Woman found dead in Rockcastle County

By: Doug Ponder
A Fayette County woman was found dead Monday night after police responded to a call on Crooked Creek Road in Orlando near the community of Johnetta. According to state police reports, officers originally responded after receiving a call about an abandoned vehicle on Crooked Creek Road. Once officers found the abandoned vehicle, they discovered that it was connected to Amelia E. Jones, 41, of Lexington who had been reported as a missing person by her family.

After searching the area near the abandoned vehicle, officers found a dead body "a short distance away" from the vehicle. The body was later identified and confirmed as Jones.

Jones was pronounced dead at the scene by Rockcastle County Coroner Marvin Owens. Deputy Coroner Billy Dowell said an autopsy was performed on Tuesday and that the cause of death was drowning. Dowell said Jones' body was found in Crooked Creek and that they believe hypothermia possibly played a part in her death.

According to a Facebook page that was created by Jones' family in an effort to find her, Jones had been

Lawson resigns position on RCIDA Board

By: Doug Ponder
Several items of business were discussed at the monthly RCIDA meeting on Monday, including the recent resignation of Robert Lawson from the RCIDA Board.

Lawson resigned from the board after being arrested earlier this month for theft by deception. According to state police reports, Lawson reportedly stole over $28,000, since July of 2013, from three different accounts he was trusted with managing. Lawson remains lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center on a $30,000 cash/property bond.

County Judge Executive Doug Bishop attended the meeting and told the board that he talked with Lawson personally at RCDC about the issue. Bishop said that Lawson told him that he had "already resigned" and that a deputy jailer was also present to witness his verbal resignation. Board member Corey Craig said that he talked with Lawson before his arrest and that Lawson told him he would send an email stating his resignation. However, Craig said that he never received the email but that a verbal resignation to him and Bishop makes the resignation effective.

Craig said that the board needed to decide on a new chairperson since Lawson served in that capacity. Board member Dale Whitaker nominated board member Jason Coguer to serve as the new chairperson and the nomination was seconded by board member Tommy Mink.

The board agreed unanimously to appoint Coguer as the new chairperson. The board also voted to remove Lawson as a signer of the RCIDA checking account and add Coguer's name as

Wildfires on the rise in Rockcastle

By: Doug Ponder
Local fire departments responded to several wildfires in Rockcastle County this past week.

Rockcastle 911 reported six wildfires in Rockcastle County since last Wednesday that have burned around 65 acres of land.

The largest wildfire happened last Wednesday on Chestnut Grove Road in Brodhead. Brodhead Fire Chief John Dyehouse said the wildfire burned approximately 60 acres and endangered several homes.

"This fire started when a property owner was burning off a field. Once the wind picked up, the fire got out of control and spread to four other properties," Dyehouse said. "We were able to keep the fire from spreading to any structures and no one was injured in the fire. However, one dog and several wild animals like opossums were killed in the fire."

Dyehouse said wildfires are more common when transitioning from the winter season to spring. He said homeowners and landowners always want to have a "spring cleanup" which almost always leads to wildfires after they attempt to burn something on their property.

"Fields and yards still have their dead growth from the winter months and the new growth hasn't had time to come up yet," Dyehouse said. "When people start to burn things or burn off areas of their property around this time of the year, that dead growth ignites quickly and, once the wind is factored in, the fire can get out of control in a matter of seconds."

According to the Kentucky Division of Forestry a spring burning ban is still in effect for Rockcastle County until April 30th. The ban is part of the Kentucky

Points East

By Ike Adams

Time does, indeed, really fly after you pass 60 and then it just keeps getting faster. The reason I know the truth of this is because it does not seem possible that an entire year could have slipped by since I last implored readers of this column to assist my grandson, Tyler Kane Ochs (TKO) and me to raise some dollars to help fight Diabetes.

For the last three years Tyler, along with his family and friends, have participated in the annual Step Out Walk to Stop Diabetes that is held each spring at Keeneland Race Track in Lexington. It is a big event that draws over 2,000 participants from central and eastern Kentucky to join the battle to fight and call attention to this terrible, always debilitating, and far-to-frequently, deadly, disease. This year the walk will take place on the morning of May 30.

Diabetes is the 7th, most-listed on death certificates, cause of death in our country. However, it is most likely the root cause of a host of other killers such as heart disease, strokes, kidney failure, liver disease, blood poisoning and hemorrhages, to name a few, that are listed as the cause of death without mentioning diabetes.

For example, even though neither of them have done me in so far, I have had two strokes that the doctors tell me were probably related to my diabetes. The jury is still out on whether my intimate association with Mr. Parkinson was brought on by erratic blood sugar imbalances. The point is, that if either of them had proven to be fatal, my diabetes would not have been listed as a cause of death even though it would, most likely, have been the root cause. Thanks to diabetes, I have just completed one eye surgery and have three to go. Diabetes is one of, if not the most absolute, leading causes of blindness and is, by far, the leading cause of lower extremity amputations among adults. I could go on and on, but I think you get the picture.

The truth of the matter is that, other than visual impairment, I am not much bothered with the disease on a daily basis as long as I take my metformin, orally, twice a day, try to eat responsibly and get as much exercise as possible.

Our son, Christopher, is not so lucky. He has to have two daily injections of insulin.

Our six-year-old Grandson, Tyler, has to wear an insulin pump, and monitor every bite of food or drink, other than water, that he ingests. Tyler can and does count every carbohydrate that goes into his mouth and does up to half a dozen blood tests every day. The insulin pump is strapped to his lower abdomen and attached to a needle injected into his belly and he has to wear it 24-7. The needle location has to be changed every three days. While he has not yet mastered the science of changing the needle by himself, he has been doing his own blood tests and carb counts since he was age three.

The pump is far less painful than having 3 or more insulin shots every day and the dosage regulation is also much more precise. But the thing that most amazes me is that TKO does not allow the contraction of the disease to slow him down or prevent him from doing anything he wants to do. I can tell you, for sure that his parents and grandparents cringe and hold their breath every time he slides into second base or home plate but our worry doesn't

Yards to Paradise

By Max Phelps
Flowering Perennial Beds Add Beauty

Let's begin today with a little daydreaming about a new lovely and easy to care for bed of flowering plants that will keep coming back year after year. Then let's make a plan. Let's also discuss building that planting bed.

"Where should I build it?" "What should I plant?" We could ask many questions. You can study on where you want planting beds, of you can just pick a spot you desire a new bed and get busy with it. You can choose the design or layout—I like to mark the ground with paint, or you could use lime or flour from the kitchen, or borrow the water hose and play with layouts. You can make a list of plants you want to include—or you could take your chances by going on a shopping spree and see how it turns out. Actual preparation and planting chores, plus decorating the bed when finished with some new mulch are all things we will touch on.

Once you've decided on a location, and the overall look you want, try putting a plan together on paper.

The Clothes Line
While driving home from Mt. Sterling, I witnessed two sure-fire signs that spring had indeed arrived. As I came over a hill in Montgomery County, right before my eyes were hundreds of daffodils covering a field. A smile came over my face because I remembered these familiar blooms, which covered my grandmother's yard when I was a boy.

The second sign of spring occurred a few miles later. Passing a small frame house on KY 213, I saw an older lady hanging her fresh wash on a clothes line in the back yard. That, too, reminded me of my childhood in Rockcastle County. My mother (Bee) carefully hung our clothes on her clothes line, which was situated in our yard, nestled next to the woods behind our house.

