Mount Vernon, Kentucky 40456 • (606) 256-2244 Volume 129 • Number 35 .50 per copy Thursday, August 27, 2015

The front entrance of the new building will feature a three-story glass wall. A new cafeteria and dining area will be located on the ground floor, along with the hospital's Child Development Center. The second floor will house the new dialysis clinic, among other support services, while the respiratory care center beds will be located on the third floor.

Rockcastle Regional to expand with 28 beds, dialysis clinic

A little more than a year after the grand opening of the 32,000-square-foot Rockcastle Family Wellness, Rockcastle Regional Hospital and Respiratory Care Center has announced plans of another major expansion.

This fall, the organization is scheduled to begin construction on a 64,000 square-foot addition that will include 28 beds for patients on mechanical ventilators and a kidney dialysis clinic.

The expansion will create 85 new full-time jobs, bringing the total number of Rockcastle Regional employees to 730.

The addition will make the Respiratory Care Center the largest of its kind in the nation, bringing its total number of beds to 121. The facility provides state-of-the-art care for patients who are dependent on mechanical ventilators because of illness or injury.

"Today's healthcare environment is extraordinarily challenging," said Stephen A. Estes, President and CEO of Rockcastle Regional. "In times like these, organizations face two options: hold on and protect what they have, or grow through the change. We are choosing to grow."

The kidney dialysis clinic will be a first for Rockcastle County. Dialysis is a treatment for kidney failure in which a machine is used to filter harmful wastes, salt, and excess fluid from the blood, restoring blood to a normal, healthy balance. Dialysis replaces many of the kidney's important functions.

The new dialysis clinic, which will provide both inpatient and outpatient care, will be used both for ventilator patients and members of the community who are in need of the service.

Brodhead to have repaired sewer lines

$1.275 million loan secured

By: Mike French
Citizens of Brodhead are about to have upgraded sewer lines throughout the city along with a water rate increase.

Due to decaying lines which were installed in the 1970s, the Environmental Protection Agency recently placed a $10,000 fine on the City of Brodhead for the leaking lines.

However, Brodhead Mayor Walter Cash said that diligent work from State Representative Jonathan Shell and State Senator Jerad Carpenter convinced the EPA to lower the fine to $2,000.

According to Brodhead City Clerk Becky Bussell, the leaking and crushed lines cause overwork of the sewer plant. "If our sewer plant is licensed to run 500,000 gallons of water per day, a heavy rain causes it to run over 2 million gallons per day because of the leaks," she said.

After the fine was imposed, city officials performed smoke tests and began looking into repairing the lines.

"There are basically two different proposals we are expecting from bids," said Bussell. "Both methods are sound and would require minimal disruption in the community."

One repair method expected to be proposed is a relining of the existing line with a heated liner that will form to the inside of the existing pipe. The other method includes spraying a coating over the inside of all the pipes.

"The only real digging we will have to do on city streets is where the lines are crushed," said Bussell. "There are only a few spots that will require cutting up blacktop and digging the line out," she said.

Hearing is set for Burkhart

A preliminary hearing has been set for September 2 for Shawana Burkhart, 37, of Countryside Circle in Mount Vernon.

Burkhart is charged with attempted murder after allegedly stabbing her father, Orville Burkhart, 71 with a steak knife four times last week.

Reports said the father was airlifted to UK Medical Center, after he escaped the attack and called 911 from a neighbor's house.

Burkhart's bond has been set at $500,000 cash or property. Should that bond is met, she will be required to wear an ankle bracelet to be monitored and limited to "no movement" or contact with her father.

According to Rockcastle County Sheriff Mike Peters, the father was treated for the four stab wounds and later released. Peters said the father is recuperating at home.

Officials at Brodhead have been preparing for the work and have taken a low interest loan from the Kentucky Infrastructure Authority (KIA) for $1.275 million over 25-30 years.

Bussell said the money will be repaid via a water rate increase which will be mandated by the State of Kentucky. "They look at our expenditures and our rates and make certain we will make enough to repay the loan," she said.

Shell and Carpenter helped secure the loan for rehabilitation and other improvements for the City of Brodhead sewer system, according to Shell's office.

Kentucky Republicans to hold "caucus" in Presidential Race

On Saturday, the Republican Party of Kentucky voted to hold a presidential "caucus" for the 2016 election cycle.

This means that instead of Kentucky Republicans voting for a Presidential nominee in a May primary, they will vote for a candidate in a caucus which is scheduled to be held in early March and will be administered by the Republican Party of Kentucky working with local parties. The caucus will only feature the Republican race for President. All other races will still be decided in a traditional May primary.

U.S. Senator Rand Paul pushed the party to switch to the caucus. This allows Paul to appear only once on the 2016 May ballot (for re-

Strep already affecting students in local schools

By: Mike French

School has been back in session only 11 days and already a marked increase in illness has been reported throughout the county school system.

According to Roxanne Hammond, District Health Coordinator and Registered Nurse, cases of student illness have increased this week. "It's not really an alarming number but it's noticeable," she said.

Nearly every year children in school pass colds and infections back and forth and Hammond says the past two years have included a large rate of streptococcus (better known as strep throat).

"It seems like the last two years the same thing has happened. After the first week, we have a number of kids out of school and strep may be among the most common cause," she said.

School staff and teachers try to avoid the problem but constant contact between students makes it very difficult. "Our teachers try to be very proactive and avoid all we can," said Hammond. washing and sanitizers are Also at the end of each day, down the desks and tables fection control is something to,"

Hammond says parents their school children spreading infection. "Typical headache, stomach ache and a general feeling of just not feeling good. All of this comes usually before a sore throat," she said.

However, the most important part of preventative maintenance is to keep close track of fevers. "Strep needs to be taken very seriously. It circulates in the blood stream and causes a fever and can do serious damage if left untreated," she said.

In fact, antibiotics are having less affect on strep in the past several years. "In my own opinion, we have all spent so many years taking antibiotics, that the bacteria are becoming more immune. I hear lots of reports from parents that it may take two or more rounds of antibiotics to stop strep anymore," she said.

Hammond asks all parents to look for the signs of strep and if those signs are evident, take the child to the doctor. "It's going around so much right now, that it may take several days to get a doctor's appointment," she said.

But, if your child has a fever, Hammond says you should not send them to school and get an appointment as soon as possible.

"If your child just doesn't feel good, not hungry, stomach ache, sore throat or some other symptoms, keep a close eye on their temperature. As soon as you find a fever, take action," she said.

While waiting on the doctor's appointment, Hammond said there is no need to force food on your child if they are not hungry. But liquid is much more important. "A lot of kids have a stomach virus right now also. This is accompanied by diarrhea and vomiting and keeping the child hydrated is very important. Give them liquids," she said.

The school policy in Rockcastle County is to send a child with a fever home immediately. "We do not want the other kids to be around those with fevers. We contact the parents and send the child home once a fever is registered. We are in very close contact with parents on this issue," she said.

School policy also dictates that a child must be fever-free for 24 hours before the parent can send them back to school.

I'm wondering where truth in advertising went. There are so many life-binding, intrusive, business-stifling, anti-freedom laws in America, that I am surprised this one is so ignored.

According to truth in advertising laws, when a consumer sees or hears an advertisement, federal law says that ad "must be truthful, not misleading, and when applicable, backed by scientific evidence."

But apparently, there are way too many loopholes in this law for it to be applied with any regularity.

How many car dealerships claim to be "the number one" dealership in the universe? They can't all be number one. Someone is fibbing. But have you ever seen the Federal Trade Commission arrest a dealership owner?

