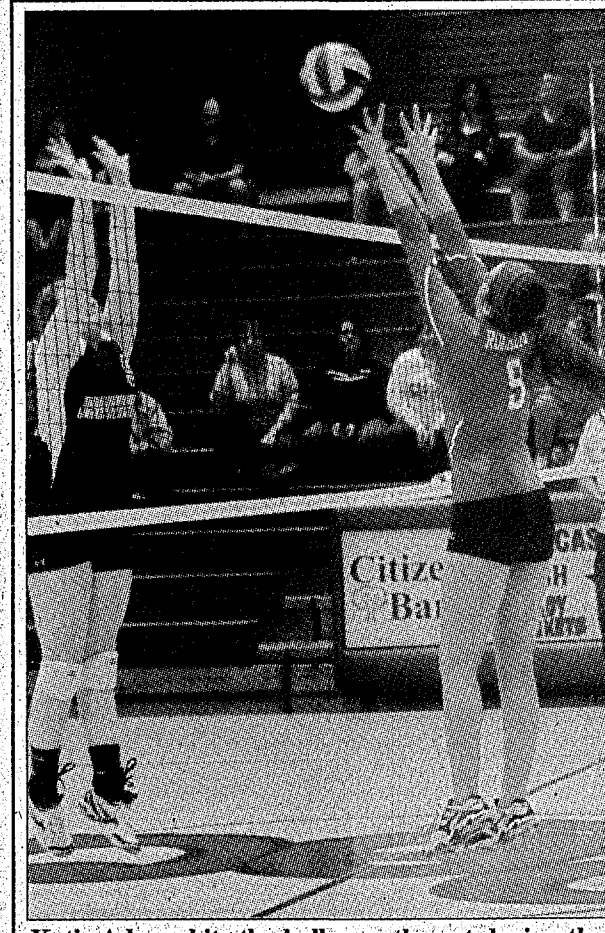

Senior defensive end Chance Ansardi chases down a Pulaski County Maroon running back during last Friday night's 61-14 loss. This Friday night is Homecoming for the Rockets. Festivities will be held at halftime.

Abby Bray makes a backward hit during the Lady Rockets 2-1 win over Madison Southern Monday night.

Katie Adams hits the ball over the net during the Lady Rockets 2-1 win over Madison Southern. The Lady Rockets next game is next Monday night when they travel to London to take on North Laurel.

Libero Ileana Miller gets a dig during the Lady Rockets 2-1 win over Madison Southern Monday night. The Lady Rockets are now 8-10 on the season.

The Rockcastle County Rockets boys golf team recently won the CKBC regular season South Division Championship. Members of the team who contributed to the championship were the following: Head Coach Jake Woodall, John Cornelius, Grant Isaacs, Thomas Burdette, Sam Pensol, Carson Noble, Lucas Gentry, and Cade Burdette. Not pictured: Zach Baker and Assistant Coach David Woodall

Three Rockets were placed on the 1st team All-Conference for the South Division. John Cornelius finished the year as the CKBC Regular Season Player of the Year while Sam Pensol and Cade Burdette finished 3rd and 4th in the overall conference. Cornelius, Pensol, and Burdette were considered to be three of the top golfers in the conference.

life Resources. “Where are the chokepoints? Know the creek drainage pattern. The low spot on the ridgeline? That’s where they’re going to cross because it’s less effort. Those kinds of things are important during gun season.” Miles prefers scouting around midday and no closer than two weeks before he plans to hunt. Any later risks spooping the deer. To limit human scent left behind, wear rubber boots and be mindful about touching or handling tree branches and leaves. Some may prefer to wear scent control clothing or spray.

Tracks, droppings and hair caught on fencing are tell-tale signs deer are in the area. Rub lines and scrapes are additional clues that show up as deer transition from their summer pattern. Deer become less visible in open spaces as acorns begin to hit the ground and the rut approaches. After the rut, available food sources and cover become all-important.

A handheld Global Positioning System (GPS) is a handy tool that can help a hunter keep track of these key spots and potential tree stand locations.

When considering a stand location, note the wind direction. This is easily accomplished with wind direction powder or by simply crumpling a dried leaf and tossing it into the air. Checking the weather online the day of a hunt can help determine where to set up.