No one at that time had a dryer to my knowledge. Your only choice was to hang clothes on a line or situate them near the stove or fireplace inside your home. That was precisely what Bee used in the winter months, when it was impossible to hang her wash outside. She arranged chairs

Drawing paper, copy paper, graph paper, the paper is not as important as just getting started. Let's draw up a plan and have some fun doing it.

Nobody needs to be an artist. Draw an outline for the bed on your paper. Sketch in some plants. Some colored pens or pencils or crayons, might make this more fun! If you can't draw plants, draw circles of several sizes and then color them or write the name of the plant you are thinking of planting in each circle.

A color wheel can help you decide how to mix your colors. You can do an internet search for a color wheel, or most good gardening books may have one among their pages somewhere. Basically, some colors look much better when planted together than do other colors. This particularly pertains to the blooms of your plants—but yellow or silver or blue foliage mixing with green foliage may also play into the overall outcome of your new perennial bed. The color of the house and trim also should be considered when deciding on plant colors.

You can have a "hot" garden, a "cool" garden, a white garden or even a green garden! The green garden would be different; you'd need to use various shades of green and many contrasting textures of leaves and some with large leaves and some with small leaves, etc. It's your garden, so following rules is up to you of course.

To work up your planting site, here are some options: Dig up the grass (a sod cutter is great here), and begin planting. Another idea is to around our Warm Morning Stove and hung her wash there to dry.

Spring meant that Bee could now bring her wash out into the sunshine to dry. The fresh air would add a pleasant aroma to her wash. (Yes, there was a time when "fresh" air was always clean and fresh-smelling.) I remember the fragrance but I find it impossible to describe—it was a delicate and airy scent. It also gave clothing a cool, clean, and crisp feel. I can still hear that snapping sound that it made when the breezes came tossing around.

Bee's washing machine was the old standard wringer-type. She separated our wash into four machine loads: sheets and pillow cases, towels, white clothes, and finally, colored clothes. Each was hung together in groups on the line.

Before the first item was hung, the line was wiped down carefully to remove any bird droppings or insects. The clothes were hung with wooden clothes pins that clipped them to the line. (Come to think of it, those clothes pins were handy little things to have around; they made for a variety of uses.) At the end of each line—she had multiples—Bee used a wooden pole with a fork on the end to keep anything from dragging the ground.

Bee also used another technique in hanging clothes. Because she was such a very private and reserved person, our underclothes were always hung on the line located next to the woods, with the sheets hung in front of them to provide cover. She would never permit such items of clothing to be in view.

At different times throughout the day, Bee walked out to check and see if her clothes were dry and ready to be brought into the house. Each item was carefully removed and folded before it was placed into the laundry basket.

When the baskets were brought inside, Bee set up her wooden ironing board, and another of her chores began. Bee ironed everything! Sheets, pillow cases, jeans, shirts, and even men's handkerchiefs were carefully pressed. She used a RC Cola bottle with a stopper inserted in the open end to "sprinkle" the wash as it was ironed. I can still see that RC bottle sitting on the end of the ironing board.

Shirts and blouses were

When the Cows Come Home

Dear Journal,
Finally it seems that spring has arrived. The weather is warmer, the bulbs are blooming, birds are building nests, and the grass in the yards is beginning to grow. Just this past weekend Stanley had to mow the yard at our house in London.

It is the time of the year people begin getting out in their yards to plant and beautify. I always get a "torture", as Stanley says. They usually die a long, slow, and torturous death. The people at Lowe's love to see me coming, though. They probably laugh and say, "She'll never learn."

Many people have old family cemeteries they maintain. These are usually way out in the country with only a few occupants and the last burial took place over fifty years ago. That is the case with the old Cook family cemetery in the Three Links area. When Stanley was growing up, his Mom and Dad, Harrison and Laura, would pack a picnic lunch and load up the necessary equipment in a pickup, and then head for the cemetery. They made a little outing of it and one that Stanley enjoyed. This is a dying practice. In fifty years or less, when the older generations are gone, the cemeteries like this will be lost to the brush and there will never be another flower put on a grave anywhere.

Stanley and his brothers, Dale and Larry, still clean and care for the old family cemetery at Three Links. One year, not long after we were married, neither Dale nor Larry were available to clean the cemetery, so Stanley and I went to clean it. When we got there, it didn't look too bad, fortunately. We had taken a little lunch, too, just for tradition's sake. The cemetery is out in the country, on top of a little hill, and surrounded by a beautiful forest. On another side, there is a pasture. In the pasture was a pond and several cows. It was so quiet, and with a gentle breeze singing as it blew through the pines. In the distance, was the gentle voices of the contented cows.

Stanley mowed the grass and ran the trimmer around the gravestones. I did what I could by picking up old flowers and garbage. As we worked, he told me stories of those buried there.

I soon finished my chores and took advantage of the beauty. I wandered around here and there. I soon found myself by the cow pasture fence.

The cows were far down the hill, grazing and drinking from the pond. I sure wished they would come closer so I could see them better and pet them a little.

Now I need to explain that although I was born and raised around London, right in the middle of rural Ken-

Card of Thanks

Eva Bullock

We would like to thank the members of Hospice Care Plus, who took such wonderful care of Eva Bettye Cope Bullock. Each and everyone was kind, compassionate, professional and helpful in every way possible. They made a difficult time much easier for her and us and were an uncommon source of comfort. She wanted to be home and we are so grateful they made it possible. Dr. Arvin and the staff at White House Clinic will always be special to us for the care and support they provided.

Special thanks to our friends at Dowell and Martin Funeral Home where the arrangements were handled with the utmost attention to every detail. That was so important to us at this heart-breaking time.

Thank you Pam Martin for the flowers from Sparks Flowers Shop. They were gorgeous and exactly what we wanted. Thank you Roy Martin for the beautiful rose casket spray. We are sure she would have loved it as much as we did.

Heartfelt appreciation goes to Bro. Jim Baldwin for his many visits, prayers and the wonderful job he did officiating at her service.

Lastly, let us thank everyone for the gifts of kind words, thoughts, prayers, visits, cards, phone calls, flowers, food, money and presence. Everything was greatly appreciated.

But most of all, thank you Lord for letting us have 83 years of Eva Bettye Cope Bullock.

Card of Thanks

Geneva Argenbright

The family of Geneva Argenbright would like to thank all of our friends and family who attended the visitation and funeral of our mom and grandmother. To those who sent flowers, cards, gifts or food, thank you so much.

To Bros. Dale McNew and Ova Baker, a special thank you for your kind words of comfort and prayer.

Thank you to the pallbearers. Mom would have been pleased and thankful.

Thanks to Jason Medley for his music that he played and sang to. The song that he dedicated to Mom during the summer made it even more special. It made the service complete.

To all the ladies of our church who prepared the dinner after the service, thank you. It was greatly appreciated.

Thank you to Drs. Bullock, Saylor and Rowe for taking care of her needs in her hospital time. Thank you to the Rockcastle Hospital nursing staff, for their care during her stays there.

To the Terrace nursing staff and therapy department, thank you for her care. Thank you to the nursing staff at Compassionate Care Center in Richmond for your care during her short stay. Your staff was so caring and kind.

To Mom's neighbors and friends who helped her and watched out for her, we thank you. We will never be able to repay you for all you did for her. To her nieces and nephews who called and checked on her, we thank you. She knew that if she needed you, she could call and you would come to her. We love you all.

Thank you to Dowell and Martin Funeral Home and their staff for all the help and support they gave us. We appreciate you so much.

If we left anyone out, it was not our intent and thank you.