Here's one of my favorites. Go through any drive through restaurant, anywhere. Order something off their menu. Then take what you receive around to that big menu board and hold your food item up next to the picture of what you were told you were ordering.

Just see if your sandwich is even similar to that photo that the restaurant suggested you would get. But, has the FTC ever put yellow crime tape around a menu board?

It's the same in fancy restaurants. Their steak on the menu is juicy and perfect and hot with sides steaming and flawless. Then sometimes they bring you a dried up piece of leather.

How about vacation brochures? Have you ever seen a brochure inviting you to stay with a certain motel with a roach in the photo?

Have you seen a brochure with a picture of a beach with old cars lying on it?

Even movie trailers do it. They show you wild action for 15 seconds suggesting the entire movie is that way. But sometimes, that 15 seconds was the only action in the entire film. The rest of the movie was people standing around talking about that 15 seconds. (Anything with Sylvester Stallone excluded)

I saw an ad on late night TV recently where I was told that if I buy this particular weed trimmer, I would get the specialized trimmer string that is guaranteed for life. They would never break or tear and need replacing for all eternity. Then I heard, "But wait!!! Order now and we will send you 12 extra trimmer blades!"

If the blades are guaranteed to last for eternity, then why do I need extra blades? And 12 of them, no less.

I understand that people want to put their best foot forward in advertising. Showing just how good something may be, is a fair goal. I do it too. But there's a difference.

I recently sold a pull-along trailer. I got it washed up and put the sun to my back and got on the ground to make it look enticing to any would-be trailer buyers.

But at least, I did say in the Craig's List ad, "There's a scratch on the rear door." I didn't hide it and pretend it was perfect.

It would be nice if businesses would do that too.

I think, the photo of the food on the menu, should be taken of an actual meal that was made for a customer. Not a fake, studio shot with rubber burgers and Elmer's glue as milk.

A brochure should have a little picture of a roach on the corner of it and say something like, "We try to keep these little rascals out but we can't guarantee you won't see one."

Car dealerships should say on TV, "Okay, we are really the number 72 dealer in Kentucky. But hey, we are better than number 78." (By the way, being number one in sales does not mean you have better cars, better deals and a bigger selection. It means you have better sales people.)

In Canada, they have pics of old, wrinkled, dying people on each cigarette pack. But I did notice there are no pictures of super-fat children getting a diabetes shot on their Coke cans.

I guess some people are forced to follow the truth in advertising laws while others are not.

Advertising is the best way to let people know what you have to offer. It can spur their interest in your product and will cause sales that would have never happened without the ad.

But, I sometimes wish that the smashed up burger in my hand with catsup splattered all over the bun, looked a little more like the one in the picture when I ordered it.

But, since it's apparently okay to do so, let me just say this. I have a truck for sale. It is the world's greatest truck ever in the history of

by: Tonya J. Cook

'Tis the Same Old Song Dear Journal.

It is surprising how a certain sound, smell, or sight will trigger memories of long ago. Oh, how I remember the days of my childhood in those long, hot days of summer. After the long, hot days of summer came the long, hot nights of summer. Those summer nights were so hot, humid, and miserable that they could seem a week long.

Things were different back then, especially in the family homes of rural Appalachia as here in Kentucky. At the close of the day, just after supper, families would gather on their porches and try to get cool as the sun went down. They usually enjoyed some kind of cool beverage, too, as they talked of the day's events. Some even ventured to stay inside and watch television if they had one. Many didn't own a set and if they did, one television sat in the living room, a black and white set with about two or three stations available. The whole family had to agree on what to watch and someone had to change the volume or channel manually. Then, you may have to tinker with the horizontal or vertical hold, and contrast.

Meanwhile, back on the porch, the "skeeters" were eating you alive, the light-

This past weekend was a happy/sad one. The happy part was when Paige and I journeyed to Mason, Ohio to see our very first professional tennis finals in the Western & Southern Open.

Paige was ecstatic because the men's finals was between Roger Federer and Novak Djokovic, two of her favorites in the tennis world. We were also happy that Serena Williams was to be one of the women's finalists.

The first match on the agenda was the men's doubles. There were no Americans in this match but it was a nice warmup to the singles finals next on the agenda.

The doubles finals were held in the Grandstand stadium where there were no assigned seats so we managed to come up with two pretty good seats. The match didn't last long but long enough for a man to have to be carried out of the stands -- it was hot.

After a short intermission after the doubles, we climbed to our seats in the Center Court for the men's finals. Climbed is the operative word here. We were pretty far away to put it nicely and the sun was bearing down. I managed to last six games before I told Paige that she should look around for medical help to get me out of the stands in case I passed out.

She took this as an indication that she should get me out of the stands ASAP. I hated to "white eye," especially after she had gone to all the trouble and expense of treating me to my first professional tennis matches but, old age won out.

Paige got me down from the stands and into a shaded area where we could watch the match on TV, and also watch another fan be carried from the stands on a stretcher.

Since I seemed to be having some trouble cooling off (and breathing), Paige decided to abandon the day and head back to Kentucky. After finding a very nice man with a wheelchair, Paige got me back into our car and we headed home.

The really sad part came after we got home. We were letting my dogs back into the house from the backyard, where they had spent Saturday night, when we noticed my big red dog, Penny's, lethargy. She also seemed to be having trouble getting all four feet on the ground at once. I tried calling a vet but couldn't get hold of one and, since she was moving around the family room somewhat, decided I would wait until Monday to take her to a vet.

When I went to bed Sunday night, Penny followed me into the bedroom, as she always did, and made her place on the rug. However, when I woke up Tuesday morning, she was gone. I have no idea what happened except that she was overweight and perhaps her heart gave out. She and Jax, my Jack Russell, had a room behind the garage where their food and water was and a place to sleep and shade during the day so spending one night out of the house shouldn't have triggered her death.

Anyway, she's gone and I will miss her terribly. I got Penny, a Golden Retriever mix, from the county's pound seven years ago in September. She was already housebroken, had been trained not to get on furniture and knew how to sit and shake. Allison even taught her to roll over although it worked best if Penny actually wanted to roll over when commanded to.

Jax is literally in mourning. She was lying beside Penny when I woke up and spent most of the morning there before son-in-law Spencer and a friend buried her around noon.

I will miss Penny badly. She was great company but I don't think I will be replacing her anytime soon. I'm getting too old to go through the sorrow of losing them...

Points East

If the thieves had simply called and told me that the local food bank had several dozen families who wouldn't make it through the night unless they had a good mess of Bodacious sweet corn or if a rest home had called and told me that they had several hundred residents whose lives might be extended by months if their frail old bodies were fueled by a few helpings of the same, I would have said, "Why come right on over and get it. But I would appreciate it very much if you'd leave me a little to eat on myself and maybe enough for Loretta to put a few bags in the freezer to fix with Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners."

One of the things we love most about August is proudly pulling dozens of ears of bodacious and hauling it around to share with upwards of 25 close friends and relatives. We also enjoy stashing numerous quart size bags in the freezer so that we can have corn throughout cold weather anytime we take a craving or make a pot of vegetable soup. And Bodacious out of the freezer tastes as good, if not better than it does fresh out of the garden.

But this year none of that is going to happen.

After more than 2 weeks of fighting off flying rats and ground hogs in the broad light of day, I figured I had saved over 3 fourths of my corn crop. Then, one day last week, I noticed that not a single black bird or mourning dove was attempting to fly into my corn patch, which consists of 4 rows, each 100 feet long with about 200 stalks to the row and each stalk with one big ear and one a tad smaller.