On wildlife management areas and Otter Creek Outdoor Recreation Area, hunters may use a portable stand or climbing device as long as it does not injure a tree. Nails, spikes, screw-in devices, wire or tree climbers cannot be used to attach a tree stand or climb a tree. Portable stands may not be placed in a tree more than two weeks before opening day and must be removed within a week after the last day of each hunting period. The hunter’s name and address should be clearly marked on the portable stand.

Archery season for deer in Kentucky continues through Jan. 19, 2015.

Scouting after the season can help a hunter get a leg up on the following year, but it’s important to be mindful of season dates. If scouting during the modern gun, muzzleloader and youth firearm deer seasons, or a firearm elk or firearm bear season, wearing hunter orange is highly recommended.

The crossbow deer seasons are Oct. 1-19 and Nov. 8-Dec. 31, while the youth-only firearms season for deer is Oct. 11-12. Muzzleloader season is Oct. 18-19 and Dec. 13-21. Statewide modern gun deer season opens Nov. 8 and continues through Nov. 17 or Nov. 23, depending on the zone.

For more information about fall hunting opportunities in Kentucky, consult the 2014-15 Kentucky Hunting and Trapping Guide. It is available online at fw.ky.gov or wherever licenses are sold.

water for an extended period of time. Afterwards, Doan took the resident out of the cold bathtub and placed him in front of an open hot oven while holding him at knifepoint.

Doan went on to tell the resident that if he told anyone about the incident that he would kill him. Several other residents later told officers that they had also been assaulted or choked by Doan in the past.

The resident who was severely beaten by Doan was admitted and treated at a local hospital for several “serious physical injuries.” Another resident was treated at the hospital for broken ribs as a result of a prior assault by Doan.

Based on information gathered by detectives during the investigation, an arrest warrant was issued for Doan on Monday for two counts of first degree assault, two counts of knowingly abuse/neglect of an adult and two counts of intimidating a participant in the legal process.

However, when police searched for Doan he was nowhere to be found until they received a report of a domestic violence incident, on Tuesday morning, at Doan's residence in Somerset.

When officers arrived, they learned that Doan had been at the residence and already left on foot. Doan's wife told officers that he kicked the back door open and forced his way into the residence.

Once inside the home, Doan grabbed his wife by the mouth to keep her from yelling for help before suddenly leaving the residence on foot. Officers also noticed a large red mark above Doan's wife's mouth.

A Pulaski County Sheriff's deputy spotted Doan on Hwy 39 around 1 p.m. Tuesday and arrested him.

Doan is charged with two counts of first degree assault, two counts of intimidating a participant in the legal process, two counts of abuse/neglect of an adult and one count of assault fourth degree. He remains lodged in the Pulaski County Detention Center on a $75,000 cash/property bond.

How to handle outage recovery following severe weather

September is National Preparedness Month, and Kentucky Utilities Company offers four proactive steps to take in advance of and following severe weather.

•Make a kit — Having an emergency preparedness kit ready in advance for each member of the family can help make responding to an emergency less stressful and more organized. In addition, consider carrying a kit in the trunk of a vehicle for emergencies. Visit ready.gov to find a list of suggested items to include, such as a first-aid kit, crank-powered flashlights, whistles, batteries, prescription medicines, blankets, bottled water, a can opener, cash and a weather radio. (Editor's Note: A one-minute video, “Packing Your Emergency Kit,” was created to show viewers how to make an emergency preparedness kit. Media are invited to include this video as part of any coverage.)

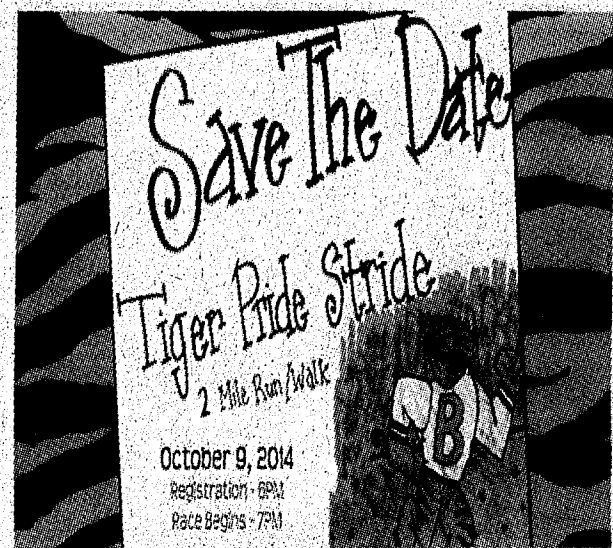

•Stay informed — During outage situations, KU provides near real-time outage information through the utilities' automated phone system, online outage map and outage map app offered on a variety of mobile devices.