Mom was special to so many of us. She will be missed and will forever be in our hearts.

Spring is prime time for trophy bass

A winter back-loaded with cold, snow and high water can make the season's stay seem unusually long and especially harsh.

The first warm days of the year never come soon enough. But when they do, a feeling of euphoria sweeps over anglers because spring-time offers some of the year's best opportunities for trophy largemouth bass.

"Fall is a great opportunity to catch a big one, but your best shot at the biggest bass of the year or your life is right now," said Geoff Roberts, a conservation educator with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and an avid bass angler.

The longer periods of daylight and the warming water temperatures of springtime tell largemouth bass that it's time to move shallow. It's also at this time when the big bass are at their heaviest, especially ravenous females that must pack on weight in preparation for spawning.

Kentucky boasts numerous lakes that hold "good" to "excellent" populations of largemouth bass. In its annual Fishing Forecast, Kentucky Fish and Wildlife classified almost 40 fisheries in those two categories.

Anchoring the list of "excellent" largemouth bass options are Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley in the west and Barren River Lake in the southwest. Also making the cut were 760-acre Beshear Lake in Caldwell and Christian counties; 8,270-acre Cave Run Lake in Bath, Menifee, Rowan and Morgan counties; and 784-acre Cedar Creek Lake in Lincoln County; 32-acre Fishpond Lake in Letcher County; 767-acre Lake Malone in Muhlenburg, Todd and Logan counties; 169-acre Wilgreen Lake in Madison County and 36-acre Spurlington Lake in Taylor County.

Fish population survey work conducted by fisheries biologists last May on Cedar Creek Lake found vast numbers of 19- to 21-inch largemouth bass. There is a one-fish daily creel and 20-inch minimum size limit on the lake. Anglers have been catching bass in the creeks, and the areas around the KY 1770 bridge and mid-lake boat ramp near old U.S. 150 are two proven spots in a lake full of them.

"The number of really large fish is impressive," said John Williams, southeastern fisheries district biologist with Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "The area by the U.S. 150 ramp has a lot of cover and shallow water with access to deep water."

Wilgreen Lake's bass population stood out in last year's research in the northeastern fisheries district. It yielded good numbers of fish over 15 inches and 20 inches, but bass don't have to search hard for food with gizzard shad prevalent in the lake.

"You can fish pretty much across the whole dam on that lake," said Tom Timmermann, northeastern fisheries district biologist with Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "We see some nice fish across the dam. That would be a nice place to try. If you're fishing Wilgreen, Lake Reba is just on the other side of Richmond. It has nice numbers of fish over 15 inches as well, and half of that is bank accessible. Those two lakes being the size that they are, it might make for a good day to fish one in the morning and then try to fish the other in the evening."

Grayson Lake in Carter and Elliott Counties showed improvement last year, earning the 1,512-acre reservoir up-and-comer status in this use weed killer and begin planting a day or two later. My favorite is to kill the grass with Spectracide or Roundup and bring in a load of good topsoil and spread it creating a raised bed that will also have fewer weeds and grass (that is if you can get weed-free and grass-free soil). In this new bed you easily and more quickly can plant. When planting is done, putting down some Preen or other brand of pre-emergent herbicide, perhaps some slow release fertilizer, and then finishing off the bed by mulching it. When it comes to mulch, everything from wood chips to hardwood mulch to cypress or cedar, pine needles, (even chocolate (cocoa) bean hulls that smell so wonderful.

Shopping for new plants is one of the most fun things for some people. You can go to a big box store or a major garden center, especially in larger towns, and find most of what you may be looking for in one spot.

But if you're into the adventure, I'd suggest finding some out-of-the-way little greenhouses and garden centers and even roadside stands where local farmers and gardeners have some unusual stuff to sell that may not be carried by the big stores. (Note: Buying direct from the local grower is better for the local economy and may be a more sustainable way of gardening. Plus you'll often meet new friends and may find lots of knowledgeable folks willing to share free advice.)

Online and mailorder are fine choices. Many nurseries ship actual potted plants these days, not just the cheaper springtime shipments of bare-root items. Getting shipments of growing plants in hot weather or in very cold weather is fraught with some concerns though, unless you pay the cost of airmail/airfreight. (Your plants could literally cook in a UPS truck all day.) Order with caution in summer and winter, but I've done it successfully most of the time over the years.

Are you ready to go shopping? Or do you have your plants and need to get the shovel or spade out? Trowels, picks, even my rock hammer gets used sometimes to make planting holes. For those into big power tools, a post hole digger, a bobcat with a big auger, or an electric drill with a small auger—you can make your planting tools.

That's more a man's way of taking care of the planting chore I would suppose.

No matter if you choose one of the ways suggested above, or your own method that works for you, consider creating a new bed of flowering perennials. Even mid summer is OK for this project, so long as you have a hose or other means of watering your new plants from time to time until they get well established. I know you will have a lot of lovely blooms before summer is out.

prevent him from doing so. Apparently, little league baseball players have a deep-seeded, inherent need to slide into bases, even when there's not the slightest chance that the fielders might try to throw them out. Tyler would rather play baseball than eat ice cream and that's a good thing because an ice cream cone could kill him.

Tyler would also be the first person to tell you that we don't participate in the Step Out Walk, hoping for some imminent miracle that would enable him to live without an insulin pump and such a severely restricted diet. And even though we don't totally rule out that remote possibility of a miracle cure, our focus is on kids, like TKO, who are not yet born and we firmly believe that that the American Diabetes Association will eventually provide medical science with the financial resources to fund the research and development to make that happen.

By helping sponsor Team TKO in the Step Out Walk you can join our battle, or we'd love to have you join us at Keenelanda couple hours after the sun comes up on May 30.

Last year, over 60 readers of this column donated more than $3,000 of the $5,200+ that Team TKO generated.

If you would like to help sponsor us this year, the easiest way is to go online to stepout.diabetes.org and click on "donate" at the top of the page, then click on donate to or through a team or person, type in Ike Adams and that will take you to Team TKO's page. I will try to update our progress on a daily basis.

If you would rather make a paper contribution, simply mail a check made payable to American Diabetes Association, with Team TKO on the memo line. Send it to my home address and Tyler and I will turn it in on Step Out Day.

placed on wire hangers; practically everything else was neatly folded. I loved opening my dresser to find newly washed clothes neatly folded in my drawers, including underwear, socks, tee shirts, and my handkerchiefs. My cotton shirts were always hung carefully in my closet. In those days, I usually wore white, oxford cloth, button-down shirts. Bee always made sure that we had clothes that were clean and pressed to wear to school or anywhere else.

Of course, I took all of this for granted, not understanding how thankful I should have been at the time. What a chore it was for her to accomplish this task. I hope that I at least thanked her every once in a while, but I cannot remember if I did.

I think doing the laundry in those days was surely a "mission of love," and Bee was the best. And that's why the little old lady on KY 213 reminded me of my mother, and of how she sacrificed to make sure our family was clean and presentable.

tucky, I know very little about rural life, farming, and such. I might as well have been raised in Chicago. Anyway, I decided I'd call the cows in hopes that they would come closer.

I didn't know how to call cows as I had never called one...barely had even seen any up close and personal, anyway. I was standing on the bottom of the fence, leaning over the top, and I put my hands to my mouth to amplify my voice. I yelled in their direction, "Heeereee, cows! Heeereee, cows!" several times.

Stanley had finished mowing and came over to the fence only to discover what I was doing. He was kind of amazed, but yet found it humorous. He said that you can't call cows like that. I said, "Oh, yeah? I see some of them coming this way." He replied, "Maybe, but I don't know if I've ever seen a cow hold its sides laughing as it walked before."