Do the math. Even after allowing for damage by flying rats and four legged varmints I was counting on a harvest of well over 1,000 ears of corn.

So I wobbled out to the garden to see if I could figure out why the %$#@! Black birds had lost interest and discovered that there was no longer anything there to interest them. All but a dozen or so stalks that were practically in our front yard had been stripped of anything edible except for a few ears the birds had not completely demolished.

Flying rats, whistle pigs and raccoons leave behind the shucks and cobs when they are finished with a meal.

The only signs that I found for the demise of my corn crop were some hiking boot and tennis shoe tracks and a path of tramped-down horse weeds and poison ivy between the lower end of my garden and the road.

Not only that, but the tracks were pretty much washed out from a rain we'd had 2 days earlier so I figured my corn had been gone for at least that long. I also figured that calling the law would only result in some people in uniform tromping up what little was left of my garden and that my corn crop had already been turned into dollars for dope heads.

I'm reasonably sure that the raid happened in the wee hours of the night because I'd been home during daylight hours all week long, spending most of my time on the front porch reading and scaring off vermin. Not only that, but my dog, whose hobby during daylight hours is watching for anything he can see through the windows and front door that might give him an excuse to raise a racket, would have barked his head off if he'd seen anybody on or near the place.

And what good would it do if the thieves were caught by the Law.

In my humble opinion, it would do no good at all. It would simply cost the taxpayers a bunch of money to fund the so-called justice system that would eventually providethem a free scholarship, complete with room and board where they could spend a year or two in close knit association with their peer group learning how to better ply their craft.

Then I pick up the paper and read that a thief got a longer sentence the next time around because he was a "persistent felony offender". Meaning that the

In Loving Memory of Elsie Cromer

I'll always shed tears for Mama,

The pain of losing her won't go away

The only way my heart can be mended,

Is when we're together in Heaven some day.

Strolling along, hand in hand

Laughing and talking, how happy I'll be,

When I'm united with Mama again.

I'll never stop missing Mama,

Without her I feel so sad and alone,

I can't wait to see her in Heaven

Someday when I finally get home.

She'll be there waiting and watching

That big ole smile on her face

And we will forever be happy

Up there in that beautiful place.

There'll be no more sadness or sorrow,

There won't be one single pain

Oh! What a happy reunion, When I'm united with Mama again.

Greatly missed by her children,

Etta, Edith, Denver and Bobby

Home With A Soul
When I was very young, my mother (Bee) and I resided with her parents in a house located upon their small hilltop farm in the Pine Grove section of Rockcastle County. Pop and Mommie Katie worked all their lives in order to make their home a place of warmth, sweet memories, and comfort. In their minds, the task was never complete. When one job was finished, another project was started.

I loved that old house. No matter how long I live, I will never forget how that home looked, felt, and smelled. Mommie made sure that her house was clean and that the aromas permeating from the kitchen were delicious. Her coffee pot "perked" all day long, and she usually kept her big, old mug full.

Pop maintained the mechanical "structure" of the house, and he kept the fires burning. There were two wood stoves: one in the kitchen, which was used to heat the hot water tank and to cook, and another one in the den, which was used to heat the rest of the house. As a child, I was drawn to those stoves. I loved the smell as well as the radiant heat that they provided.

A philosopher by the name of J. R. Miller (1882) made a statement that sums up my feelings exactly. "We may make the memories of our home so tender, so precious, and so sacred that each life that goes out of our doors shall carry a blessing upon it wherever it moves." Hardly a day passes without a memory of that old house seeping through my mind. I believe that when one's childhood home has been sweet and warm, the memories are never really forgotten.

Kathy and I live in a small A-frame home situated on the edge of a cliff on Furnace Mountain in Powell County. Since we have both been retired for the past year, we have been working like Pop and Mommie Katie to make our home similar to theirs in my mind. We are surrounded by huge trees and woods. The view from our back deck has been called "one of the best views in Powell County." We have four decks - two in the front of the house and two in the back. Our large deck in the back is the spot where we can see four different counties. It is there that our guests are likely to congregate whenever weather permits.

Several years ago, we started a small ministry (from our church in Lexington) of hosting couples in our home on the weekends. It allowed them to experience the wonderful environment of the Daniel Boone National Forest as opposed to the "hustle and bustle" of living in Lexington. To our surprise, couples flocked to Furnace Mountain in droves. We were "booked" three out of four weekends each month for several years.

We took the last weekend of each month to get our house ready for the next wave of folks who would be arriving in the month to come. Their response to our home was awesome. Many of them compared it to being in the Smokey Mountains. We often fed steaks to them on Friday night and there was always a full southern, country breakfast on Saturday morning. In the evening, we either sat on our deck or in front of the fireplace in our den. The memories of those weekends with our Christian friends will remain with us forever. It was like our home was a beacon of light in their lives. We felt blessed to share the home that had been provided for us by the Lord. We still feel like "our cup runneth over."

It took me until I was an adult with children of my own to realize what a blessed life I had as a child. Although it was simple, we always had what we needed, and I cannot recall wanting for anything. Pop and Mommie Katie made certain that we gave thanks for all of our blessings. Nowadays, I come to appreciate my home more with every passing day.

Looking back, I see the good Lord's hand in it all. Prayer is a powerful thing, and I have to believe that both my home of old and my home of today are the result of it. Kathy and I are so grateful for the blessings that we continue to live amidst. It must have been the same with Pop and Mommie Katie. They taught me well.

(You can reach me at themnman@att.net or you can drop me a line at 2167 Furnace Road - Stanton, KY 40380. I appreciate your comments and suggestions.)

was so hot. Soon, about dark, the family would go to bed as they had a lot of work ahead the next day. Even the two or three television stations stopped broadcasting about midnight. Decent folks didn't need to be up after that. The doors and windows remained open to allow for a little breeze. Most had a fan or two which didn't help much, and air conditioning was practically unknown. Places of business even advertised that they had air conditioning, trying to draw customers from businesses that weren't so fortunate. So, there in the quiet stillness of a hot summer's night, in the darkness, with only starlight on most nights, you drifted to sleep on crisp, clean, white, line-dried sheets. The "night bugs" consisting of frogs, crickets, and other unknown creatures serenaded these country dwellers to sleep every night during the summer.

With well-insulated walls, locked windows and doors, all of the air conditioning units going full-blast, and the color high-definition, multi-channel flat screen televisions in almost every room of the house lulling us to sleep, we never hear those long-forgotten "night bugs".

The other night, just by chance, I heard these old familiar voices in the quiet, wee hours of the night. What a delight! Their melodious serenade made me remember long, hot summer nights of long ago. They sang the same old song.

Last couple of times he'd been sent to school he had not learned how to keep from getting caught so they're going to send him back and, keep him well-fed and healthy until he finally figures out how to dodge the law. They must be really slow learners because it seems to me that about half the crookedheads for jail or prison have been there before. Maybe they just like the food.

After all, it is free to them but it's costing you and me far, far more to feed, house and "educate" the slimeballs than my corn was worth. So, in effect, every time a thief gets sent up, we are being robbed again whether we like it or not and the scam is perfectly legal.

When I hear or read about a thief being shot in the act of committing a crime, I cheer for the person who did the shooting. I just wish I'd been "out" on the porch with a shotgun when my corn patch got raided.