•Tell KU about it — Reporting downed power lines, hazardous conditions and power outages immediately can help the utilities more quickly isolate areas impacted during severe weather. KU customers should call 1-800-981-0600. Speed dial “1-1-2” to quickly navigate through the automated phone system and report the situation. Follow us on Twitter and Facebook for information updates.

•Safety comes first — Always, assume any downed wire is an energized power line. Stay away from the area and report it immediately.

Visit lge-ku.com/storm for additional preparedness tips and safety information.

Annual Healthy Joe Expo scheduled for October 9th

Gentlemen, start your engines! We want you to get revved up for the annual Healthy Joe Expo men's health fair to be held Oct. 9 at Rockcastle Regional Hospital.

The night will feature a meal and short, informative presentations amidst a Nascar theme. It will also offer plenty of health screenings, education, giveaways and door prizes.

Among the evening's presentations will be a panel discussion about three of Kentucky's most common diseases - cancer, heart disease and diabetes - which will feature three well-known local men. They'll talk about their diagnoses and recovery, as well as how they cope with their conditions on a daily basis.

Urologist, Denis Yalkut, M.D. will speak, and we'll have a break-out presentation scheduled for women in a different room while the men discuss male-specific health issues. The women's group will have an informal discussion led by Dr. Kevin Rowe and, nurse practitioner, Chasity Frakes. They will talk about strategies to help encourage the men in their lives to engage in healthy behaviors.

"We know that health decisions aren't made in isolation," Healthy Joe organizer Dwain Harris said. "Family or social networks have a big influence on our health and lifestyle decisions."

As always, important health screenings such as blood pressure checks will be available, and vouchers will be handed out for free cholesterol and blood sugar checks, as well as PSA tests. The PSA test measures the blood level of PSA, a protein that is produced by the prostate gland. A high PSA level for a man may indicate a possibility for him to have prostate cancer. However, there are additional reasons for having an elevated PSA level, and some men who have prostate cancer do not always have elevated PSA.

The Healthy Joe Expo was created to reach those who are sometimes have difficulty accessing health education, and for whom that education might be most important. Men drink more than women, smoke more than women, don't live as long as women, and engage in more high-risk activities than women. Yet, men are notorious for not seeing a doctor when they should. The American Academy of Family Physicians reveals that 55 percent of U.S. men haven't seen their health care provider in the past year.

The American Revolutionary War Patriots of Rockcastle

By Karen Hamm Adams

To celebrate and honor the county's American Revolutionary War Patriots and to enlighten the community about the service and sacrifice of these brave men, on behalf of the Rockcastle Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, I have compiled highlights of the service of the known patriots living in the county and who applied for a pension between the years 1818 and 1842. All information was taken from the patriot's own account from his pension application and other historical documents. More information can be found on each patriot at the local library or the Rockcastle Historical Society. (Copyright pending). If you are interested in joining the Daughters of the American Revolution, please contact Debbie Brown (606) 758-8659 or Iris Young (606)256-2851.

William Lawrence
New York

William Lawrence was born in 1766 in Dutchess County, New York and died about 1847 in Rockcastle Co. KY. According to his pension application, William gave the following account of his service on 8 May 1834 in Rockcastle Co. KY and the age of sixty eight: He entered the service as a private in Dutchess Co. NY under Captain Champlain and Colonel Vandenberg in 1777. He served four months as a guard in Dutchess County. He served six months under Captain Benjamin Knox. This tour was performed on the Hudson River about Peekskill and Fishkill NY. Part of the time he was stationed at Peekskill and Fishkill and part of the time he was scouting.