Crappie time is just around the corner

Although the redbud trees may or may not have bloomed yet, it isn't too early to start fishing for crappie.

Black crappie are likely along rocky banks now in lakes that have them.

"With the water temperatures still in the mid-40s, white crappie are likely staging in deeper water right now," said Jeff Crosby, central fisheries district biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "With the longer photoperiod and the warmer temperatures on the way, they will be moving up to the shallows."

The big twins of western Kentucky, Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley, along with Green River Lake and Taylorsville Lake all receive oodles of fishing pressure for the crappie that swim in their waters. However, Kentucky is also blessed with other less known waters holding bountiful populations of crappie that don't receive the adulation and fishing pressure of their more well known brethren.

While known for its excellent largemouth bass fishing, wood strewn 2,315-acre Yatesville Lake in Lawrence County holds good numbers of quality white crappie with many in the 15-inch range.

"In our latest population sampling, Yatesville had the most crappie we've ever sampled in the 10- to 14-inch range," said Kevin Frey, eastern fisheries district biologist for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife.

Yatesville Lake, near the West Virginia border, more resembles a flatland reservoir with abundant woody cover than a mountain lake. Probe the fallen tree tops and submerged trees with live minnows suspended under a bobber and adjust the depth until you get bites. The timbered coves and banks near the confluence of Blaine and Greenbrier creeks hold crappie.

"In the upper part of Blaine Creek at the Rich Creek boat access, we've placed fish structures and cut down trees for bank anglers to catch crappie," Frey said. "There are numerous pull offs along KY 32 for bank anglers. It is good fishing in that area in spring."

Cave Run Lake is full of 2- to 3-year-old crappie, providing excellent opportunity for both black and white crappie. The deep weedbeds in the mouths of Skidmore and Leatherwood creeks in the Beaver Creek arm attract black crappie in March and into April. Black crappie tend to move into the shallows earlier in the year than white crappie. White crappie stay out in deeper water along creek channels while blacks may be in just a few feet of water along rocky banks at the same time.

The abundant woody structures around Bangor Boat Ramp and fallen trees along the island near Poppin Rock Boat Ramp in the North Fork Arm of Cave Run provide excellent fishing for white and black crappie.

One of the crappie sleepers flows off of Pine Mountain all the way to northern Kentucky. The Kentucky River holds considerable numbers of crappie a foot long or better. "The river goes in cycles, but there are some good fish in there," Crosby said. "The crappie in the Kentucky like those creek mouths and backwater areas with little current."

Tributaries at their confluence with the Kentucky River have abundant root wads, undercut banks, and washed in tree tops and brush. Probe all of these with live minnows suspended under a bobber or with 1/16-ounce chartreuse Roadrunner style spinner baits dressed with a matching 2-inch curly-tailed grub. "Another flowing water to consider is the Ohio River. It is really, really good for crappie right now," Crosby said. The Ohio River offers good crappie fishing from Ashland downstream to the Purchase Region in far western Kentucky.

He recommends backwater areas along the river, often formed where tributaries meet the main stem of the Ohio. "With all of the flooding on the Ohio, those embayments should have fish right now. Target brushy areas with live minnows in those embayments."

Guist Creek Lake covers 317 acres in Shelby County. It is also overlooked for crappie. "We saw some really nice crappie last fall in our population surveying," Crosby said. "I think most of the fishing pressure there is on largemouth bass."

Early spring is a good time to catch large white crappie 11 inches and longer on Barren River Lake in Allen and Barren counties. Known throughout the Midwest and upper South as a superior largemouth bass lake and written up in national magazines, Barren River Lake holds a burgeoning population of black crappie as well, which now make up 60 percent of the total crappie population in the lake.

Casting banks composed of pea gravel with lime-green 2-inch curly-tailed grubs rigged on red 1/8-ounce leadheads is a productive presentation for black crappie. Drifting live minnows along creek channels in March and early April fools big white crappie on Barren before they move into the shallows to spawn.

The huge snows of just a few weeks ago are now in the dustbin of history. It is time to get out and catch some crappie.

year's Fishing Forecast.

"There are some nice fish in there, but it's a tricky lake to fish," Timmermann said. "Grayson Lake and Cave Run aren't that dissimilar in the fact that they're deep, clear, eastern Kentucky mountain lakes. If you don't put your time in to learn your spots you could struggle. But those guys that know what they're doing on Grayson tend to have fun with it."

Bass typically start to move shallow when the water temperature ranges from 55 to 65 degrees with farm ponds and smaller lakes warming up first.

"At a certain point, you've got fish in all three phases: pre-spawn, spawn and post-spawn," Roberts said. "If you try targeting the pre-spawners and you strike out doing that, try something a little different like sight fishing. And if you can't get anything going there, look for the post-spawn fish."

Good lures to have on hand in early spring are jig and trailer combinations, spinnerbaits, square-billed and lipless crankbaits, suspending jerkbaits and other shad imitations.

Try to intercept bass at spots that lead to spawning areas, Roberts said, such as deeper points and the deeper stretches of banks that lead into embayments, creeks or a big pocket, and work back.

"What you want to try to find are basically what bass use as highways," he said. "Bass like to feel secure and they like to have ambush points, so they're going to use whatever cover is available as they work their way back in until they go to where they're going to spawn. And then they're going to do the exact same thing coming back out."

"When they do get shallow, look for any stumps, lay down or structure like that because that's what they're either going to be spawning next to or hanging out by either in preparation for spawning or immediately after they spawn."

Spring fishing is grateful fishing, and the thrill of an early spring reunion with the water never grows old. The pull of a trophy largemouth bass only makes it better.

Compare award letters to find best college deal

By now, most high school seniors should have completed the college application process and will be beginning receiving financial aid award letters. Seniors and their parents should compare those letters to find the one that offers the best financial aid package, the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) advises.

The letter will usually show the total cost of attendance — what that school costs for one year, including tuition, fees, room, meals, books, supplies, transportation and personal expenses.

It may also show how much the student's family is expected to pay toward those costs, the expected family contribution (EFC). The EFC is subtracted from the total cost of attendance to get a student's financial need. The letter will then list various sources of financial aid offered to pay for the costs not covered by the EFC. Students can accept or reject any or all of those proposed sources.

Students can also appeal the awards made if they believe their family's financial circumstances have changed.

One consideration is how much of the aid being offered is in federal student loans, which will have to be paid back after a student finishes school. If the package includes federal loans and isn't enough to pay all expenses, students may be looking at a private loan. Comparison shopping is a must in that case.

Take small steps to better health

(StatePoint) Staying healthy doesn't have to mean overhauling your lifestyle. Sometimes small changes can have big impacts. Take it from celebrity fitness trainer, Lareal "La" Mitchell, "Everyone can reach their health and fitness goals. It's all about setting attainable goals and staying motivated to see results."

To look, feel and live better, Mitchell is offering tips for small lifestyle changes you can make that can inspire you to make more in the future:

Get Moving
 If exercise is not a part of your life now, don't worry.

"In a short time, you can be doing quality exercises," says Mitchell. "The key is to start small."

Try short sets of push-ups, planks, squats, and lunges and work your way up. Ten minutes can make a real difference. Remember, little things like taking the stairs instead of the elevator will keep you feeling great all day.

Just be sure to make exercise non-negotiable. Life is busy and it's easy to find a number of reasons to skip a workout. Make yourself a fitness schedule and stick to it - and then don't let anyone or anything stop you from staying on track.