Our daughter, Carol Deathridge and her daughter Amber, have rescued a fantastic dog in Stanford that they can't keep and Loretta won't let me bring home and name Daisy. She looks to be no more than a year old, if that, is extremely friendly/lovable, definitely has some Labrador Retriever genes (webbed feet) and wags all over when she wags her tail which is pretty much all the time if she's standing.

Carol and Amber can't take calls at work and I can't hear thunder on the phone. However if you are interested in a dog that I would love to have, please email your contact info to me, ikeadams@aol.com and I'll get it to Carol and Amber.

Letters from prohibitionists...

Dear Editor,

The last three letters to the editor have been from prohibitionists rejoicing at the defeat of alcohol sales in the East Mt Vernon District and the rest of Rockcastle county. They come complete with bible verses to support their agenda claiming it is the will of God. The authors seem to be very selective in their reading of scripture.

According to John 2:1-11 Jesus's first miracle was turning water into wine at the wedding feast as per the request of His mother. Now if alcohol is so bad why would Jesus do such a thing?

Prohibition just keeps the bootleggers in business and taxes from legal business out of the county coffers. I'm with Jesus on this one.

An encouraging word:

When Will We Learn

By Howard Coop

In just a few days, on Wednesday, September 2, this nation will observe, in one way or another, the seventieth anniversary of the end of World War II, a war that, for American citizens, lasted 4 years, 8 months, and 27 days.

On Sunday morning, September 2, 1945, the USS Missouri, known as Mighty Mo or Big Mo, was anchored in Tokyo Bay, the closest a ship could get to Tokyo, the capital of Japan. Mamoru Shigemitsu, representing the Japanese military, boarded the USS Missouri to meet General Douglas MacArthur. After a formal greeting, they sign an instrument of total surrender, and World War II was officially ended.

That day was a great day. Hope filled the hearts of millions of war-weary people, and there was rejoicing throughout a grateful nation. At last, there was peace in the land.

It should be noted that that historic event took place 26 years, 2 months, and 9 days after the armistice that ended World War I, and it was just 7 years, 10 months, and 21 days before the end of the Korean War. Too, it was 24 years, 3 months, and 6 days before the end of the Vietnam War. But that was not all. In the last decade of the century, the Iraq War raged.

Although World War I was known as "the war to end all wars," the twentieth century can be called, and rightly so, the century of conflict. The League of Nations, organized following World War I, was a total failure, and the United Nations, organized following World War II, has cost billions of dollars, but it has done little, if anything, to eliminate conflict and establish peace among the nations of the world.

As our nation observes the seventieth anniversary of the end of World War II, a question, a serious one, lingers in the mind: When will we learn "the things that make for peace?"

Enrollment for 2016 Dairy Margin Protection Program Began July 1

USDA announced that starting July 1, 2015, dairy farmers can enroll in Margin Protection Program for coverage in 2016. The voluntary program, established by the 2014 Farm Bill, provides financial assistance to participating dairy operations when the margin – the difference between the price of milk and feed costs – falls below the coverage level selected by the farmer.

The Margin Protection Program gives participating dairy producers the flexibility to select coverage levels best suited for their operation. Enrollment begins July 1 and ends on Sept. 30, 2015, for coverage in 2016. Participating farmers will remain in the program through 2018 and pay a $100 administrative fee each year. Producers also have the option of selecting a different coverage level during open enrollment each year. Margin Protection Program payments are based on an operation's historical production. An operation's historical production will increase by 2.61 percent in 2016 if the operation participated in 2015, providing a stronger safety net.

USDA also has an online resource available to help dairy producers decide which level of coverage will provide them with the strongest safety net under a variety of conditions. The enhanced Web tool, available at www.fsa.usda.gov/mpptool, allows dairy farmers to quickly and easily combine their unique operation data and other key variables to calculate their coverage needs based on price projections. Producers can also review historical data or estimate future coverage based on data projections. The secure site can be accessed via computer, mobile phone, or tablet, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Dairy operations enrolling in the program must meet conservation compliance provisions. Producers participating in the Livestock Gross Margin insurance program may register for the Margin Protection Program, but this new margin program will only begin once their livestock dairy insurance coverage has ended. Producers must also submit form CCC-782 for 2016, confirming their Margin Protection Program coverage level selection, to the local Farm Service Agency (FSA) office. If electing higher coverage for 2016, dairy producers can either pay the premium in full at the time of enrollment or pay a minimum of 25 percent of the premium by Feb. 1, 2016.

LIVESTOCK INDEMNITY PROGRAM (LIP)

The Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP) provides assistance to eligible producers for livestock death losses in excess of normal mortality due to adverse weather and attacks by animals reintroduced into the wild by the federal government or protected by federal law. LIP compensates livestock owners and contract growers for livestock death losses in excess of normal mortality due to adverse weather, including losses due to hurricanes, floods, blizzards, wildfires, extreme heat or extreme cold.

For 2015, eligible losses must occur on or after Jan. 1, 2015, and before December 31, 2015. A notice of loss must be filed with FSA within 30 days of when the loss of livestock is apparent. Participants must provide the following supporting documentation to their local FSA office no later than 30 calendar days after the end of the calendar year for which benefits are requested:

- Proof of death documentation
- Copy of growers contracts
- Proof of normal mortality documentation

USDA has established normal mortality rates for each type and weight range of eligible livestock, i.e. Adult Beef Cow = 1.5% and Non-Adult Beef Cattle (less than 400 pounds) = 3%. These established percentages reflect losses that are considered expected or typical under "normal" conditions. Producers who suffer livestock losses in 2015 must file both of the following:

- A notice of loss the earlier of 30 calendar days of when the loss was apparent or by January 30, 2016
- An application for payment by January 30, 2016.

Additional Information about LIP is available at your local FSA office or online at: www.fsa.usda.gov.

Filing a Notice of Loss

The CCC-576, Notice of Loss, is used to report failed acreage and prevented planting and may be completed by any producer with an interest in the crop. Timely filing a Notice of Loss is required for all crops including grasses. For losses on crops covered by the Non-Insured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP), you must file a CCC-576, Notice of Loss, in the FSA County Office within 15 days of the occurrence of the disaster or when losses become apparent.

Producers of hand-harvested crops must notify FSA of damage or loss through the administrative County Office within 72 hours of the date of damage or loss first becomes apparent.

This notification can be provided by filing a CCC-576, email, fax or phone. Producers who notify the County Office by any method other than by filing the CCC-576 are still required to file a CCC-576, Notice of Loss, within the required 15 calendar days.

If filing for prevented planting, an acreage report and CCC-576 must be filed within 15 calendar days of the final planting date for the crop.

Kentucky 2015 Acreage Reporting Deadline

In order to comply with FSA program eligibility requirements, all producers are encouraged to visit your local County FSA office to file an accurate crop certification report by the applicable deadline.

Sept. 30th-Aquaculture, Value loss and controlled environment crops (except Nursery). Examples: Christmas Trees, Crustaceans, Finfish, Flowers, Ginseng, Grass Sod

Dec. 15th-Fall Seeded Small Grains. Examples: Barley, Canola, Oats, Rye, Wheat

Exception: If the crop has Nap coverage, the crop must be reported 15 days before the onset of harvest.

We can't do it without you! Keys to Success - Be here early to be on time (Brodhead starts our breakfast program at 7:30 and students are starting morning work in their classroom at 7:50) - Set and follow a student routine (Set sleep patterns, travel arrangements to and from school, homework and practice schedules) - Keep up the communication (Feel free to contact Brodhead staff with any questions or concerns 758-8512).