In 1778, for five weeks he served under the same officers and was marched to the Hudson River and stationed as a guard to guard the frontier. For two weeks, he served as a guard stationed between the city of New York and Peekskill. For two months in 1779, he served as a guard at Peekskill and Fishkill. Four months later, he served as a guard part time at Peekskill and Fishkill and part of the time traveling the country between the city of New York and those places in the later part of 1779 and early part of 1780. His service was to prevent the British from landing where they would bring their shipping into the Hudson and to guard the frontier from the attacks of the enemy.

William stated that he lived in Dutchess Co. NY during the war and following the end of the Revolution, he moved to Montgomery Co. VA until about

National Prescription Drug Take-Back Sept. 27

Operation UNITE along with Kentucky State Police posts throughout southern and eastern Kentucky will be participating in the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration's 9th National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day on Saturday, September 27.

From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the DEA will collect potentially dangerous expired, unused and unwanted prescription drugs at KSP Post locations in Ashland, Harlan, Hazard, London, Morehead, Pikeville and Richmond.

In addition, Operation UNITE accepts medications year-round at 42 dropbox sites within its service region. For a list of the permanent drop-off sites visit <http://operationunite.org/investigations/med-drop-box-sites/>.

In the eight previous take-back days, the DEA and its state, local and tribal law enforcement and community partners have removed more than 4.1 million pounds (2,123 tons) of prescription medications from circulation.

"Having a safe way to dispose of prescription and over-the-counter pills is a proven method reducing the potential for their abuse and misuse," said Dan Smoot, president/CEO of Operation UNITE. "This spring we collected nearly 1 ton of pills and are hoping to top that total this weekend."

Kentucky had 1,007 overdose deaths in 2013, with five of the top six counties being in UNITE's service region, according to the Kentucky Office of Drug Control Policy.

Kentucky had the third highest rate of overdose deaths in 2010 (23.6 per 100,000 people), noted Michael Botticelli, acting director of the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP), speaking to participants at last week's National Rx Drug Abuse Summit in Atlanta.

These deaths follow a corresponding and dramatic increase in number of prescriptions being written for opioid medications. Enough pills were prescribed in 2012 to give every American 18 years of age or older 75 opioid pills, according to the IMS Health's National Prescription Audit.

"This means there are a lot of medications just sitting around your home," Smoot said, adding a Substance Abuse and Mental Health Administration (SAMSHA) survey found that more than 70 percent of people abusing prescription pain relievers got them through friends or relatives, a statistic that includes raiding the family medicine cabinet.

Another benefit of the drop-box program is protecting the environment.

For years, the generally accepted method for disposing of old or left over medications was to flush them down the toilet. This practice, however, has been strongly discouraged because of concerns about potential health and environmental effects of antibiotics, hormones, painkillers, depressants and stimulants making their way into our water system and soil.

Residents are asked to please remove all identifying labels from prescription bottles before bringing them to the drop-off sites.

The National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day, which began in October 2010, aims to provide a safe, convenient and responsible means of disposal, while also educating the general public about the potential for abuse of these medications.

Local students graduate from Rogers Explorers

Rockcastle County students Carlee Cash, Rebekah Lake, Maggie Franklin, and Jackson Cromer graduated from The Center for Rural Development's 2014 Rogers Explorers youth leadership program.

The Rogers Explorers program is an educational leadership program that provides hands-on learning opportunities for middle school students in Southern and Eastern Kentucky to build their math, science, and technology skills. Graduates are encouraged to work toward pursuing careers in these in-demand career fields.

"This year's class of Rogers Explorers showed that there are tremendous young leaders in our region of Southern and Eastern Kentucky," said Delaney Stephens, community liaison and youth programs coordinator for The Center. "By participating in this program, students had the opportunity to learn more about the importance of math and science, and why the career fields are needed in our area."

The Rogers Explorers program is presented by The Center in partnership with Lindsey Wilson College, University of the Cumberlands, Asbury University, Eastern Kentucky University, and Morehead State University.

A record 150 middle school students attended this year's Rogers Explorers program. Participants apply when they are in the eighth grade and attend during the summer before the start of their freshman year. There is no admission charge to attend Rogers Explorers.

Carlee is the daughter of Chuck and Sherri Cash of Brodhead. Rebekah is the daughter of Mike and Julie Lake of Lancaster. Maggie is the daughter of Jill and Shannon Franklin of Brodhead. Jackson is the son of Todd and Leshia Cromer of Mt. Vernon. All four students represented Rockcastle County Middle School.