Eat Right

The small goal of adding more fiber to your diet can lead you to better nutrition choices. Aim to get 25 to 38 grams of fiber every day. In addition to upping your fruit and vegetable intake and swapping out processed white bread and pasta for the whole wheat variety, fiber supplements can help you meet your fiber goals. But choose wisely, as some options have additional benefits beyond supporting digestive health.

For example, Meta offers products made with psyllium fiber which has multihealth benefits. Try adding Metamucil powder to a morning smoothie. Also try new MetaBiotic probiotic supplement.

For many people, snacking can be a downfall, especially during a busy workday. Try substituting your usual temptations with healthier options. For example, almonds and light popcorn are a good substitute for chips, and are more satisfying. If you have a sweet tooth, ditch the afternoon pastry that's high in calories but won't actually help you feel full. Instead, look for a delicious, easy-to-pack snack like a Meta Health Bar that helps satisfy hunger as a healthful snack.

Lastly, stay hydrated. Skip sugary sodas and sports drinks and opt for water throughout the day. If you need a boost of flavor, add a lemon wedge, cucumber slice or some fresh herbs. Water helps you feel full and process fiber, while helping to keep you hydrated.

At Somerset Special Olympics Area 6 Spring Games next week

The Special Olympics Kentucky Area 6 Spring Games will be held Saturday, April 11, at Meece Middle School in Somerset. The Area meet includes more than 200 athletes from Bell, Clay, Harlan, Knox, Laurel, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Wayne and Whitley Counties. The event gets underway with Opening Ceremonies, including the parade of athletes, at 9:45 a.m. The competition begins at 10:15. This is the fourth consecutive year Meece Middle School has hosted the event.

This is the first of four weekends of the Special Olympics Track and Field season, which concludes May 11 in Louisville. The Area 6 Spring Games is one of eight area track and field meets held statewide this year. In all, more than 1,500 athletes with intellectual disabilities throughout the state will participate in regional track and field competitions, making track and field the largest participation event in the Special Olympics program in Kentucky.

Participants in the Spring Games automatically qualify to compete in the Special Olympics Kentucky State Summer Games to be held June 5-7 at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond.

“Chase”

served Crain traveling at a high rate of speed. Crain did stop when he observed a police vehicle but then sped away at a high rate of speed.

Adams pursued Crain's vehicle as he ran a stop sign and turned left onto Hwy 25 still at a high rate of speed. Moments later Crain turned left onto Upper Calloway Loop where people were standing on the shoulder of the roadway.

After traveling on Upper Calloway Loop, Crain once again turned onto Hwy 25 toward Livingston and the vehicle chase ended moments later when Adams managed to drive into the path of Crain's vehicle in an effort to stop the chase.

Once Crain stopped his vehicle, Adams apprehended him moments later.

Adams noted that Crain's eyes were bloodshot and that he appeared intoxicated. Adams also noted that Crain repeatedly banged his head on the police cruiser and was extremely belligerent, verbally abusive and “wanted to fight.”

While searching the vehicle, Adams found an open whiskey bottle, another full whiskey bottle and several cans of beer.

Crain was charged with first degree wanton endangerment, first degree fleeing or evading police, DUI, possession of alcoholic beverage in vehicle and disregarding a stop sign. He remains lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center under a a $15,000 cash/property bond.

“Lawson”

a signer for the account.

Craig also proposed that the board agree to establish “staggered term limits” for members who serve on the board. He said, state law KRS. 154.50 provides the guidelines for the term limits.

With the resignation of Lawson, Craig said the board currently has seven members. According to the state law, Craig said a seven member board should have two members for two years, two members for three years and three members for four years.

The law calls for any successors to be appointed to a four year term. The law also states that a member may be replaced as a result of misconduct or a conviction of a felony.

Bishop said that he was concerned about an appointment of an eighth member putting four people on four year terms. He said the law states an eight member board must have two members for two years, three members for three years and three members for four years.

Bishop said that he plans to appoint someone to fill Lawson's position in the near future. He suggested term limits as two members for two years, three members for three years and two members for four years with the appointed eighth members filling the four year term seat.

The board agreed and designated the current members in their respective term limits. Steven Eversole and Jason Medley were placed on two year terms; Coguer, Mink and Donna Hopkins on three year terms and Whitaker and Craig on four year terms.

RCIDA Executive Director Holly Hopkins also gave an update on projects in Rockcastle County's industrial parks. She said SourceHOV is adjusting their shifts to where they don't have to work every weekend. She said they are only adjusting shifts and that no one is losing any hours or losing their jobs.

Hopkins said employees at the new CSEPP building are having trouble entering and exiting their facility in their vehicles as a result of employees from SourceHOV using the turn-about as a “continuous driveway” for the SourceHOV building. Since the road is a county road, she said she will bring the issue up at next week's fiscal court meeting and see about the possibility of installing a stop sign, yield sign, etc.

Hopkins said she is receiving a lot of interest from companies looking to buy or lease the former Anchor building as a result of the county passing the Right to Work ordinance. She said that she has also received calls about the former “sewing factory” building and is scheduling meetings for later this month.

Hopkins went on to say that Plastisud in the Rockcastle Industrial Park has laid off several workers after their parent company in France visited the facility and determined that production was down. She said the company was expecting to do another round of layoffs soon.

Hopkins said the company was not wanting to get rid of anyone but that it was simply a production issue. She said they are letting the laid off employees draw unemployment with the hopes of possibly rehiring all of them in the near future.

Spring Forest Fire Hazard Season which makes it illegal for anyone to set fires within 150 feet of any woodland areas between the hours of 6 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The state law is intended to prevent forest and brush fires by only allowing outdoor burning after 6 p.m. when conditions are less likely to cause a wildfire to spread.

Dyehouse went on to say that the local fire departments in Rockcastle County have had to respond to numerous wildfires that started with a controlled burn that got out of control. He said following the burning ban's requirements and time period will help prevent future wildfires.

Clear Creek overran its banks last Friday and flooded two bridges that were recently condemned on Hwy 1786 in Wildie. The two bridges were condemned by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet and are currently being reconstructed. The above photo was taken on the fourth bridge on Hwy 1786 and shows Clear Creek backed up and overflowing the bridge. The bottom photo shows the water backed up from the recently reconstructed bridge to the site of the other bridge which is currently under construction. The rushing waters also flooded several fields, yards and other property in the Wildie area.

Job fair and pre-hire classes scheduled

Rockcastle Co. has been awarded Federal Funds under the Emergency Food and Shelter National Board Program.

Rockcastle Co. has been chosen to receive $8,121,000 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the county.

The selection was made by a National Board that is chaired by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency and consists of representatives from American Red Cross; Catholic Charities, USA; National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.; The Jewish Federations of North America, The Salvation Army; and, United Way Worldwide. The Local Board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

A Local Board made up of local government and charitable organizations will determine how the funds awarded to Rockcastle Co. are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service agencies in the area. The Local Board is responsible for recommending agencies to receive these funds and any additional funds available under this phase of the program.

Under the terms of the grant from the National Board, local agencies chosen to receive funds must: 1) be private voluntary non-profits or units of government, 2) be eligible to receive federal funds, 3) have an accounting system, 4) practice nondiscrimination, 5) have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and 6) if they are a private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board. Qualifying agencies are urged to apply.