Ms. Rita's kindergarten class went on a school safari last week. In their journeys they were looking for the elusive faces that they will encounter throughout the school year. Students were prepped with a safari hat, binoculars, and a checklist to help locate the staff around the building. Pictured is Ms. Rita's kindergarten class on their Safari of BES.

Minds in the Middle

Our school year is off to a great start at RCMS. In addition to welcoming a host of new students, we have welcomed our new principal, Mr. Marcus Reppert.

We also have several new additions to our staff at RCMS. Miss Carri Hunt is now an Arts and Humanities teacher for all grade levels. Miss Loren Reynolds is a Science teacher for the Adventurers team. Mr. Jake Woodall works with our suspension program. Mrs. Melissa Renner is an instructional assistant for the Challengers and Mr. Ty Bottoms is an instructional assistant on the Voyagers team.

Last Friday was Team Abby day at RCMS. Students and staff wore purple and held a hat day. $331 was raised to help RCMS student Abby Langford with her cancer expenses. Way to go Team Abby!

You are probably aware by now that lunch and breakfast is free to all students. Breakfast is available upon arrival each morning. We also give students a second chance at breakfast with the "Grab n' Go" option between RTI and 1st period.

The RCMS Unite club held their membership drive last week. Students who did not get to join, but would like to, need to see Mrs. Cromer in the office.

“Hospital”

we are going to be able to offer this service,” said Cindy Burton, chief nursing officer. “It will make such a difference for those having to travel out of town multiple times a week for dialysis. It will also allow us to accept ventilator-dependent patients who are on dialysis.”

Through the organization’s partnership with UK Healthcare over the last 10 years, many patients have had access to a variety of specialists close to home. With the addition of dialysis care, the hospital is continuing to expand its presence as a regional healthcare facility.

Eight of the new positions created by the expansion will staff the dialysis clinic.

The new addition will be built to accommodate future expansion as well. Current plans are to use the space to update and retrofit existing patient rooms.

The ventilator care unit, which accepts patients from across the state as well other states primarily in the Southeastern U.S., has had an occupancy rate of 98 percent for nearly two years.

“We have earned a reputation for providing an unusually high quality of care,” Estes said. “Our referral base will expand as we grow.”

Quality of care is achieved by organizational focus and training, but the physical environment of a healthcare facility also can have an impact. The new space has been designed to foster a team approach to care with a focus on patient safety. It has also been designed with the quality of life of the patient in mind. Features include new patient day rooms, a chapel and chaplain’s office, and a new resident classroom.

The three-story expansion will also include additional space for other departments. The ground floor of the new building will house a new cafeteria and dining area, clinical dietetics, and new resident classroom. The hospital’s Child Development Center, The York House, will also be relocated to this floor.

On the second floor, in addition to the dialysis clinic, will be space for long-term care rehabilitation, therapy, and social services.

The project will not solely affect patient care. The local economy will also benefit significantly. The 85 new jobs, 62 of which will be considered professional, licensed positions such as nurses and therapists, will bring the hospital’s total annual salaries and benefits to nearly $31 million, which translates into $620,000 in local tax revenues.

“One significant challenge this expansion will bring is attracting the workforce necessary to provide this additional care,” Estes said. “Our team is growing, and we will be looking for top-notch talent to join that team.”

New team members will find themselves working at one of the very few rural hospitals anywhere that has expanded in recent years. In fact, a turbulent healthcare industry has resulted in some closing their doors. Rockcastle Regional has positioned itself to be viable for the long-term.

Estes believes a key difference lies in the approach taken by Rockcastle Regional’s Board of Trustees.

“Our board has had the foresight to continually be proactive and seek ways to grow rather than just survive,” Estes said. “That growth has enabled us to provide award-winning care while maintaining financial stability.”

“High quality healthcare has always been our primary goal,” said Board Chairman Joseph E. Lambert. “The growth of our organization is a continuation of our commitment to be the best.”

Buyers purchase the bills and can then legally charge interest and fees to the owner to collect those taxes.

This year Rockcastle County sold a total of 59 tax bills. Twenty of those were listed as priority bills (meaning the company that purchased the bill had purchased them last year as well) and 39 current bills.

The sale is held in lottery fashion and each buyer draws a number. The buyer who draws number 1, gets first choice at which tax bill they purchase. The process continues until all bills are sold or buyers are not interested in any remaining tax bills.

However, those bills not purchased at the sale, may be bought by companies or individuals at anytime after the sale. Anyone is eligible to purchase a delinquent tax bill.

Allen said the number of tax bills purchased this year are down slightly from last year and this has been the pattern over the past several years.

Allen said she questioned purchasers about why the number of tax bills purchased are down. The general agreement is that many bills have a third party buyer who had already purchased the bill in past years. Since the buyer’s goal is to make a profit, this makes the tax bill less desirable, Allen said.

Allen also said the owners of the delinquent bills are making it harder for third party buyers to purchase their tax bill.

“It seems that more people are paying their bills before they become delinquent, keeping them out of the hands of third party purchasers. Many are taking advantage of the availability to set up payment agreements through the county which also protects their bill from being bought,” she said.

Third party purchasers who bought Rockcastle County delinquent tax bills include three individuals and six companies.

They are, David Gilliam, David E. Shivel, Shirley Sizemore, Weaver Tax Link LLC, Apex Fund, LSS Affiliates LLC, Legal Recovery Services LLC, Independent Capitol Holdings LLC, and Mid South Capitol partners LP.

Prior to this year the sale was handled through the Sheriff’s office. It was moved to the County Clerk’s office this year.

was made official during the August meeting of the Capitol Projects and Bond Oversight Committee in Frankfort.

“The modernization of basic infrastructure, like water and sewer lines, is an important issue,” said Shell. “I understand this is a priority for the City of Brodhead.”

There will be a public hearing to discuss particulars on the project on September 14 at 6:00 p.m. in the council chambers at City hall in Brodhead. The public is invited to attend.

“We don’t have all the details worked out yet and don’t have the actual bids. But we are working on the process and the public hearing will give us more insight,” she said.

According to information submitted to the Capitol Project Oversight Committee by KIA, the loan will be used toward sewer evaluation and rehabilitation, including the replacement of approximately 9,000 linear feet of gravity sewer lines, rehabilitation of the existing city hall pump station, a new wet well pump, and an associated force main at the city hall pump station.

Bids on the project are expected to be opened in February, 2016 with construction expected to begin in April. The estimated time of completion of the project will be October of 2017, according to the KIA.

Rockcastle Republican Chairman Travis Burton said that preparations for the Rockcastle Caucus have already started. Doris Cromer, Secretary of the Republican Party, will be heading up the planning.

“The opportunity for Republicans here in Rockcastle, and across Kentucky, to meaningfully participate in selecting our party’s nominee for President is very exciting. I’m looking forward to working with local party leaders and the Republican Party of Kentucky to make Saturday, March 5 a historic day for our party,” Cromer said.

Vaughn says each taxing district will set their rate according to those numbers.

Once tangible assets are included, such as equipment and stock, etc, the total assessed value in Rockcastle County is $423,517,414. The state will collect $554,497 from Rockcastle County residents and business owners.

Vaughn and her staff are currently traveling throughout the county taking digital photos of every property, business, farm and field within the county. These photos will be integrated into a new computer system that will provide better information about local property, according to Vaughn.

“We are one of only 9 counties who have not already done this. I think Rockcastle Countians deserve the best system available just like everyone else gets,” the PVA said.