For more information about Rogers Explorers, contact Delaney Stephens at 606-677-6000 or email youth@centertech.com. Visit the website www.centeryouthprograms.com to learn more about youth programs at The Center.

2 cans (15 ounces each) white beans, rinsed and drained
Juice of 1 lime
1/2 cup chopped fresh cilantro

1 cup sifted flour
1 and 1/2 quarts chicken stock
1 quart beef stock
Sauté (pan fry) the ham, peanuts, and white part of onion in the margarine. Add the flour. Blend and cook 4 minutes. Stir to prevent sticking. Add the soup stocks. Blend with a wire whip; cook for 15 minutes. Stir occasionally. Just before serving, add the onion tops and simmer 10 minutes.

DAR to sponsor two essay contests

The Daughters of the American Revolution promotes American history throughout the year by honoring significant historical people, places, dates and events. It does this by sponsoring both the American History Essay Contest and the Christopher Columbus Essay Contest in the school system.

Each academic year, an essay topic is chosen for each contest and contest instructions are made available to the history teachers at the elementary, middle and high school levels in the county. Winning essays will be chosen by the Rockcastle Chapter and then submitted for judging on the state level. Each state winner is judged on the divisional level and the divisional winners move on to the national level, where the winner is announced.

The American History Contest is open to grades 5, 6, 7 and 8. Students in both public, and private schools and those who are home schooled are eligible to participate.

The 2014-2015 topic is: "A Child's Journey through Ellis Island". The year 2015 marks the 125th anniversary of Ellis Island as an immigration station. On a typical day, immigrants arriving on the island could expect to spend up to seven hours in processing activities intended to determine whether or not they were legally and medically fit to enter the United States. Imagine yourself as a child traveling through Ellis Island in 1892. How would you describe your experience to your cousin who has never heard of Ellis Island? Essay length spans from 300-600 words for 5th graders and 600-1000 words for grades 6, 7 and 8. There will be one winner from each grade level and those winners will be submitted for state judging.

Since 1996, NSDAR has joined with the National Italian American Foundation to sponsor an annual national essay contest on Christopher Columbus. This contest is open to students in grades 9 through 12 in public and private schools and those who are home schooled.

The national winner is invited to read their winning essay at the National Columbus Day celebration in Washington D.C. The 2014-2015 topic is: "Joining Christopher Columbus on His Voyage to the New World". Imagine you have chosen to join Columbus' crew as he sets out for the New World.

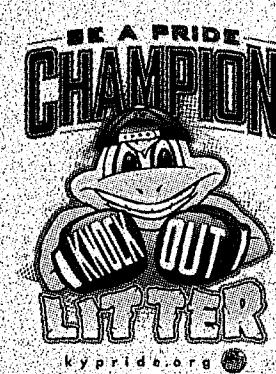

What are your thoughts and feelings as you prepare for this potentially hazardous mission? What skills do you possess that are essential to your success and survival? Why do you want to go on this voyage and what do you hope to gain from this experience? Essay length is 800-1200 words. This essay contest will have only one winner on the local level and will be submitted for state judging.

All students are encouraged to participate. Information packets detailing each contest have been distributed to all history teachers throughout the school system.

Further information may be obtained from your teacher or you may contact Rockcastle Chapter Historian, Karen Adams at (859) 273-9015 or email adamskaren11@cs.com.

The deadline for these essay contests is October 31, 2014.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet? Some things to think about...
What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?
Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and bleach to help dissolve stains.
B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.
The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildewing, causing carpet threads to rot, shortening the life of your carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.
Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.
D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.
E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again. Promoting the life of the carpet.
Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.

Marching season for Rockets off to a strong start

Congratulations to the RCHS Marching Rockets who kicked off their season with their first contest at North Laurel High School this past Saturday. The band premiered their 2014 Show "Pyramids of Egypt" which features original music by composer Larry P. Gilroy. This year's show incorporates well written tunes along with elaborate visuals in a musical salute to one of the seven wonders of the world and Ancient Egyptian Culture. The band placed 2nd in class AAA-1 at North Laurel and will continue their season at Corbin HS this Saturday, September 27th when they perform at 4:45 in the evening. Good luck Marching Rockets.