Rockcastle Co. has distributed Emergency Food and shelter funds previously with Daniel Boone Community Action Agency, Inc. participating. This agency was responsible for helping families with mortgage/rental assistance and utilities as well as provide food for the local food bank at the First Baptist Mission. Public or private voluntary agencies interested in applying for Emergency Food and Shelter Program Funds must contact Tamara Cox, 105 E. Main Street Box 7, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky 40456 for an application. The deadline for applications to be received is April 17, 2015.

Annual Redbud Health Walk "blooming" success

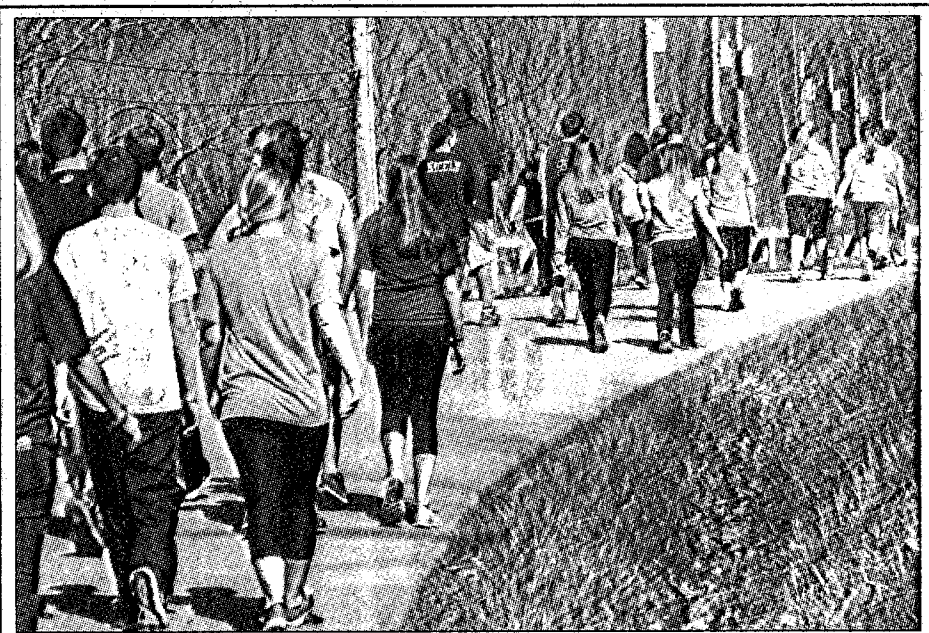

Over 500 people, from Rockcastle and surrounding counties, participated in the 9th Annual Red Bud Health Walk. The free event was held April 1st starting and ending at the Little White Church in Renfro Valley.

The event was hosted by The Mt. Vernon-Rockcastle County Tourist Commission, the City of Mt. Vernon, the Christian Appalachian Project, Rockcastle Regional Hospital, TOUR Southern and Eastern Kentucky (TOUR SEKY), Renfro Valley Entertainment Center, ASPI and the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame. Special thanks to the volunteers that helped make it all possible: Lifeline Rockcastle Home Health, Rockcastle Health and Rehabilitation, Mt. Vernon Fire and Police Departments, Don and Carlene Burkhead, Mary and Pat Greene, CJ Frederick, and Andrew Robbins.

Participants walked along a predetermined path where they received health tips along the way. They were also treated to free health checks and a chance to win a $50.00 Visa gift card and two tickets to Shenandoah and Marty Roybon. The walkers also received free redbud seedlings, tote bags filled with gifts from walk sponsors and a healthy lunch from the Mt. Vernon Subway, while performer Jeff Watson entertained the crowd. Mark your calendars for next year's walk on April 1st.

A crowd of over 500 people, from Rockcastle and surrounding counties, participated in the 9th Annual Red Bud Health Walk held last Wednesday at Renfro Valley.

The American Revolutionary War Patriots of Rockcastle

By Karen Hamm Adams

To celebrate and honor the county's American Revolutionary War Patriots and to enlighten the community about the service and sacrifice of these brave men, on behalf of the Rockcastle Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, I have compiled highlights of the service of the known patriots living in the county and who applied for a pension between the years of 1818 and 1842. All information was taken from the patriot's own account from his pension application and other historical documents. More information can be found on each patriot at the local library or the Rockcastle Historical Society. (Copyright Pending). If you are interested in joining the Daughters of the American Revolution or the Children of American Revolution, please contact Debbie Brown (606) 758-8659 or Iris Young (606) 256-2851.

James Kincaid
Virginia

James Kincaid was born 10 March 1763 Albemarle Co. Virginia and died on 8 July 1841 in Platte Co. Missouri. According to his pension application, James Kincaid gave the following account of his service on 5 November 1833 in Lafayette County, Missouri at the age of seventy. While residing with his father in Castlewood Settlement on the Clinch River about 25 miles north of Abington VA, James volunteered in the spring of 1776 serving as a private in Captain John Duncan's Virginia Company serving and guarded the Virginia settlements on the frontier for at least twenty eight days. He enlisted in the summer of 1777 to go to the aid of the frontier stations in Kentucky and served under Captain Henry Pauling Company, Colonel John Bowman's

Virginia Regiment. They marched to Boonesborough and stayed there aiding the people of the fort. After some time, they received word that the settlement where James' father lived had been raided by Indians. James and his older brother Joseph received a discharge from Colonel Bowman in order to return home. Their time of service for this expedition was about fifty days.

In 1779 his father moved to Kentucky. James and Joseph enlisted and served under Captain Thomas Quirk's Company, Colonel John Montgomery and Colonel George Rogers Clark. James was appointed Quartermaster Sergeant and served under Quartermaster John Read. James was at the engagement at the Chickamauga Indian towns and then marched to Kaskaskia in Illinois and joined Colonel Clark, returned to the Falls of the Ohio and served until the fall of 1779. He enlisted in May 1780 and served eight weeks under Colonels Benjamin Logan and James Harrod and went on an expedition with General George Rogers Clark against the Shawnee Indians and was at the Battle of Pickaway Towns.

In the summer of 1781, he was appointed ensign and served under his brother, Captain Joseph Kincaid and Colonel James Harrod for a period of one month. He was stationed at McAfee's Station. In early 1782, he served one month as ensign under Colonel James Harrod and was in the Battle of Blue Licks (19 August 1782). His brother Joseph was killed during this battle. He served in 1782 as a Lieutenant under Captain John Irvin and Colonel Benjamin Logan and was in General George Rogers Clark's expedition against the Shawnee Indians, surviving several skirmishes and served a total of five to six weeks.

In 1787, James was appointed Captain of a Company of militia in Mercer Co. KY and served two tours, one lasting seven days and the other lasting fifteen days under Colonel Benjamin Logan against the Cherokee Indians. In 1791, he served thirty three days as a private soldier in Wilkinson's expedition against the Wabash Indians.

James lived in Kentucky for nearly fifty years. His residency ranged from Mercer Co, Madison and Rockcastle Counties. At one time the Kincaid family was one of the largest landowners in Rockcastle County including the Great Saltpetre cave. He later moved to Missouri, first to Boone County and then to Lafayette. He received his government pension on 5 November 1833 at the rate of $58.11 annually. James applied for his bounty land but his application was rejected. James died 8 July 1841 in Platte Co. MO and is buried with his wife on their farmland.

For 2014 losses

Farm Bill Program offers producers relief

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Farm Service Agency today announced that nearly 2,700 applicants will begin receiving disaster assistance through the Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honeybees and Farm-Raised Fish Program (ELAP) for losses experienced from Oct. 1, 2013, through Sept.