The daunting task of photographing every property in the county may be a time consuming effort, but Vaughn says she is excited about the development.

“Everything will be digital instead of photographs stuck on paper. When you call the property up on our system, the photo will be there along with all the information. It’s a lot of work but it’s what people elected me to do and I’m going to give it my best effort,” she said.

Waterfowl blind drawing dates set for several WMAs

Hunters drawn for blinds on Doug Travis, Lake Barkley, Green River Lake, Barren River Lake or Sloughs WMAs must locate, prepare and maintain the blind site for the duration of the 2015-2016 waterfowl seasons. Each drawn hunter may select a co-owner of the blind site for use in the absence of the hunter drawn. The co-owner must be present at the drawing.

Hunters may construct a permanent blind or use a boat or portable blind, but each blind site must be permanently pinned with a permanent marker identifying permit holders for the site. Those hunters selected hold first rights for use of the blind site, but these blind sites are open to public use if the selected hunters are not in the blinds by 30 minutes before shooting time.

Before hunting migratory birds, hunters must now go online to fw.ky.gov or call 1-800-858-1549 weekdays 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Eastern time and fill out the Harvest Information Program (HIP) survey before they are legal migratory bird hunters.

The process takes less than 5 minutes. Go to the “My Profile” tab on the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife website to fill out the survey. Hunters who complete the survey will receive a confirmation number. Kentucky Afield Outdoors

Ample rain should mean bountiful dove season

It is the third week of August and already it is the third wettest summer on record for Frankfort and the fifth wettest for Louisville. Corn fields across most of Kentucky look robust as do pastures, yards and soybean fields.

This portends excellent conditions for the dove season opener on Tues., Sept. 1.

"The expectation is that we will have a good dove season," said John Brunjes, migratory bird coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "We've had a lot of rain, but not a lot of violent storms, so we had good early dove reproduction. We are seeing lots of young birds here in August."

The summer rains brought with them superb field conditions. "Sunflowers across the state have done well from all of the well-timed rains," Brunjes explained. "We got the fields planted on our wildlife management areas (WMAs) before the rains and they've done very well. There are always pockets of the state that don't do as well, but overall fields look great for this season."

Scouting is vitally important for productive dove hunting. Brunjes recommends getting out now to see if birds are currently using the field you plan to hunt.

"Figure out where you want to set-up," he said. "Look for the flight lines the birds use to enter and exit the field and plan to set up accordingly."

Don't over-choke your shot gun, either. An improved cylinder choke with No. 7 1/2 or No. 8 shot works great for early season doves in either 12- or 20-gauge. A 20-gauge shotgun also makes a great choice for younger hunters with less recoil than a 12-gauge and plenty of shot to down a dove.

Some of the best hunting of the season happens after the initial burst of activity on opening weekend. Those public fields teeming with hunters on the first weekend in September are often nearly abandoned by the third weekend of the month.

"Also, a lot of people think all of the doves leave Kentucky with the first cold snap," Brunjes explained. "People love to say they've migrated, but they haven't. They will go into woodlands or thick cover to get some protection from the cold. When the warmth returns, so do the doves."

Data gleaned from dove banding shows that most birds banded in Kentucky don't show up in harvest data from out of the state until late October and into the first of November. Many doves never leave Kentucky.

"They shift their daily patterns as the season progresses," Brunjes said. "Pay attention to those shifts."

Patches of ragweed and pokeweed become more important to doves later in the season. "In the late season, pokeweed is dove candy. If you find a bunch of it, you'll likely have doves everywhere."

Pokeweed commonly grows on the edge of fields, fence rows and in neglected areas. It is a distinctive thick green plant with swatches of purple in the stalk, leaves and berries. These berries often leave a wine-colored stain on clothes.

Recently cut silage fields also make productive dove hunting areas. With healthy corn across the state, cut silage fields may produce the best hunting of the coming season.

"Remember safety in the dove field," Brunjes said. "Always wear shooting glasses. Don't shoot at low birds by making sure you always shoot up at the dove."

Dove hunters must have a valid Kentucky hunting license as well as a Kentucky Migratory Game Bird-Waterfowl Hunting Permit before going afield. New for this season, dove hunters must fill out the HIP Migratory Bird Survey before going hunting. This brief, 5-minute survey is available online at the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife website at fw.ky.gov. Click the "My Profile" tab to begin.

The first segment of dove season closes Oct. 26. The second segment opens Nov. 26 and closes Dec. 6 while the third segment opens Dec. 19, 2015 and closes Jan. 10, 2016.

For more information about dove hunting, pick up a free copy of the 2015-2016 Kentucky Hunting Guide for Dove, Wood Duck, Teal, Woodcock, Snipe and Crow available wherever hunting licenses are sold. You may also print off or view the guide on the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife website at fw.ky.gov.

Wildlife Education Center adds bobcat kitten, young bald eagle

The Salato Wildlife Education Center in Frankfort invites visitors to come and see the two most recent additions to its collection of exhibit animals. The center recently acquired a 4-month-old bobcat kitten from a wildlife rehabilitation facility that will ultimately be kept on permanent exhibit.

"Because she's so small and young, we'll keep her separated from our adult bobcat until she's older," said Brent McCarty, acting director of the center. "While she won't be on permanent exhibit for some time, our visitors will have opportunities to see her during scheduled times in our small mammal enclosure."

Barring unforeseen circumstances, the bobcat kitten will be on exhibit from 2-3 p.m. Eastern time Tuesdays through Saturdays. Visitors are encouraged to call the center at (502) 564-7863 before visiting to confirm that the kitten will be out.

The center has also acquired a new bald eagle that is currently on permanent display. The 3-year-old bird, which came from a rehabilitation facility in Wyoming, still displays juvenile plumage that is mostly brown throughout.

"Many people have probably seen a juvenile bald eagle and not known what they were looking at", said conservation educator Geoff Roberts. "Bald eagles don't get their trademark white head and tail until they're 5 years old. Our new exhibit eagle will allow our visitors to see what a juvenile eagle looks like for another two years."

The Salato Center is operated by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. The center is located off U.S. 60, approximately 1 1/2 miles west of the U.S. 127 intersection. Look for the bronze deer statue at the entrance of the main Kentucky Fish and Wildlife campus.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. Salato is closed on Sunday, Monday and state holidays.

Except for select events, admission is $4 for adults and $2 for youth 5 to 18. Children under 5 are admitted free. The center also offers annual memberships for individuals and families.

The ROCK'S

Fall Sports Preview 2015

Rockets are ready for 2015

Look for the ball in the air this season

By: Mike French

The Rockcastle County Rockets High School football season is about to begin with the first game of the regular season on August 28 in the Bob Allen Pigskin Classic in Danville.

The Rockets will face Danville in the second game of that event.

Head Coach Scott Parkey says he believes his team is ready for the season and that the Rockets can improve even more after last year's winning season of 7-5.

This will be Parkey's eleventh year with the Rockcastle County High School football team. He served his first three years as assistant coach and this will be his eighth year as head coach.

During those years, the game changed some according to Parkey. "Because of the culture of sports in general, there is a lot more emphasis on safety. We have changed a lot over the years to provide a safe environment for our players," he said.

Parkey says among the many things he has learned over the years as a coach, one lesson stands out. "Patience. We are still young and I have to be patient and bring these kids along at the right pace to reach their potential," he said.