The program, re-authorized by the 2014 Farm Bill, provides disaster relief to livestock, honeybee, and farm-raised fish producers not covered by other agricultural disaster assistance programs. Eligible losses may include excessive heat or winds, flooding, blizzards, hail, wildfires, lightning strikes, volcanic eruptions and diseases, or in the case of honeybees, losses due to colony collapse disorder. Beekeepers, most of whom suffered honeybee colony losses, represent more than half of ELAP recipients.

Renfro Valley ENTERTAINMENT CENTER

Congratulates PETE STAMPER

Pete made his first guest appearance on the Renfro Valley Barn Dance in the 1950s. He was later invited to become a solo member of the show's cast, and he has been a Renfro Valley Entertainer ever since.

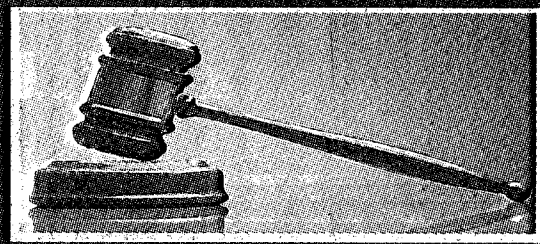

Pete has called Rockcastle County home for many years now, and has performed on the shows at Renfro Valley Entertainment Center longer than any of their other cast members. In fact, Pete's tenure on the shows may be the longest of all time! Renfro Valley is only one of the experiences that have made up an amazing career in entertainment. Pete's career has taken him away from Renfro Valley just a few times over the years, but Pete explains they were just "vacations" and nothing more. He has always returned and we're very glad that he has!

Pete has a special gift for comedy and he shares it regularly with our audiences, a wit as keen and a style just as genuine. Renfro Valley is proud to have had Pete grace our stage for the last 60+ years, he is truly a Renfro Valley treasure.

Congrats Pete on being inducted to the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame! No one is more deserving than you!

An encouraging word:

An Absolute Necessity

By Howard Coop

The old house on Hegira Road that was my childhood home lacked many things, but it contained one very important thing. My parents, a good mother and a good father, understood a basic principle of life, and they attempted to apply that principle in that old house: If children grow up to be responsible persons, they must be taught to accept self-control or self-discipline.

As I reflected upon those by-gone days and the training, sometimes administered with loving sternness, I received, words of Eileen Guder came to my mind, "But the whole point of training, or educating children, is to teach them to take responsibility for themselves."

One does not achieve a desired goal in life merely by wishing for that goal. The self must be disciplined to do what is necessary to attain it. The road that leads to success in life is paved with self-control. Harry Truman, the thirty-third president of the United States, said, "In reading the lives of great men, I found that the first victory they won was over themselves... self-discipline with all of them came first."

That's not new; it's been around for many centuries. Plato, the Greek philosopher of the fourth century B.C., said, "For a man to conquer himself is the first and noblest of victories," Thucydides, the Greek historian of about the same time, said, "Self-control is the chief element of self-respect, and self-respect is the chief element in courage," and Dietrich Bonhoeffer said, "Strict exercise of self-control is an essential feature" of life.

John Major got it right when he said, "It is time to return to core values, time to get back to basics, to self-discipline and respect for the law, to consideration of others, to accept responsibility for yourself and your family---and not shuffling it off on other people."

Self-discipline, defined as "planned control and training of oneself for the sake of development," is an absolute necessity if life is to be successful and rewarding.

Save money by taking more classes

Taking more classes each semester may help you cut the cost of college, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA). That's especially important if, like many people, you'll need student loans to help pay for your education.

A full-time load for undergraduate students is generally considered 12 credit hours per semester. Associate's degrees usually require 60 credit hours to finish, bachelor's degrees 120 hours. If you take 12 hours each semester, you'll need five semesters to finish an associate's degree and 10 semesters to finish a bachelor's degree.

But if you take 15 hours per semester, you'll finish an associate's degree in four semesters and a bachelor's degree in eight semesters. Most colleges won't charge you any more for 15 hours than they do for 12 hours, which can save you hundreds, perhaps thousands, of dollars in tuition and fees.

When you're planning your schedule, think about taking that extra class each semester. The sooner you earn your degree, the sooner you can start job hunting.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's grant and scholarship programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). It provides financial literacy videos at <http://itsmoney.kheaa.com>. KHEAA also provides free copies of "It's Money, Baby," a guide to financial literacy, to Kentucky schools and residents upon request at publications@kheaa.com.

Call for entries for Fall Exhibit at Artisan Center

Kentucky artists are invited to submit entries for the exhibit "It Takes Two: Collaborations by Kentucky Artisans" to be held Sept. 19, 2015 through Feb. 27, 2016 at the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea.

Each year the Kentucky Artisan Center develops and presents several special exhibits to showcase works by Kentucky artisans. These exhibits focus on a specific medium, theme, technique, or subject and often include artists and works not regularly on display at the center.

The center's "It Takes Two" exhibit will showcase works created by Kentucky artists working together. Collaboration can result in exciting new work as each artist brings his or her own skills and aesthetics to the process. Pieces submitted for this exhibit can be two- or three-dimensional and can be created by two artists working in the same medium or by two artists working in different media. Artists will be asked to detail their specific contributions to the finished work.

Information about the exhibit and an entry form are on the Artisan Opportunities page of the center's website www.KentuckyArtisanCenterky.gov. You can also request an entry form and prospectus by mail at: Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea, Attn: "It Takes Two", 200 Artisan Way, Berea, KY 40403 or by calling 859-985-5448. Deadline for entry is June 27, 2015.

The center features works by more than 700 artisans from more than 100 counties across the Commonwealth. Special exhibits currently on display include, "Turn, Turn, Turn: Lathe-Turned Works by Kentucky Artisans," through Sept. 12, 2015; and on display in the lobby "Kentucky Murals by Frank W. Long." For more information about events call 859-985-5448, go to the center's website at www.kentuckyartisancenterky.gov or visit us on Facebook at www.facebook.com/kentucky.artisan.center.

SAWDUST SALAD

My sister-in-law introduced this salad to the family back in 1977. It was an instant hit with Will's family as much as it was mine. The "sawdust," of course, is really shredded cheddar cheese sprinkled on top. My family eats this as a dessert instead of as a salad. Either with your meal, after your meal, or as a snack, it is worth the effort. It makes an excellent potluck dish. In the summertime, the whipped topping and cream cheese may tend to melt some if it's left out in the sun too long, but you usually don't have to worry about that. It is among the first dishes to disappear. In San Francisco, I took this to ADP when I worked there and it turned out to be a favorite of co-worker Steve Aguirre as well as some of the other co-workers.

- 1 small box orange Jello®
- 1 small box lemon Jello®
- 1 can crushed pineapple, drained
- 1 bag miniature marshmallows
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 egg
- 2 cups juice and water
- 1 small container Cool Whip®, thawed
- 1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese, at room temperature
- 1 to 2 cups cheddar cheese

finely shredded Drain pineapple; reserve juice. Mix Jello® with 2 cups boiling water until dissolved. Add 1/2 bag marshmallows. Stir until they are slightly melted. Add 1/2 cups cold water, pineapple and rest of marshmallows. Refrigerate until set. In the meantime, combine sugar with cornstarch; add beaten egg. Add enough water to the reserved pineapple juice to make 2 cups. Slowly stir into sugar mixture. Cook over medium heat until thickened. Let cool. Spread cooled pudding over Jello® mixture. Beat cream cheese, fold in Cool Whip. Spread over pudding. Sprinkle with finely grated cheddar cheese.

WATERGATE SALAD

1 small package instant pistachio pudding mix
1 can (15 ounce) crushed pineapple, undrained
1 container (9 ounce) Cool Whip®
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 small package miniature marshmallows
1 can mandarin oranges, drained
Mix dry pudding mix with the pineapple and juice. Mix well. Fold in Cool Whip® and nuts. Add marshmallows and oranges carefully as to not break up the fruit. Chill.

JROTC holds Military Ball

Submitted
This past Saturday the Rockcastle JROTC Battalion held their 20th Annual Military Ball at the Rockcastle County Area Technology Center.

There were two portions of the Military Ball, a formal ceremony followed by a dance. During the formal portion of the night, we were treated to a wonderful meal catered by Limestone Grille. After the dinner, there was a presentation of two slideshows. One slideshow was to showcase what the Battalion has been involved in over the past year, and the other was a tribute to our senior cadets and our appreciation for their parents support.

To close the formal ceremony, a Military Ball King, Queen, Prince, and Princess were crowned. These cadets led off the first dance into the informal portion of the night. The King and Queen for the night was Will Martin and Tiffany Horn. The Prince and Princess of the night was Holden Abrams and Victoria Barron.

The Rocket Battalion would like to thank the special guests: Superintendent David Pensol, Principal Jennifer Mattingly, Assistant Principal Becky Smith, and all of the senior parents for their support, Tammy Sowder Photography, Carolyn Holt Flowers, SFC Keith Graves, and CPT Jeffrey Thompson.

The RCMS Builders Club and 8th grade Leadership Team members participated in the Red Bud Community Walk at Renfro last Wednesday. After the 2-mile walk, the group enjoy a free lunch and music from Renfro Valley musician Jeff Watson. We would like to thank all of the walk sponsors for this event. Walkers were front row: Jordan Nicely, Sarah Cornelius, Destiny Brogan, Emily Hall, Zoe Burdette, Rebekah Kersey, Casey Rowland, Kassie Lay, Jamison Roberts, and Michael Allen. Back row: Keaton Renfro, Dalton Durham, Connor Noble, Benton Kuntz, Brittany Doan, Katie Vance, Woodrow Williams, Jonmark Loudermilk, Sebastian Poynter, Cole Ballinger, Bailey Taylor, Evan Hendrickson, Joseph Coffey, Logan Kidwell, Hannah Bryant, J.D. Hamilton, Sydney Hines, Conner Robinson, Cadé Burdette, Hallie Hines, and Zach Baker.

Wilson on 4 February 1784 in Lincoln Co. KY. They raised eight children: They were: Margaret Kincaid (1785-Mercer Co. KY-1855 Rockcastle Co. KY) married David Porter Bethum (1785-1864) on 7 November 1807 Pulaski Co. KY. They are buried at Elmwood Cemetery in Rockcastle Co. KY. They had seven children: Mary, Sarah, James, Benjamin, Joseph, Nancy and David. Mary Kincaid (1786KY-after 1841 MO) married James Thompson on 7 November 1804 Madison Co. KY. At the time of her father's death, she was living with him and was listed as an "insane person". Her condition had not always been thus, however, because she married and had children. There was a petition to hold a hearing to determine whether she was of sound mind, and to appoint a guardian. This was done and later her brother, James A Kincaid requested permission to sell her property to send her to her children. Joseph Kincaid (1787-About 1841 TN) married Ary. Eliza McGemsey. They had three children: Margaret, Joseph and Sarah. Sarah Kincaid (1788-1870KY) married Adrian Hay on 20 April 1806 Knox Co. KY. They had four children: William Milton, Sarah, James H. and Mary. John Kincaid (15 February 1791-7 February 1873TN) married Mary Waggoner. He was an attorney for the Commonwealth of KY, a representative in the state legislature for Lincoln Co., a Henry Clay Whig and a judge. They are buried at Bellevue Cemetery in Boyle Co. KY. They had three children: William, John and Mary. James Kincaid (1796 KY-1865 Platte Co. MO) married Margaret Evans. They had five children: Sarah, Eliza, Joseph, Mary and William. Harvey Kincaid (1799KY-MO) married Rebecca Barnett on 21 October 1825 Madison Co. KY. They had seven children: Mary, Betsy, James, Rebecca, Ary, Cynthia and Robert. William Kincaid (28 February 1802 KY-1 August 1858 Santa Clara, CA) married Mary Farris on 29 March 1827 Lincoln Co. KY. He was a judge by profession. They are buried at the Mission City Memorial Park Cemetery in Santa Clara, CA. They had four children: Campbell, Harvey, Sarah and James.

"Relief"

disaster funding at $20 million per federal fiscal year and the Budget Control Act of 2011, passed by Congress, requires USDA to reduce payments by 7.3 percent, beginning Oct. 1, 2014. To accommodate the number of requests for ELAP assistance, which exceeded 2014 funding, payments will be reduced to ensure that all eligible applicants receive a prorated share.

Today's announcement was made possible by the 2014 Farm Bill, which builds on historic economic gains in rural America over the past six years, while achieving meaningful reform and billions of dollars in savings for the taxpayer. Since enactment, USDA has made significant progress to implement each provision of this critical legislation, including providing disaster relief to farmers and ranchers; strengthening risk management tools; expanding access to rural credit; funding critical research; establishing innovative public-private conservation partnerships; developing new markets for rural-made products; and investing in infrastructure, housing and community facilities to help improve quality of life in rural America. For more information, visit <http://www.usda.gov/farmbill>.

To learn more about ELAP, visit www.fsa.usda.gov/elap. For more information about USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) disaster assistance programs, visit disaster.usda.fsa.gov or contact your local FSA office at <http://offices.usda.gov>.

Thinking About Cleaning Your Carpet? Some things to think about...
 What is the best way to clean my carpet, should I use the old technology of steam cleaning or the new technology of dry foam?
 Test results from Consumer Report, 2008.
Option 1: Steam Cleaning-How does it work?
 A. Steam Cleaners saturate your carpet and floor pad with hot (150° degree) soapy water containing lye and bleach to help dissolve stains.
 B. After your carpet reaches its maximum saturation point the solution is then extracted by means of a commercial shop vacuum.
 The results: Removes less than 20% of the soil from the carpet driving the remainder down deeper into the carpet fibers. The lye/bleach solution used by steam cleaners to dissolve stains fades carpet colors. Drying time is 1 to 5 days depending on the carpet texture. As a result of the water saturation, carpet fibers harden and the floor pad remains damp, which promotes bacteria growth and mildew, causing carpet threads to rot, shorting the life of your carpet. Carpet manufacturers recommend that you do not steam clean carpets.
Option 2: Dry Foam-How does it work?
 C. Carpet fibers are agitated with carpet combs to separate the fibers loosening dirt particles, which are then dry cleaned with an industrial strength vacuum.
 D. The carpet is then shampooed with horse hair brushes using Dry-Foam lather, a solution that contains six different cleaners and fabric softener, color brightener, deodorizer, disinfectant, crystalline agent, scotch guard, & degreaser. Does not contain lye or bleach.
 E. Carpet fibers are then groomed to fluff up worn walk areas to give a uniform look to the carpet.
 The results: Removes over 90% of carpet soil. Rejuvenates and brightens colors and patterns of carpets. Drying times is less than 2 hours. Floor pads remain dry-Fabric Softener makes carpets soft again. Promoting the life of the carpet.
 Carpet manufacturers recommend Dry Foam to clean Carpets.