And potential is there for the 2015 season. "We have a tremendous amount of potential on our team this year. But, potential can be scary," he said. "Having potential means we are right on the edge of being really good or not so good. If our potential is developed properly, we can be a very strong team," he said. One of the potentials that Parkey hopes to develop this season is the team's overall speed. "One of our biggest strengths this year is our speed combined with our experience," he said. However, Parkey says speed without experience is useless. "If you don't know how to use it and take advantage of that strength, speed won't help you. We can use our experience this season to maximize our speed

2015 Rocket football opponents preview

By: Mike French

The Rockcastle County Rockets have a difficult schedule this year but Head Coach Scott Parkey believes his team is ready.

This year those returning to the Rockets' roster include seven offensive starters, seven defensive starters, the starting quarterback, the top running back, the top wide receiver, the top offensive line and the top defender.

Projections are that Knox Central, Rockcastle County and newcomer Wayne County will be in a dead heat for the top spot.

According to Parkey, his team's strengths this year include the returning starters, style, speed and quickness, and the abilities of the two seniors among many other aspects of the team.

Parkey says the team's weakness may be depth on the line.

The team's schedule and opponents' preview for 2015 is as follows:

Game 1 Danville

Class 2A District 7

Danville has had double digit wins in 16 of the past 25 seasons and only two non-winning seasons in the past 25 years.

Danville won the district last year behind quarterback Zack Dampier who had a four-touchdown performance against LCA.

Linebacker Kyron Warren leads Danville's quick defense.

This first test for the Rockets is expected to be a tough game that can go either way.

Game 2

South Laurel

Class 5A District 7

South Laurel, who had a 2-8 season last year, is placed last in their division.

The hiring of a new Head Coach David Burdine, means the Cardinals will have a new head coach for the fourth consecutive season.

The Cardinals are 6-24 over the past three seasons.

Game 3

Garrard County

Class 3A District 4

Garrard County went 9-3 last season and will return several key players to their roster.

Second team, all-state defensive lineman David Logan is one of those returning to the roster this season.

The challenge for the Golden Lions will be to rebuild their offensive line.

Game 4

Pulaski County

Class 5A District 7

Pulaski County is the 2014 Class 5A State Champions and is looking forward to a repeat. The Maroons are returning 10 offensive starters and nine defensive starters, including senior quarterback Riley Hall.

Head Coach Johnny Hines believes his team is capable. "We are very excited about the opportunity to defend the state championship," he said.

Also returning to the team is linebacker Mason Helton and outside linebacker Jesse Whitaker.

This will be a true test for the Rockets.

and I believe that will be a huge strength.”

The Rockets lost seven seniors from last year’s team and that loss can damage a team. “We lost some really great blockers who graduated. We are going to miss that a lot on offense and in the backfield,” he said.

This year’s team will have only two seniors on board. However, Parkey says their strengths will play a major roll on the team’s growth this year.

“We have Hunter Hines as a senior this year. He has had a lot of injuries and was out most of last year. But his size alone is going to have a huge impact on our season. He is 6’6” and weighs 370 pounds,” Parkey said. “We are going to be asking a lot of him this season. But it’s nothing he can’t do.”

The other senior this year is Dalton Cole. “Dalton is a small guy. 5’7” and weighs 152. But he is going to be a role player. He excels at running and blocking and can play multiple positions on defense and is even a good kicker,” said Parkey.

Parkey said these two players are going to be one of the keys to a successful season. “If we can get these two guys to live up to their potential, we are going to be okay this year,” he said. “We aren’t asking anything special out of them. All they have to do is live up to the potential that we see in them and our team will do fine.”

But those are far from the only strengths on the Rockets this year. According to Parkey, the 16 incoming freshmen are also going to provide a lot of help.

“We have some standout freshmen this year. The freshman team as a whole has been much better than we expected,” he said. “Now our freshmen do have some growth to face. They aren’t there just yet. But with some work and dedication, we are going to have a very strong freshman team.”

Parkey has a fresh approach to the freshman squad that seems to cause steady growth.

“The trick is to get them to see just how good they can be. Getting their very best out of them. We want them to play against their own goals. Not against other teams or other players but to improve themselves as individual players as well as a team,” he said.

As for the air game, Parkey says the Rockets may be strong in that area as well. “We hope to mix air and ground play at about 70/30 this year,” he said.

Part of the team’s strength lies in quarterback Dakota Bishop Jr. “Dakota looks really good so far this year in our scrimmages. He’s not going to make bad decisions. He stays calm and makes good choices,” said Parkey.

But, what good is a great pass if there is no one to catch the ball? That is not a problem the Rockets will have this season. The combination of Dakota and the receivers could provide some magical moments on the field this year.

“We have a receiving team that anyone in the state would want to have,” he said. Between Bishop’s decision making and the receiving team’s ability, Parkey expects a lot from the passing game this year.

Parkey says both offense and defense have grown partly due to those who have already graduated. “Our players learn each year how to practice and work out from the seniors with more experience and then they expand on that and develop it even more,” he said. Then, by the time those seniors are gone, the newer players have learned from them. “This way, we hope our team gets better every year. That’s how you build a program,” he said.

There have been some rule changes this year that will have an effect on the Rockets. Especially the new time limits that freshmen are allowed to play.

“There are only a certain number of quarters that they are allowed to play in a week. That could bite us,” he said.

Parkey explained that sometimes a kid is brought in just to kick. But that counts as a quarter of play and coaches have to keep track of that and not use that player for anything if they need him later.

“It’s a good rule but it is something we are going to have to deal with,” he said.

Another way that may effect the team is if the Rockets are involved in a blow-out game. “If we are blowing someone out, we can’t just put our freshmen in there for the experience,” he said. This could potentially cause a massive score-difference in some games.

As for this year’s coaching staff, Parkey said he is perfectly satisfied with his crew. “This is without a doubt the best coaching staff I’ve been involved with since I have been a coach,” he said. “I am very proud of the coaching staff we have right now.”

Parkey says the staff brings a wide variety of experience to the team. “We have guys who have been head coaches and guys who have been with other systems. They all bring experiences that helps our team as a whole,” he said.

“We have some lively debates and we communicate constantly and all this makes our team better.”

One of the biggest benefits to such a variety of coaching styles and lessons is the one-on-one time that each player can get from this coaching staff. “It is a benefit to give a player some one-on-one attention where it is needed. And we have the staff to do that,” said Parkey.

The team is hungry for a strong season this year according to Parkey. “We don’t dwell on the past but we use it to improve and to grow,” he said.

The changes in the region this year has taken Boyle County and Lexington Catholic out of Rockcastle’s district.

Overall, Parkey is confident this year about his team. “We have Wayne County in our district now and Knox is always tough, but we have a strong season lined up and our players and coaches will be ready.”

Opponents' Preview

Game 5

Somerset

Class 2A District 7

The Somerset Briar Jumpers had a winless season last year with a record of 0-10. However, they are expected to turn that around this year and have been chosen in some polls as the Class 2A favorite.

Part of the reason is the fact that all three district losses last year came at a combined total of eight points.

Prior to last season, Somerset had a record of 55-15 over the past five seasons. The biggest problem last year was inexperience. However this year, a lot of talent is returning to the team.

Game 6

Wayne County

Class 4A District 6

Wayne County went 5-7 last season but is expected by many to have a winning record this year.

After falling to Belfry 3-0 in the 3A state finals, the Cardinals made the move to 4A and are expected to become an immediate contender in District 6.

Game 7

Russell County

Class 4A District 6

After back to back district titles, Russell County is last in its division with a 1-10 season last year.

Two consecutive years of heavy graduation losses dropped the team out of the top rankings.

This year, the team faces eight more starters gone on offense and nine gone on defense and only five seniors on the team.

Game 8

Clay County

Class 4A District 6

The Clay County Tigers have been in a downward spiral for the past few seasons.

Justin Combs has taken over as the new head coach and will try to rebuild the program.

The Tigers had four wins in 2012, two wins in 2013 and only one win in 2014.

Game 9

Knox Central

Class 4A District 6

This is expected to be the toughest regular season game of the year for the Rockcastle County Rockets.

The Panthers are the defending district champions and 17 of 22 starters are coming back for the 2015 season.

The team is picked by some to win the district again this year. Keep an eye on junior Jaxon Stewart to lead his team to a strong season.

Game 10

Lincoln County

Class 5A District 7

The Lincoln County Patriots will be the final regular season opponent for the Rockets this year.

The Patriots had a 3-7 season last year and missed the playoffs in 2014.

This game is also Rockcastle County's Senior Night.

RCHS Varsity Volleyball team expects to have a strong season

By: Mike French

Leticia Talamantes-Burns is entering her second year as head coach for the Rockcastle County volleyball team.

The Berea College graduate went on to receive her master's degree from Western Kentucky University in education and physical education.

She has played the sport since she was seven years old and played for the Berea College Mountaineers throughout her years at the college.

Talamantes-Burns said she considers last year a success as the new coach. "I believe we had a successful year in terms of the team adjusting to the new coaching styles and the new game plan," she said. "Obviously I would have liked for us to have had a better record, (12-13) but it was an overall great season."

The team only lost one senior from last year in Hope Dull, but the coach believes the new seniors will step up. "I expect this year's seniors will do a great job filling the position as our team leaders," she said.

She also believes her incoming freshmen will be able to help. "Our freshmen show great promise," she said.

There isn't really a star on the team this year as this coaching style utilizes everyone to their potential. "All of our girls play important roles on this team. I depend on each of them and each one offers a unique skill set to our program," she said.

One of the biggest benefits to this year's team will be the returning players. "We have a lot of returners who have spent the off season working hard to improve themselves and our program," she said. "I believe this will be the greatest positive impact on our season and our greatest strength," she said.

"Throughout the year, Talamantes-Burns plans on adapting as her team grows. "I like to think I am a flexible coach and can make changes as needed. If there needs to be a change to benefit our program, we'll change it," she said.

The team goals are simple. Just keep improving. "Our biggest goal this year is to complete the season stronger than we start it. Stronger as individuals and as a team," she said.

Assistant coach Morgan Taylor is also a huge asset to the program. "She works with

Tori Dotson looks to defend middle school state title

Rockcastle girls' cross-country teams working for state title run

The Rockcastle County Girls' Cross-Country team is working hard to prepare for a great 2015 season. The team will first compete at the Southern Harrier Classic in Somerset on Saturday, September 12.

This year's team shows a great deal of promise, especially after having so much success last season.

The RCHS girls' varsity team finished as Region 5 Champion last year and went on to a 6th place finish at the Class 2A State Championships. This season, the team looks to be even better and has an excellent opportunity to finish in the top four at state. In the pre-season poll just released, the girls begin the season ranked 6th in Class 2A.

Leading the team once again will be 7th grader Tori Dotson who had a breakout season in 2014, finishing as the Region 5 individual champion and breaking the all-time RCHS record for 5,000 meters with an awesome time of 19:39 earlier in the season. She went on to place 9th at the Class 2A State Championships while also earning all-state honors for her exceptional regular season and championship performances. In the middle school state meet, Tori had a legendary performance. Coming straight from helping her 7th grade team win their conference championship tournament, Tori won the middle school individual state championship title with a new RCMS record time of 15:23.73.

Junior Taylor Bullock had an awesome sophomore season and looks to play a vital role in the team's success this season. Last year, Taylor finished 7th at the regional championships and followed that with a career personal best time of 21:34.31 at the Class 2A State Championships where she finished 45th overall, nearly making the all-state team. Taylor could be a top twenty-five finisher at state this season if she continues her hard work and is expected to have a phenomenal year.

Freshman Kensie Sheffield had a great 8th grade season and will be very important to the team's success this season. Last year, Kensie had a breakout season, finishing 10th at the regional championships and 57th overall at the Class 2A State Championships with a career personal best time of 21:57.29. After having a great track season last year, she should have another great cross-country season in 2015 as she looks to push RCHS to the next level.

Junior sprint sensation Sierra Mercer will also play a huge role in how well RCHS does as she did last season. Sierra finished 14th at the regional championships and 75th at the Class 2A State Championships. Illness and injury have hampered her in the past couple of seasons. Should she stay healthy, she has the ability and work ethic to lead the team. Sierra's best race this season came at the Franklin County Invitational where she posted a career personal best of 21:18.51. She could easily make the all-state team by season's end.

One of the best middle school jumpers in the nation during track last year, 8th grader Autumn Courtney will begin the cross-country season as the number five girl for RCHS. Since five score at meets, she will play a huge factor in how far the team goes this season. Autumn plays golf as well and doesn't get much running time; however, should she improve her conditioning and have her own breakout season, RCHS has a legitimate shot at the top two this season at state. Her career personal best of 23:17.02 came last season at Mercer County. She also finished 19th at the regional championships. Autumn could be a top fifty finisher or better at the state meet this season with some hard work. She is undoubtedly the key to the team's success at the end of the season.

RCHS will have added depth this season with several middle school competitors that are able to compete on the varsity team. 8th graders Grace Gardiner and Destiny Hamm, along with 7th graders Erin Hindman, Hannah Davis, and Jasmine Ashcraft could play a major role in the team's success. Adding Tori Dotson and Autumn Courtney to this group should also create a very good middle school team for RCMS this season. It will be exciting to see just how good this group will be by the end of the season as they make a run at the middle school state championship title.

Rockcastle's 6th grade and under cross-country girls' team could possibly be the best ever in the history of the program. 6th graders Karalinn Loudermilk, Kylie Martin, Allie Martin, Savannah Thacker, Gracie Spoonamore, and Sydney Carrera, along with elementary competitors Lexi Dotson, Lila Holt, Hallie Brown, Keelee King, and Learin Reagan are very talented, hard-working young ladies with seemingly unlimited potential. Great things are expected from this group in 2015 as they make a run for the 6th grade and under state championship title.

If any girl is interested in running cross-country it's not too late. It's open to all grade levels and anyone is welcome to try it out. Please contact Coach Mark Brummett at RCMS for more information if interested.

the team a great deal as a whole and with student-athletes individually," said Talamantes-Burns.

All member of the team work out daily, year round as coaches try to keep the girls in top condition.

The incoming freshmen are also presenting promise for the Rocket's future. "We are working with our JV and freshmen squads to improve every aspect of their game," she said. "I believe this group of incoming students have a great deal of potential."

The team is expecting a strong season this year. "We are off to a great start this season. Our ladies are playing very well as a team and I see us doing very well this season. I expect us to be very strong competitors," she said.

Talamantes-Burns said there are a lot of people who make her job possible. "I offer a special thanks to our parents and Boosters Club for providing us with the support we need throughout the season. My girls' parents are very supportive and I appreciate them allowing me the opportunity to work with their daughters," she said. "Coach Taylor is phenomenal to work with and is the key to things running as smoothly as they do," she said.

On a personal note, Talamantes-Burns says her family makes it all possible. "I would like to thank my husband and children for all the support they provide me. I could not coach without them cheering me on and accepting how little they get to see me during the season," she said.
